Ottawa.—Though the public has paid little attention to the United Nations food conference now in session at Hot Springs, Va., this meeting is seen by Ottawa authorities as one of the most important of its kind ever held. It is not putting too much emphasis on the food conference to say that from it may flow the entire future shape of Canada's position in the world as a leading food producing nation.

The Canadian public should not overlook, an informed source said, the future nature of the meeting. The conference is at the technical level, that is, it is a meeting of experts whose first task is to discover working basis for continued co-operation in two long-range fields:

1. The possibility of establishing international nutrition standards which will fulfill the Atlantic Charter's plank of "freedom from want."

2. The possibility of integrating the food-producing capacity of the world in order to assure maintenance of high levels of nutrition.

This is not a war conference; it is post-war. It will not deal with food relief as a war problem; that is a matter for other conferences not yet organized on a United Nations scale. Canada will be interested naturally in food relief but in long-term post-war food policy, the whole economic position of Canadian agriculture is at stake.

In due course, international treaty obligations may arise from the conference. But these are still in the future. It is at present solely a conference of experts, on whom rest the task of reaching a working basis for nations on future food policy. It may easily become a precedent to be followed in future as the United Nations' technique is working out mutual problems arising in the coming new world order.

GOOD PHOTOGRAPHS

Taken From Dover Shore Fortifications By French Chief

Montreal.—The BBC said the Daily Express published two photographs of the French invasion coast made with a ten-foot long telescopic camera. The pictures showed fortifications prepared by the Germans.

The camera, using infra-red plates, was set up on the cliffs near Dover and the resulting photographs pieced to a 10-mile-long panorama of the French coast.

Burma Raid By British Troops Was Kept Secret

A British Base on the Indo-Burma Frontier.—A super-raid by British and Empire troops that for three months swept through Burma on a 200-mile front, wrecking railroads and bridges and generally harassing Japanese occupation forces, drew scarcely its close as the raiders, many of them disease-ridden, struggled out of the jungle.

For three months fighting forces of Britons, Burmese, Indians and jungle tribesmen marched through the jungle clubbing up everywhere from Mandalay northward to Mytkyna to pester the Japanese, while not a word of their exploits was allowed to reach the world.

(Reuters news agency said the force included a small number of Canadian and Australian volunteers. The Reuters despatch to London described one of the Canadians as Capt. Roy MacKenzie of Windsor, Ont., who said he helped blow up a railway line and once was swept nearly two miles down the Irrawaddy river.)

The raid began Feb. 18 when a force of whom a third were Britons crossed the Chindwin river on the Burma side of the frontier. It was at a somewhat critical hour as in north Burma on the Salween front the Japanese were pressing hard against the Chinese. A band of approximately 5,000 loyal Burma tribal fighters were surrounded in north Burma and threatened with annihilation by a Japanese punitive expedition.

The raiders, using infra-red plates, was set up on the cliffs near Dover and the resulting photographs pieced to a 10-mile-long panorama of the French coast.

The man who led the expedition is Brig. Charles Orde Wingate, 39, the same man who at the beginning of the Ethiopian campaign three years ago led 2,000 Sudanese and 1,000 Ethiopian warriors in operations that resulted in the capture or disposal of 10,000 Italians.

Before his troops returned they were convinced they had accomplished a de-cisive field task.

They had destroyed several bridges and had blown up 100 miles of railroad in 70 different places.

They had delayed a Japanese move against the Chindwin river barrier near the Indo-Burma frontier.

They had taken the pressure off the Chinese to the north.

They had saved 5,000 loyal native warriors by compelling the Japanese to withdraw their punitive expedition for use against the raiders.

They had received invaluable training in jungle warfare, and they had proved Wingate's contention that quick training could make allied troops equal to the jungle and the Japanese.

INCOME TAX FORMS

Should Not Take Long To Complete Says Revenue Minister

Ottawa.—Revenue Minister Gibson told a press conference that 2 000.000 Canadians completing income tax forms this year should average about 15 minutes for the job against more than half an hour using the old, more complicated forms.

The minister showed newspapermen samples of the new simplified form for persons receiving less than $5,000 income annually. A detailed table on the form permits a taxpayer to ascertain his tax liability quickly.

The notice of assessment sent to every taxpayer, showing the amount due and the amount paid, will contain a certificate setting out the total of refundable taxes for the year.

The taxpayer will keep these certificates year by year, and when the war is over and the refundable portion is about to be repaid by the government he will know his position exactly.

BEING KEPT SECRET

Nothing Known About American Specialist Visits Now In Britain

London.— Extraordinary secrecy surrounds arrival in Britain of thousands of American crack specialist units. Nothing is known except that they are in Britain. What kind of specialists troops they are no one knows, but it is known they are a vital part of United Nations invasion strategy.

Thirty correspondents had been invited to see the arrival of the convoy, but when they reached their destination they were ordered back to London. Authorities had decided to take every precaution against any description of the specialists leaking out.

THE CONTROL OF WHEAT

At the Section Virginia, a number of countries are meeting to arrange for a supply of foodstuffs to those peoples whose lands have been overrun and who after the Peace will be short of food. This will undoubtedly meet with universal approval.

It is suggested by some, however, that an International Wheat Committee should be set up to control permanently after the war the production, marketing, distribution and use of wheat. For my own part I am afraid of wheat. For my own part I am afraid of wheat. For my own part I am afraid

NATURALLY NOT

Channing Pollock tells this story: At 14 I made my first railroad journey alone, from Salt Lake City to Belleville, Kas. One of the passengers, a stockily built man, took an interest in me; frankly amused when I gave my views on Byron and Dickens.

At last he inquired whether I had read "The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes."

"Don't you think," I inquired pontifically, "that detective stories are a waste of time "

My newly made friend grinned widely. "Well, no, I don't," he said. "You see, I write 'em. My name is A. Conan Doyle."

Tribute To Sir Edward Beatty

The "Distinguished Civic Service Award" for 1942 was presented posthumously to Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., LL.D., D.C.L., long-time chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, recently at a ceremony in the board room of the Windsor Station, Montreal. Dr. Henry A. Beatty, of Toronto, Sir Edward's brother, accepted the award, a beautiful silver tray, suitably inscribed, from T. Taggart Smyth, president of the City Improvement League of Montreal, one of the many projects for city betterment to which Sir Edward gave so generously of his time and talents. D. C. Coleman, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific, expressed the warm appreciation the company's officers felt at the honor paid their former chief. Pictured here, beneath the picture of Lord Mount Stephen, first chairman and president of the company, are, left to right, Senator Donat Raymond, Mrs. James Bisby, Henry G. Bisby, pro-mayor of the City of Montreal, who spoke for Mayor Adhemar Raynault, who was out of the city; Senator Charles P. Beaubien, who spoke for St. Justine's Hospital; Donald A. The Careful Shepherd

Known Sheep Must Be Well Fed And Kept Dry

In successful sheep raising, nutrition, as with other animals, plays an important part. Half-starved sheep become a liability. The careful shepherd provides luxuriant and nutritious pastures in summer; legume roughage, oats, wheat, and bran in winter, and a liberal constant supply of minerals.

Sheep are very sensitive to dampness. Any barn which does not keep the feet and coats of sheep dry will prove a failure. Light is just as important. As a rule, one square foot of window for each 20 square feet of floor space is sufficient.

"Irish" potatoes were first developed in Peru, in the time of the Incas.

The human body contains six billion muscle cells.

Dutch bulb growers have given the name "Spitfire" to a new tulip and Nazi authorities are mad about it.

PETER'S COUNSEL TO SCATTERED CHRISTIANS

Golden Text: Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the king. 1 Peter 2:17.

Lesson: 1 Peter 1:1; 2:9-25.

Devotional reading: Romans 12:1-8.

Explanations and Comments

The People to Whom Peter Wrote, 1 Peter 1:1. Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, addresses his letter to "the elect," the Christians, who like the Israelites of old, are thought of as God's chosen people. They were of the Dispersion, that is, they were Jews who had been living outside of Palestine since the time of the captivity, and they were sojourning in the land that we today call Asia Minor. They were living in the provinces of Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia. The order is natural if we suppose Peter's messenger carried his letter from Rome to a port of Pontus, then made a circuit with it, and returned to the same port." In Acts 2:9 we hear of men from Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia being at Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost.

Encouraged to Live the Seemly Life, 1 Peter 2:11, 12. "Beloved, I beseech you as sojourners and pilgrims"—thus Peter addresses his readers. They might indeed consider themselves as exiles (sojourners and pilgrims) from their native land, but Peter is probably speaking metaphorically. He wishes them to realize that life is a warfare (a point that they are living, as it were, in exile on earth, and since they had but a short time to stay, they must live their brief life nobly. "These Christians of pagan birth are heirs to all that Jews had claimed for themselves from God. Hence the ethical obligation, which is worked out in the words of this chapter, of pure detachment from the vices of the pagan world; those who have such a prospect must put dignity themselves by careless living" (Moffatt). I beseech you to abstain from the passions of the flesh that wage war upon the soul, is Moffatt's translation of verse 11. Compare Romans 7:23.

How Christians Should Live as Citizens, 1 Peter 2:13-17. For the Lord's sake, be subject to every human institution established by man(or man's welfare. "For the Lord's sake: because Jesus said, 'Render what is Caesar's to Caesar,' or, generally, because God is the source of all duly-constituted authority; because your loyalty redounds to the credit of your Master in heaven." Whether to the king as supreme (the Roman Emperor); or unto governors (of Roman provinces); as sent by him (God) for vengeance (punishment) on evil-doers, and praise to them that do well. The ruler executes God's vengeance (Rom. 13:4), and voices God's approval (Ps. 22:25); (Expositor's Greek Testament). So Paul in writing to the Romans counsels every one to obey "the higher powers"—those in authority, the civil rulers—and declares that the fact of the authority of being established argues that it was ordained of God.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

DIG FOR HEALTH

"Insurance companies consider gardeners to be a very good risk," says Dr. H. Wasteneys, biochemistry department head, University of Toronto, who has long been active in the community gardens movement, and who is co-operating with the Health League of Canada in its national Victory Garden campaign. "In fact, according to my experience there seem to be more elderly people engaged in gardening than in any other occupation. There seems to be something vital and living in the very soil itself which gives renewed vigor and energy to the body."

"There is nothing healthier than getting out into the sunlight and fresh air and digging in your garden," he emphasizes. "The man who sits all day at his office desk, the factory worker who toils at his bench or lathe can both equally find relaxation and keen enjoyment in their Victory Gardens. And what is most important, the man with a Victory vegetable garden not only helps himself, he also helps his country by supplying his own private source of fresh vitamin-rich vegetables and thus lessening the strain on already-overburdened transportation facilities, and releasing manhours for other urgent work."

Dr. Wastes ays declares that the experience a Victory Gardener gets in growing his own vegetables adds to the interest provided by his garden. As no two growing seasons are alike, new problems and new discoveries are eternally confronting him, and testing his skill and ingenuity.

"The thrill to be gained by producing one's own carrots, be.as or cabbage is a thrill well worth experiencing," says Dr. Wastenys, "and, strangely enough, it fails to diminish year by year. During the depression years, community gardens saved many a desperate and discouraged man from crime or suicide. Today, Victory Gardens play an essential part in the whole picture of our national war effort."

The Health League advises would-be Victory Gardeners to get in touch with the Federal or Provincial Departments of Agriculture for complete information on how to plant and look after a home vegetable garden.

Goes Back To Sea

Being Shipwrecked 1941 Not Bother 16-Year-Old Boy

Young Peter Cook was born 16 years ago in a cottage on top of the cliffs of Dover. His father was a seaman. His grandfather, too, and his father's grandfather. And like them, Peter wanted to go to sea.

The Atlantic Ocean took Peter's father in 1940. His mother begged her boy to stay ashore. She wanted him to be a doctor. But 13 months ago Peter joined the Merchant Navy —with a mother's blessing. He crossed the Atlantic as a ship's boy, and came home safely.

But recently Peter's ship was sunk in mid-Atlantic. A strong swimmer, he managed to clamber into a boat with six others of the crew.

The third officer of the ship told the rest of the story.

"After six days," he said, "our rations were cut to two biscuits and half a cup of water a day. Three of the men became delirious.

"It hadn't noticed Peter much. He sat quietly curled up, almost enjoying himself, it seemed.

"He grabbed one man who tried to walk overboard, and for the next three days, until we were picked up, held the three sick men stories to

"Then, on the rescue ship he, too, collapsed."

They brought Peter back to England—but couldn't keep him. He has gone back to sea again.—London Daily Sketch.

TO PAY BONUS CLIPS OF WOOL

In order to promote the production of clean, marketable wool and discourage the marketing of reject wools, the Dominion Department of Agriculture has offered to co-operate with the Provinces in the payment of a bonus of 4 cents per pound on all clean pelt marketed in 1943.

In the past a large amount of Canadian-grown wool has been unsuitable for manufacture due to the excessive amount of foreign material such as seeds, chaff, straw and burrs. Wool of such nature must be carbonised in order to free it of the material mentioned. The process of carbonising and the extra freight haul adds to the cost of manufacture; also the tensile strength of wool fibre which has been carbonised is greatly impaired. It is to avoid the marketing of clips which carry an excessive amount of seed, chaff, straw and burrs, and of shipments tied with binder or sisal twine, that a bonus of 4 cents per pound is to be paid on clean clips of wool. The wool must be dry and in good condition—not damp, wet or musty, and the hairy and black and grey leg and face clippings must be kept separated and not rolled with the fleece.

KEEPING THE FARM MACHINERY UP TO PAR

An Important Problem in These Wartime Days

Every Canadian farmer has at least two problems to meet and beat. First, there is the important problem as increased production, made necessary by the increased overseas demand and the loss of foodstuff by submarine warfare. Then, as well, he has the job of keeping farm machinery in every-day working condition. And the latter problem is equally important, because, unless this is successfully met, any plan of increased production is bound to suffer. And, that is where proper lubrication steps into the picture. The part that proper lubrication plays in keeping farm equipment on the job is a major one. For, upon proper lubrication depends the efficiency and service of every piece of farm equipment that is used. This, however, need not be a major worry. Because, McColl-Frontenac Oil Company Limited has a representative in this district who is prepared to aid the farmers on the operation and preservation of farm machinery

NEW OFFICERS IN CHARGE SALVATION ARMY WORK

Captain Chas. F. Hustler, formerly of Peace River and Lieut. A. Loaring of Toronto, have arrived in Vermilion and are in charge of the Salvation Army work here. They replace Lieut. T. Smith who farewelled a short time ago.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. J. Rinland and family wish to express their sincere thanks to the Island Hill School District for their expression of sympathy and the lovely flowers.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our beloved daughter

—:—

—who passed away May 25th. 1938. She went away without warning; She said goodbye to none. Heaven's gone was one wide, A loving voice said "Come". He side her grave we like to stand: Our hearts are crushed and sore. But through the gloom cometh word Not lost but gone before.

No one knows how much we miss her.

Only those who have lost can tell Of the grief that is borne in silence For the precious girl we loved so well.

—Lovingly remembered by Dad, Mum, Beth, Boyd, Elsa, Melvin and Donna.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of —who passed away May 26. 1940. Days of sadness still come o'er us, Tears in silence often flow, For memory keeps you ever near us Though you died three years ago.

—Ever remembered by his wife and family.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

We are at last enjoying summer weather, wheat seeding is practically completed with farmers working longer hours, handicaped by the late season

Mr Archie Good threshed for Mr Hove last week end finishing their on Sunday. He then had one-half to one day at Mr. Keefe. G. Burns had threshing to do yet and Jim Tacomson also has about one day's threshing left to do.

The Chatsworth school children had as visitors last Friday after school the Bird Hill and Indian Lake school children. They contested at the picnic grounds and played soft ball there. Chatsworth emerged victorious over Bird Hill, then Indian Lake defeated Chatsworth in a second game.

The young people enjoyed a weiner roast at the picnic grounds on Wednesday evening

Miss Castel spent the week end at her home north of Lloydminster

Mr. Hurbve was home from Edmonton last week end.

Mrs. Reby Gardner of Edmonton, visited her mother Mrs. Cummings and Pat during the holiday.

Our district seems to have had a slight epidemic of accidents lately. Charlotte Ferguson suffered a sprained ankle recently, Lorraine Ferguson was thrown from her horse and had her back hurt; Georgie Parkash put his in the fore with the softball bat. Mr. Hope suffered several cracked ribs and bruises when he fell from the top of a load of sheaves during threshing last Saturday. He was also pitching at the machine and had climbed up the back of the load. The teamster, unaware that Mr. Hope was there, started his team to pull in to the separator and Mr. Hope overbalanced falling backwards to the ground. He is up and about but is unable to do any work.

Mr. O. Burns has bought a threshing separator.

Mr. and Mrs Joe Thompson were recent visitors in our district.

The first church service for the season was held in the Ottawa United church last Sunday. Miss J Holland is the missionary student this year

OBITUARY

W. C. TWADDELL

The funeral of the late Mr. W. C. Twaddell was held on Saturday afternoon, May 22, from the United church, Vermilion, when a large gathering attended to pay their respects to their departed friend and neighbor. The service was conducted by the Rev. L. G. Sieber who spoke feelingly of Mr. Twaddell as he had known him on his visits to the home. Interment was made in the Vermilion cemetery.

The deceased was born on March 11th, 1863 in Bruce County, Missouri, U.S.A., and moved with his parents to the state of Oregon at the age of two years. On Nov. 14th, 1890, he was united in marriage to Lula A. Stack han of Joseph, Ore. In 1913 Mr. Twaddell and his family came to Canada, settling on a homestead at Lidstrom, Sask. They later moved to Vinnedi district where they lived at the time of Mr. Twaddell's death.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing widow and six children, John of Vinnedi, Alberta; Orval, Stevenson, B.C., Ebor, Glendale Calif.; Mrs. Ida Bancroft, Northport, Wash.; Mrs. Mae Wesley and Mrs. Kemal Pepler, both of Pasco, Wash.; Also two brothers, Burel of Vinnedi and James of Portland Oregon.

The pall-bearers were W Elliott, H Elliott, B. Gerber, C. Stevens, S. Benner, C. Hutchinson.

Funeral arrangements were under direction of Waring's funeral home.

The floral tributes were received from: The Family; Vinnedi Community; Mr. and Mrs. M. Seite; Mr. and Mrs. W. Gerber; Arlow and Gladys; Mr. and Mrs. W. Elliott; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott and family; Mr. and Mrs. Art Elliott and family and Clarence; Mr. and Mrs. D. Elliott and family, Vermilion; Mrs. Hoble, Mrs. Nash and family, Vermilion; A. E. Redman and family, Dewberry; The Wesley Family, Tofield.

Every person has many loyalties. There are the loyalties to friends, to town and community, and to his country. But there must be one great loyalty embracing these, or to which these are subsidiary. The loyalty which gives direction and place to all the rest is the loyalty to Jesus Christ and His way of living. Learn of this. It will give point and direction to your life. VOL. XXXV. NO. 7. VERMILION, ALBERTA, THURSDAY, JUNE 3, 1943.

HON. E. C. MANNING NEW ALBERTA PREMIER

C. E. Gerhart and Alfred Hooke Taken Into Re-organized Cabinet

Thirty-four year-old Ernest C. Manning became premier of Alberta at 11:05 a.m. Monday when he was sworn into office by Hon. J. C. Bowen, lieutenant-governor, following a caucus of Social Credit members of the legislature which unanimously selected Mr. Manning to succeed the late Premier Aberhart.

Taking over the premiership of the only province in the world with a Social Credit government, Mr. Manning becomes the youngest premier in Canada.

The new premier was the first cabinet minister to be sworn into office in 1935 when the Social Credit government won a spectacular victory under Mr. Aberhart's leadership. He held the portfolios of provincial secretary and minister of trade and industry.

C. E. Gerhart, Social Credit M.L.A. for Acadia-Coronation, and Alfred Hooke, Social Credit M.L.A. for Rocky Mountain House, have been taken into the re-organized cabinet of Premier Ernest Manning. Announcement of re-organization was made Tuesday afternoon by the premier.

Mr. Gerhart, who has been Social Credit whip in the Alberta legislature, takes the post of minister of municipal affairs, and Mr. Hooke becomes provincial secretary.

The ministry of municipal affairs had been held until today by Hon. Linden Maynard, K.C., who represents the constituency of Beaver River in the legislature. Mr. Maynard becomes attorney-general, a post held by Mr. Aberhart.

Here is the line-up of the new cabinet, as announced by Premier Manning:

President of the executive council, and minister of trade and industry: Premier Ernest Manning.

Minister of public works, and minister of railways and telephones: Hon. W. A. Fallow.

Minister of municipal affairs: Hon. C. E. Gerhart.

Provincial secretary: Hon. Alfred Hooke.

Provincial treasurer and minister of education: Hon. Solon E. Low.

Minister of agriculture: Hon. D.D. [illegible]

Minister of lands and mines: Hon N.E. Tanner.

Premier Manning retains his post of minister of trade and industry with his second post in the Aberhart cabinet, provincial secretary, going to Mr. Hooke.

Hon. Solon E. Low, the provincial treasurer, assumes a second portfolio, that of minister of education. Mr. Low acted in that capacity for the last month and a half, ever since Mr. Aberhart left for the coast at Easter.

Hon. Dr. W.W. Cross, minister of health, Hon. D.B. MacMillan, minister of agriculture, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, and Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, all retain the portfolios they held under Mr. Aberhart.

The Manning ministry was sworn in at 3 p.m. Tuesday, in the office of His Honor Lt. Gov. J. C. Bowen.

GREAT PICTURE AT COLUMBIA THEATRE NEXT WEEK

"Mrs. Miniver" heralded as one of the greatest pictures of all time, will be shown at the Columbia theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week, June 7, 8, 9.

"Mrs. Miniver" is a picture about an English family and the war. It happens that it was filmed in Hollywood with English, Canadian and American actors in the cast, but it is a film for the world to see. The Miniver family characterizes your family, the family that lives in every house, on every street, in every nation that is free.

Show starts at 7 o'clock Monday and Tuesday evening but on Wednesday special matinee will start at 2.30 and continue to midnight.

Board of Trade Notes

There were 32 members in attendance at the luncheon meeting Wednesday and considerable discussion arose over several matters of interest.

After considerable debate it was decided to bring to the attention of the proper authorities the fact that Vermilion did not have centrally located lots and that this property would make a very desirable site for police barracks. Present information is that the R.C.M.P. is entirely unsuitable and different barracks are being sought at the present time.

A report was given on behalf of the salvage committee by the chairman M. Wenner, and Mr. Pilkie reported on a show that will be given early in July to which admission will be a 1½ pounds or rendered fat. Complete details will be given next week.

Welcomed to the meeting were Sgt. Jack Smith home on leave from Red Deer, P. H. Castle, and Mr. A. Payne who comes from Bentley to take over the management of the Burns creamery here. Mr. Payne was welcomed by the president Ashley Cooper who also extended every good wish to Mr. Shepherd who is returning to Edmonton

Although no official citation has yet been received, it is assumed it is for feats that he is leading a lot of good friends behind in Vermilion.

PO. NORMAN SELTHUN MISSING OVERSEAS

Former Vermilion Boy

PO. Leo Norman Selthun, R.C.A.F., is missing, presumed dead, after air operations overseas. Norman, is a well known Vermilion boy, the family living for some time in the Morrison district. Following the moving of his parents to Ardmore, Norman lived in Vermilion and enlisted while working at the Brunswick hotel. He joined the R.C.A.F. in May 1941, and went overseas late last summer.

MILE LONG AVENUE OF TREES ON HOSPITAL ROAD

Half Already Planted

Vermilion will soon have an avenue of trees nearly one mile long when the present project of planting trees from the arena rink to the hospital is completed.

At the present time Chairman Cliff Porter of the Parks and Public Works committee of the council, has finished the town's part in the plan, unfortunately the hospital board have been held up on their part of the work as it cannot be done until the town has the light poles moved for the last block from the road allowance. Delay in having this done as agreed probably means that the western half of this laudable project will be held up.

At present 146 trees have been set out at regular intervals over the half mile stretch on the south side of the hospital road, commercial opposite the arena rink and ending at the tail end. On the north side of the road the gap between the trees on the hospital property and the valley has also been treed.

The work of transplanting the trees was done by town men Everett Fry and Bill Shepherd, supervised by Mr. Porter. The land was prepared last year. Bert Bury measured off the holes and the well planted trees now stand in a long straight line. Trees have been well watered and it is the intention to water the trees every week for the summer months by the water service. The matter of a very few years the result of this project will be the subject of much favorable comment and favorable comment as soon as they leal out the tree will add greatly to the beauty of the town.

A cigarette or match tossed out of a car window may mean lost trees, lost timber, lost jobs also a lost war effort

A. PAYNE SUCCEEDS R. SHEPHERD AS MANAGER BURNS CREAMERY

Mr. Alvin E. Payne who hails from Stettler, Alberta, arrived in town this week to succeed Roy Shepherd as manager of Burns Creamery. Mr. Shepherd has been here a year and now returns to Edmonton.

The new manager was welcomed at the Board of Trade meeting on Wednesday. He and his family have already taken up residence in the east end of town

Although here for a comparatively short time Mr. Shepherd's departure is genuinely regretted, and he in turn feels that he is leaving a lot of good friends behind in Vermilion.

Inspection, Presentation of Colors To Local Air Corps

Impressive Ceremony and Display on Friday Evening

On Friday evening May 28th the local squadron of Air Cadets received its annual inspection from Fl. Lieut. of the R.C.A.F., Calgary, at which time they were also presented with the official colors for air cadet units.

The impressive ceremonies included inspection and "march past the dais," dedication and presentation of the colors, finishing with a final "march past" in review order, and the carrying out of different drill movements.

At 19 hours looking very smart in their uniforms the boys were on parade and Fl Lieut carried out the inspection the squadron under the command of P/C McDonald. They marched past the reviewing stand where the salute was taken by the inspecting officer, after which Lieut. Lovers-edge, Chaplain of the C.W.A.C. Behind the reviewing stand were the [illegible] committee and Major John Morrison, D.S.O., M.C. Parker.

Following the March Past the squadron was drawn up in the form of a hollow square for the presentation of the colors. The colors were placed on the drums to the best military style and then Capt. Lovers-edge dedicated them after which Fl. Peto presented them to Flight Sergeant Norman Harris with Pilot Officers Taylor, McDonald and Robertson assisting as the color party escort. The closing phase of the parade was the March Past in full review order with the colors would up with a royal march around the town.

In his address to the squadron and officers Mr. Peto stressed the importance of the work being carried on in the air cadet movement and congratulated the boys and their officers on the fine showing made. It is regretted that there were not more of the citizens out to give these boys of the air cadets and their officers a real boost by their attendance. A pat on the back and some display of interest would be a real help.

Prospective recruits are welcomed and all information will be gladly given. Now is a good time to get lined up for the fall term.

YOUTHFUL MUSICIANS APPEAR IN RECITAL FRIDAY EVENING

Greeted by Crowded Hall

The Piano Recital by the pupils of Miss Margaret Richardson A.T.C.M. L.R.S.M., in the Masonic hall last Friday evening, May 28th, presented an interesting and varied program.

Twenty-one pupils contributed to the program which was thoroughly enjoyed by a large and enthusiastic audience. The pupils' playing displayed originality and poise in interpretation In particular your observer noted that practically all the numbers presented were rendered from memory.

The vocal items presented by Miss Maxine Leitch, Shirley Gamble, Peggy Pilkie and Barbara Bicknell son were much enjoyed and contributed greatly to the success of the program.

Miss Mary Jane Richardson six years old, made her first appearance on the public stage playing her Lullaby composed by herself at the age of four years

Post-War Germany

ONE OF THE MOST VITAL post-war problems which will face the United Nations will be the regeneration of the German people. For over twenty years the press and radio of Germany, as well as the entire educational system has been controlled by the Nazis, and the effect of this on the mental outlook of a large part of the population has been profound. The task of persuading these people that they have been victimized by their leaders and that their whole ideology is distorted, will be a difficult one. It is clear that one way in which it will have to be approached is through the schools, and that the entire system will have to be revised to eliminate all traces of the Nazi influence. It has been suggested that this will have to be done under the supervision of the Allied Nations, and that German schools must accept a standard of education which will imbue the youth of that country with sound principles.

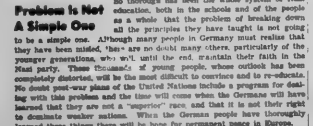
Propaganda Is Cleverly Used

The clever use of propaganda by the Germans has long been recognized. Not only in Germany, but in the countries she has sought to conquer, this weapon has been used with consummate skill. Many Germans were, in the beginning, impressed with the aims of the Nazi party and sincerely believed that it was working in the best interests of their country. When they were drawn into the war, these people realized that the Nazi party was founded on lies and trickery, and they have long ceased to have any faith in their leaders. To these people will fall the task of informing their countrymen of the extent to which they have been deceived by the Nazis, and of convincing them of the many ways in which they have been misinformed. It will also be necessary for the United Nations to be prepared to release in Germany large amounts of propaganda, telling them the truth about the war and the events leading up to it, and proving to them the extent to which they have been duped by their leaders.

* * * *

Problem Is Not A Simple One

So thorough has been the whole system of Nazi education, both in the schools and of the people as a whole that the problem of breaking down all the principles they have taught is not going to be a simple one. Although many people in Germany must realize that the Nazi party, which has led to so many others, particularly of the younger generations, who will until the end, maintain their faith in the Nazi party. These thousands of young people, whose outlook has been completely distorted, will be the most difficult to convince and to re-educate. No doubt post-war plans of the United Nations include a program for dealing with this problem and the time will come when the Germans will have learned that they are not a "superior" race and that it is not their right to dominate weaker nations. When the German people have thoroughly learned these things there will be hope for permanent peace in Europe.



THIAMIN

THIAMIN is also known as Vitamin B1 and it is important both for the nervous system and the digestion. It is the most important to growth, health and morale, as has been recognized by the British Government, which pays out thousands of pounds a year for its addition to all flour and bread consumed in the United Kingdom.

"Thiamin is easily destroyed by heat and it also dissolves in the cooking water, so one has to be very careful in the preparation and cooking of food to see that as little as possible is lost. NEVER throw away the water in which vegetables are cooked. It is valuable in soups and gravies.

Whole wheat bread and whole wheat cereals contain thiamin and if you want to be sure you get sufficient of it add one or two teaspoonfuls of wheat germ to your breakfast cereal. Do not cook the wheat germ with the cereal, but sprinkle it on top or mix it in after the cereal has been cooked. Wheat germ may also be added to flour for muffins or other pastry.

To get enough thiamin everyone should eat a whole wheat cereal, preferably with the wheat germ added, and four to six slices of whole wheat bread every day.

RECIPE

Whole Wheat Muffins

½ cup brown sugar	1 cup buttermilk
2 tablespoons fat	1 egg
1 cup bran	2 tablespoons wheat germ
1½ cups whole wheat flour	1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda	½ teaspoon salt

Cream fat and sugar; add egg, milk, bran, and the flour, sifted well with soda, baking powder and salt. Mix. Pour into well-greased muffin tins and bake in hot oven (425 degrees) for 25 minutes. Wheat germ should be added just before pouring into muffin tins.

Works In Her Sleep

Woman in Australia Has Many Ideas

Mrs. Maria Farrell paints pictures, composes music, and invents patent devices and medicines in her sleep, says the Australian News Letter.

She started inventing at the age of 10, when she produced an extra safety p.n. shaped like a treble clef

Since then she has invented 30 other devices and medicines, including a trap to catch rabbits without hurting them, a magic ray which can be thrown 200,000 metres, a clothes line on which 180 feet of clothing can be hung

"All these wonderful things just come out of my head as soon as I go to sleep," she said. "I get out and work without knowing it, and start work on the job. All my best work has been done in my sleep."

During the First Great War, the length of torpedoes increased from 20 to 30 feet.

Use It For Money

Natives Of New Guinea Like Strong American Chewing Tobacco

From 20 to 30 tons of the strong, black-leaf chewing tobacco that ever turned a man's insides out is now being supplied to Australia under U. S. Lend-Lease, and some of it is going to American forces in the Pacific area. Reason is that the natives of New Guinea use it for money.

Recently a band to band in place of dollars and dimes. In a way, this shows how much more advanced the Papuan people are and how much smarter than civilized folks whose coins do not improve the soup and whose paper currency is no good to eat even with mayonnaise on rye.

Hardened chewers couldn't stomach the Pacific brand of eating tobacco. It is called "twist." This New Guinea baccy is twisted like a rope and cut in seven-inch lengths which are pressure-flattened into sticks a quarter inch thick and half an inch wide. It looks and smells something like a stick of fat licorice, but don't let it fool you. The tobacco is made from stronger, coarser grade scraps and stems, fire-cured like snuff, and the sticks are heavily "cased" with a secret creaming which makes them darker than a Jap's heart.

But two or three sticks will buy a downed airman's way out of the jungle and back to his base. Because the landing strips are muddy or rice fields sometimes, and "just a mile," or there are no paved runways at the battlefront, and the elaborate complexities of the transport procedures give way to a small bamboo but with a radio set, a Very pistol and a red flag for equipment.

Carry On Tradition

Group Of Canadians In India Transporting Freight By Air

Before the war, Canadians were carrying more freight by air than the people of any other country in the world, and today a small group of Canadians attached to an R.C.A.F. squadron in India is carrying on this tradition, said the R.C.A.F. news service.

The dispatch said the fliers are not veteran bush pilots but graduates of the combined training organization, manning sturdy Hudsons which bear on their noses a flying elephant insignia.

They all say they don't like their jobs; they would rather be "fighting." They fly in a shirt, shorts, socks dragging to the ankles and often a pair of sandals, and they don't look a bit like the picture of the interpid airman in helmet, fur-lined flying suit, parachute and high boots.

But they are doing a job which not only the R.A.F. but also the naval and army high commands in India term a vital one. Carrying it out means piloting the comparatively slow, lightly-armed Hudsons into areas in which it isn't always healthy for a Hurricane or Mohawk to fly alone.

There is a daily run from an airdrome in Calcutta to Chittagong and air bases almost in Burma. The landing strips are muddy or rice fields sometimes and "just a mile," or there are no paved runways at the battlefront, and the elaborate complexities of the transport procedures give way to a small bamboo but with a radio set, a Very pistol and a red flag for equipment.

Clever Indian Chief

Leader Of Piapot Tribe Has Wholesale Sense Of Humour

The Saskatchewan Historical Society has recently received from the Chief and Headmen of Piapot's Indian Reserve original documents and letters directed by high officials of the Canadian government to Piapot, the former chief of the band, thanking him for the influence that he exerted upon the surrounding Indian tribes whereby he induced them to remain at least and at peace during the North-West Rebellion in 1885.

Many of the pioneers of Regina and of the Qu'Appelle Valley region remember Piapot well. He was an exceedingly able Indian with a wholesal sense of humour. Colonel the late Hon. A. E. Forget, then the Indian commissioner, rebuked Piapot for allowing his young men to make a Sun Dance, which he declared upset all the business of the Reserve. Piapot replied that times were very hard and that when his people were hungry they prayed to the Great Spirit to send them food, and that way of praying was to make a Sun Dance.

"That is all very fine," replied Mr. Forget, "but we are now big chiefs here together now and I ask you as one chief to another not to make any more Sun Dances."

"Very well," replied Piapot compassedly, "I'll agree not to pray to my God in my way if you will promise not to pray to your God in your way."

"You are too clever for me," replied Mr. Forget with a laugh; "we will not pray to each other."

A Remarkable Man

Full Value Of Winston Churchill Is Now Yet Known

How can one possibly contemplate that man without thanks? He not only has defied Hitlerism in the darkest of days, but he goes on defying the elements every day of his life. There is seemingly no curb on him. He is the same character who first went to Cuba, then to Khartoum, after India, later to Antwerp, later as Colonel at the front. The man who has more temerityeversions in public activity than any man living. England has produced the two great Pitts, a Gladstone, a Roseberry, Tennyson and Shakespeare. In its too early to measure the worth to the destiny of mankind of Winston Churchill? Should we go off the deep end in here worship of this Prime Minister? No one can appraise him at full value at this moment. A most remarkable intellect is before the world at this date, a wonderful physical constitution, a man of parts who can paint and lay bricks and write immortal literature. He is also in the rank of a Cicero as an orator. Let the historians ponder over it all.—St. Catharines Standard.

How British Sergeant Captured Italian Prisoners And Big Gun

Ill the African desert a sergeant and his crew stood by their disabled tank throughout the night. When day broke they found themselves in the direct line of an attack by enemy tanks. It looked as though the British tank crew were as good as prisoners—if they weren't casualties first. The enemy tanks were firing; so were some of ours behind. Then two of our armor-piercing shells fell quite close to the trench. They were almost welcomed, because the enemy tanks retreated a bit.

Fifteen minutes later that sheltering tank crew had the greatest surprise. An Italian officer, very spic and span, walked up to them, and said, in English, to the sergeant: "Are you a prisoner, or am I yours?" The reply was prompt: "You're mine." On which the Italian asked: "Oh, has Cabao fallen?" (His tank some days before it had, but the sergeant had no information either way). "Oh, yes, 12 hours ago," said the British trooper. "Well then," the Italian said: "You'd better come with me and collect your prisoners. There's an 88 mm. gun, too."

The sergeant followed him round the corner of the wadi, and there, true enough, were the guns, the gunners and the prisoners—14 officers and 33 other ranks. "Okay! Get going," was all the sergeant said, and he had one of his 33 prisoners [illegible].

Way Suggested To Help Solve Food Problem

Hot Springs, Va. — Abolition of tariffs and restrictive measures as one means of solving the recurring problems of scarcity and overproduction in foods was urged by the Canadian delegation to the world food conference in session here.

In a 3,000-word memorandum to the conference, the Canadian delegation also urged a worthy of examination the British proposal to establish internationally-financed buffer stocks of primary products built up in years of plenty to tide the world over in lean years. The proposal was termed of importance to Canada which, the memorandum said, "has suffered in the past from disastrous fluctuations in the prices of those products."

"If, in fact," the memorandum continued, "feasible proposals for moderation of price fluctuations by the management of buffer stocks, internationally-held and financed, can be developed, they would supply an element of stability to the Canadian and other similar economies which it would be very difficult to achieve in any other way.

"Measures for dealing with them must extend beyond the field of primary products. Without such measures agricultural depressions will offer stubborn resistance to policies directed to the expanding of employment. But agricultural depressions will become less likely to occur in the future if the measures of this conference can be realized and the importance of the device of buffer stocks will be correspondingly reduced."

Urging an international approach to the problem of surplus, the memorandum declared that there is little prospect that Russia will enter the war against Japan, at least until Britain and U.S. can engage the major portion of Germany's military strength.

Russo-Japanese relations actually have been improving in direct proportion to Russian military successes in the west, informants said in connecting on Prime Minister Churchill's suggestion in Washington that Russia might find it well to offer more forceful opposition to the Japanese.

Russia has no surplus strength for new ventures in the Pacific, the informants pointed out. The Soviets feel they have their hands full with Germany and their almost exclusive interest is in improving the flow of planes and food to the western front.

However, the commentators acknowledged that the Kremlin may take a different view when and if the Allies land in Europe and clear the Mediterranean and Black sea routes to Russia.

Russian meantime have been quick to deny that they are offering any aid or comfort to Japan in the Pacific war. The official Tass agency has issued a denial of a report that a meteorological station in Russian territory has been aiding the Japanese military forces.

"According to American newspapers," the agency said, "United States industrialists appeal to a rumor that a meteorological station in Soviet territory aids Japanese military forces. Tass has been authorized to state that this fabrication is the idle fancy of its authors, is devoid of any foundation and was spread with clearly tendentious purposes."

Churchill's statement was believed here to have been designed primarily for the benefit of the American Pacific First movement. It was pointed out that Russia went out of the way to demonstrate amity with the British and Americans by dissolving the comintern.

Furthermore, it now appears that nothing remains to be settled concerning a meeting among Prime Minister Churchill, Roosevelt and Premier Stalin except selection of the time and place, and even these may have been arranged tentatively at the Churchill Roosevelt conferences in Washington.

Stalin is understood to have made it plain that he is fully as anxious to meet with the other two United Nations leaders as they are to confer with him. It is expected that the conference will include Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Seeding In Three Prairie Provinces Will Soon Be Completed

Ottawa. — The season is "backward" in the prairie provinces but seeding progress has been quite rapid and wheat is "practically all seeded in Manitoba, almost 90 per cent. completed in Saskatchewan, and between 75 and 80 per cent. in Alberta," the Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

"All three provinces report a considerable reduction in wheat acreage and good increases in oats, barley and oil-bearing seeds," the bureau said in its first of a series of biweekly telegraphic crop reports.

Seeding of oats and barley is at least 75 per cent. completed in Manitoba and more than half done in the other two provinces where there is "quite considerable variation in progress between districts." Flaxseed is going in on a "substantially larger acreage," but much of the seeding is not yet be done as all the land is not yet prepared for this crop.

Plan Proposed To Rehouse Low Income Groups

Ottawa. — The executive of the Canadian federation of mayors and municipalities in a brief submitted to the opening session of the federation's sixth annual conference proposed adoption of a "bold national policy" for "rehousing the low income groups at acceptable minimum standards," as a co-operative undertaking among federal, provincial and local governments and private enterprise.

The brief, prepared for presentation to the House of Commons re-establishment and reconstruction committee, outlines the role of municipalities in post-war rehabilitation and reconstruction.

To meet housing needs, it proposed these other steps:

"The federal government should extend, in accordance with these needs, financial assistance to local authorities, conditioned on the existence of a comprehensive town plan and housing program meeting satisfactory standards.

"The federal government should also extend and provide long-term, low-interest loans, up to 90 per cent. of the loanable value up to a total maximum of $6,000), for housing purposes to individual home builders and building societies.

"A model provincial housing law should be prepared, to enable local communities to take part in a national housing program, and to carry out community rehousing programs, in which public and private groups can co-operate. The provinces should be encouraged to enact legislation in conformity with such a model provincial housing.

"Municipal authorities should consider the reduction of the rates of taxation on buildings and there should be a corresponding increase of interest rates on loans, to lower the tax burden on home owners and the occupants of low-rent houses and to stimulate rehabilitation of blighted areas and slums.

The brief foresaw three periods in the post-war years. "The first would be a short period of readjustment, during which there would be some temporary unemployment because of the changing from war to peace production. The second would be a period of intense industrial activity to meet the pent-up demand for consumer or civilian goods. The third would be the long-term period of sustaining economy."

Municipalities should have a post-war public works program ready to go into immediate effect during the first period. But in addition to small public works there should be large works of a long-range nature for the third period.

Allies Look For Tough Fight By Italian Soldiers

London.—The best Allied opinion warned against the impression that Italy is going to crack up and lay down her arms without an actual battle

Despite current reports concerning Italian internal conditions, these quarters believe that it will require methodical hard fighting to subdue Italy.

It was pointed out that the Allies naturally are utilizing all possible weapons, including psychological warfare, in order to soften up Italy. But the actual conquest is expected to involve some tough going, and Allied troops probably will not be able to march up through the streets of Rome for some weeks, even with the best of luck.

Military quarters point out that vast quantities of supplies must be brought up and new bases established on docks, quays and depots in Tunisia before the Allies can move forward for the next operation.

Naturally, the exact plan of the Allied high command is not known, but the most logical pathway from Tunisia to Rome appears to be from Pantelleria to Sicily and then to the toe and heel of Italy. It would be possible for the Allies to launch simultaneous attacks against Pantelleria and Sicily but the task of overwhelming Sicily should not be under-estimated.

Actually, Allied landings on the Italian mainland from Sicily probably could be accomplished with far greater ease than the initial landings on Sicily.

The Allies also might land on Sardinia but it appears possible that Corsica may be by-passed, particularly if the main thrust from the Mediterranean is swerved eastward through the Balkans.

There have been no indications of the Allies' intentions in the eastern Mediterranean where the Dodecanese islands offer a tempting target. Likewise there has been no indication of whether any of the Allied forces in Tunisia have been shifted eastward with the exception of Cairo reports regarding the arrival of some Tunisian air heroes.

An equal silence exists regarding plans for disposition of the British ninth and Tenth armies, Polish forces based in Iraq and French forces based in Syria.

There never has been any confirmation of Axis rumors that substantial American troop contingents are available in Palestine and Cyprus which are logical jumping off points for attacking the Dodecanese and Greek islands.

WANT TOO MUCH

Some People Greatly Exaggerated Their Needs For Canning Sugar

Ottawa.—E. W Radomar, assistant director of administration, in charge of sugar rationing for the prices board, said that Canadian housewives had overestimated their 1943 requirements for canning sugar in making applications to the board.

Mr. Radomar, speaking at the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said the department of agriculture was to the effect that normal use of sugar for canning was 80,000,000 pounds.

The amount of canning sugar authorized for to date was 210,000 000 pounds, he said. A family of four in Edmonton had asked for 700 pounds when family of six somewhere else in Alberta asked for 1,500 pounds

It had been expected 40 or 50 per cent. of the population would need sugar for home canning but nearly 9,000,000 people had applied, Mr Rodomar said.

CEILING RAISED

Wholesale Prices On Beef Have Been Advanced Slightly

Ottawa.—Wholesale price ceilings on beef carcasses sides and quarters have advanced 25 cents a hundredweight, foods administration officials of the prices board said, but they added the increase will affect consumer prices "only slightly."

"It amounts to one-quarter cent a pound and that will be reflected in retail increase up to a cent a pound for some cuts and no increases on others," they said.

The price advance represents the final price rise in the seasonal adjustment plan outlined in the statement of government policy last October.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Standard,
Vermilion, Alta.
Dear Sir:—

The Provincial Public Relations section takes great pleasure in thanking you for the excellent support which you gave through the medium of your paper, during the course of the Fourth Victory Loan.

We have had copies or practically all the weeklies in Alberta, and I feel that by either Province in the Dominion has received the support which we have experienced in Alberta.

I am sure that you are also gratified, as we are, with the results which were obtained by the efforts of the people of this Province.

Again thanking you, I remain

Yours very truly,

CUMMINGS FLASHES

There doesn't seem to be a great deal of news these days perhaps because everyone is too busy on the land to do anything else. Tractors are humming at all hours. Rain has stopped the work nearly all this week.

There is considerable threshing to do yet in this district. One outfit has six days work ahead of them. Some have grain that won't get threshed until next fall as it is in low places and still under water.

The women folks are nearly all helping on the land this year

The writer received a letter from Bill McMinn from Overseas and he says that he has met quite a number of Vermilion and district boys. When they meet they always have a good time together. All love to get letters from home and hope that their relatives and friends write to them often.

Farmers are having quite a time horsehoeing getting their grain heated as there is only one custom heater in this corner of the world and it keeps him busy trying to heat a little for each

Word has been received from AW1 Edith Wilson that she has passed all her driving tests and is now in Toronto taking basic training in mechanical and driving a truck every day. She likes the work very much and expects to finish training in a few weeks. She is hoping to be sent overseas.

SPECIAL SERVICES TO COMMENCE NEXT SUNDAY

Special Speaker at Vermilion Alliance Mission

A series of special Gospel services will open Sunday, June 6 in the Vermilion Alliance chapel with Rev. John Newman of Spokane as speaker. Two years ago the evangelist conducted a similar series which drew large congregations. His promise of a return visit is now to be enjoyed. Mr. Newman is a gifted speaker, and his vital presentations of Gospel truths will prove a blessing to those who attend. Sunday services will be held at the regular hours 11.30 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. Services will be held every night (except Mondays) of the week at 8 p.m. There will be special music each evening with a varied program of solos, duets, choir and instrumental numbers and bring your friends. A warm welcome is extended to all.

BOARD OF TRADE HEARS REPORT ON SALVAGE WORK

New Committee Appointed

At the regular weekly meeting last week, the Board of Trade heard a detailed report of the work carried on by the Vermilion Salvage Corps for the past year. The report was given by the secretary of the Corps, Ashley Cooper who recommended that the Board of Trade oversee this work. He felt that it would be much easier having salvage matters discussed at the regular meetings of the Board rather than trying to carry on with only a small executive seemingly interested, as has been the case for the past year.

The above suggestion was favorably considered by the meeting and hence forth the salvage activities will be carried on by a specially appointed committee of the Board or Trade. The new salvage officials appointed were Jake Weber, chairman; Ashley Cooper, secretary; executive—Mayor Morrison, Norman Greig, W. J. Mayhew, H. B. Spencer.

The financial statement of the Salvage Corps showed that receipts for the year had amounted to $422 with expenses of $407 and a bank balance of $16. The expenses were chiefly made up of grants to various district Red Cross auxiliaries, I.O.D.E., and $60 to the Air Cadets.

Salvage shipped out consisted of 13,000 lbs. of rubber; 3 tons of paper, on hand there are 20,000 lbs. of rubber, 20,000 lbs. of scrap iron and 2000 lbs. of non-ferrous metals. Arrangements for shipping this are being made immediately.

In addition to this salvage the executors have purchased and shipped 100 tons of scrap metal, while the butcher shops have purchased and shipped nearly a ton of salvage fats.

Continue Urge Car License Cut

Reduction of car license fees in Alberta is expected to be one of the subjects discussed at a midsummer meeting of directors of the Alberta Motor Association that will be held in Calgary, Saturday, June 5.

When the annual meeting of the A. M. A. was held last December, it was decided that strong representations to secure a cut in license fees should be made to the government.

Motorists have contended that with the federal restrictions on fuel and tires they were entitled to lower license fees.

Though representations were made some months ago, the province has not reduced license fees. It has stated that if compensation is received from the dominion government for loss of revenue from the motor licenses, this will be passed on to motorists in the form of lower license costs.

As the first quarter of the license year will end June 30, A.M.A. officials feel that there should be no further delay in reducing the fees, if such a cut is to prove of any real benefit to motorists this year.

VERMILION - ALBERTA
ESTABLISHED 1909

Published Every Thursday Afternoon at the Office, Main St.
E. R. P. COOPER — EDITOR

Vermilion, Alta., June 3, 1943.

The resignation of Charles Earp as Superintendent of the Electric Light and Power Plant has been accepted by the Council and Jack Weber appointed in succession. Mr. Earp has been with the plant for nearly three years succeeding Sylvius Davidson now with the Canadian Utilities at Drumheller. Mr. Earp goes to a large mining plant at Mountain Park as assistant superintendent. Mr. Earp was one of the very few plant superintendents who combined knowledge of steam engineering with the electrical end of plant operation. It was during his term that gas was installed in the plant which necessitated an especial call upon his services. The wiring and adjustment of the electrical service at the C.W.A.C. Training Centre was another heavy job that was successfully carried out under his supervision. The local service was much improved and rehabilitated since he took the position and is now regarded to be in first class condition. Mr Earp carries with him the best wishes of the citizens of Vermilion to his new field of activity. His successor, Mr. Weber, has been connected with the plant as shift engineer for a great many years and is well qualified from experience with the plant to take on the responsibilities of superintendent. The plant staff now comprises Joe Lachance, Slim Robinson and Fred Leversedge, the latter being the line and trouble man. A new shift engineer will, it is expected, be appointed shortly. John Welsh who has been connected with the plant since its inception is presently under a month's leave of absence due to ill health. In the early days Mr. Welsh was superintendent and had to do with the original and subsequent installations. The call upon the motor put on the plant within the past two years and particularly since the Training Centre was opened has nearly doubled and negotiations are now being carried on by the Council looking to the purchase and installation of further equipment to cope with the increased demand for electrical energy. The necessary installation will cost, it is estimated, at between $30,000 and $35,000. The Council feels, it is stated, that regardless of the present increase, the load will not require the additional equipment as a stand-by plant to provide against any future development.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

Sorry folks that there was no news last week but now that the first rush of threshing, spring work and gardening is past, we promise more news items.

Quite a number of ladies attended the quilting bee at Mrs. Dotzel's and we are pleased to say one quilt was completely finished. The sewers are meeting this week at Mrs. Repp's.

Mr. Morrison was interested with a power, a gift from the Busy Bees as a token of her very good work done with them. A party was also held at the school for Christine, Robert and Sandy.

Four new children are now attending school, a family having recently moved on to the former Edgar Williams farm.

The writer wishes to thank the Repp family and Harry for their kind help during threshing. Help these days is doubly appreciated.

Mrs. Gow spent Friday helping Mrs. McFarlane while the threshing crew was there.

The next Busy Bee meeting will be held on Thursday June 10 at the home of Mrs. McGinnis.

Noticed here and there: Miss Smith on her way to town for supper with the Lisle family; The Reed family visiting at the Walker home; Barney Powell, Frank Minard, the Gow family and Pat Cummings visitors at the Sherwood home; Harley White pulling Mr. Schoenenberger's truck out of the ditch on the Barradale road — this road could certainly stand some gravel.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. T. Perton on the birth of a baby boy on Monday.

CANADA HAS BECOME THE FOOD BIN FOR THE WORLD

There is no question about it, these days the Canadian farmer has a real job on his hands. He not only has to meet the home demand, but the United Nations are looking to him for help, as well. THE [illegible] task of becoming the food bin for the whole world, is going to take all that we have got to do the job. It means increased effort, more efficient methods. It means, that he'll have to keep every bit of farm equipment he has got working. And, to keep it working regularly he'll have to keep it lubricated properly. The question of correct lubrication is most important. If it is neglected, our farm production programme suffers. To help the farmer, by not only in supplying, but, in suggesting the right type of lubricant for every piece of farm equipment that he operates, McColl-Frontenac Oil Company Limited has a representative in this district who is prepared to advise farmers on the operation and preservation of farm machinery.

. . . AND THE MACHINERY THAT MAKES IT SHOULD BE CARED FOR AND KEPT ON THE JOB

YOU, Mr. Farmer, are a part of the great army that is headed toward Berlin and Victory! Because the food that you produce is every-day "ammunition" our fighting forces must have. Remember, your farm machines are engines of war! So, care for every piece of that farm equipment upon which so much depends. Give it the kind of lubrication that will enable it to give you longer, better service.

There is a McColl-Frontenac lubricant for every piece of farm equipment you own. Call on the McColl-Frontenac Representative in your district and ask him about the following:

RED INDIAN MOTOR OIL and RED INDIAN AVIATION MOTOR OIL

These are two great oils that will lengthen the life of any engine. They will protect pistons and cylinders against all operating conditions. These finer oils combat acid corrosion, friction, waste and wear. They give good oil economy, and keep engine heat . . . they flow and lubricate the moment the engine starts.

UREA X46 (CANADA)

The Perfect Motor Oil for Diesel and Heavy-Duty Gasoline Engines.

Highly resistant to the formation of gum, sludge and carbon. Urea X46 (Canada) keeps rings, ring grooves, valves, screens and filters clean. Provides maximum bearing protection. Ensures full power and lower fuel consumption.

TRIACO MARFAK

For Wheel Bearings and Fluid Friction Points.

This famous lubricant lasts longer and lubricates better under the toughest working conditions. It is self-sealing and keeps the wheel bearings in where it is needed most, prolonging life of bearings and universal joints by keeping out rain, mud and dust.

TEEN AGES CAN HELP

Recent periodicals from England show pictures of teen age school boys and girls helping with the work on Victory gardens and on farms during their school vacation. Here is an example, it would seem, that Canadian boys and girls from our high schools and universities can do well to follow.

Working on a farm for young people is a veritable education in itself, particularly for town age boys and girls. These young people with their keen minds and observant eyes could see something of the natural growth and development of plants and animals, something of the great mysteries of life itself. They would observe too, how differently birds and beasts behave in these quiet natural surroundings than in the midst of the artificial conditions of city life. All in all, then working on a farm for a few weeks would be a most wholesome and worthwhile experience for our Canadian boys and girls.

There is however, a much larger reason than all this for our young people to consider working on farms during their holidays, which is that it would certainly help to provide more food for Canada's war effort, as, of course, would be a highly patriotic action to perform.

Argentine corn production is placed at 76,378,000 bushels in the second official estimate, as compared with 355,649,000 bushels, the production of last year—Crops in Northern Britain were severely damaged by many late severe frosts in the early part of May —Broomhall reports that Rumania's plans for an increase in corn acreage are not likely to be realized.

Egypt increased production of rice from 546,307 tons in 1941 to 595,000 tons in 1942—New Zealand officially forecasts a wheat crop of 10,500,000 bushels for the 1943-43 season, as compared with the 1941-42 yield of 8,871,244 bushels — Sweden, in 1942, increased bread grain production by 47% over 1941; feed grain crops are increased 25% over 1941 production

There are about 300,000 farms in Britain, covering some 27,000,000 acres. The arable land has been increased by 50% on pre-war to 12,000,000 acres, largely by the labor of women and by a very great measure of mechanization — there are now nearly 80,000 women in the Women's Land Army.

FERRIES MAY RUN ON AT UNIVERSITY FARM

On Saturday, June 5th, the annual Feeders' Day will be held in the live stock pavilion, University farm at Edmonton, and will commence at 10 a.m.

Experiments that have been in progress during the past year will be discussed and the information available will be of value to all farmers and feeders. Included in the program will be a comparison of different grains and protein supplements for swine; the use of cover crops and home grown feeds for cattle finishing; the use of wheat for feeding dairy cows and the value of cobalt in the winter ration for pregnant cows.

The program has been outlined with a view to the special demand at this time for the production of live stock and animal products and those who are able to attend will learn much to their advantage.

Fire prevention in 1943 is everyone's responsibility. It is a major war effort.

Dated at Vermilion, Alberta, this 28th day of May, 1943

STEPHEN F. HENDRICK,
6-6c Applicant.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE is hereby given that a petition has been presented to the council of the Village of Derwent under section 155 of the Towns and Villages Act praying for the passing of the following by law

NOTICE is further given that objections to the petition presented to the council praying for the passing of such by-law on the ground that such petition is insufficiently signed or otherwise affecting the validity or sufficiency thereof must be filed with the Secretary Treasurer of the Village on or before the 3rd day of July, 1943, and that if no such objections are filed before the said date the council will forthwith proceed to pass the said viewing by-law.

BY-LAW No. 23

Under the authority and subject to the provisions of section 155 and section three Towns and Villages Act Being Chapter 69 of the Statutes of Alberta 1924, the council of the Village of Derwent duly assembled, enacts as follows:

All shops throughout the whole area of the Village of Derwent in the Province of Alberta, wherein the retail trade or groceries, hardware and general merchandise or any of them is carried on, shall subject to the following provisions, be closed for serving customers at and after the hour of one o'clock P.M. every Wednesday from and including May 12th to August 11th of each year, excepting when a Dominion holiday falls during any certain week and in that case no Wednesday half holiday will be observed that week

Provided that repair parts or emergency supplies required in connection with farm machinery, supply of medicines, drugs or medical appliances and supply of any article required for immediate use by reason or because of an emergency arising from sickness or death may be sold after the closing hour in all cases of emergency

And further provided that the terms of the by-law shall not apply to sales made at any fair or exhibition lawfully held, or at a Bazaar for charitable or Church purposes, nor to any shop where no trade or business is carried on other than one or more of the trades and businesses mentioned in the immediate herein.

"Shop" shall mean any building or portion of a building, booth, stall or place where goods are exposed for sale by retail or public auction, and "barber" shops which shall include ladies hair-dressing manicuring or beauty parlors, but not where the only trade carried on is that of a tobacconist, news agent, hotel, inn, victualling house or refreshment house

Any person violating any of the provisions of this by-law shall be liable on summary conviction to the penalties provided in the penalty by-law of the Village of Derwent 7s

KEEP FARM MACHINERY IN GOOD CONDITION

Helpful Booklet Issued by Gas & Oil Products Ltd.

With a view to helping farmers keep their machinery operating at peak efficiency for the duration of the war, Gas and Oil Products Ltd. of Calgary oil refiners and marketers, are making available throughout Alberta a booklet dealing with "Preventative Maintenance"

Entitled "Wartime Tractors", the twenty-two page booklet is being distributed to farmers at no cost by "99" agents and dealers throughout the province. Any farmers interested in knowing the latest information on tractor maintenance may obtain the booklet from their "99" agent or dealer, or by writing direct to Gas and Oil Products Limited in Calgary

"Preventative Maintenance" is designed to stop trouble before it begins working on the principle that "a stitch in time saves nine", the Company officials explained. The book is aimed at demonstrating the kind of maintenance and tune-up that give extra power and make farm tractors last longer. It also provides forms for a record of individual tractor operation.

"Today you need full horsepower from your tractor and from every gallon of gasoline you use. Whether you have a high compression or a low compression tractor, if the engine is not properly tuned for the fuel you use, it is losing power and wasting fuel. Proper tune-up and maintenance will bring out extra power and save money for you," the booklet states in the introduction.

Student, Teacher Employment During the Summer Vacation

Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor, today appealed to school teachers and to students, university, college, high school and lower school, to engage at farm work or other useful employment during the long summer vacation this year. "Farmers will be in most urgent need of all the help they can get, all through the summer", the Minister said. "Other important war industries are also short of workers. Therefore, the Government confidently hopes that teachers and students will not regard the closing down of the schools for the summer as a holiday this year, but rather that they will consider the time as giving them an opportunity to aid directly in solving Canada's wartime labor problems. The nation will need all the help those people can give."

Hon. Mr. Mitchell also pointed out that, in view of labor shortages, farmers will have to exercise a good deal of patience when some teachers, students and others fitful hands work in agriculture. "With the shortage of fully qualified workers, all industries have had to take inexperienced people. Industrial plants have shown considerable patience and ingenuity in training workers who were new to the job. In order to develop the labor required from the materials available it will be necessary that farmers do the same. Last year many farmers showed a great deal of patience in initiating persons not accustomed to farming. It is to be hoped and expected that all farmers will this year give evidence of the same spirit."

LETTER FROM OVERSEAS

Editor, Vermilion Standard.

Dear Sir:

I was very happy to receive my first four copies of "The Standard" this evening, and, although the news was a "little late", it was a real treat to read of the folks from home, especially south or town. Now that they have caught up with me, I'm sure you will arrive more regular and much faster.

Have had the pleasure of meeting Gen. Curtis from Turkey Hill and Sgt. Webber, cousin to the Webber boys of Tolland who have passed on their earlier copies of "Our paper" to me. Both are feeling well and in the best of health, but like the rest of us, anxious to be home.

Thanking you for the delivery of The Standard, and wishing you the best.

I remain,
W. 51043 Pte. W. Prinsell,

DISTRICT HOME ECONOMISTS PLACED

As in previous years the Department of Agriculture will continue its services for women during 1943, stated Hon. D.B. MacMillan.

A staff of five District Home Economists will be available during the summer months to discuss home making problems with groups of women. Special attention will be given this year to nutrition, the preservation of foods, sewing, and other problems arising out of wartime restrictions.

Those who will serve as District Home Economists this summer, with their respective headquarters, are:

Miss C. McIntyre, at Olds; Miss Lillian Peabey, at Edmonton; Miss K. R. Anderson, at Stettler; Miss M.J. Staples at Lethbridge, and Miss E.M. Spencer will cover all the province giving instructions and demonstrations in sewing.

Misses McIntyre, Switzer and Peabey are members of the Olds School of Agriculture staff, while the Misses Anderson and Staples were recently appointed to the staff.

The services of the District Home Economists will be available to groups of women who wish instruction or assistance on Home Making problems. Women who have special problems are invited to write to their nearest District Home Economist.

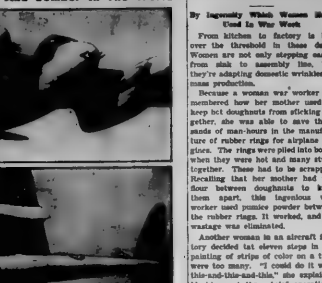
Fastest Fighter And Bomber in The World



Most versatile aircraft in the world, the Mosquito is in active service as a long range day and night fighter and intruder as well as a day and night bomber. The Mosquito Fighter shown above has four 20 mm cannon and four .303 machine guns, all mounted in the fuselage nose, giving highly concentrated fire. The Mosquito Bomber carries 2,000 lbs of bombs with a fuel range which brings practically the whole of Germany within its reach.

The design of the Mosquito was not commenced until after war began and it represents a world record from drawing board into operations against the enemy, namely 22 months.

Because of its plywood construction, the de Havilland Mosquito is the most widely dispersed in manufacture of aircraft yet attempted, utilizing hundreds of sub-contractors.

The de Havilland Aircraft workers of Canada, consisting of commercial enterprises in Britain, Canada, South Africa, India, Australia, New Zealand and South America in operation for many years before the war in the manufacture of civil and commercial aircraft, was in a fortunate position to turn all their facilities and experience to production for the Allies of the world's fastest aircraft.

Performance information on the Mosquito has not been released, but Mosquitoes by hand-stop to Russia to and back to Britain the same afternoon.

Valuable Time Saved

By Ingenuity Which Women Have Used In War Work

From kitchen to factory is but over the threshold in these days. Women are not only stepping easily from sink to assembly line, but they're adapting domestic wrinkles to mass production.

Because a woman war worker remembered how her mother used to keep hot doughnuts from sticking together, she was able to save thousands of man-hours in the manufacture of rubber rings for airplane engines. The rings were piled into boxes when they were hot and many stuck together. These had to be scrapped. Recalling that her mother had put flour between doughnuts to keep them apart, this ingenious war worker used pumice powder between the rubber rings. It worked, and all wastage was eliminated.

Another woman in an aircraft factory decided tat eleven steps in the painting of strips of color on a tube were too many. "I could do it with this-and-this-and-this," she explained blocking off the various operations. She saved eight hours per 'plane by this short-cut.

Men show more initiative in factory work, according to one employer, but women have more ingenuity. That's easy to explain. Ask any housewife. How did she manage to keep the family budget in balance? It took ingenuity! A little pinching here, a little dodging there, and plenty of fast thinking when friend husband brought someone home unannounced to dinner.

Ingenuity is an asset on any job, and "supervisor counselor" is nothing to apologize for in any employment office.—Christian Science Monitor.

PETER COMFORTS PERSECUTED CHRISTIANS

Golden text, For it is better, if the will of God should so will, that ye suffer for well-doing than for evil-doing. I Peter 3:17.

Lesson text, I Peter 3:13-17; 4:13-16; 5:6-10.

Devotional reading: Hebrews 11:32-12:2.

Explanations and Comments

Suffer for Well-Doing rather than for Ill-Doing. I Peter 3:13-17. Who will harm you, Peter asks his readers, if you are zealous? A strange term rendered a "zeal" in Titus 2:14") for goodness? Then he wisely qualifies this suggestion which calls down trouble by adding, But even if you should suffer for that which is right (see Mt. 5:10) you are happy. Bless not fear them, neither be troubled. Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. Lk. 12:32. Sanctify in your hearts Christ as Lord. "Fearlessness does not mean unchristian indifference to dangers, however; where you are requested immediately or interrupted by a magistrate, always be ready with a reply. Be ready to explain and defend your religion, but only in a reverence. Christ as Lord in your own hearts, but to tell others what he means to you. Yet with meekness and fear. Here Peter not only tells them to take every chance of clearing away misconceptions of the faith, but also to do this gently—no indignation, no superciliousness, but with a sense of reverence toward God; to bear testimony before men tactfully and visibly that a sense of reverence responsibility to God" (James Moffatt.)

Did Peter have an inkling that sometimes goodness could be arrogant and self-assured when he wrote, "But answer gently and with a sense of reverence"? A sense of true self-goodness seem at times to be very sure of itself and inclined to dogmatism. The aggressively pious person, extremely critical of others, the cocksure disciple of unexpected counsels, were not attractive types of Christians, Peter had discovered, and he was moved to warn his readers that such would not win followers for the Master, the meek and lowly Jesus.

Have there been a good conscience be conscious of your own innocence. Your reply must not be contradicted by your conduct. Your good manner of life in Christ must put to shame those that basely slander you as an evil manner of life. If it is God's will that you must suffer, then suffer for well-doing, not for evil-doing.

New Cap Badge

A new cap badge for all ranks of the Canadian Infantry Corps is announced by National Defence Headquarters. The badge is of bronze, having two crossed rifles upon which a double ellipse contains a sprig of three Maple leaves, surmounted with the Imperial Crown. Below is a scroll inscribed "ACER", the Latin Botanical term for Maple. It also may be interpreted to mean keenness and strength. These cap badges will be issued to reinforcements of the Canadian Infantry Corps in Canada for wear until such time as they are posted to their Battalion or other unit when they will adopt its regimental badge.

Good Saving Plan

Bonds Are One Of Best Forms For This Purpose

The Fort William Times-Journal says: It is well to keep investing in check up after the war is over how much of the money Canadians are putting into the war will be lent at little maturity and how much will be

Before the last war there were very few bond holders, most people with surpluses keeping it in cash, but nowadays almost everyone has or has bonds.

Bond buying is much like any other form of saving, and it is likely that we will want to part with their safe and sure government bonds unless there is a very strong sags while through the love stock market or the urge to buy goods or services. With money in bonds or having it in savings account of a bank the usual experience is that most people like to see their savings growing and they resist as long as possible breaking into funds put away in that form.

From Sailing-Ship Days

Reason The British Seafaring Man Was Called A Limey

When the allied armies met in Tunisia the first words of greeting, we are told, came from an American sergeant, who hailed a British patrol with the phrase — "Hello there, Limey."

Many people were asking why this particular word should have been used. For the answer we have to go back to the old sailing-ship days when every British craft carried a supply of lime-juice which was issued to the crew daily as a preventive for scurvy. Thus it came about that any British seafaring man was dubbed a "Limey".

But the British were not the only nationality to have a nickname. The Americans were, of course, Yankees. Belgians, Hollanders and Germans were all grouped as Dutchmen, and any sailor from the Mediterranean was called a Dago. The Northern peoples—Danes, Swedes and Norwegians, were classified as "Blandemeringue", but the most delightful of all was the Nova Scotian, who went under the name of "Bluenose".—Belfast News-Letter.

MICKIE SAYS—

Replacements Scarce

One Reason Why Farm Machinery Is Neglected

As replacements are difficult these days, care of farm machinery, recently taken from winter storage, is important. In past years, a great deal of the equipment owned by farmers had been destroyed through neglect.

Food grinders, milk coolers, pumps, and the larger pieces of farm machinery should be kept well-lubricated at all times.

The outside of different engines about the farm should be kept clean, and wiped off with a light lubricating oil.

Pleasant Little Gadgets

Nazis Had Tricky Ways Of Leaving Booth Behind Them

The retreating Nazis in Tunisia lavished great thought and mechanical skill on tricky little ways of leaving death behind them for individual Allied soldiers. The War Department described some of the latest booby traps: A whistle that does not explode until it is blown. The vibrating pen bits a detonator. Tenacious cotton that do not explode until they are filled to the mouth. Earphones that do not explode until plugged in to the electric current.—New York Herald-Tribune.

WILDMERE WINKS

Four years today since the writer and husband left on our trip, 1939. It's not the nice untroubled world it was then, but we're hoping we're 1942 rolls past this trouble and strife will be nearly at an end, and all our loved ones home again.

Freddie Martin and Alice Clark, of Tribune, have both been in the hospital suffering from heavy colds and sore throats. Freddie came home Saturday but Alice is still there. A speedy recovery to all our sick friends everywhere.

Our soul-soaking rains came just a couple of days too early. Had they stayed off, threshing would have been finished in our part. Mr. Barnhart's barley will soon be sitting in the stook a year as it was cut July 30 1942. It's really too bad for those who haven't a horse threshed. The threshers are running short of help and make it that much slower.

Some folks can't even have lights on their tractors but we know of one who even has a radio.

A party was held in Battleview school on Friday night last for Spr. Howard Frissell who was home on leave. There was a nice crowd and a good time was enjoyed by all. Spr. Frissell got a wire and had to leave before the party ended for his training centre at Chilliwack, B.C. All best wishes or everyone accompanied the young man. He has been visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Abe Frissell and brother and sister Bert Frissell and Mrs. Lindy Fadden.

In a recent letter from Pte. L. Graham he wished to be remembered to all his Wildmere friends.

TWIN CHICK AT JOHN EYBEN'S FARM

They raise twin chicks over at John Eyben's farm in the Cummings district. Five ordinary hen's eggs were set under a Bantam hen, one of them being slightly larger than the other eggs. When they hatched they had six chickens, twins having come from the larger egg. They are slightly smaller than the others but are perfectly formed and were not attached to any one in a way to usually the case with twin chicks. Twin chicks like this are really rare.

It is important that you see Mrs. Minister, the greatest of modern productions, at the Columbia theatre, Jun 7, 8 and 9. Special Wednesday matinee starts at 2.30 p.m. 7x

Stagette Notes

COTTON BALL

Cotton dresses of every color were predominate at the Cotton Ball as couples whirled to the peppy music of the Vermilion orchestra.

Due to fire regulations the girls were unable to decorate the hall but to keep to the cotton, gingham tags were given to each dancer.

The evening proved to be an outstanding success and the girls only hope the people of the town will patronize next season as they have in the past. This alone gives the girls the right spirit to carry on with these social functions.

CLOSING BANQUET

On Tuesday, May 25th, Miss Mill Noonan, president of the club acted as hostess at the closing banquet which was held in the Boston cafe. All the members were present to do justice to the delicious dinner. Pte. Merle Lawrence of the C.W.A.C., who was guest of honor, is a member of the Edmonton Stagettes and while in Vermilion becomes a member of the club here. Welcome to our club Merle, we hope you'll enjoy it as much as we enjoy knowing you.

Why Housewives Got Less Sugar

Between 40 and 50 million pounds of sugar were sent to the bottom of the ocean, in transit to Canada, that is one reason why housewives will get less sugar than they applied for, the officials of ration administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board state.

Two other reasons are that many ships which would ordinarily bring sugar to Canada were diverted to North Africa, and Canadian sugar beet prospects in Canada, particularly in Ontario (where about 30,000,000 lbs. are produced), are less bright than usual this year.

Requirements of housewives were used as a yardstick to estimate the quantity of sugar to be assigned to home canning. These requirements were received by Local Ration Boards, which finally were able to allot a percentage of the total amount for which housewives within each area had asked.

"About 86 per cent of the population in Alberta was included in the applications for sugar for canning. Had the allotment been made on a population basis housewives would have obtained even less sugar," officials state.

GRADUATING EXERCISES PLANNED BY HIGH SCHOOL

Banquet and Dance June 18th

This year, as has been the custom for the past eight or nine years, the grade eleven class of the Vermilion High school will hold a banquet and dance for the grade twelve class and parents. This custom was begun under the inspiration of Mr. J. C. Brown, now principal of the Banff High school. It was recognized that the students of grade twelve should attend a more or less formal function to mark, in an appropriate and entertaining fashion, the close of a happy and instructive high school career and the beginning of a new life with fresh fields of endeavor.

The affair is considered as the climax of the year's social activities for the school, as well as a fitting closing ceremony. Although the banquet must necessarily be limited in attendance, the dance is open to the general public. The events will be held on Friday evening next week, June 18th.

WITHERS TO DRILL WELL NEAR EDGERTON

Will Spud In on Thursday

Chas Withers has moved his rotary drilling rig to a location 7 miles south-west of Edgerton where he will drill a well for a number of Edgerton, Edmonton and Vancouver business men who have grouped themselves into a firm known as Edgerton Oils. The group has been represented in transactions by Sidney Putney of Edgerton and R. Price of Edmonton.

The well is to be drilled by Mr. Withers to a depth of 2200 feet if oil production is not obtained before that depth. Geology of the area is by Dr. Rutherford of the University of Alberta. The well is in a new area and will be carefully logged, help in this respect and in picking up the sands will be given by Dr. Hume, dominion geologist and his seismograph crew who are at present carrying out a geological survey in the Wainwright area.

Haliburton will supervise all cementing and the well will be electrically logged.

A string of new 5½ inch streamline casing, the best manufactured, has been secured for the job.

Mr. Withers expects to spud in this Thursday on the well, the completing if he will move to Unity, Sask., where he will drill one well, and then he will return to the Vermilion field where the drilling of seven more wells awaits his attention.

FUNDS URGENTLY REQUIRED FOR GREEK WAR RELIEF

Organization Meeting Friday at 8:30 P.M.

Thousands of children and adults in Greece are dying of starvation. Little children barely more than skeletons fight over garbage cans in search of a mouthful of food. Entire families bed together. Skeleton mothers with tiny babies and two or three phantom children stalk the towns and cities crying and shivering for want of food. Everywhere can be seen abandoned babies and young children. Mothers carry their dead children to the cemetery where they leave them so that they can retain the food cards for their dead. In a single day 6000 dead have been picked up on the streets of Athens—victims of starvation. Green men, women and children are dying by the thousands from starvation. These are statements of facts taken from reports of the International Red Cross. To help alleviate these conditions the Government of Canada has authorized the Greek War Relief Fund of a half million dollars during a three-week period from June 6th to 26th. The money will be used to buy food, medical and other supplies. The Red Cross will arrange the distribution. An appeal is now made to the people of the town and district for liberal contributions to this fund. Mayor Morrison is calling a meeting in the town hall on Friday evening of this week at 8.30 o'clock to organize for the collection of these funds. The Mayor is urging a good attendance. All subscriptions will be acknowledged in the Vermilion Standard and may be deducted from your income tax returns.

KITSCOTY MINISTER COMES TO VERMILION

Rev. E. S. Reikie Receives Unanimous Call

Rev. E. S. Reikie, B.A. of Kitscoty was extended an unanimous call to become Minister of First United church, Vermilion.

Mr. Reikie received his University and College education in Edmonton, graduating from the University of Alberta in 1936 and from St. Stephen's Theological College in 1939. After Ordination Mr. Reikie served the United church at Caldonia and the final branch very successfully. Two years ago Mr. Reikie and his wife went to Kitscoty. Both are well known to folk in Vermilion.

Although Mr. Reikie's work begins July 1 he and his wife will be taking their vacation before coming to Vermilion. It is expected that the Induction Service and Congregational Reception will be on July 28.

Rev. L. G. Sieber who is leaving First United church for Revelstoke expects to leave Vermilion July 2.

SEASON TWO WEEKS BEHIND NORMAL

Wheat Seeding Finally Completed —Big Acreage Reduction

The 1943 season is 12 days to two weeks behind normal according to grain men here. Growth has been poor until this week when a brief sun has warmed things up a little. There is a good supply of moisture at present.

Wheat seeding is all but completed but there is fully 20 per cent reduction in acreage sown. Coarse grains are 5-7 in the ground and there will be a 10% reduction in the amount of oats and barley seeded. It is quite probable that it had been hoped for spring threshing there would have been an appreciable increase in the coarse grain acreage. It is quite in the stable the amount of work that has been achieved by the farmer under the prevailing weather and labor conditions this spring.

Taken as a whole there is some 5% of the threshing yet to do.

REGULAR MEETING SCHOOL BOARD

Jas. J. Part Resigns as Principal of Public School

The regular monthly meeting of the trustees of Vermilion County No. 1446 was held in the Council Chamber, town hall, on Thursday, June 3rd, at 8.15 p.m. with Chairman Taylor and Trustees Andrew Brand and Adam present.

Messrs. Part and Bussard attended from public and high schools and reported on conditions and progress at the two schools for May.

Mr. Bussard asked that the all-round playground be put in shape, that trees be cultivated and front steps repaired. He also asked that the Assembly hall be painted a darker color for a height of four or five feet.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted as read.

Mr. Part tendered his resignation as principal of the public school.

The following motions carried:

Tr. Andrew—that the resignation of Jas. J. Part as Principal of Public school be accepted and that this Board instruct the secretary to express in letter to Mr. Part their appreciation of his services during the past 6 years.

Tr. Brand—that we advertise for a Principal for Vermilion public school salary as per schedule.

Tr. Andrew—that remuneration of Harry Scott, caretaker at the public school be raised $10 per month and Peter Miller, caretaker of the high school be increased $5 per month.

Tr. Andrew—that the secretary is instructed to purchase the supplies as requested by the school principals.

Discussion over janitress being made by some pupils at high school resulted in the possibility after further thought and discussion of the establishment of a scholastic standard for high school pupils, beginning with the December term.

The secretary was instructed to submit account to the Town for expenses incurred in the purpose of water from the basement of the high school during the spring rushes. Also faults installations.

Tr. Adam—that the account be submitted be paid having been certified. Meeting adjourned.

R.C.A.F. RECRUITING UNIT IN VERMILION JUNE 17th

Even after almost four years of war, the demand for men and women to serve in the Royal Canadian Air Force is still as great as ever. As more and more planes leave the assembly line, more and more men are needed to keep them in the air. The Royal Canadian Air Force has many openings available, both in the air and on the ground, than ever before.

If you wish to fly — you can if Lack of education is no longer a barrier to enlistment for aircrew duties. The R.C.A.F will supplement your education with specialized studies to enable you to participate in this greatest adventure of all times.

Men and women are needed too to keep the aircraft ready for service and to look after the men that fly them. Aero-nautical engineers, radio mechanics, cooks, construction battalion, clerks, stenographers, all are needed to maintain the Air Force well trained and efficient. Many of these trades offer unusual opportunities for advancement after the war.

The R.C.A.F. Recruiting Unit will be in Vermilion on June 17th and will remain for a week. Any young man or woman who wishes to discuss an enlistment with the officer in charge should obtain an [illegible] from the local [illegible]

DEATH OF MRS. JAMES FOSTER DIES AT VANKLEEK HILL, ONT.

The death of Mrs James Foster took place at St. Mary's-on-the-Lake hospital in Vankleek Hill, Ont., on June 2, 1942. Mrs Foster was born at Lachute Road near St Andrews, Argenteuil Quebec, in 1844. She was laid to rest at Vankleek Hill, beside her parents, the late Mr and Mrs James Wood. She leaves to mourn her loss one brother, William Wood of Lachine, Que., and several nieces and nephews.

The deceased lived in Vermilion for two years prior to her departure for the east in the fall of 1941. James H. Foster, who predeceased her three years ago, homesteaded and farmed at Claymore. They were among the first settlers in that district, coming from Niagara, Man.

The late Mrs Foster was of a very cheery disposition and in the early days her home was the social centre of the district. Her passing will be greatly regretted by many old timers.

Rehabilitation Of Europe

THE MANNER IN WHICH GERMANY has plundered the occupied countries of Europe is well known. Early in the war Goering frankly stated that whoever starves it will not be the German people," and it is clear that every effort has been made to fulfill this promise. The conquered countries have been stripped of food and all raw materials which are of use to the German people, and in addition large indemnities from these countries have swelled Germany's financial resources. The necessity of the Allied blockade of Europe is clearly recognized, regrettable as it is that the innocent countries must suffer for lack of essential supplies. Great Britain and the United States have promised that with their invading forces there will come without delay supplies for the people who are liberated from the domination of the Nazis

North Africa Receives Aid

In North Africa it has already been shown that there are many assurances, for as soon as the Allies landed there a North African Economic Board was set up. This board was composed of British and American economic advisers and representatives of supply departments, and it undertook to determine the needs of the country and to meet these needs to the best advantage, from the resources of the United Nations. It also dealt with methods for re-establishing local industry. The recommendations of this board were sent to London and decisions were made in reference to the shipment of materials to North Africa. Only eighteen days after the first Allied landings the British Food Ministry sent a shipment of food to North Africa. This first shipment included three hundred tons of sugar two hundred tons of canned milk, two hundred tons of soap and ten tons of coffee. Since that time, many other shipments have been sent to supply the territory released from German, Italian and Vichy French domination.

A Sound Basis For The Future

Supplies sent to North Africa, and those which will be sent to the countries of Europe as soon as their Nazi conquerors are driven back, are not on the basis of temporary relief. They are sent with the purpose of laying a foundation for a sound economic structure for the future. It is realized that it will not be possible to quickly re-establish the economic structures which have been destroyed by the Axis powers, but it is hoped that a basis may be provided on which a sound structure may later be built. Although it is evident that the demands on their resources will be enormous, we are told that the United Nations have firmly resolved that in their wake shall come food and supplies so sorely needed by the countries which have been a prey to Goering's cruel policy. Developments in North Africa have shown that these promises will be fulfilled without delay

Misses London But Feels Trip To City Not Necessary

Queen Mary, who quietly observed her 76th birthday recently at the 600-acre estate near a West England village that has been her home since the war began, is devoted to walking, neighborliness and her children She visits factories and service camps, and shows movies in her home for soldiers and airmen. Poverty is one of her major interests and occasionally she trims bonnets with her own special saw, helping the lumberjacks who have been thinning out the trees on the estate and stacking wood to be carried to the village.

She uses gasoline only for war work and never makes a trip without collecting salvage bones bottles, paper and scrap metal

Provides Calcium

High Grade Limestone Can Replace Costly "Shell" Grit for Chicks

Because oyster shell which is imported from the United States is being used in poultry feeds, poultrymen will have to depend to a greater extent on limestone in feeding poultry. High calcium limestone, which is relatively cheap and of which there are many deposits in Canada, makes a satisfactory substitute for oyster shell and, if properly graded, may be fed in the same manner

All limestone deposits are not considered suitable for poultry feeding the Feeds Administrator points out. Some are low in calcium and high in magnesium. Only a trace of magnesium is required by poultry. Too much may be harmful to chicks.

Limestone grit for poultry pellets should be started on it, because a change later from oyster shell to limestone may result temporarily in reduced consumption and adversely affect egg production.

FACING BIG DEMAND

The poultry industry of Canada during the next 12 months will be faced with the greatest demand for eggs and poultry it has ever known. At least 100,000,000 dozen eggs will be required for export alone to several countries. In addition, the requirements of the armed forces have doubled since the first year of war and the civilian domestic situation is demanding more and still more eggs.

Air Bomber Graduates

Class Receiving Wings Recently Included Seven Boys From Prairies

Winnipeg (C.A.P. News Service) Nine Canadians, seven from the prairies, one from British Columbia and the other from Hamilton, Ontario, are in Great Britain as Bomber Air Bombers in the Royal Canadian Air Force pinned up recently at No. 1 Central Bombing School, Rivers, Man. Group Captain W. A. Murray, command-ing officer of the Navigation School presented the badges to a mixed class of Australians, Britons and Canadians.

All of the graduating Canadians enlisted as aircrew, realizing their ambition as they stepped out smartly from the ranks to be winged. One of the lads, LAC. Noel A. Gillespie, of R.R. No. 2, Vernon, B.C., had previously served in the army attaining the rank of sergeant in the 2nd Battalion, British Columbia Regiment. He disregarded a recommendation for a commission in the active army to fly with the R.C.A.F.

The three airmen from Manitoba were students in civilian life. LAC. Walter Alexander Daniel, Rivers, attended the University of Manitoba; LAC. E. R. Ransom, of Arden, Man., preferred flying to teaching, as he left Winnipeg Normal school to join up. After studying agriculture at the University of Manitoba for two years LAC. Joseph Spector, Winnipeg, Man., enlisted in the R.C.A.F. as aircrew.

Two ex-sportsmen from Alberta and Saskatchewan were in the class. LAC. John Joseph Scully, Grande Prairie, Alta., and LAC. William Taylor, Nottingham, Sask. Scully played baseball in the Toronto garrison league and the Pacific Coast League, and Taylor played softball and baseball.

LAC. Thomas McBeath of Prince Albert, Sask., had six years' experience as a store clerk.

Following are the Canadian graduates: LAC. Walter Alexander Daniel, Rivers, Man.; Noel Arthur Gillespie, Vernon, B.C.; John Grayston, Hamilton, Ont.; Thomas Albert McBeath, Prince Albert, Sask.; Donald Oliver Barton McKinnon, Vancouver, B.C.; Ernest Harold Ransom, Arden, Man.; John Joseph Scully, Rio Grande, Alta.; Joseph Spector, Winnipeg, Man.; William Taylor, Nottingham, Sask.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

If ever a man prevented a sound logic strategy Mr. Churchill did it, in regard to concentrating on Germany first and then licking Japan afterwards. He did it in three trenchant words: "The defeat of Japan would have no bearing on the fighting that is now going on," but the defeat of Germany would mean the inevitable defeat of Japan." And that is putting first things first.

Had To Be Watered

Power Which Drove Electric Clock Came From Bull

When she lived at Gledhow Grange, Mrs. F. J. Ritson was fond of showing her many guests what must have been the first electric clock in Leeds. The clock was on a shiny piece, but it was driven by a couple of metal plates, each about a square yard in area, one of copper, the other of zinc, sunk in a rose bed in the garden.

Mrs. Ritson would describe how this electric clock had been put in years before she went to live there, and kept good time. But if ever it faltered, the unfailing remedy was to have the rose bed watered, or dosed with liquid manure.

The arrangement was that of a Voltaic pile, and such piles often have a very long life. Somewhere in the Dictionary of National Biography is a reference to a Voltaic pile at the Physical Laboratory in Oxford which for many years had been ringing an electric bell unfailingly, day and night.—Leeds Yorkshire Post.

VITAMIN B1

The greater the intake of riboflavin in one's daily rations, the better one's general health and the longer one is likely to live, a leading United States nutrition authority states

If you are interested in good nutrition, you'll have come across the word "riboflavin" before this. It is the name given to a part of the Vitamin B complex, and it is present in milk, eggs, meat (especially liver) and green leaf vegetables. If you are familiar with Dr. nutrition feeding, you will know that riboflavin is as important in animal food as in human diet.

The interesting thing about riboflavin is that the more you take, the more good it does. Most vitamins are needed in certain quantities and the body cannot make use of a great excess.

A large intake of riboflavin brings about that "feeling of well-being and buoyant good health," which is much better than "average good health" and a great deal better than just being sick.

A low level of riboflavin brings about earlier signs of old age, a shorter sense of life, a lower level of general health, and, if prolonged, will cause a actual pregnancy, an arthritis-like condition, a weakening of the eyes, cracks at mouth corners, digestive disturbances and poor skin condition. Those conditions are common, especially among office workers who drink too little milk. For without milk it is difficult to get the optimum amount of riboflavin. For an adult is 2.2 milligrams, (mgm).

First Farm Tractor Tire Made From Grain Alcohol

The industrial use of farm crops is made to la for the farmer received a big boost last month when for the first time grain was used as the base for a synthetic rubber farm tractor tire.

Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., whose father put the farm on rubber by developing the first practical pneumatic tractor tire, was present to inspect the first of the new tires as it came from the mold at the Firestone plant This historic tire is one of a set being completed for testing on the Firestone farms.

Nearly 10 bushels or 600 pounds of shelled corn were required to make the butadiene for the first set of tires, all of the famous ground grip variety

Although similar synthetics previously have been used in tires and in hundreds of other products, this is the first time that a complete operation starting with grain and ending with synthetic rubber was carried through with the exclusion of all other synthetics in the manufacture of tractor tires.

The new process of changing grain to synthetic rubber consists of fermenting the grain to produce grain alcohol, and transforming the alcohol into butadiene, basic ingredient of synthetic rubber, through a chemical dehydration.

Synthetics made from grain and petroleum bases have been tested by Firestone research men and show no difference in quality. Used in tires, both synthetics wear satisfactorily.

Unity At Food Parley Is Good Sign For Future

Hot Springs, Va.—The United Nations food conference—first effort of the Allied powers towards a better post-war world—ended with purposes designed to provide more and better nourishment for all mankind.

Richard K. Law, chairman of the British delegation, made the motion for the adoption of the resolutions placed before the plenary session by the drafting committees. Law reviewed the work of the conference and declared its spirit of harmony and collaboration was a happy augury for continued unity among Allied nations.

Judge Marvin Jones said that "what we have found is of profound and lasting significance for the entire world."

"What we have found is this:

"First—Compelling confirmation of a united purpose to make effective the pledge of the Atlantic Charter and of the mutual aid agreements for a peace "that will afford an assurance that all men in all lands may live out their lives in freedom from fear and want."

"Second — overwhelming evidence that we have in unity the strength to make our purpose effective in peace as we are making it effective in war.

"Third—a convincing and inspiring demonstration that we can work together in practice—in the hard everyday effort that will step by step translate our hopes—and the hopes of all mankind—into reality."

Secretary General Warren Kelchner issued a statement stating that work of the conference emphasized the fundamental inter-dependence of the consumer and the producer.

"The need for the final freedom from hunger before seeking freedom from want was understood and resolutions were adopted to that end," his summation continued. "There covered both the planning of agriculture production and the steps that must be taken to prevent violent fluctuations in prices resulting fro the shortages of the transition period."

The summation continued: "One of the most important recommendations of the conference is that governments represented should declare to their own people and to one another their intention to pursue more and better food for the people. Various measures which might be taken for this purpose were discussed. Free from included education, special provision for particular classes of the population, and the improvement of the quality of food available."

A MILITARY POWER

Sir Archibald Sinclair Predicts Canada Will Have Fourth Place

London.—Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair told the House of Commons that Canada will emerge from the war the fourth strongest military power in the world.

He made the statement in speaking for the government in a debate on post-war civil aviation, telling the house that the British government would pursue discussions with the dominions but could not tell them what to do. He presumably exerted to Britain, the United States and Russia as being the leading military powers ahead of Canada.

"We have put first in our work the importance of coming to an agreement with the dominions," Sir Archibald said of the government's civil aviation plans. "After the war we shall either be in a world dominated by the United States or the Soviet Union, or the centre of a great empire bound together by air routes."

Every Bushel Of Canada's Wheat Will Be Needed

Hot Springs, Va.—Canada will be required to increase food production, not only for the immediate post-war period, but in the years to follow, if the recommendations at the United Nations food conference are carried into effect, it was stated here by G. S. H. Barton, deputy minister of agriculture and chairman of the Canadian delegation to the 44-country gathering.

While the conference headed toward completion of its work by issuing a declaration of principles which underlie post-war collaboration among countries to banish war and improve social and economic conditions throughout the world through the growth of collective security, Barton declared his belief that Canada will benefit enormously by its deliberations.

"The short-term requirements as developed here undoubtedly indicate that Canada must not only continue her contributions to the food supply of the world but enlarge them, if possible," Barton said.

"Fortunately, if our stocks of wheat are maintained, the need for it to meet anticipated shortages is clearly evident. We are going to need every bushel.

"The other big thing, as demonstrated at the conference is that Canada is a growing and, at the present time, a developing nation. We will continue on an expertive basis as far as major products of Canadian agriculture are concerned

"The whole picture, as it has been developed here, should appeal to Canadian leaders. It is one of expanding agricultural economy."

The deputy minister went on to say that in the period of shortages immediately after the war, there will be need for orderly marketing through some form of international arrangement and, even in the long-range view, it may be necessary for some farm products

"To that end," he continued, "we may have to join with others in recognizing that some form of co-operative production may be required."

It was clear to observers here what is beginning to shape up A permanent organization of the food conference may be established at a meeting to be held in Washington in July. Others will follow in the next few months on relief, finances and civil aviation. Eventually, these separate organizations, each dealing with a specific subject, will be merged as sections of one over-all association of countries, to be the league of nations of the future.

This association of countries, open to victor and vanquished alike, will be assigned the task of maintaining peace and of promoting economic and social progress throughout the world. Unlike the League of Nations, it likely will rely heavily on economic considerations.

"On behalf of the people of the United States, let me also convey their greetings and good wishes to the people of Britain.

"The Allied victory in North Africa has recently given the world an unsurpassed demonstration of what can be done when Britain and America work together. Unity in friendship and purpose has bound together our soldiers on land, our sailors at sea and our fliers in the air That same bond unites American and British workers in the task of production, on both sides of the

NO CONVERSATIONS

Canada And Britain Have Not Discussed Post-War Civil Aviation

Ottawa.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons that no conversations have been initiated between Canada and the United Kingdom with respect to an Empire plan for development of post-war civil aviation.

He said, that Canada has not been approached by the United Kingdom government regarding representation for Canada on the board of British Overseas Airways Corporation, or the formation of some similar body.

Mr. King said he would communicate to the house the government's policy in these matters "in due course."

Naval Quarters Think Nazis May Try Sea Battle

London.—Adolf Hitler may be preparing to throw his outnumbered but powerful surface fleet into one last naval action in a desperate gamble to smash an Allied invasion of the continent, informed naval quarters report

If the German warships emerge from their hiding places in the Norwegian fjords and in the nine-barricaded Baltic sea to challenge Britain's home fleet, these quarters said, the watery triangle separating England and Germany will undoubtedly be the scene of the greatest naval battle since Jutland

The home fleet is not taking Hitler's surface squadrons lightly, but it is ready and anxious to test its big guns on the Nazi line for evasive power and there is no doubt here as to the outcome

The fleet's main job now is to watch the giant battleship Tirpitz sister ship of the ill-fated Bismarck and it will continue that patrol if the Allied invasion should be launched along the Atlantic coast of Europe

Destruction of the Tirpitz which is listed at 35,000 tons but is probably well over 40,000 tons would free no less than seven British battleships from the dreary northern patrol, for the Allies recognize the Tirpitz as one of the most formidable fighting ships afloat and they are guarding it heavily

Naval men doubt that neither Adolf Hitler's capital ships would engage directly in any assault across the English channel, since the waters in that area are too narrow for battleship manoeuvring.

Hit any Allied attempt to land between Norway's North Cape and the north shore of Holland will almost certainly bring the big naval guns into action.

Observers believe that Hitler's surface ships are listed among his expendables, particularly since they are doing no direct war service at present beyond impeding the British ships assigned to watch them and Commodore McEwen has held many commands in Canada and overseas thereby releasing pressure on Italy and Japan.

Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, commander-in-chief of the German navy has not yet committed himself on his capital ship policy but he is a known advocate of submarine warfare and he may well decide that every surface ship in the fleet can be sacrificed to block an invasion

The effect on Allied naval strategies of an invasion north of the channel will depend largely on the speed with which the disposition of the German naval units at this time.

A landing below the Skaggerak would have little immediate naval effect, beyond the destruction of any Nazi warships that might intervene, but invasion of Norway would imperil every enemy vessel caught north of the landing point and would effectively bottle up every other ship except those in French ports.

Bacon Board Has Been Given Wider Power

Ottawa.—The Canadian bacon board has been reconstituted as a meat board with power to control distribution of all meat, Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced

Mr. Gardiner said in a departmental statement that introduction of meat rationing with its many effect last month might make it necessary to control distribution of all meats as well as bacon and ham, through agreements

It might also be necessary to enter into agreements so that when supplies were plentiful some would be set aside for periods of short supply.

The statement said: "The meat board was to have the responsibility of carrying out all contracts or agreements with respect to the export of meat entered into by the government of Canada with any external governments or agencies of such governments.

"In carrying on its export operations the meat board will act in conformity with agreements reached respecting domestic food supply and prices.

"Personnel of the new b and will be the same as that of the bacon board, which has been operating since December, 1939. It is chaired by Hon. J. G. Taggart Saskatchewan minister of agriculture

The licences and orders issued by the bacon board remain in effect under the reconstituted board.

The order in-council authorizing the change also is defined as any edible product from farm animals whether in fresh or processed form, and any milk products and edible fats

Personnel of the board in addition to Mr. Taggart, is as follows: L. C. McCoust, general agricultural agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal; E. Tod, managing director, packers council, Toronto; Adrien Morin, deputy agriculture minister of Quebec. L. W. Pearsall, assistant director of marketing service in the Dominion agriculture department, is secretary-manager.

NEED SUPERVISORS

Nazis Have To Watch Workers In Big Munitions Plants

London—Patriotic saboteurs have put German production of war weapons in the occupied countries at least 22 per cent. Allied government sources estimated

They said underground reports indicated the saboteurs had destroyed possibly $500,000,000 worth of Nazi machinery and equipment and had forced Germans to use at least 2,000,000 supervisors to guard against their activity

A Czech spokesman said there was one guard for every workers at the big Skoda arms plant and the Belgian and Dutch refugee governments received reports of the wrecking of war plants and systematic destruction of railroads engines and rolling stock

Other reports indicated Germans were fighting unrest among their own people

Foreign sources said the morale of troops stationed on invasion coasts threatened after the Tunisian defeat and many deserters were heading for Sweden Germany was forced to set up concentration camps for mutinous troops, the reports said.

Dr. Dafoe Who Cured For Dionne Quintuplets Is Dead

North Bay—Dr Allan Roy Dafoe, who will go down in the annals of the Dionne quintuplets and cared for them until last year died June 2, in a North Bay hospital He was suffering from pneumonia.

Dr. Dafoe was stricken shortly after he returned from Toronto.

He was known throughout the world as the country Doctor—the name he was called for the Dionne quintuplets when a doctor conceded them any chance of survival after their birth May 28, 1934.

Dafoe remained the quintuplets' physician until last year, when he retired after friction with the quints parents Mr and Mrs. Oliva Dionne He was succeeded by Dr. I. Joyal of North Bay

Tire Deal Fines Four

George Whittle, of Walsh, Alberta, was found guilty of selling used tires when he was not authorized to do so to three other men in Walsh. Whittle was fined a total of $40, $10 on each of the three charges of selling tires as an unauthorized dealer and $10 for selling a used tire as an unidentified birth price.

Each of the three men who purchased a used tire from Whittle was fined $5 and costs for purchasing from an unauthorized dealer. The four were guilty of breaches of orders of the Rubber Controller.

Board of Trade Notes

Attendance at the board of trade luncheon meeting on Wednesday slipped below the 20 mark for the first time since the move was made to the Lower Deck. Apparently some 12 or those who have been attending regularly took the notion to stay away with the result that there were only 18 here. Twenty plates must be paid for, leaving the board in the hole for two meals. The luncheon host president Gerald F. Stephens acted as chairman.

All members who did not turn out are asked to be present on Wednesday next at 12.10.

Mayor Morrison spoke of an aid to Greece drive for funds which will be made in Vermilion very soon, and bespoke for it generous support.

Reporting for the salvage committee of the Lloyd Ashley Cooper stated that some 16 tons of scrap metals, donated by the committee, by the people of the town and country, had been sold through the elevator buying agency, and had netted the sum of $112. Funds received in this way are to turn donated to various war charity and service organizations and disposition will be made shortly.

Great pleasure was expressed by the board of the action by the town council in planting rows of trees along the road to the hospital. It was felt that this was an action that would contribute greatly to the appearance of the town in future years.

Len Kehoe and Reg Spencer were auctioneers at attending luncheons for the first time and the wish expressed that they become regular attendants.

MIGHTY HEN'S EGG

A mighty hen's egg was laid on the Maynard farm at Tofield last week that even "out bigger" the egg that was mentioned a short time ago in this column. This one measured 7 inches by 8½ inches, so was larger or an inch larger. The hens must know that there is a scarcity of shipping space so are putting more egg in one package.

Rain - who says it rain't rain in Alberta! Last week was a complete hold-up as far as seeding operations were concerned. Then Friday and Saturday rains came to make it worse. A few crops have completed their seeding but many yet have coarse grains to seed.

Little Peggy Graham had a couple of her school chums in to her birthday supper after school on Thursday June 3rd. They were Dorothy Baths and George Cruthers.

B.W.B. club meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Osterberg on Wednesday afternoon. A nice crowd attended despite the muddy roads. Not much business was on hand, a number of finished articles were handed in. No sewing material was given out as the order had not yet arrived. Two visitors were present, Cpl. and Mrs. Albert Holte, who every one was very pleased to see again in our corner. After the meeting Mrs. Osterberg served a very tasty lunch which everyone enjoyed. Next meeting is to be at the home of our President Mrs. John Wilson, on Wednesday July 7th. Come one, come all, to that meeting.

A meeting of the telephone committee was held at the school on Friday evening. Owing to the shortage of telephone poles no date was set as to when they will do the usual two day repair work to the line.

Peggy Martin, Triangle, met with a rather painful accident on Saturday evening when the horse she was riding stepped and fell. Peggy was thrown to the ground hurting her shoulder. Billie Smith and his car proved the good Samaritan again by playing through muddy roads to town. She was taken to the doctor and then to the hospital. We really haven't heard what was wrong with her shoulder but wish her a speedy recovery.

Noticed around: Mrs. J Mariner of Thorncliffe and children visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. G. Cruthers on Sunday; Peggy and Bobby Graham visiting George and Gary Cruthers.

Mr. Alf Nichols of Triangle who was bringing his sister out from town Friday evening got stalled in the mud and spent the night at George Wilson's. His sister, who was coming to

NEW PAMPHLETS

When a farmer with a tractor and another owning a combine use their machines jointly, what is the operating cost? And how much should each farmer pay?

These and other questions about calculating equitable charges for the custom use of farm power and machinery are answered in the Dominion Department of Agriculture's publication 749, "Basic Cost Rates for Custom Work Charges". The methods of arriving at basic, operating and labor costs of farm machinery are the result of a 15-year study by the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, and are approved by the Western Agricultural Committee. This recently published circular is available free of charge from the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

FAT IS AMMUNITION!
Fat and bone conservation begins at home and ends in the firing line

- DO YOU KNOW -

One pound of fat supplies enough glycerine to fire 150 bullets from a Bren gun.

Two pounds of fat will fire a burst of 20 cannon shells from a Spitfire or 10 anti-aircraft shells.

Bones produce fat and aircraft glue.

If we saved fat at the rate of one ounce per person per week this would mean 36,000,000 pounds per year, enough to produce 3,600,000 pounds of glycerine for explosives.

OUR FIGHTERS DEPEND ON YOU

"Every householder who delivers to a retail butcher, collector, or Salvage Committee, any rendered or unrendered fats or bones shall be entitled to receive from the person to whom they are delivered 4 cents per pound net weight for rendered fats, and 1 cent per pound for unrendered fats."

The above paragraph is a direct quotation from Order A-642 of The Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

"Rendered fat" means fat melted down and strained to remove solid matter. It includes drippings and strained pan grease resulting from the cooking of meat.

"Unrendered fat" means raw or partially cooked fat free from lean meat and bone, but not fully rendered.

"Bones" means raw or cooked bones of cattle, sheep and hogs.

EVERY OUNCE COUNTS!

SAVE AND STRAIN EVERY DROP TO SPEED VICTORY. SELL IT TO YOUR BUTCHER OR GIVE IT TO YOUR SALVAGE COMMITTEE.

NOTICE TO BUTCHERS, HOTELS, ETC.

You have been mailed a copy of Order A-642. This Order affects operators of hotels, restaurants and other establishments where meals are served. It is of immediate importance to butchers and slaughterers. If your copy has been lost, you can obtain another from the nearest office of The Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY — 1927

June 9, 1927

Heavy rains fell over the district. Crop growth is very rapid.

Big headway has been made on the new municipal skating rink and the huge structure is now fully enclosed. Groups of volunteer workers have been steadily engaged in nailing on boards each evening.

Vermilion's big sports day was June 3. Andy Hallick of Vermilion won the 3-mile Morrison road race with Joe Douglas of Edmonton 2nd. 2000 people saw the finish of the race. Vermilion ball team won the baseball tourney from six entries, the stand on game being a pitching duel between Slim Robertson of Vermilion and Scotty Lee of Vegreville, ending 3-0 for Vermilion.

NEW RULING AFFECTS FARM MEAT SUPPLY

OTTAWA.—Farmers accustomed to having animals killed at an abbatoir and taking the meat home for consumption on the farm or for the use of his neighbors may continue to do so, according to a new ruling of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

This new ruling permits the holder of a valid slaughtering permit to slaughter livestock for the account of any non-permit holding bona fide farmer who resides on his own farm. The farmer will be required to give the slaughterer an undertaking "that the livestock to be slaughtered is the farmer's own livestock and that the meat obtained from the slaughtering of such livestock will be consumed on the farmer's own farm premises or will be sold to other farmers for consumption on their own farm premises."

grace himself with his free leg and the face of the boot of his entangled foot broke allowing that member to be freed. He is able to get around now with the use of crutches.

Rain has held up the work on the land but the grain seems to have sprung up two or three inches during the past week. So if the rain doesn't seem to do us any good, it certainly doesn't do the grain any harm.

Miss Wolters spent the week end at her home in Tofield and had quite a time getting back in the rain on Sunday night. Windshield and lights had to be cleaned off every mile or a while so that she could see her way. Miss Wolters had a pleasant surprise for the children by bringing them some apple blossoms and tamarac flowers on Monday morning.

The Lloydminster Calf Club show was postponed from June 1 to the 9th because of weather conditions. There are over 60 calves in the club. Four competitors entered from the Vermilion district, these being Jean Gould, Alec Dupuis, Billy Gilbert and Gordon Gould. We will be able to tell you all about the show next week.

Henahan Bros. planed the roads horsehouse and certainly made a good job of it. We hope the rain won't spoil them again.

Letters have been received by the Morrison War Workers League from Lawrence Gould and Ronald Playter. They are very busy and enjoying their work but both would like to be back in Alberta The league meeting was postponed from June 2 to June

PROPER LUBRICATION IS ESSENTIAL TO STEPPED-UP PROGRAM OF PRODUCTION

The big problem of the Canadian farmer, today, is not where can I dispose of my farm produce but, how can I produce still greater volume? Every farmer knows that he could sell far more food than he produces. For, the demand for foodstuffs, both here and overseas, is increasing. Intensified methods and increased efforts seem to be the only answer but, in order to do this every piece of machinery used on the farm must be kept up to par. In order to do this, proper lubrication is a first essential. For, proper lubrication is the farmer's first wall of defence against friction and wear. Without proper lubrication, his farm equipment will soon be on the scrap heap or in the shed for repairs. And, every farmer knows that in these days, loss of farm equipment means a serious set back to any programme of stepped up food production. There are many outstanding lubricants on the market. In fact, there is a right type of lubricant for every piece of farm equipment in use. And, farmers should keep an adequate supply on hand. To assist farmers, not only in the selection, but to assure prompt delivery McColl-Frontenac Oil Company Limited has a representative in this district who is prepared to advise farmers on the operation and preservation of farm machinery.

Defence Headquarters Denies Reports

OTTAWA.—National Defence Headquarters at Ottawa has denied reports that Canadian soldiers serving overseas for more than two years are being permitted to return to Canada on leave. After receiving numerous enquiries from wives, relatives and friends of soldiers overseas, Headquarters stated that no such arrangement exists and none is contemplated at present.

A relatively small number of men return from overseas each year, some on escort duty and others for discharge owing to medical reasons. Only a very small number are granted compassionate leave.

Clandonald Red Cross News

The regular monthly meeting of the Branch has been postponed and will be held on Thursday, June 17th.

A cheque for $500 was recently sent from the Branch to Provincial Headquarters. This for the second year in succession the Branch has doubled the amount of its quota for the National Appeal.

LUNCH ROOM NEEDED

The following notice has come to hand from the Divisional Commissioner: All monies raised by Junior branches of the Red Cross Society should be sent direct to the Provincial office. Junior funds are used for the following work—Junior Red Cross Crippled Children's hospital; Parnell Hall Nursery, Richmond, England; National Junior Red Cross War fund; Local summer camps.

Officers of Junior branches are requested not to send any funds to this or any other Senior branch, but to send them direct to the Provincial Junior Department.

RED CROSS BADGES

It is the aim of the Red Cross Society to protect its distinctive emblem from commercialized use. Jewellers are asked to note that no piece of jewellery with the Red Cross on it should ever be sold to an individual without the sanction of the Central Council of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

YOU MUST MAKE A 1942 INCOME TAX RETURN NOT LATER THAN JUNE 30TH

...IF SINGLE and your net income exceeded $660
MARRIED and your net income exceeded $1200

For incomes not over $3000 get two (2) copies of simplified Form T. 1 Special.
For incomes over $3000 get three (3) copies of Form T. 1 General.

Income Tax dollars are not ordinary dollars . . . they are Victory dollars . . . necessary dollars to help win the war. Income Tax is fair to all. All are taxed in proportion to their ability to pay.

Under the new system introduced this year, Income Tax is now on a pay-as-you-earn basis. The reduction of the 1942 Tax made this possible.

In most cases the larger part of the reduced tax will have been paid by the 1942 tax deductions or instalment payments. One-third of any balance must be paid by 30th June and the remainder on or before 31st December, 1943.

You must file an Income Tax return and pay any balance to establish your right, after the war, to the refund of the Savings Portion of your tax.

If you are a salary or a wage earner, your employer can probably supply you with Income Tax Forms—otherwise, they are available at your local Post Office or the office of your District Inspector of Income Tax.

Over 2,000,000 Canadians will be filing returns and paying taxes . . . avoid the last minute rush. If you wait, illness or other unforeseen circumstances may prevent you from getting your return in on time. Avoid penalties by sending in your return NOW!

FARMERS

You must attach to your return on Form T. 1 Special or Form T. 1 General either a statement of your gross income and expenses, or completed Farmers T. 1 Supplemental. The T. 1 Supplemental includes all forms of farm receipts and expenses, and is a guide for determining your actual net income. Forms may be secured from your local Post Office or District Inspector of Income Tax.

To help you fill out your Income Tax forms a booklet ("Farmers' Income Tax Guide, 1942") has been prepared to cover the questions which apply to farm operations. It can be obtained free on request from your District Inspector. If you don't know his address, just mail your letter to "District Inspector of Dominion Income Tax."

1943 Calgary Exhibition, Stampede Will Be Canada's Greatest Show

Plans are rapidly nearing completion for the 55th celebration of the annual Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, July 5 to 10. All features of this great event will again be presented, along with many added new attractions.

The show this year has been dedicated to "Quality Food Production for Victory and Freedom" and it will mirror the Canadian War Effort, particularly in the field of Livestock and Agricultural products. The Livestock exhibit is expected to be one of the finest in many years with a very large entry anticipated. The horse show, in keeping with the times, will probably be the largest ever held in Canada. On display in the spacious cattle pavilion will be an outstanding exhibit of "keystone" of breed improvement.

The biggest Stampede in the world, with 500 cowboys competing in the hair-raising events, will again feature the afternoon performances. Horse races, with seven races daily will intersperse the program on the last four days. Wednesday to Saturday. Monday and Tuesday afternoons will be filled with the most thrilling collection of Western Sports ever presented, along with the Stampede on those [illegible] the track events will consist [illegible] of Roman Standing Races, Pony [illegible] Races, Stake Tarafug Races and Cow Horse Races. Calgary has long been famous for its exciting Chuck Wagon Races held each evening in front of the Grandstand. These afternoon attractions are expected to challenge the thrills of the Chuck Wagons.

The glorious week will begin with the Stampede Parade on Monday morning at 10 a.m., for which Big Annual Services are again co-operating to display Canada's mighty forces of war. Indians, cowboys and old timers will join the Services to present one of the finest spectacles ever assembled. The Indians will again come to the Exhibition for their annual holiday and will camp in their picturesque surroundings at the grounds. On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights Seven Street Displays will be presented in downtown Calgary. The Old Timers will again entertain all their old friends in the [illegible] of members of their old log cabin.

The evening attraction on the grandstand platform is entitled "Alice Victorious", and will combine clever comedy and mirthful music in the most attractive presentation ever staged on the 5 circuit. Each evening the grandstand performance will be opened with the thrilling Chuck Wagon Races. Already over 30 entries have been received for this event, the greatest entry for many years, and thrills and spills will be the result for at least five heats each night. Saturday evening the Indians will parade on the platform in their colorful costumes and Stampede Championships will be presented to the top cowboys of the week. Five works will be presented on Monday and Saturday evenings, and will undoubtedly be the greatest display presented in Canada this year.

The All Canadian Midway, "Frolic Land", with many new rides and shows will be in Calgary again for the week of July 5th to 10th, and will do its part in providing entertainment and relaxation for the public generally, and the members of the Armed Services stationed in the West.

DEPARTING AIRMAN HONORED BY FRIENDS

A farewell party was given in honor of Robert J. McGinnis, who left for Edmonton to commence training in the R.C.A.F. as an airframe mechanic. The party was held at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. William McGinnis, Vermilion. Four lovely gifts were presented with best wishes from his friends and relatives.

Those attending the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. W. McGinnis, Mr. and Mrs. C. Nels, Mary Munk, Vickie Blake, Vera Hilsdebrandt, Carl Thomasser, Evelyn McGinnis, George Wilkinson, Bill Simmons, Gerald Ommess, Ivy Simmons, Norman Harris, Everett Beacock, Edward McGinnis, Wanda Thera.

BRIDE ELECT FETED

A very delightful shower was held at the home of Mrs. Alex Shand, Claymore, in honor of Miss Margaret Whitern, a bride-elect of the month. Margaret was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts and responded with a most pleasing speech, expressing gratitude for the thoughtfulness and kindness shown her. A dainty lunch, served by the hospitable hostess brought a very pleasant afternoon to a close.

We live in a world today where co-operation is essential. No one of us is complete and sufficient in himself. We are dependent upon many people for our daily existence—for food, shelter, heat, light and a host of things. Trying to co-operate in the world of today without a knowledge of Christian principles is like putting on a show of manners without having the foundation of kindness that makes these manners real. Learn of these Christian principles. Go to church and Sunday school this Sunday and every Sunday.

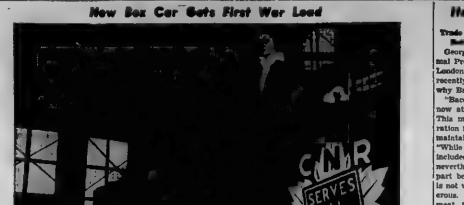
How Box Car Gets First War Load



This car, one of 2,000 new box cars being built for the Canadian National Railways to handle the increasing volume of war traffic over the lines of the National System, is shown above at the plant of National Railway Munitions Limited being loaded with naval guns manufactured at this subsidiary of the Canadian National Railways. The car bears the new maple leaf design with the System slogan. The big crane handling the gun being placed in the car is operated by Noella Beaudet. Inset is close-up of Miss Beaudet operating the crane. There are seven girls working as crane operators in this big war plant.

The box in which the naval gun is encased for travel is a special product of the Canadian National Railways Montreal wood mill shop. The box is of unusual design with interior bracing to hold the gun rigid firmly in place, while on the exterior steel pieces strengthen the carrier and provide loops to enable crane hooks to take hold when transferring to and from the freight cars at terminals.

Trade Commissioner Tells Why Bacon Is Thicker

George R. Paterson, Canadian Animal Products Trade Commissioner in London, England, who was in Ottawa recently, made some observations on why Britain wants lean bacon.

"Bacon production in Canada is now at the highest point on record. This may enable the 4-ounce bacon ration for the people of Britain to be maintained," said Mr. Paterson. "While the British bacon ration is not included in the general meat ration, nevertheless it is a very important part because the official meat ration is not what might be considered generous. It consists of an amount of meat to the value of 26 cents per week with average weight of slightly more than one pound. The additional food provided by four ounces of bacon should consequently contain as high a percentage of animal protein as is found in any good, lean meat.

"While there is a comparative shortage of fats in Britain there are more economical ways of providing fat than by shipping it in the form of fat bacon.

"Though it is important to provide the quantity of bacon requested by Britain from Canada—675,000,000 pounds this year—it is equally important that the hogs producing this bacon for Britain should not be overfed—or in excess of a weight of 220 lb. live weight when marketed."

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

UNPASTEURIZED MILK

The regrettable death of Ethel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, at the age of 49, after a short illness with undulant fever, proves once again that disease is impartial as to whom it strikes down. It shows that even those who may be assumed to have the best of medical care cannot afford to take a chance on raw milk and milk products.

Somewhere, somehow, this wealthy industrialist, who was probably meticulous about his diet and generally enjoyed a protected life, was infected with the organism responsible for Bang's disease in cattle, which is transmitted to humans in unpasteurized milk, butter and cheese. Bang's disease, also known to cattle men as contagious abortion, is prevalent in various parts of Canada. It can be eradicated in the same way that tuberculosis is, by testing all cattle herds and removing diseased animals.

The danger of infection of humans is particularly grave in summer, when people who are ordinarily careful about their milk supply and live in communities where pasteurization is enforced, go for vacation to summer resorts, beaches, farms, or other places where milk is sold raw. The same danger besets young people who go to the farms to help out in the busy labor emergency.

While milk is a body-builder and a necessary food, it is a potential killer in its raw state. Vaccinations should boil their milk if it has not been pasteurized. It is better to drink no milk at all than the raw product.

Not only undulant fever, but also tuberculosis, typhoid, scarlet fever, diphtheria and septic sore throat organisms are transmitted in raw milk and milk products.

The Health League of Canada is urging the other Canadian Provinces to follow Ontario's example by ordering compulsory pasteurization of all milk sold in urban centres. When that is done, a large part of the country's population, both rich and poor, will be protected against milk-borne diseases. That these diseases continue to take a considerable toll of life and sickness is due only to the willingness of the people to suffer them. They are all preventable.

It is exceptional to find birds one mile above the earth, and only a few are found at 2,000 feet, according to aviators.

Fighting T.B.

Saskatchewan To X-Ray All Indians On Reserves

Regina, Sask.—X-ray of Indians in every reserve in Saskatchewan has been started by the Department of Indian Affairs in an effort to find and treat all tuberculosis cases among them.

M. Christianson, superintendent of Indian affairs at Regina, said, "It is the intention of the department that every Indian man, woman and child be X-rayed."

As tuberculosis among the white population of Saskatchewan is being eradicated, there have been complaints that the Indian reservations have remained "pools of infection," endangering the white population living near the reserves. The Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League has already demonstrated that tuberculosis among the Indians can be wiped out as well as among white people, which it had to prove a number of years ago.

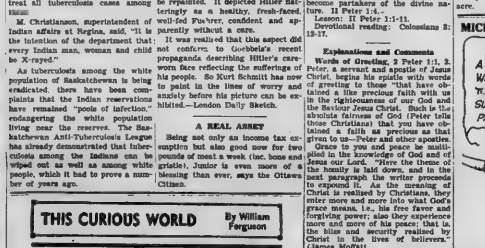
Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. "Because of the slowness of the mails delivery of our patterns may take a few days longer than usual."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson



JUST NAMES

"Tep," says Uncle Hiram, "when a feller has to know the botanical name of what he raises, the synthetical name of his fertilizer, the entomological name of the bugs that eat it, the pharmaceutical name of what he sprays on it, and the profanical name of what he gets for it—well, it's time to do some figuring and see what it costs a man to live."

SHOULD BE BRANDED

Meat is to be stamped, to discourage the "black market." It's a pity, says the Ottawa Journal, those who sell—and buy—on the black market couldn't be stamped also. A large "C" (for Chamber) in indelible ink in the middle of the forehead would be most appropriate.

Must Look Careworn

So Nazi Artist Must Retouch Record Portrait Of Hitler

A new portrait of Hitler, painted by the Nazi artist Kurt Schmitt, which was to have been shown in a Berlin gallery in May, was withdrawn—to be repainted. It depicted Hitler flatteringly as a healthy, fresh-faced, well-fed Fuehrer, confident and apparently without a care.

It was realized that this aspect did not conform to Goebbels's recent propaganda describing Hitler's careworn face reflecting the sufferings of his people. So Kurt Schmitt has now to paint in the lines of worry and anxiety before his picture can be exhibited.—London Daily Sketch.

A REAL ARREST

Being not only an income tax exemptico but also good now for two pounds of meat a week (inc. bone and gristle), Junior is even more of a blessing than ever, says the Ottawa Citizen.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JUNE 13

EDITH KERSHAW, D.C.E. GENERAL SECRETARY PUBLISHED

Golden text: He hath granted unto us his precious and exceeding great promises: that through these we may become partakers of the divine nature. II Peter 1:4.

Lesson: II Peter 1:1-11.

Devotional reading: Colossians 3: 12-17.

Explanations and Comments

Words of Greeting, 2 Peter 1:1, 2. Peter, a servant and apostle of Jesus Christ, begins his epistle with words of greeting to those "that have obtained like precious faith with us" in the righteousness of our God and the Saviour Jesus Christ. Such is the absolute fairness of God (Peter tells those Christians) that you have obtained a faith as precious as that given to us—Peter and other apostles.

Grace to you and peace be multiplied in the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord. "Here the theme of the homily is laid down, and in the next paragraph the writer proceeds to expound it. As the meaning of Christ is realized by Christians, they enter more and more into what God's grace means, i.e., his free favor and forgiving power; also they experience more and more of his peace; that is, the bliss and security realised by Christ in the lives of believers." (James Moffatt.

God's Exceeding Great Promises, 2 Peter 1:3, 4. Inasmuch as his power divine has bestowed on us every requisite for life and piety by the knowledge of him who called us to his own glory and excellence—by-stowing on us the most precious promises and supreme, that by means of them you may escape the corruption produced within the world by lust, and participate in the divine nature (Moffatt's translation).

"Those who have the true knowledge of God and Christ, in contrast with the false knowledge paraded by those whom the author opposes, have been completely endowed with the capacity to live a truly godly life. This gift has been obtained only through the knowledge of Christ, of divine power itself. Not by their own virtue or right, but through the favor of heaven, have believers acquired this privilege. It insures escape from condemnation for past sins and also a genuine transformation of the human heart, so that he now possesses a truly divine nature. This change has made possible escape from the corrupting life of the flesh, and an elevation of experience to a purer and higher plane where worldly lusts no longer have power over the Christian."

God's promises are sure. The value of a promise depends upon the ability and willingness of the promise-maker to fulfil. Abraham was fully persuaded that what God promised he was able to perform, declares Paul (Rom. 4:21), and in the letter to the Hebrews (10:23) it is said "he is faithful that promised."

It is estimated that in the production of parts for one torpedo, workers perform about 20,000 separate operations.

CHAPTER VI.

"GUILLERMO—William—Wilhelm." Tio Pancho wagged his unkempt head. "Don Felix could be a Nazi agent. Those Germans are usually fond of music."

Morgan nodded agreement. "In spite of the care I exercised, Guillermo knows or suspects that I am an American undercover agent. That is why he seized the opportunity to create an international crisis by murdering Col. Velasquez."

"But," Rosita touched the papers beside the lamp, "how did Don Felix know that Uncle Miguel would have these maps and papers on his person?"

"Those papers did not come from Col. Velasquez," smiled Morgan. "Espionage is a dirty business, señorita. Every nation knows the secrets of the other. Rest assured, if Guillermo is an agent of Germany, he has all the supposedly secret maps and war plans of Argentina he needs."

"Ld. Morgan," said Esteban Velasquez, "International Secret Service is a dirty business, and you are a part of it. Your story is interesting, but—how do we know that you speak the truth?"

"Take me to Capt. Rojas. The fingerprints on the cocktail glass will have been photographed by this time. Rojas will tell you that I am guiltless of Col. Velasquez's death. In fact, the real killer, Senor Verde, is probably under arrest now."

Young Velasquez frowned. "We cannot take that chance. The only fingerprints should prove to be yours——"

"Esteban," Rosita's dark eyes moved from Morgan to her brother, "we must give Lt. Morgan his chance. Too—you could return to the Casa Grande. As Uncle Miguel's nephew it would be natural for you to question Capt. Rojas. If the lieutenant's story is true, the police will tell you what the fingerprints revealed."

"Bueno," approved Tio Pancho. "Rosita and I shall watch the American until you return."

"Very well." Esteban yielded. "But I insist that this fellow be tied up before I leave you alone with him. Pancho can still use a knife. I know, but his old joints are a bit stiffer than they used to be."

IT WAS Rosita who broke the long silence that ensued after Esteban had departed. "I am sorry, Senor Morgan," she apologized, "that you should have died in such an uncomfortable position."

"I do not mind." Morgan assured her pleasantly. "The fact that you have sent Esteban back to the Casa Grande indicates that, whether you know it or not, you are inclined to believe my story. I consider that the best piece of luck that has come my way since I have been in Buenos Aires."

His good humor was infectious. "What you say is correct, senor," Rosita admitted with a smile. "You are sworn, I hope, that the great mass of Argentine people admire the Americans, and it would grieve me to learn that the United States would countenance the things of which you seem to be guilty."

"My reason is more personal." he said, "There is nothing like individual friendships to create national amity. I gather that you and your brother are a dancing team at the Cafe Blanco. After this mess is cleaned up, you'll find me in a ringside seat every time you do your act for the rest of my stay."

"You will not be wasting your time, Americano," Tio Pancho declared positively. "The tango, as danced by Rosita, and Esteban——"

He paused. From the alley without had come the sound of an automobile, the motor roaring to such an extent that it seemed the car was passing the house at top speed. But there came a screaming of brakes directly in front of the cottage. "Tio Pancho tilted his head. "It is Esteban."

"No." Rosita rose quickly, to face the door somewhat apprehensively. "Esteban has not had time——"

"Then it is the friends of the American!" Tio Pancho's hand found his dagger once more. "It was a trick—to send Esteban away——"

BUT before the stevedore could reach Morgan with the knife, the door flew open and Esteban Velasquez dashed into the room, slowing only when he perceived that Rosita and Pancho were present, and that Morgan was still roped to the chair.

"Thank God!" he exclaimed fervently, the anxiety and alarm vanishing from his face. "I thought—I feared I would be too late!"

"What happened?" asked Rosita. "Didn't you go to the Casa Grande?"

"Yes," nodded Esteban. "And I drove like mad to get back here before this scoundrel could have gone. Sending me to the hotel was a subterfuge—nothing more!"

He was glaring at Chris Morgan with a malevolence that puzzled the American. Something was wrong. If, as Esteban claimed, he had been to the Grand Hotel, he should have returned smilingly instead of with a mien more hostile than before. "You saw Capt. Rojas, senor?" Morgan asked.

"I did!" Esteban nodded again. "What did you hope to gain, you murderer, by your lies. If you did not make some effort to escape during the confusion——"

"Esteban!" cried Rosita. "You think—Ld. Morgan lied to us?"

Esteban nodded heavily. "He is also a murderer. Not only did he kill Uncle Miguel, but he also killed Senor Diaz."

Morgan shook his head. "You have been misinformed, senor. Diaz? I know no Senor Diaz."

"Diaz is the fingerprint expert who has a mania for collecting. He had the glass in his pocket when the police found you were sheltering him."

"But—you can see that he is our prisoner——"

"No, senor." Don Felix shook his head. "Allow me to correct you. It was he who had to tie Morgan to that chair after we surprised the four of you." He peered over his shoulder at Rosita, to be the nearest phone and call Capt. Rojas. Inform him that we have captured the——"

"Accomplices!" echoed Esteban. "You mean——"

Guillermo shrugged ironically. "Why not? I believed, senor, but that the ungrateful nephew and niece of Col. Velasquez schemed with the police to do did not interfere with police that you were sheltering him."

"But—you can see that he is our prisoner——"

"No, senor." Don Felix shook his head. "Allow me to correct you. It was he who had to tie Morgan to that chair after we surprised the four of you." He peered over his shoulder at Rosita, to be the nearest phone and call Capt. Rojas. Inform him that we have captured the——"

Protein For Chicks

Can Be Home-Produced If Commercial Feeds Not Available

Where prepared commercial feeds or concentrates are not available in sufficient quantities as chick starters, home mixed feeds should be used, state poultry officials of Dominion Department of Agriculture. There, is grains and chicks can be successfully started on grains' ...ion supplemented by home produced protein foods.

Hard boiled infertile eggs mixed with bread crumbs or ground grains have given a start to many fine brood of chicks. Sour milk curd treated in the same way makes an excellent feed and even where the supply of milk is too limited to permit making curd, the milk may be used to moisten the grains, and a supply kept at hand for chicks to drink. Animal or fish offal may be boiled and the soup and solids may be mixed with ground grains to carry the chicks over the startin' period, after which they can get along on grains and good green range.

When it is necessary to follow those methods, care should be taken to feed only what the chicks can eat in a short time; any feed left after half an hour's feeding should be removed. With this method of feeding, chicks should be fed four to six times daily. Chicks should be allowed outside where they can get all the green feed and sunshine possible. Early in the season, vitamin fish oil should be included in the ration.

A 1,000,000-volt X-ray machine has had a change of duty because of the war. It is used to detect flaws in gun-turret castings.

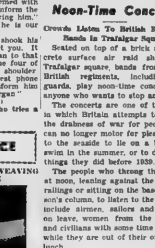
HOME SERVICE

LEARN THE ART OF WEAVING IN YOUR HOME



Weaving Is Fun

In wartime there are shortages especially in the manufacture of good yarns, why don't you learn how to weave and make your own materials?

You'll also be helping the war effort by not using manufactured materials which need plenty of valuable man-power as well as material.

Weaving is easy, not difficult to learn, either. In fact it is quite enjoyable because it is a rhythmic handiwork. It is soothing to taut nerves. It also brings pleasure because it gives full creative urge to whit!

Human weaving can be as intricate and delicate as a spider's or as simple and sturdy as a beaver's. You can use equipment as complex as a textile mills or as simple as a kindergartner's.

Our 32 page booklet gives you all the necessary information for weaving various materials from rugs to purses and what materials to use for each.

Send 10c in coins for your copy of "How to Weave Useful Novelties to Home Service Dept. Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name address and the name of booklet

Noon-Time Concerts

Crowds Listen To British Regiment Bands In Trafalgar Square

Seated on top of a brick and concrete surface air raid shelter in Trafalgar square, bands from crack British regiments, including the guards, play noon-time concerts for anyone who wants to stop and listen.

The concerts are one of the ways in which Britain attempts to relieve the dullness of war for people who can no longer motor for pleasure, go to the seaside to lie on a beach or swim in the summer, or to dozens of things they did before 1939.

The people who throng the square at noon, leaning against the concrete railings or sitting on the base of Nelson's column, to listen to the concerts include farmers, sailors and soldiers on leave, women from the services and civilians with some time to spare while they are out of their offices for lunch.

The most noticeable thing about them is that they listen with attentive faces and generally prefer soft music to the sprightlier pieces. The bandmaster has a perfect way of gauging his audience's reaction by the number of people who drift away after each piece. The audiences rarely include more than a few officers.

Lucky For People

Shells In Ulster Stopped Egg Shipments For Some Time

There was a real field day when a strike stopped egg shipments from Ulster to Britain. There was such a vast accumulation of eggs that British Food Ministry officials decided to release some for immediate consumption rather than let them go stale. Most people are lucky if they get an egg a month but Belfast dealers were allowed to exceed the ration and thousands went home with a dozen eggs—in some cases grocers allocated six eggs per person.

PIONEER MANVILLE LADY PASSES AWAY

Mrs. J. E. Williams Was Well Well Known Here

There passed away in Manville on May 27th a pioneer lady who was very well known in Vermilion, in the person of Mrs J. E. Williams, who made her home here for quite a number of years and her many old friends are grieved at her passing.

The deceased was a true pioneer of the west, coming to the Chailey district north of Manville in the old homesteading days of 1905. This was before the railway had reached these parts and the trek in was made by team. She was a member of Christ Anglican church, being a helper at the building of the first Anglican church in Manville. she was also president of the first women's auxiliary formed there.

Left to mourn her loss are four sons, Gordon of Vermilion, Albert of Manville, Richard of His Majesty's army, Grande Prairie, and Frank of Lloydminster. There are fourteen grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Her only daughter Mrs. J. Crooks of Calgary predeceased her in 1941 and one son Stephen was killed in 1916 in the World War.

Funeral services were held on sunday May 30, interment taking place in the Manville cemetery.

DEATH AND FUNERAL OF MRS. MARY ALCHIN

Mrs Mary Alchin, well known resident of the Mannhan district for many years, passed away in the Vermilion hospital on May 28, 1943 after a short illness

Mrs. Alchin was born at Uxbridge, Ont. on April 5, 1867. She came west in the summer of 1907, settling in the Maughan district where she has resided ever since

Left to mourn the loss of a loving wife and mother are her sorrowing husband Mr. Harold Alchin, three daughters, Olive, Annie and Mildred, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at Otisco on June 4 and interment took place in the Otisco cemetery. The Rev. L. G. Sieber officiated.

The pall-bearers were R. Maughan, Maughan, H. Brooks, J. Maxwell, L. Young and L. Fisher.

Beautiful floral offerings were received from:

The Family; Mr. and Mrs. Ward; H. Alchin; Friends and Neighbors. J. Waring had charge of arrangements.

ETHELWYN LADY PASSES AWAY THURSDAY LAST

Sudden Death of Mrs. Charles B. Skrenkowach

The district of Ethelwyn was shocked by the sudden death of Fannie Skrenkowach, beloved wife of Chas. B. Skrenkowach, on Thursday, June 3rd. Death took place at the family home after a very short illness.

The deceased was born on October 9th, 1897, and came to Canada on July 11, 1926. On March 2, 1926 she was married at St Edouard, Alberta coming to Ethelwyn with her husband where she has lived since.

Left to mourn her loss are her sorrowing husband, eight stepchildren and three children, Helen 4 years, Pauline 2 years and Eleanor 11 months old

Funeral services were on Saturday, June 5th at the Roman Catholic church Clandonald, and interment followed in the Clandonald Roman Catholic cemetery

Pall bearers were B.P. Good, Oliver Gobbsmith, Jim Broadbin, Amyre McClellan, Pat Mulrew, Hugh Lucas.

1½ POUNDS OF FAT ADMISSION TO SHOW

To Be Held in Columbia Theatre

Boys and girls of the town and district — start saving the household's rendered fats now, as a show will be given at the Columbia theatre early in July wherein the admission will be the pounds of rendered fat. The fat is to be taken to any one of the three butcher shops in town and a ticket to the show will be given to you. Watch for a complete announcement later—but start saving your fat now.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Wiebe were Edmonton visitors this week where they attended the wedding of Miss Genevieve Krebbe and Jack H. Mearch.

The W. A. of St. Saviour's church will hold a strawberry social in the Memorial hall on Thursday June 17, from 3 to 6 p.m. Everybody welcome.

RESIDENCES CHANGE HANDS

Property continues changing hands at a rapid rate in Vermilion, many lots are being sold as well as improved property changing hands.

Real estate deals completed during the past week included the sale of the Leigh Tyner residence on the location street to Alvin E. Payne. Mr. Payne and family have recently moved here from Stettler. Possession of the property will be taken some time in July. Mr. Tyner has rented a house in the east end of town where he will reside temporarily.

Another transaction of interest is the sale by Norman Lang of his house on Alberta avenue to Mrs. A. Hildreth of Wildmere. Mrs. Hildreth is leaving the farm owing to the fact that both her husband and son are in the armed services. The new owner will take possession on July 1 and Mr. and Mrs. Lang and family are taking a suite in the Ducey block.

Stagette Notes

The closing business meeting of the stagette social club will be in the club room on Tuesday June 8th.

The business of the past year was reviewed and plans discussed for the annual Stagette convention which is to be held in Saskatoon the first part of September.

A sum of money was donated to the Greek Relief fund.

The local Red Shield has given a donation to the stagette club for the Maidstone St. school in London. This with the amount that the local club has been able to raise this year through the generous support of Vermilion and district citizens will go a long way in helping the newly bombed children in London.

BOOKS TO READ

"The Book of Small" by Emily Carr

Here is a book you'll should read, whether you're old or young. It is by Miss Emily Carr who lives in Victoria, B.C. and who is a great Canadian painter in her own right. She has already written a best seller — Klee Wyck" the story of her days among the Indians of Vancouver Island.

But this is about a little girl, one of three sisters, nick-named Jigger, Middle and Small. Bigger was a garden child, starched and clean; Middle was the motherly type, with her big doll families; Small was wholly a run yard child.

And this spirited account of Small's adventures in the cow yard and elsewhere will give you chuckles after chuckle; you may shed a sympathetic tear or two over childhood's world-shaking calamities. But Small was a creature of fun.

Such titles as "White Currants", "The Schism", "The Praying Chair" and "British Columbia Nightingale" will give you a glimpse of the piquant episodes in Small's saga. The last half of the book deals with the early growth of Victoria, which has been called "a bit of England transplanted". The building of the Empress hotel on the stinking mud flats of the Old Harbour is a romance in miniature. Many such bits of Canadiana are sprinkled through the book.

But the chief character in this book is Small herself. When you have read the story of the Bishop and the Canary, you will begin to understand her nature, and before long you will have realized that Small is but the quanta edition of that great Canadian, Miss Emily Carr herself.

VERMILION DOCTOR PROMOTED TO MAJOR

Captain Colin D.L. Cromar, specialist Surgeon of the Army Reception Centre in Military District No. 13 has been promoted to the rank of Major it was announced at military headquarters in Calgary today.

Major Cromar was appointed to the R.C.A.M.C. in August 1942 and previous to his appointment practised at Vermilion for a few months. He is a graduate of the University of Aberdeen, Scotland and Edinburgh where he obtained the degrees of M.B., Ch. B. and F.R.C.S. He attended Mayo Brothers Clinic at Rochester, Minn., from 1938 to 1941 and obtained his M.S. in Surgery from the University of Minnesota in April 1942.

Saddle and Hunter Classes At the Vermilion Exhibition

For the past several years a thoroughbred stallion has been stationed in the Vermilion district under the sponsorship of the Vermilion Thoroughbred Association and the Edmonton District Thoroughbred Association. The stallion has been mated with cold blooded mares and, as a result, there are in the area a large number of grade horses which are eligible to compete in the special saddle and saddle and hunter classes at Vermilion Fair, July 29, 30 and 31.

All who have such horses are invited to enter in one or more of the many classes which will appear in the 1943 Prize List.

For the Hunter type horse there is an open class in which the horse that performs the jump best will be declared the winner, despite conformation. Riders may use any kind of saddle or may ride bareback if they so desire.

It is regretted that running races will not be held, owing to the scarcity of this type of horse, but every person who has a Hunter or a Saddle horse is cordially invited to assist in making these classes a most interesting feature of the Fair.

The list appears below and it will be noted that lady riders are given several optional classes; there is also scope for members of the C.W.A.C.

Study the list, bring in your entry and help put the light horse section of Vermilion Fair the equal to that of any Fair on the Western Circuit.

Drilling has been completed on Cannar wells No. 2 and No. 4 and these wells are now cemented. Production data is being done on Cannar 2, with similiar operations to follow on Cannar No. 1.

LEGION TO URGE CEMETERY IMPROVEMENT

Members of the local branch of the Canadian Legion are having a bee to improve the soldiers' Plot at the local cemetery and will urge on the Town council the necessity of definite action being taken and sustained with respect to making the cemetery more in keeping with 'tis purpose.

The lack of interest on the part of many who have loved ones interred in the cemetery is most regrettable and it is hoped that steps may be taken to insure a reasonable degree of maintenance for this sacred place

VERMILION DEANERY BOYS' CAMP JULY 21-28

A Deanery Boys' camp is to be held at Sarcan Lake, midway between Myrnam and Derwent, from July 21 to 28. All boys from eleven to seventeen years of age are invited to attend. Activities will include games, athletics and swimming. Devotional periods will be conducted by the Clergy of the Deanery. It is the hope of the organizers that parents will co-operate with them to enable their sons to enjoy the opportunities of spiritual and physical development offered by a Church camp. Details may be obtained from the Clergy, or from the Ruridecanal Secretary, Clandonald Vicarage.

ANOTHER CAR SCRAP FROM SHIPPED BY ELEVATORS

Another huge car of salvage scrap iron, containing 72,130 pounds, was loaded here last week and shipped to Edmonton. This was salvage scrap purchased through the elevators here and for which Norman J. Greig is the buying agent. This shipment makes a grand total of 254,280 pounds of scrap metals which have been purchased and shipped for National Salvage from Vermilion.

A shower a day seems to be the order of the westherman. Little real summer heat has been experience.

CANADIAN LEGION SPONSORS GREEK RELIEF DRIVE

At its regular meeting on Monday last the local Post of the Canadian Legion undertook the organization and conduct of the Vermilion District drive for the Greek Relief fund; it is hoped that they will meet the same ready response as was the case when they successfully conducted the Russian Relief fund several months ago.

All desiring to make contributions to this most worthy fund may do so at the office of S.C. Heckbert, the Northern Hardware Co. or to any member of the committee. The drive will begin within a few days and must be completed within two weeks.

AIR CADETS LEAVE TO JOIN THE R.C.A.F.

Honored by Friends Prior To Departure

On Friday evening June 4 a surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. L. Partridge for Air Cadets Everett Beacock and Norman Harris. About 45 young people gathered to wish the boys good luck and a really fine time was enjoyed.

Jean Corley presented each boy with a number of gifts from "the gang" and other well wishers. Each gift was opened and Everett and Norman thanked everyone for the presents, the good wishes and the good time. A delicious lunch was served at the close of the evening.

Everett Beacock, son of Mrs. Viola Beacock and the late Eber Beacock, is a well known member of the town's young people and has been a leading member of the Air Cadets. He now goes into the R.C.A.F. with all the benefits of the preliminary cadet training. He enlisted on June 7th and is stationed at No. 3 Manning Pool, Edmonton.

Norman Harris, also a member of the Air Cadets, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Harris. He is not quite old enough for the R.C.A.F. yet but intends wording in Edmonton until he is. He has been keenly interested in Air Cadet work and has made some very wonderful aircraft models.

See that your Sub. is paid ahead!

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS AVAILABLE FOR FARM WORK DURING HOLIDAYS

Farmers Advised To Apply Now

High school boys are available in Edmonton for farm work during the summer holidays. Farmers needing help would be well advised to apply for these lads. After a few weeks training they will be useful for harvest work. If the boys are not assigned to farmers by July 1st they will be allowed to take jobs in industry.

Apply to your municipal secretary or to E. H. Buckingham, district agriculturist, Vermilion.

Mr. Buckingham is also taking applications for farm laborers for haying, summer work and permanent employment.

FAST BALL LEAGUE UNDERWAY

Three Teams Entered — Games Played Tuesday and Thursday Evenings

The Vermilion Fastball league is well underway now and games are played tentatively every Tuesday and Thursday evening. Two diamonds are being used, one at the public school and the other at the C.W.A.C. barracks.

At present the high school boys are topping the league, having won all four of their games with no losses. Second in the standing is the Firemen's team with 2 wins and 2 defeats. The Army boys have won 1 and lost 2.

The schedule or games for the next week is as follows:

Thurs. June 17—V.H.S. vs. Army at Public school;
Tues. June 22—V.H.S. vs. Firemen at Public school;
Thurs. June 24—Firemen vs. Army at Army barracks.

The schedule has been slowed down due to wet weather but from now on games should be played regularly

Attendance at the games is considerably less than in previous years and this should not be as the play is faster than ever.

Let's have a good turn out at the next game fans and really put some life into the league.

FREE SHOW FOR CHILDREN HERE ON FRIDAY, JULY 16th

Admission Is 1½ Pounds of Fat

A free show for all school children and those younger than school age is being presented at the Columbia theatre on Friday July 16. Two complete programs will be run starting at 2:30 and 4:30.

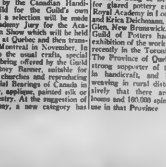
The admission ticket is obtain'd in this manner—Each child will take 1½ pounds or rendered fats to any one of the three meat markets in Vermilion, Bailey's, Craig's, Davies', and exchange the fat for an admission ticket to the show. Should there be several children, as in one family, who wish to bulk their fat in one contain, each child in that group will obtain a ticket, providing weight averages 1½ pounds per child.

The fats should be delivered to the meat markets well in advance of the day of the show in order to avoid any last minute rush.

Teachers of rural schools should instruct their pupils of this plan as they are eligible for the free show also. The more fats the children turn in the more builets can be fired by our Canadian soldiers in their great effort to win the war.

The free show is being sponsored by the Vermilion Salvage committee and the Columbia theatre in co-operation with Manager W.P. Pilkie and the management of Bailey's Craig's and Davies meat markets.

Royal Canadian Academy and Handicrafts



Armorial Bearings of Canada

For the first time since the Royal Canadian Academy was established, in 1881, space in the Annual Academy Show for 1943 will be allotted to Handicrafts. These will be summoned to Montreal from all over the Dominion by the Canadian Handicrafts Guild for the Guild's own Show, and a selection will be made by an Academy Jury for the Academy's own Show which will be held in October at Quebec and then transferred to Montreal in November. In addition to the usual crafts, special prizes are being offered by the Guild for a Victory Banner, suitable for display in churches and reproducing the Armorial Bearings of Canada in embroidery, applique, painted silk or woven tapestry. At the suggestion of the Academy, a new category has been introduced—Occupational Arts which may be submitted. This category includes such articles as instruments and schedules of measurements used in the various trades and callings; and the Academy Jury is also to select, in the exhibition or subsequently, the distinctive or achievement of Corporate exhibits may include decorative craftwork as well as industrial works. The Canadian Handicrafts Guild, which has its headquarters in Montreal, was incorporated in 1939 and has branches or affiliated Societies in each of the Provinces of Canada. It was delegated last year by the Interdepartmental Committee of the Federal Government at Ottawa to assemble an Exhibit of Canadian Handicrafts for the Women's International Exposition of Arts and Industry at Madison Square Garden, New York. A number of the craftworkers in Canada have won international recognition, such as Gerda Leest, of Calgary, for her embroidery; Doris DeLong, of British Columbia, for glazed pottery exhibited at the Royal Canadian Academy; and Kjeld and Erica Deichmann, potters of Moss Glen, New Brunswick. The Canadian Guild of Potters had an excellent exhibition of the work of its members recently in the Toronto Art Gallery. The Province of Quebec has been a strong supporter of the renaissance in handicrafts, and has organized weaving in rural districts so extensively that there are now 60,000 looms and 100,000 spinning wheels in use in that Province.

BOOST TEACHERS' PAY IN VERMILION DIVISION

Normalites To Get $960.00

The Vermilion Division School Board in recent negotiations with A.T.A. representatives of the teaching staff, has drawn up a salary schedule for 1943-44 which will pay Normalites $960 annually

$960 is to be the basic salary for teachers of one-room schools but to this will be added $60 cost-of-living bonus. Pay for experienced teachers will be adjusted upward from $960 at the rate of $60 per year for each of the first three years of experience and $30 per year for each of the following six years

Teachers and principals or two, three and four room schools will have basic salaries ranging from $1560 to $1560. To these basics will be added the $60 cost-of-living bonus and increases for past experience at the same rate as for one room school teachers.

Principals will be granted $50 per room for supervision and $100 for a University degree.

Maximum salaries, according to the schedule, will vary from $1320 to $2040.

The payroll of the 100 teachers in the Division will be boosted by $15,000 and will bring salaries well above those set by the Vegreville Arbitration Award of last summer

ACTIVE YEAR REPORTED BY JR. RED CROSS AT VERMILION CENTRE SCHOOL

In September of 1942 the first branch of the Junior Red Cross was organized in Vermilion Centre school in the Grade five room. The following year Grades two, four and six formed branches and this year to these has been added Grade three. Each group, while working independently has carried out the duties set forth by Headquarters, namely: Keeping Health Laws, Supporting Crippled Children's Hospitals, War Service, Community Service, and Promotion of International Friendliness. Each group has had its own method of raising funds—a concert, voluntary contributions, fines on improperly articles, sales of hand-made articles.

Money donations from all branches during the year totalled $40.65. Jr. R.C. magazines sold, 28c; calendars sold, two dozen.

The Forrest Hall Nursery school of Richmond, Yorkshire, Eng., has been the special charge of Red Cross this year and for it Grade six has made two wool afghans, six dresses, two jackets, a skirt, blouses, slip and scarf. Grades 2, 3 and 4 collaborated on an afghan, while Grade 1 knitted and contributed ten scarves.

Scrapbooks were made by Grades 2, 4 and 4 for the Crippled Children's hospital. Grade five concentrated its efforts on preparing a portfolio — which took the form of a booklet telling of our province and town, with a doll's outfit knitted and sewn by the class. This was sent to Juniors in the United States.

To Grades 1, 7 and 8 for their voluntary contributions of money and to Mr. Wisner for his kind co-operation in giving space for the window display of Junior Red Cross handicrafts the Juniors of Vermilion Centre express sincerest thanks.

May Nugent, Convenor.
Jr. Red Cross.

MATT BRIMACOMBE JOINS THE R. C. A. F.

Matt Brimacombe, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brimacombe, has enlisted in the R.C.A.F. as a wireless mechanic. He is spending ten days' leave at the family home before reporting to Brandon, Man. on June 24.

Matt was born in Vermilion, grew up here and graduated from Vermilion public and high schools. He taught school in the district for several years and for the past year he has been employed by the Alberta Liquor Control Board at Red Deer.

BOUNTY FOR MAGPIES IN VERMILION VALLEY M. D.

Vermilion Valley will be offering a bounty of 5c for each pair of Magpies' feet turned in to them, and 2c for each egg.

Schools interested in the destruction of Magpies can compete for a first prize of $2 and second prize of $1 for the highest and second highest of the money earned by them under the bounty.

GREENLAWN OLD TIMERS TO HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Big Get-Together on July 1st

The Greenlawn Old Timers association will hold their annual picnic and get-together on July 1 at Ketchum Lake. A fine program comprised of horse races, foot races soft ball etc., is being arranged, there will be a booth on the grounds and a grand dance will be held at night. 9-10

ISLAY BOY HAS TOP CALF

Gordon Gould of Islay had the best calf in the Lloydminster calf show held recently, and later sold the champion for 21 cents per pound. The calf was purchased by the Swift Canadian Co. Ltd.

Lyle Robinson and Gordon Gordon of Vermilion were the judges while the showmanship competition was handled by D.A. Andrew. E. H. Buckingham district agriculturist had charge of the program. In the evening D. A. Andrew was guest speaker, when the juniors were banqueted by the Lloydminster Agricultural society.

S. C. HECKBERT ELECTED TO DOM. EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

S. C. Heckbert who was re-elected for a further two-year term as President of the Alberta Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion at the Command convention in Edmonton last week was also elected as a member of the Dominion Executive Council of the Canadian Legion, B.C.S.L. and will represent Alberta on that body for the next two years.

Rev. Archdeacon W. Leversedge was named an Honorary Chaplain of the Provincial Command of the Legion, in appreciation of the work which he has undertaken on behalf of ex-servicemen over a long period of years.

FAREWELL DINNER FOR CHARLES EARP

Charles Earp, former superintendent of the Vermilion electric light, power and steam heat plant, was tendered a complimentary dinner by the town council and associates on Friday night last at George's Lower Deck. Mayor Morrison acted as the chairman and spoke of the service which Mr. Earp had rendered the town during his stay here. In reply Mr. Earp stated that it wasn't because he was dissatisfied in any way with Vermilion or Vermilion people that he was leaving, but because he regarded power plants as a classroom where there was a lesson to be learned. He felt that he had gleaned his experience from the Vermilion plant and now moved on to the next place where he could augment his knowledge to his chosen field of engineering.

Mr. Earp left Monday for Mountain Park to a larger plant where the opportunity to advance a little further in engineering is opened.

Mrs. Earp and the two boys will join him after school closes.

ISLAY:

Remember the pretty little team of Shetlands that Gordon McFadyen drove? They left this country in Ford's truck for the city. Someone in Jasper piece now has them.

Last Friday night, despite the bad weather, the people assembled marvellously to the children of the Jr. Red Cross. About $50 was realized so that the next day they sent it to the Jr. Red Cross, Calgary, to help the less fortunate.

The teacher of the Jr. school Miss Redmond and the pupils wish to thank all who made this night a great success. To Charlie Hanna, Barbara Lynn and Lila of we are indeed grateful, as they gave their services playing for the dance, and during the evening's entertainment, and those others also gave a helping hand — Harry Young, Pete Bootsman, Louie or the C.N.R., and Mrs. Lee, and those who contributed articles for the bazaar, we do say "Thanks".

Mrs. Denise Riedale is back at her home in the telephone office after spending three weeks at Grande Prairie where her husband is in camp.

Lyle Anson of the R.C.A.F. is home on leave. He is stationed in Calgary after being for some time in Montreal.

We wish to remind you people to send in names of your family or of boys in the Forces to be sent on as Honor Roll. Send names to A.T. Bell or Robert Martin as the Red Cross are in charge of the Roll now.

Mrs. Alf Hollington has arrived home from Vancouver bringing Mr. John Warner. Mr. Warner was ill and Mrs. Hollington was called out to look after him and bring him back home.

Attention of the whole community!— Please remember the silver tea at Mrs. Bothwell's on June 24th.

HUNTERS SHOOT WILD LIFE —

Reports have come in that although shells are practically unobtainable for farmers to destroy such pests as magpies and crows, others seem to be able to get all the ammunition they want to destroy game birds — and at this particular time of year too.

24,000,000 MEAT COUPONS PER WEEK

Courteous and well-informed shoppers would go far to lighten the task of the meat retailers, says Byrne Sanders, director of Consumer Br., WPTB. Most rationing requires the handling of so many coupons as the rationing of all other commodities put together," she said. "The weekly turnover of tea, coffee, sugar and butter coupons, amounts to 24,000,000; with the introduction of meat rationing, another 24,000,000 will be added to the retailers' problems."

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

Seeding is practically completed throughout this district now. Though rain hampered early operations growing conditions are ideal.

We note both the pale western and red-backed cutworms in gardens.

Most of the folks horseheaded attended the "Mrs. Miniver" show last week.

Roads are in very bad condition due to spring floods and each rain fills up holes and cuts until the boys' cars are really "sitting on wood". Mr. Smith, government vet. inspector, who was in this district last week, to Cummings' gate by E. Thompson's son's, touring a hole in the oil pan of his car. From there he was towed to Cummings' gate by E. Thompson's tractor and Mr. R. Good towed him to halfway up the Vermilion hill where he (Mr. Good) ran out of gas. From there an army transport van pulled both cars into town.

The Lowry road is the main road leading north-west and it is in terrible condition. All spring cars from Derwent, Myrnam and all points north came through E. Thompson's, leaving off the Ottawa road past Cebalo dessen's and south past R. Good's. There are three culverts out on this road, making deep mudholes every time it rains. Just north of C. Forrester's gate there is a very deep hole cut by this heavy spring traffic and so many have been stuck there that it is now practically impassable. It is Ottawa school closed Friday, June 4th, with Miss Ford, a normal graduate, as teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Rickford and Phyllis are leaving shortly for the Coast. Phyllis said goodbye to her Chatsworth school friends on Monday afternoon when a picnic was held, which is much appreciated by all the school children.

On Wednesday June 9th the Chatsworth school children were visitors to Bird Hill. They went up by bikes and horseback. Bird Hill was victorious in the softball game.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson and family motored to Vermilion on Sunday.

The dance which was to have been held at Ottawa last Friday was postponed on account of rain.

Miss Vivian Carter of King Edward district, was a visitor at Mr. and Mrs. Harry Good's last Sunday.

Magpies are busy these days with the little chicks and turkeys at many of the farms here. It is reported that shotgun shells are not obtainable, although recently there were several hunters hanging away at Thompson's lake, which doesn't augur very well for our wild bird life.

It is reported that Mary Anderson, who was injured in a car accident recently, is still in bed. Another party of the young folks including Mary, were going out to see the old wells at Barrendale when the car owned by Mr. M. Tovell and driven by David Tovell, struck some loose gravel and overturned. The other occupants of the car received a severe shaking up and the car was quite badly damaged. We hope Mary will soon be better.

VICTORY BONDS

I would like to remind the two million [illegible] of their obligation to file a [illegible] Income Tax Return before the 30th of June.

This year, the forms have been simplified so that they can be completed with a minimum of time and effort.

The Income Tax dollars that Canadians pay are necessary in our present struggle. They are an investment in our future peace and security. They are fighting dollars....Victory dollars.

Income Tax is fair to all, as each person is taxed in accordance with his ability to pay.

There is no easy way to win a war. Almost half the costs of this war must be paid by taxes. I know that this Income Tax is not a pleasant burden, but I also know that to win the war, Canadians are willing to fulfill their obligations....to pay the price and to shoulder their responsibilities with the same indomitable spirit as shown by those who have gone from our shores to fight.

CHAPTER VII.

AFTER De Nova had left the room, Guillermo's attention turned to Chris Morgan. "You should have considered, señor, that I would inquire what books had been written by Christopher Morgan, the supposed novelist. But you almost won the game, Lieutenant. What did you do—switch glasses on Verde in the dining room?"

"Something like that," answered Morgan, not to satisfy Guillermo's curiosity, but because the chicken might disclose the truth to Rodita and Esteban. "And you should know you find out that the fingerprints were Verde's."

"You were so composed in the face of all accusations that I believed you were unaware that what should have been your glass was carried from the dining room to Velasquez' room," explained Guillermo. "But when you asked Rojas to find Verde, it was not accurate a guess at the name of the man who had stabbed the colonel that I feared something was wrong. I sent De Nova to investigate. He sought Diaz, purportedly with a message from Rojas, and found the fingerprint that just as he was discovering that the marks on the glass were not yours. De Nova shot Diaz, smashed the glass and destroyed the photographs."

Esteban Velasquez, in spite of a warning wave of Guillermo's gun, stepped forward to face Chris. "You—" I apologize, Lt. Morgan," he said contritely. "We have done you a great wrong."

Rodita glanced to her brother's side and murmured, almost timidly, "Can you ever forgive us, señor? We shall make amends. When Capt. Rojas comes we shall tell him what Felix Guillermo has just said——"

"Without proof your words will be nothing," Guillermo laughed. "I find you here with Senor Morgan and the prisoners, for which Col. Velasquez was slain. You helped Morgan get away from the Casa Grande. You will have a hard time convincing Capt. Rojas you did not have a hand in Diaz' death."

TO PANCHO had wrapped a handkerchief about his injured hand and with fingers and teeth was striving awkwardly to knot the ends of the cloth. It seemed to Morgan that the fellow was deliberately slow about the operation, that under the shaggy brows of his lowered head Pancho was watching the two men with the guns.

"Stand aside, señorita," ordered Guillermo. "You are obstructing my view of Morgan."

"Caramba!" Pancho swore as the handkerchief slipped from between his stubby teeth. "I cannot tie this cloth unaided. Would you take a moment to assist a helpless man Senor Verde?"

Guillermo turned quickly to his assistant. "Stay where you are, Raymundo!" he rasped. "Let the dog lick his own wounds."

He broke off, whirling back to face Pancho. For with the movement of Don Felix' head the bound hand of Pancho had swung like a club, landing squarely against the gun. The chimney toppled, but it was the base of the lamp that had received the full force of the blow and the vessel flew up from the table straight toward Guillermo.

There was an instant of darkness, and then Guillermo, his gun forgotten, was beating frantically at the spots of flame that twinkled on his coat and skirt front. With a cry of consternation, Verde sprang forward, but Don Felix, dancing away, waved the fat man back.

"I can take care of myself," cried the musician. "Watch the others, you fool!"

But already Pancho was out of sight, diving for the knife somewhere on the floor. Verde's wavering pistol jerked toward Morgan, and the fat man managed to take hasty aim and pull the trigger before the slicker of the leaping Esteban Velasquez struck against him.

"Verde!" Guillermo's voice cut through the blackened room. "Are you all right? Did you hit anyone?"

"I got the American," panted the fat man. "I heard him fall to the floor when I shot."

"Good!" grunted Guillermo. "Don't shoot again unless you actually know where they are. Keep your head. We still have the upper hand, since they are unarmed."

From the depths of the room came Don Pancho's animal-like snarl. "I have the knife, señores. Be warned! If you make a sign, I shall hurl this dagger into the first throat I see."

There was a sudden scuffling of feet and, presently, the soft creaking of the door hinges. In the silence that followed Morgan could hear the breathing of someone near him.

ACROSS the room, Pancho spoke gaudedly. "They are gone, my little ones. The American—he is dead."

"No, amigo," Morgan answered. "Here I am again!" Then, more to Rodita: "Light the lamp again in warm bowl, cover, and allow to rise overnight, about 10 hours. Dough: The following morning turn out dough on to floured board, and knead thoroughly. Return to same bowl, cover, and allow to rise until doubled in bulk. Roll gently and shape into rounded loaves in well greased pans. Cover, and allow to rise until doubled in size. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). when you threatened Guillermo and Verde?"

"I had nothing." The Pancho chuckled dryly. "It was what Senor Morgan would call the Yankee bluff. Let Don Felix was the fool for once. He should have known that even if I had had the knife I could not have thrown it with any accuracy with my left hand. Ah, I have found it! I have the knife now!" He scrambled to his feet. "Let us go! Verde will run when he sees the blade of mine, and I am quite willing to match my steel against the lead in Guillermo's gun."

"No, you old fire-eater!" Esteban caught Pancho by a shoulder. "Instead of running into further danger, you should be thanking God that none of us was killed when you knocked that lamp off the table."

"It was a reckless thing to do, Pancho," chided Rodita. "I thought—I thought Verde had shot Senor Morgan. And you did not better our position. We are still prisoners. If we try to get out, Guillermo will shoot us."

The pause had cooled some of Pancho's anger. He rose to the window. But the dark shadows of the porch made it impossible to discover any figure lurking about the door. There was a rear entrance to the house, and the two men and the girl followed as Pancho went to have a look at this smaller and darker alley.

He tried to open the back door. But the old man had not more than touched the knob when a pistol shot rang out, and a bullet smashed a panel of the door. Pancho hastily

THEY heard Verde call to Guillermo that he had frustrated the first attempt to leave the house. To Pancho he was cursing under his breath. "Come, he whispered. "This is not the first time I have had to use my wits to get out of my own house."

He led the men into the third room of the small cottage, his own bedroom, a small cubbyhole crowded with dilapidated furniture. In this room was a tiny window. He noted with a leering makes a narrow passage with the wall of my house." To said. "I can slip through the window, creep up on Verde and cut his throat with my knife."

He gripped the fastenings of the window and tugged. But the window resisted all efforts to raise it, and in exasperation Pancho inserted the edge of his knife under the frame and pried.

Came a crack and a snap, and the window stirred in its bed of dried paint. The old man slid the window up and then emitted a typically waterfront oath. "The knife—I have broken the blade into two pieces. With these I can do no more than scratch the skin of Verde's fat neck."

Chris Morgan peered into the narrow, inky space between the two buildings. "Perhaps I can reach that Verde in the darkness," he suggested.

"Impossible." The Pancho shook his head. "Anyone watching that window can see the muzzle of the one-way pocket. As soon as we emerge into the clear we shall be at the mercy of Verde's weapon."

Morgan's voice toppled, but it was the base of the lamp that had received the full force of the blow and the vessel flew up from the table straight toward Guillermo.

There was an instant of darkness, and then Guillermo, his gun forgotten, was beating frantically at the spots of flame that twinkled on his coat and skirt front. With a cry of consternation, Verde sprang forward, but Don Felix, dancing away, waved the fat man back.

"I can take care of myself," cried the musician. "Watch the others, you fool!"

But already Pancho was out of sight, diving for the knife somewhere on the floor. Verde's wavering pistol jerked toward Morgan, and the fat man managed to take hasty aim and pull the trigger before the slicker of the leaping Esteban Velasquez struck against him.

"Verde!" Guillermo's voice cut through the blackened room. "Are you all right? Did you hit anyone?"

"I got the American," panted the fat man. "I heard him fall to the floor when I shot."

"Good!" grunted Guillermo. "Don't shoot again unless you actually know where they are. Keep your head. We still have the upper hand, since they are unarmed."

From the depths of the room came Don Pancho's animal-like snarl. "I have the knife, señores. Be warned! If you make a sign, I shall hurl this dagger into the first throat I see."

There was a sudden scuffling of feet and, presently, the soft creaking of the door hinges. In the silence that followed Morgan could hear the breathing of someone near him.

ACROSS the room, Pancho spoke gaudedly. "They are gone, my little ones. The American—he is dead."

"No, amigo," Morgan answered. "Here I am again!" Then, more to Rodita: "Light the lamp again in warm bowl, cover, and allow to rise overnight, about 10 hours. Dough: The following morning turn out dough on to floured board, and knead thoroughly. Return to same bowl, cover, and allow to rise until doubled in bulk. Roll gently and shape into rounded loaves in well greased pans. Cover, and allow to rise until doubled in size. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Britain's Queen Mother

Has Won And Kept Respect And Love Of People

Queen Mother Mary, Princess in her own right, is descended from that Elizabeth of Cambridge who was a son of George III. She was a cousin of the then Duke of York, whom she married in 1893 and who became King in 1910. George V described her publicly as a "constant helpmate in every endeavor for our ...pire's good." She has seen much sorrow, private and national. Through it all she has been brave, patient and helpful. She is a Victorian worthy of a great epoch and the sterner trials of human fortitude in our own time.

Queen Mother Mary loves London and the Londoners love her. The shame know her as a pleasant, kindly matter, friendly, guiltless of condescension, democratic. She couldn't keep away from the bombed districts in 1940. George VI is said to have had a good deal of trouble in persuading his mother to leave town. Finally he succeeded. Pretty much as we heard of her. She was established in a village. She was doing war work like any other villager.

One thinks of her as wearing a Victorian toque and a long gray cloak. She wears a tailor-made like. Nobody can tell her what fashions she should follow. A good Victorian again she is fond of the theatre. This is her third war, but she is not discouraged. In the First World War by accepting the place of Commandant in Chief of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, W.A.A.C., she insured its success when a lot of se-cents tongues were wagging. Sensible, attentive, quiet, strong, she has deserved far more than 46 years the respect and love of her people.—New York Times.

Four Centuries Ago

North American Indians Used Refrigerating Ideas During Wars

Robert A. Waschope, director of Tulane University's middle American research institute in New Orleans, says the North American Indians practiced refrigerating four centuries ago.

During a warring period, when armies of 80,000 to 120,000 men were on the move, an adequate supply of food, equipment and other provisions were accumulated in advance and then allocated to each of the fighting men, Waschope said.

"Some tribes carried fighting rations with them in gourds which hung around the warrior's neck. The gourds were filled with hominy, to which they added water.

"When they ran short they extracted tribute from their enemy's land in which they were fighting. There still are picture records extant of the times before the conquest showing how much each town was made to contribute," Waschope said.

Plan Was Dropped

Canadians Will Not Be Wearing American Type Steel Helmets

Canada's overseas troops are not going to be issued American-type steel helmets after all.

They will continue to wear the "dishpan" helmet for probably another 10 or 12 months when they are replaced by a new British helmet which should be ready by then.

Two months ago Canadian authorities, understanding that the British army was going to change to the American type tin hat, planned to do the same and ordered 200,000 from the United States.

It was later learned that British officials, after further investigation, decided against adopting the American helmet. Wishing to conform to British army headgear, the Canadians dropped their plan.

One of the principal complications involved in the plan to adopt the American helmet has been the earphones used in the Canadian and British field signals system. These phones fit over the ear like lugs and the American helmet coming down over the side of the head and ears cannot be worn with phones.

Army authorities also considered it impractical to switch to American earplugs as that would involve a change in signals equipment right through the army.

The proposed new British helmet will be designed to overcome this earphone difficulty while giving more protection to the head and neck than the present helmet.

A Greater Leader

British Prime Minister Has Ability To Inspire Other Nations

Mr. Churchill seems to combine in his own personality nearly all the outstanding qualities that lead distinction to the giant figures of British statesm n of the last century. He has Pitt's brilliance and vision, Palmerston's indomitable resolution, Disraeli's Gladstone's magnificent utterance, and the "iron wit of Disraeli. He possesses in addition one quality which none of those great statesmen ever had such opportunities to demonstrate as have fallen in his lot. Churchill's lot, and that is the ability to inspire the people of other nations with confidence in his statesmanship and faith in his sincerity.

With men of the calibre of Churchill and Roosevelt leading us, the United Nations can today look forward with greater confidence than ever to a successful issue of the terrible world struggle that is now convulsing humanity.—Montreal Star.

YEAR'S FREE COLLEGE EDUCATION IS OFFERED

OTTAWA. Young Canadians have been offered an opportunity to serve their country in the Army obtain a free college education and at the same time receive invaluable training for the future through the Canadian Army University Course announced by Hon. [illegible] Minister of National Defence.

The scheme, which will be open to members of the Canadian Active Army, the Reserve Army, the Canadian Officers' Training Corps and ex-members of the Canadian Army who have completed qualifying examinations and are in receipt of Army Service Gratuity, will provide for the training of selected candidates at Canadian universities for one year, or more if necessary.

In an interview the Canadian Army has developed a system or trade classification which is easily adaptable to the trade or large cities. [illegible] men who know the system would be the logical operators of the system when it is adapted to civilian uses. There are hundreds of instances where Army equipment can be used after the war in civilian enterprise.

The Army needs young men for the Active Militia, the Canadian Officers' Training Corps, the Royal Canadian Artillery, the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps and for the various engineer units and for the Canadian Women's Army Corps. Many of these units are now serving in the field overseas and more and more trained men to operate them will be required.

Examinations at which the candidates will be given six months' [illegible] will be held at Halifax, Saint John, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Edmonton, Victoria, Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

Only those serving members of the Canadian Active Army, the Reserve Army, the Canadian Officers' Training Corps and ex-members of the Canadian Army who have completed qualifying examinations and are in receipt of Army Service Gratuity will be eligible for the scheme.

Army officers emphasized that the training would not only enable the candidate to receive university training free of cost but the knowledge so [illegible] would be invaluable in peace time. Recent developments in radio, transportation electronics and various secret devices now being used for war will be adapted to peacetime needs and the candidates will have the necessary training that should assure them civilian employment after the war ends. Candidates will be required to sign on for one year's service.

51,321 individual shareholders own Canada's Chartered Banks. The average holding is 28 shares. Most of these shareholders are Canadians.

The wide distribution of bank ownership is indicated by the fact that 36,574 individuals, living in all parts of Canada, hold shares in the Chartered Banks of Canada. Of the remaining shareholders, 8,987 live elsewhere in the British Empire.

Some further facts about Canada's Banks:

There are 4,369,740 savings deposit accounts in the Chartered Banks of Canada, averaging $391 each. Safeguarding the funds of depositors is a primary function of commercial banking. Banks keep themselves in such a position that anybody going to the bank to withdraw his savings can get his money. Banks, like any other business, exist because they provide service which a community needs and is willing to pay for at a rate which will yield a reasonable return.

Every day, bank loans are helping Canadians in all walks of life and in all parts of Canada to profit from their individual enterprise and industry.

BOARD ORDERS ENFORCED; MANY VIOLATORS FINED

Housewives must buy frying pans and tea kettles, but when a Toronto hardware merchant was discovered to be selling them above the maximum price he was fined $200.

Bananas hardly flood the market but when a Montreal retailer sold them above the maximum price he was fined $100.

These are instances of fines paid when the price ceiling is punctured, one of 58 instances of prices infractions during the week May 23 to May 28, 56 were found guilty. There were in all, 102 persons found guilty of breaches of various Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations and 17 convicted for offences under orders of the Oil Controller and Rubber Controller.

Most offences pertaining to food rationing were acceptance by retailers of sugar, tea, coffee and butter coupons prior to their valid dates.

Fourteen landlords were convicted of violations of tenant regulations, increasing rent from Alberta. Fines ranged from $100 to $10.

A Montreal restaurant proprietor served customers more than one child an ounce of butter each, allowed second cups of coffee, left sugar bowls on the table, and failed to display menus to the Board, and was fined accordingly.

Eight persons were convicted of gasoline rationing offences, sentences ranged from six months imprisonment and a $500 fine to fines of $25.

SUGARLESS CANNING, SUCCESS

All fruits can be successfully canned without sugar according to the Dominion Department of Agriculture," says Byrne Sanders, director of the Consumer Branch, WPTB.

Strawberries, raspberries, blueberries cherries, currants, plums and rhubarb can be packed in sterilized quart jars and sealed until the jars sterilized.

An alternative method usually used for peaches, pears and apricots is to pack the fruit in sterilized sealers, and then cover with boiling water instead of syrup. In all cases when fruit is canned without sugar, five minutes extra sterilization must be given."

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co. Ltd.

WHEAT ACREAGE

We are continually being told that Canadian farmers must reduce wheat acreage because of an alleged burden some world wheat surplus. —I have never felt myself that the surplus was as burdensome as some seem to think.)

The farmers have loyally responded to the Government's appeal and have reduced wheat acreage from 1940 to 1942 by 24 per cent, while the United States during the same period reduced her wheat acreage by only 19 per cent. The year, 1942, prairie farmers have reduced wheat acreage by an additional 20%, but the U.S. government is now actually bonusing American farmers to INCREASE their wheat acreage.

Surely there is room for better collaboration here. If the United States requires more wheat, can they not draw on the surplus Canadian farmers now have upended their farms and devote more for their land to the production of feedstuffs which they tell us they so badly need?

How can we expect 32 different nations now meeting at Hot Springs, Virginia, to agree on the international production and distribution of all world foodstuffs if two such close neighbors as the United States and Canada, and which speak the same language, cannot work out a fair plan to decrease their own wheat acreage?

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

The U.K. livestock feed supply is expected to be 10 per cent smaller in 1943-44 than for the current year while livestock population is expected to increase 10 per cent—Lack of rain is causing crop deterioration in southern Great Britain making heavier purchases of Canadian wheat this year.

Turkey has increased wheat acreage by an estimated 20 per cent over last year's Finland's 1942 grain harvest of about 475,000 tons was about 76 per cent of the 1926-35 average, whereas the 1941 crop was only 61.5 per cent of the average—New Zealand officials by forecasts a wheat crop of 18,500,000 bushels for the 1942-43 season as compared with the 1941-42 harvest of 8 671,241 bushels.

With old parts salvaged from farm machinery, a farmer may make his own portable grain elevator. Four kinds of elevators are described in Special Pamphlet No. 72 in the Wartime Production series. "Portable Grain Elevators for Farm Use" Available free of charge from the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, this pamphlet is illustrated with plans, complete with dimensions for constructing elevators capable of elevating up to 1200 bushels an hour.

TROOPS IN TRAINING CAMPS ENJOY MASSEY-HARRIS SHOW

"Combines of 1943" Provides Sparkling Entertainment

Nothing is more appreciated by the men of the forces than lively, fast-moving, interesting entertainment as a break in the routine of training. And that a good variety show really is high in popularity with them is clearly shown by the spontaneous, enthusiastic applause during the performances of — "Combines of 1943" — the Massey-Harris show that is visiting the training centres of the prairie provinces at the present time.

This show is the result of the efforts of an enthusiastic group of workers in the Massey-Harris organization who felt that in addition to making armaments for the fighting forces they would like to do something for the troops in training. Talent for this show was recruited from among the workers of the Massey-Harris plants, and everything including the outlines, scripts, arrangements, costumes, scenery and props are products of their development. The show has lots of variety from start to finish with songs, comedy, acrobatic, tap and novelty dancing, instrumental musical numbers, and a chorus of very attractive young ladies.

Since the first performance, at R.C.A.F. Manning Depot in Toronto, last October, 12 Massey-Harris show has played over ninety times among the training centres in Ontario, the total attendance at these performances being over one hundred thousand. The present itinerary includes training centres in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan, and deep and sincere appreciation has been expressed by the commanding officers for the entertainment that the show is providing for the personnel of their units.

Canada's Navy Now Over Five Hundred Ships

Ottawa.—Navy Minister Macdonald told the House of Commons that Canada has more than 12 and not quite 24 destroyers, more than 70 and not quite 100 corvettes in commission at the moment. There were almost as many minesweepers as corvettes and about an equal number of motor launches.

In continued discussion of the $489,143,000 navy estimates for 1943-44, the minister said on the whole he was satisfied with the production of escort vessels for the navy. He made his statement of the approximate numbers of navy ships in various categories after D King Hazen (Prog. Con., Saint John-Albert) had said the minister was not correct when he said Canada had a fleet of more than 500 ships of all kinds.

Mr. Hazen said the size of the navy should be kept in proper perspective. Canada had no capital ships and none in larger classes, and the minister was nearer the mark when he referred to the Dominion's "small ship navy." Mr. Macdonald replied that he had reported 550 ships as the total in the possession of the navy, great and small.

All destroyers and frigates had crews of more than 100 men and corvettes and minesweepers had more than 50, while the usual crew of a Fairmile was less than 25. Auxiliary mercantile cruisers had a complement of more than 200

From the start of the war until the end of April 1,727 persons were discharged from the navy, the minister said.

Mr. Macdonald said the average cost of clothing for a petty officer was $183 per year, for a seaman $139, for a Wren $140 and for a sea cadet $7.50. Entire clothing, such items as mitts and heavy caps, cost $8.10.

Mr. Macdonald said that in the establishment of the Canadian navy after the war there should be cruisers as well as destroyers, with submarines to round out the organization. But in the present war even if Canada had a strong fleet of submarines there would be little for them to do unless they were sent to distant theatres of war such as the Mediterranean or the Australian area.

"What we need in this war is ships to fight submarines, not submarines themselves," he said.

At the moment, Canada looked on the battle of the Atlantic as its great struggle and had built ships suitable for that purpose. There might have to be some changes to establish the ideal combination of ships for Pacific operations.

CHANGE STRATEGY

Russians Trying To Keep Control Of Land In Civilization

London Unsatisfactory food conditions have dictated a shift in Soviet military strategy from mobile warfare to holding and advancing the present lines in all cost in order to maintain control of land in cultivation, close observers said.

The food situation for the time being at least is not critical, sources in touch with Russia said, but production and distribution were described as less than satisfactory

The new harvest and lend-lease food stores expected to bring the Soviet Union safely through the year, though informants frankly concede there might be a grave shortage, should either fail. Neither without the other could keep the food supply up to suitable level.

The impression prevailed that a the present shortage could become worse without affecting the Red army as a vigorous fighting force. But observers believed the civilian population was near the nutritional border line, and any further reduction in rations might affect the home front.

TO BUILD TANKERS

Work To Be Started In Vancouver Soon Says News-Herald

Vancouver. The News-Herald said in a front-page story that it learned "on reliable authority" that construction of 10,000 ton tankers will start in a Vancouver shipyard this year for Wartime Merchant Shipping, Limited.

The paper added:

"Details of the plan have not yet been announced, but the tankers are expected to be a conversion of the victory type freighters now being built in west coast shipyards. . . . First work on the new tankers here is expected to be started in about two months' time, and it is considered probable that several of them will be finished before the year is over."

Industry Must Make Post-War Work Its Job

Toronto.—Every company, whether large or small, must do its duty in the post-war period to absorb the workers who have been serving in the armed forces, J. S. McLean, company representative on the advisory committee on reconstruction, said in addressing the post-war planning conference at the 72nd annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Many new businesses must be started and new departments must be added to existing business, he said.

"Each of us must do his full share toward setting up, as soon as possible after the armistice, industrial activities which will employ twice as many men as in 1939."

The war has made clear to all that things can be done which previously had not been thought possible, Mr. McLean said.

Mr. McLean said the system of competitive industry still had a contribution to make to human welfare.

"In the new world the test as to whether an industrial system justifies itself will be a simple one—does it provide maximum employment? That is the issue upon which our system must stand or fall. We must face the fact that if mass unemployment comes again in this country, the blame will be laid upon us, whether we deserve it or not."

F. P. L. Lane, first vice-president of the C.M.A., said the greatest problem to be met in the post-war period was the prevention of mass unemployment

"It is the duty of each manufacturer to get into maximum production with the least possible delay," he said. "If, however, the ability of a manufacturer to meet this responsibility is impaired by conditions beyond his control, it necessarily follows that his provision of the desired full measure of employment will be reduced accordingly."

"Therefore, every consideration should be given in adequate time to the removal of such barriers to full employment," he said

"Just such barriers do exist and are to be found in current taxation, but I emphasize that no manufacturer in Canada, to my knowledge, has complained about the high rates of taxation that now prevail. . . .

"Under the present scale of taxation, industry is not permitted to retain profits that would normally be accumulated to provide required working capital, and it is also true that the tax structure in many cases brings about a constantly diminishing accumulation of working capital through depreciation reserves."

Mr Lane said an effective remedy for objections to provision for inventory losses would be to adopt the United Kingdom method in respect of excess profits tax, which is to refund from taxes paid in two preceding years the deficiency in the current year's standard income.

Some 300 factories have been set up in Britain by refugees from Nazi persecution, and they are employing about 20,000 British work-people in war production.

THE KEY POSITION

Most Direct Routes For Air Service Are Through Canada

Winnipeg.—Canada holds the key position in respect to any scheme for British commonwealth air service encircling the globe, said W. F. English, assistant vice-president of Transcanada Airways here.

"Clear," is at the 'cross roads of the airways', Mr. English declared, and the most direct routes from the population centres of Great Britain and United States to Europe and Asia cross it.

"Although they are avenues of defence at the present time," Mr. English said, "airway- of future may be a powerful agency to break down the barriers of extreme and selfish nationalism and bring about peace and good understanding."

Headquarters of No. 2 Training Command R.C.A.F., Winnipeg, announced that various women's organizations and women friends of R.C.A.F. (WD) personnel in each [illegible] have been invited to visit air force stations in the near future. It is proposed to have a "W.D. At Home" monthly at stations upon completion of the first visit.

The visitors will see the air force women [illegible] official correspondence in R.C.A.F. orderly room; filing documents . . . making wireless keys in the chatter under their skilful touch, watch dexterous hands pack parachutes . . . mend aircraft fabric just as unscholastically as if they were spending an afternoon at a sewing circle. They will marvel as aircraft proceed aircraft traffic from the control towers of airdromes . . . and the deftness of the other skilful and exacting duties necessitated by members of the Women's Division.

"Commanding officers of 11 air force stations have been notified to invite ladies who live near the stations to the "Women's Division At Home" on set days before June 27.

The following stations will hold "W.D. At Homes" between now and June 27: No. 8 Repair Depot, Winnipeg; No. 1 Central Navigation School, Rivers, Man; No. 4 Service Flying Training School, Saskatoon; No. 10 Service Flying Training School, Dauphin, Man; No. 11 Service Flying Training School, Yorkton, Sask; No. 12 Service Flying Training School, Brandon, Man.; No. 23 Elementary Flying Training School Davidson, Sask.; No. 3 Bombing and Gunnery School, Macdonald, Man; No. 5 Bombing and Gunnery School Dafoe, Sask.; No. 7 Bombing and Gunnery School, Paulson, Man.; No. 8 Wireless School, Winnipeg.

Getting at the reasons for the "W.D. At Home" projects, Flight Officer Barbara Kemp, Women's Division staff officer of No. 2 Training Command stated, "The intention is to foster relationships between women's groups and the Women's Division, R.C.A.F., and to repay in some measure the hospitality extended by these various women to the W.D.'s, also that the women's organizations may have actual insight into, not only the work that the Women's Division is doing in the station in order that men may fly" but also to obtain a realization of the recreational facili-

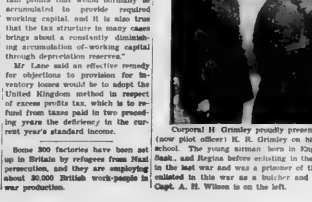
Proud Father Of Son



Corporal H Grimley proudly presents R.C.A.F. wings to his son LAC (now pilot officer) K. R. Grimley on his graduation from Dauphin Manitoba school. The young airman born in England, attended schools at Mozart Sask., and Regina before enlisting in the air force. His father saw service in the last war and was a prisoner of the Germans for some months. He enlisted in this war as a butcher and a cook for the air force Group Capt. A. H. Wilson is on the left.

Premier Of Alberta

Hon. E. C. Manning 34-year-old premier of the late Premier Aberhart, of Alberta, who has been sworn in as premier of Alberta, becoming the youngest provincial government leader in Canada. The former provincial secretary and minister of trade and industry was the unanimous choice of the Social Credit party.

tion, living and amenities on the station." Arrangements can also be made, if women's organizations so desire, to have W.D officers speak and show movies of W.D activities at their meetings. At many stations near small localities arrangements will be made so that visitors can also spend most of the day at the station They will be served lunch

It is quite possible that under the sponsorship of men's clubs a "Wives Day" will be arranged and husband and wives can visit the station together.

The visitors will be met by the station commanding officer. They will be conducted about the station by airwomen.

Mass Suicide Of Japs Ended The Battle On Attu

Cortes Lakes, Attu.—Final organized Japanese resistance on Attu collapsed in the mass suicide of the survivors Many ended it all by hoding grenades against their chests after banging them against their helmets to start the detonating mechanism.

The final Japanese counter-attack began May 29 at 4 a.m., catching the Americans by surprise. A yelling mob of Japanese army and navy personnel and civilians rushed pell-mell above Cortes Lake, poured through the American lines and recaptured positions from which the enemy had been driven days before.

On the sleeping Americans had been established. The two-day battle was little more than a slaughter. No one knows how many Japanese were killed. The prisoner count was easily 50 for every American boss

One gets startling Japanese psychology revealed in the documents found on them, clothing fearfully a slip of paper. The note said in English that it must be washed by surrender and depended on good treatment

He said that all Japanese in Attu villages were ordered to make the attack and that those who refused [illegible] personnel. The actual assault would have shed by their own officers in the villages All officers slain, the wounded moved to its suicidal attack

In the first surge of the surprise [illegible] attack sleeping American soldiers were bayoneted as they lay [illegible] in their [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

WILDMERE WINKS

ARRIVES AT OVERSEAS

Another Wildmere born and raised young man has landed across the big pond, being Lac. Russell Crutchers, son and Gnr. Graham are now overseas. Good luck boys. Russell's parents reside here and his wife lives in Vermilion.

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. Sam York (nee Marion Gibson) of Goose Lake, Alta., on the birth of a seven pound baby girl at the Vermilion hospital on Saturday June 12th.

Tuesday and Ernest Walters, twins, had a birthday party at their home in Battleview on Sunday afternoon last, quite their birthday doesn't until Monday. Those present were Sylvia and Albert Carlson, Peggy Graham and George Cruthers. From all reports a pleasant afternoon was spent, topped by a good supper with birthday cake and all its trimmings. The twins were 12 years old. Many more happy birthdays Dorothy and Ernie!

The shower to be held last Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brandhan of Battleview was postponed owing to bad roads. It will be held this Friday, June 18 at Battleview school. Come and give the young folks a good send off for a long happily wedded life.

J. Wilson and Wm. Smith were both callers at the Wallington home last week helping Jimmie with chores as he was unable to do himself, thanks a lot folks, it's truly appreciated these busy times.

Threshing is to be resumed here this week if weather permits. Here's hoping it stays dry long enough to finish it up.

Wildmere P.O. has now been moved to the Store previously occupied by Mrs. T. L. Riley, which is now rented to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Martin. The P.O. is now a mile farther away but as it serves chiefly those who want it to better for them, but farther for Mr. Martin the mailman with roads poor in rainy weather.

Several folks of our district went in to see Mrs. Miniver at the Columbia. All said it was worth seeing and showed what people of Great Britain have had to go through in these trying times.

Mr. J. Waring had a hard trip on Thursday last when he tried to take Mrs. Nichols to the hospital but roads were too bad to move her over them after he got out. We wish her a speedy recovery from her illness.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Beha were visitors to the J. Wilson home on Sunday afternoon. Dorothy visited the Wallington home.

Goutier Bros. of Woodvale were at the Wallington farm last week getting seed oats—they also read our news items, so they tell us.

Lloyd Howard is now stationed in Montreal.

Mrs. George Cruthers has been confined to her home with a very sore leg. We all hope that it is soon better and that Mrs. Cruthers will soon be able to get about as usual.

NEED FOR NATIONAL AID IN POST WAR FARM SETTLEMENT

"Agriculture in Canada is not a source or unlimited settlement, and to those who thought in terms of increasing rural population by diminishing the size of farms might note that in all cost of production studies under modern mechanized agriculture the trend was toward larger rather than smaller farms. However, the transferring of large farms in dry farming to smaller units under irrigation was no doubt feasible and advisable," Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director, Dominion Experimental Farms, told a meeting of the Committee on Rehabilitation of the Canadian Legion.

"The increased production of Canadian farms was being demonstrated to a remarkable degree under war conditions, he said, particularly in hogs, poultry and certain dairy products. Nevertheless, it should not be forgotten that substantial subsidies and aid in distribution of feed and other commodities made possible these tremendous year production increases. Should these various bonuses, subsidies, and subventions be discontinued immediately after the war, or should a series of years severe crop climatic conditions less favorable to production than in 1941 and 1942 the tremendous drop in production which would result could hardly be calculated by all. He would repeat that there were definite climatic handicaps to a large increase in settlement. That was well illustrated by the greater risk in production seen in settlements which had opened up since the last great war, as in Northern Ontario, the Interlake Region, Northern Saskatchewan and Northern Alberta.

"Previous to 1924 it was common belief on the part of governments and others that the Prairie Provinces, particularly the short grass plains were still very sparsely settled and that there was large opportunity for increased population. However, the several years of drought soon dispelled that misconception.

"In any consideration of opening up new settlement, almost invariably land clearing, large scale land drainage or large scale irrigation was necessary. The short grass plains of the Prairie Provinces maintained practically the highest number of head possible, and it was not to be expected that settlers with little or no capital could without manifold aid undertake land settlement where clearing, draining and irrigation on a large scale were essential.

"It was obvious that there must be greater security in markets before it would be wise to have any substantial increase in land settlement in Canada.

Sixteen Years Ago To-day

Interesting Items Gleaned From the Files of the Vermilion Standard

16 YEARS AGO TODAY — 1927

June 16, 1927

The district has a plague of caterpillars. Trees are being rapidly stripped of their leaves over a large section of the country.

The firm of Pickel and Johnston Ltd. of North Battleford, has sold its department store business to Craig Bros. of Vermilion.

Several grading outfits are already at work on the extension of the new C. P. R. line from Clandonald west. Contracts have been let as far west as Whitford.

June 14, 1911

Vermilion lost the first baseball game of the league to Mannville, getting the small end of an 18-6 score. The heavy hitters from the west gathered 14 hits off Brimacombe while Vermilion pounded Colbert for nine safeties. Line-ups were: Vermilion—Russell, Burns, Davidson, Wiebe, Mead, Cunningham, Long, Fawcett, Brimacombe; Mannville — Arnold, Townsend, Townsend, Cundel, Hughes, Arnold, Hunt, Colbert, Ewing.

While, the four-year-old son of Mr.

WOODVALE

Another week and it will be summer —so far we have not had any too much spring weather and spring work is still in full swing on most farms. With fair weather sowing should be almost finished around here this week end.

Jim Turner bought a tractor to enable him to get his work done and we hear that Harry Turner and Luther Thompson got one together. By now most of the farmers in Woodvale are using tractors in the field — the others st...ing to horses.

Gardens are rather a sorry sight this year, between the almost daily frosts or near frosts and cutworms. there is not much left and quite a number are sowing all over again. However, after the rain of the last two weeks, some warm weather should work wonders.

Mrs. Turner is busy at present working for Mrs. Stone of Cummings. Mary Pierman spent several days at the home of the Misses Family Easter of Preville has found a ton of mushrooms called "moulles" in France and cannot persuade the people to eat them, so he is having very well on them himself. Fernand Goutier has undergone an operation at the hospital, we also hear he'll soon be well and home again. Fred Slocum shipped twenty head of very nice looking two year old Hereford steers, enrolling them one night at the Rankin farm on his way to Vermilion.

Mrs. Goutier and son Leon in the district seem to be coming along alright he's hope there will be lots of sunshine and flowers soon for them to start gathering flowers.

Edna Gordon on her way home on that very rainy Thursday had to be rescued out of the mud several times.

Harry Whitlock has been home on a two weeks' leave after half a year's training in Calgary. Bob Lewis was home for a day, a very short leave this time. He thinks he'll soon join Eugene. Hank Schaap is at present a gunner on the corvette Moose on the Atlantic. Clem Hildreth left to join the Navy, his mother is going to live in Vermilion in the very near future.

The following items happened about a month ago, but we have only been informed of them in Standard, so they might even be news to some of our readers yet.

On one of the warm days in May when the mosquitoes were on the scene, a smudge was made on the Hildreth farm and as the smoke rose and sucking insects have to be attended by contact poisons such as nicotine sulphate, derris, pyrethrum and a host of lime sulphur and chlorocastes. These act on the respiratory system or by their caustic effect.

One of the most troublesome and elusive pests in the garden is the cutworm, a caterpillar that buries itself during the day and "eats up" at night during warm weather. Given freedom of action, these insects may mow down cabbage, corn, tomatoes and other young plants as fast as they come up or are set out. Poisoning bait usually at ground level.

Cutworms are plump smooth bodied gray to brownish caterpillars, fully one and a half inches in length when full grown. They usually hide in the soil by day and do their dirty work by night. When disturbed they roll up into a semi circular attitude, feigning innocence and demonstrating that even a worm may turn.

Cutworms can be destroyed most effectively by means of a poison bait prepared by mixing thoroughly one quart of bran with a teaspoonful of Paris Green or sodium fluosilicate and then adding about a pint of water sweetened with two tablespoonsful of syrup or molasses to make a moist but not sticky mixture. This should be scattered lightly around or near the plants shortly before the worms emerge to feed. Since these baits are poisonous, they should be used with due caution and stored beyond the reach of children, poultry (even your neighbors) and domestic animals

WORM MAY TURN WHEN ATTACKED

—By R. Leslie Emslie—

The Victory gardeners of Canada to impress his knowledge of economics before the season is far advanced to learn that better results can be had against insects which attack his plants, if the fruits or his toil are to be realized and the food crops saved for human consumption.

As in land sea and aerial warfare the method of attack on insect pests varies according to the detection of the enemy and his vulnerable points. The life history of insects generally is divided into four stages namely egg, larva, pupa and adult.

Biting and chewing insects such as the beetles, caterpillars, grasshoppers and slugs, can be controlled by stomach poisons. Sucking insects aresmaller at least and time consuming to find their enemy and the sucking insects have to be attacked by contact poisons such as nicotine sulphate, derris, pyrethrum and a host of lime sulphur and chlorocastes. These act on the respiratory system or by their caustic effect.

FARM MACHINERY MUST BE CARED FOR

Its Importance In Winning This War Cannot be Over Estimated

We should all recognize that every piece of machinery that is design'ed to help win this war is actually as much a weapon as the farm equipment comes in the class. Because every piece of farm machinery that is helping to produce food, is doing a job just as vital as any tank or plane that goes into action. Every time we ask the farmer to produce more we ask him to take the place of the Canadian farmer and all his farm equipment must stay on the job to meet that need. This is the most important factors in keeping farm machinery operating regularly and efficiently. Attention to details. A...mate... just rather than ... ... breakdowns may result. To assist the Canadian farmer in keeping his farm machinery up to par, McCall Frontenac Oil Company Limited has a Repair Service. This unit is ready is prepared to assist farmers in the operation and conservation of farm machinery.

One of the outstanding developments of aerial warfare: fighter control is now being taught in Canada. Above prospective operations clerks of the Royal Canadian Air Force Women's Division learn the secrets of fighter control behind locked doors at No. 1 School of Fighter Control at Rockcliffe air station, near Ottawa. At the desk, airwomen are making rapid calculations as to the speed and course of aircraft, using stop watches, mechanical calculators, protractors and parallel rulers. Bread Of The Future

Canada's Vitamin B Considered Best By Scientific Experts

Scientific studies by experts of the British Ministry of Food in comparative tests between Canadian, United States and British bread "have resulted in a discovery that may well prove one of the milestones in the history of flour and bread," states Dr. J. C. Drummond, Professor of Bio-chemistry at the University of London, England, and scientific adviser to the British Ministry of Food.

This discovery, as a result of the tests is that the Vitamin B bread now approved by the Canadian Government, rather than the reinforced loaf of the United States, or the whole wheat bread of Great Britain is the prototype of the bread of the future. In the tests, Canadian Vitamin B bread was classed best.

FORTUNE FOR CHARITY

The late Edsel Ford left the great bulk of his estate to tax-free charity. Ford's will directs that most of his $300,000,000 fortune be turned over to the Ford Foundation, a charitable organization. Thus the large part of the industrialist's legacy is immune from taxation.

Coinage Of Canada Has Been Assayed For Another Year

Every year about this time the privy council comes out with the news that Canada's coinage is being made according to the specifications of the law—the verdict of the "trial of the pyx."

The "pyx" is the box at the Royal Canadian mint—or any mint, for that matter—where every so often a sample coin is placed for future assay at the annual "trial".

This year the assay commissioners were Dr. L. G. Thurbull, R. W. Reid and R. J. Trail, all of Ottawa. Judge E. J. Daly of Ottawa kept an eye on the proceedings, along with Dr. A. G. Eaton, taxation investigator representing the finance department.

First the coins were weighed and found to be well within the specified weight under the Currency Act. Then they were assayed.

Finance Minister Ilsley summed the thing up for the committee of the privy council: "The findings referred to indicate that the coin, both as to weight and fineness, conforms with the standards established by the Currency Act."

And that, for another year, is that.

All Were Quite Young

So Far 22 British Peers Have Been Victims Of War

Twenty-two of Britain's titled noblemen, including two members of the royal family, have died in active service or as a result of enemy action so far during the war, official records showed. Most of the casualties were youths in their twenties.

Seventeen peers are listed as having been killed in battle or dying in active service. The other five were bombing victims or the casualties of other war-caused tragedies. In the World War, twenty-three noblemen perished. Dukes, earls, viscount and barons have been killed in service since hostilities started in 1939. But according to Cyril F. J. Hankinson, editor of Debrett's, a directory of the peerage, this war has not yet extinguished any titles, whereas the other war ended several because the title-holders who fell had no heirs eligible for the rank.

In addition to the dead several noblemen are prisoners of war. Among them is Lord Haig, only son of Field Marshal Earl Haig, commander of the British forces in France in the first world war. The present earl was with a tank outfit in the Middle East when he was captured.

The royal family mourns the loss of the Duke of Kent, brother of King George VI., who was killed in Aug. 25, 1942, in an air crash while on active duty, and Lord Frederick Cambridge, a nephew of Queen Mary.

The first peers to die in this war were the Duke of Northumberland and the Earl of Coventry, both of whom fell in the line of duty in 1940. Northumberland, a member of one of England's most prominent families, was a direct descendant in 1766. The Coventry earldom was founded in 1697.

Knows His Parachute

Veteran "Chutist Has Now Joined The Air Force

AIR LARGE BENVILLE

If at some future date, AC2 Lorne Benville, Portage la Prairie, after a stiff battle with Messerschmitts in the role of air gunner, finds it advisable to "bail out", he'll probably consider the drop to earth a bit monotonous . . . for it will hoist his "jump" total over the sixty mark.

Hitting by his tidy bunk at No. 2 Manning Depot, Brandon, Man., AC2 Benville surveyed his new job in diplomatic fashion. At Brandon he awaits the first step in the conversion of a veteran parachute test-jumper to civilian life to an air gunner in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

"I figure being an air gunner is about the best way to do my part in winning the war," observed the quiet, soft-spoken airman. "To me it seems no more dangerous than parachute test-jumping." He speaks with authority on jumping having started his career as a parachutist four years ago at the age of 16. From heights as low as 3,000 feet and as high as 15,000 feet he made 60 jumps. In addition to test jumping he did stunt work at fairs and exhibitions.

According to Benville, parachute jumping is only as dangerous as one makes it. "There's actually no sensation of falling during the drop through space," he will tell you. "You just step straight out of the ship for a walk in the fresh air—straight down at 125 miles an hour."

Reluctantly, the erstwhile test-jumper told of a couple of his "near misses". Once his harness worked loose during the drop and the reserve parachute caught in front of the ripcord; he dropped 8,500 feet before he got the "chute to blossom out. Another time, he tripped as he threw himself out of the aircraft, plunged straight down thousands of feet while he fumbled for his rip cord ring. "Finally I found it, or I wouldn't be here to tell the story," he told with a smile.

Benville's wife lives at Portage in Prairie. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Benville live in Toronto, Ont. He is a member of the Canadian Parachute Club.

Greatly Appreciated

Senator Rasburn Made No Speech When He Introduced Winston Churchill

When Speaker Sam Rasburn introduced Prime Minister Churchill to the U.S. Congress, he did a great job, states the St. Mary's Journal-Argus. He used only 20 words which included the phrase, "one of the most outstanding figures of all the world." And maybe the crowded house which came to hear Churchill, didn't appreciate the pointed brevity. Unlike many introducers who start out with the statement: "Our speaker really needs no introduction" and then launch out on a lengthy tirade, Speaker Rasburn said all that was necessary in a moment and then he sat down. His good judgment made a wonderful impression. It was an example which we trust will have its effect wherever speakers are introduced throughout the world from now on. Speaker Rasburn made history.

Best Men In German Merchant Service Replaced By Women

According to word reaching London German women now are being employed among crews of ships that have to run the gauntlet of British mines and bombing along the North Sea coast from Kiel to the mouth of the Rhine. All the best men from the German merchant service, as from the navy, have reportedly been drafted to help man the U-boat fleet.

MAKING MUNITIONS

Instead of idling about while on the "pool" waiting for ships, merchant seamen and ships' officers now are working in munition plants at Liverpool making guns and shells which they may later use against enemy submarines or divebombers.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JOHN DESCRIBES TRUE CHRISTIANS

Golden text: But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus his Son cleanseth us from all sin. I John 1:7.

Lesson: I John.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 15.

Explanations and Comments

Christ the Christian's Propitiation for Sins, 1 John 2:1, 2. My little children, these things write I unto you, that ye may not sin. The tone is that of a father speaking to his children; the commentator says it is rather that of a glorified saint addressing mankind from a higher world. The words are spoken by an old man who, as only an old person would, addresses his readers, though adults, as "Little Children."

That ye may not sin. Even the best of men do sin. "We are so beset by circumstances, prediction, habit, prejudice, that we sin either in omission or commission. If, however, our sin is not deliberate, if it is repugnant to us, if in spite of it we are honestly and sincerely committed to doing what is becoming to the children of God, there is a remedy for our sin. The atonement which Christ made is such as to make him our advocate (or paraclete) with the Father in our behalf. A paraclete is one who stands alongside another to plead his cause. Christ is our paraclete" (John Gardner).

A True Christian Keeps Christ's Commandments, 1 John 2:3-6. And hereby we know that we know him. The verb "know" occurs 37 times in this short epistle. And hereby we know: "that is one of our words today: affirmative men and women, believers who know the Lord, and who know that they know him" (J. H. Jowett) We can be certain that we know Christ by keeping his commandments—that is the proof. The one who claims to have a knowledge of him, but fails to keep his commandments. John brands as a liar—the truth is not in him, he is blind to his own condition. He may know much about Christ, his mind may have grasped many truths in regard to him, but if he has not learned to love and obey him, he does not know him. God is only known in his Son, and the proof of one's abiding in him, continuing in fellowship with him, is obedience to his commands, a striving to walk as he walked.

A man's perfect obedience is the proof of perfect love, in him verily hath the love of God, that is, the redeeming love of God, been perfected, reached its perfect expression.

Russian General Praises Canadian Tanks

VALENTINE tanks, produced at the Canadian Pacific Railway's Angus Shops in Montreal, have been called by the Russians the best imported tanks they used in crushing Hitler's armor, Major General I. A. Slyusev, chairman of the Soviet Government Purchasing Commission in the United States, has been quoted by Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply in Ottawa, as stating "the Canadian tanks Valentine VII have shown good results in combat action on our front, and have proved themselves the best of all our imported tanks." The Soviet general's tribute was in response to a request from Mr. Howe for a report on the Valentines' part in the Russian offensive. It preceded a congratulatory message sent by General Eisenhower to H. D. Bowen, chief [illegible] and rolling stock for the Canadian Pacific Railway, on the completion of the Valentine contract early in May, with the needs of a global war having dictated a switch to other weapons. At this time J. H. Berry, Canadian director general of tank production, also congratulated Mr. Bowen and Canadian Pacific personnel "for having delivered the goods on time."

URGE GROUP RIDING ON FISHING TRIPS

Opening of the angling season in some parts of the province on May 16 and some weeks later in other sections will cause many car owners to plan short trips.

In the interests of fuel conservation, these anglers are being urged to organize groups so that all car seats will be occupied. One car can convey a number of these anglers from a neighborhood, instead of several cars being used for the trip.

Just as the practice of group riding to work is growing in popularity, so can group riding for sporting purposes be generally adopted.

This system is reported to be winning greater usage in the U.S.

In various ways, car owners are carrying out the idea of conserving tires and fuel, recognizing the demands of a wartime emergency.

If they observe the essentials of economy, they will give longer life to their tires and also have fuel for operations over a longer period.

Carefully organized group riding will mean much to the motoring public, according to the Alberta Motor Association which has called on its members to give their full support to tire and fuel conservation measures during the war period.

The average Canadian soldier is not addicted to the use of alcoholic beverages, as one might believe.

Beer rankers are open at certain hours and ration registration for more than a couple of luxurious conversation than of bitter invective.

However in the service canteen which is universally patronized. Soft drinks, milk and candy bars are consumed by the case and truck loads. Despite Churchill preference cigarettes have the lead over cigars by a wide margin.

Blue Coupon No. 1 Only Buys Rinker's Sugar

Blue coupon number 1, only, may be used to purchase sugar to sweeten Canadian grown rhubarb, and this coupon expired May 31, officials of the Ration Administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board state.

Early in the spring the ration administration allowed sugar for rhubarb to be purchased with Blue coupon numb... 1. Recent inquiries at the ration office of the Board in Edmonton have asked if coupons two and three might be used for the same purpose.

"Use of these other coupons for the purpose of obtaining sugar for rhubarb is considered an offence against food rationing regulations," officials state. "Consumers and retailers alike are liable to punishment under Board regulations for using invalid coupons."

T.C.A. Main Line Service Extended To Victoria, B.C.

The main line service of T. C. A. was extended to Victoria, B.C., on Sunday June 6 in order to expedite air mail, express and passenger service. The flights have previously terminated at Vancouver. Announcement of the extension of Canada's transcontinental air route has been made by the Minister of Munitions and Supply, the Postmaster General and the President of Trans-Canada Air Lines.

Their statement said that there are important military and other establishments on Vancouver Island in addition to the governmental and commercial activities of the British Columbia capital. The Board of Transport Commissioners had found that the "present and future public convenience and necessity" required that the service should be given, and that this extension of the transcontinental route of Trans-Canada while furnishing a much more expeditious through service between the eastern and the prairie cities and Victoria, would require no additional expenditure of public money.

All air mail between the island and the mainland will be carried by the Trans-Canada planes as the reports of the postal authorities have shown that there were frequent and substantial delays in the carriage of air mail to and from Vancouver Island under the former arrangement.

Trans-Canada will also carry to Victoria passengers and all express originating at points east of Vancouver, and passengers and air express originating on Vancouver Island and delivered to points beyond Vancouver. The Board of Transport Commissioners did not grant to T.C.A. the right to carry passengers or air express locally between Vancouver and Victoria although passengers from the prairies and the east having through tickets to Victoria may make a stop-over at Vancouver.

Under the new schedules, T.C.A. transcontinental planes will arrive at Vancouver at 10:10 a.m. and at 10:40 p.m. each day and will then proceed on to Victoria. (Patricia Bay Airport), about 16 flying miles distant. The flight time between Vancouver and Victoria will be 25 minutes. The planes will leave Victoria at 4.15 p.m. and at 1.30 a.m. daily on their eastbound flights.

As the result of the extension to Vancouver Island the start to west transcontinental route of T.C.A. from St. John's Newfoundland, to Victoria, will be increased to 2,911 miles the longest on the American continent and in addition the national air service is operating 872 miles of other national and south and south routes.

Officials of the Department of Civil Aviation stated that the extension to Victoria was contemplated from the inception of Trans-Canada Air Lines in 1937, but has had to await the provision of airport facilities for land type planes on Vancouver Island.

May Replace Ration Books

Motor car owners have been urged by the Alberta Motor Association to use special care of their gasoline ration coupon books.

Recently, the regional oil controller's office announced that in case of any persons losing or having their coupon books stolen or mutilated in any way, a requisition supported by affidavit may be made.

In granting a new book, the oil controller's office will take steps to prevent the value of the book, according to the date or the new application. That is, a number of coupons will be taken from the new book, based on the period that the old book really have been used. After this precaution the number of coupons left in the book will be reduced by one-half and the balance given to the applicant.

These restrictions are designed to impress on motorists the need of giving special care to their original ration books issued for the 1942-1943 license year.

SO MR. FARMER, MAKE SURE YOU CHOOSE IT AND USE IT WISELY

UNLESS your farm machinery is given proper lubrication and the best of care, you are gambling with its very life! Without these two essentials, every piece of equipment on your farm may break down and cause you untold loss in time and money.

In your own best interests and in the interests of war production, see that you give every piece of equipment on your farm every chance to give you longer, trouble-free service.

Call on the McColl-Frontenac Representative in your district to help you. Ask him particularly about the following:

TEXACO MARFAK
For Wheel-Bearings and Vital Friction Points.

This famous lubricant lasts longer and lubricates better under the toughest working conditions. It is self sealing and keeps the working lubricant in where it is needed most, prolonging life of bearings and universal joints by keeping out rain, mud and dust.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST

By D. E. W. Neale
Director, Agricultural Department
North-West Line Elevators Association

The Country Fair

The wisdom of continuing agricultural exhibits in wartime cannot be questioned so long as proper emphasis is placed on agricultural matters.

For several years, the exhibit of The North-West Line Elevators Association has been among the most popular features at fall fairs. We contend that, in 1942, it attracted the attention of more persons. It is [illegible] considered useful information with attractive appearance, and this [illegible] caption.

Food rationing has brought home to all of us the importance of agriculture in this war. Inefficiency in farm operations now means not only loss to the farmer, but it actually hinders progress in defensing our country. This has been kept in mind in designing the exhibit.

Through the generous co-operation of the Entomological Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the exhibit includes a very interesting display concerned with warble flies. Specimens of damaged leather, figures on actual losses and control methods are included, and a new bulletin will be distributed.

The central part of the exhibit portrays the movement of food from the farm to the fighting forces, and one wing is devoted to emergency rations used in the army, navy and air force. Other features are weeds, soil erosion and "sound" moving pictures.

We hope to welcome our readers at Swift Current (frontier celebration), Calgary, Regina, Yorkton, Melfort, Lloydminster, Vermilion, Vegreville, Red Deer, North Battleford and Prince Albert.

Canada's Happy Gang has been on the air for five full years and on June 12th they celebrated their 5th birthday. I hope you were on hand that day at 11:15 to hear the happy friends, brought to you by CFJC. There was a lot of fun and laughter as usual on that program plus a great many extras to celebrate the occasion. All your old Happy Gang friends were there, and also your new Happy Gang friends, Cliff MacKay and Jimmy Namaro. These newcomers are really making a place for themselves in the affections of Happy Gang listeners across Canada, and have been unanimously accepted as members. This past year has been quite a few changes in the personnel of the Gang, with Bob Farnon leaving to go on Active Service with the Army Show, and Cliff and Jimmy being added to the line-up but the format of the programme has been kept up to standard through it all. Listeners can still be assured of a happy fifi from the work-a-day world as we live it by turning their dials to 920 kilocycles every weekday, Monday through Friday, at 11:15 Be seeing you!

MARY McCALLUM SUTHERLAND

Mrs. Sutherland, of Revelstoke, a member of the Board of the Unemployment Insurance commission and of the National Employment commission which preceded it, the Dominion Council of Health and of the Advisory committee of the B. C. Security Commission, was appointed to the Board of Governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in March, 1942. In her report, with Mr. H. Ross Holland, the province of British Columbia. Mrs. Sutherland is the only woman member of the Board. Her term is for three years, dating from Nov. 1, 1942. She brings a wealth of experience in public service to the deliberations of the Board. Mrs. Sutherland was born in Oak Lake, Man., and educated in Oak Lake, Winnipeg and Saskatoon. From country and city school teaching, she became editor of the Women's Page of the Regina Leader Post, going later to the Grain Grower's Guide, Winnipeg. In 1938 she became Assistant secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, and had much to do with the extension of the limited franchise to women under the Wartime Elections Act. Her writings were quoted in the House of Commons by the present Prime Minister, she has also worked towards making the Naturalization Laws more equitable for women. Her husband, Dr. T. W. Sutherland, is a Revelstoke physician and she has three children.

A World Food Conference

DELIBERATIONS OF THE DELEGATES to the recent United Nations Conference on Food and Agriculture, held at Hot Springs, Virginia, were of interest to all Canadians and particularly to those engaged in the production of foodstuffs. It is apparent that the members of the Canadian delegation took a leading part in the discussions, and importance was attached to the thirteen-hundred-word memorandum they presented to the conference. The Canadian delegation was led by Dr. G. H. S. Barton, Deputy Minister of Agriculture in the Dominion Government, and it included five delegates, nine advisers, and a secretary. Among many other matters dealt with in their report, was the assurance that Canada is ready and willing to co-operate fully with the other nations of the world in the solving of post-war problems, and that Canada is favorable to a permanent international organization to carry on the work begun at these meetings.

• • • • •

Living Levels To Be Raised

Among the many subjects discussed at the conference at which forty-four nations were represented, was the need of an adequate supply of food for the people of every country in the post-war period. It was noted that freedom from want and freedom from fear are closely related and that in improving the production and distribution of food on a world-wide basis, much could be done to solve these two social problems. Surgeon-General Thomas Parran, of the United States Public Health Service, told the gathering that the life-span of every human being could be increased by ten years if present knowledge of nutrition could be applied universally. It has been pointed out many times in recent years that a large part of the population here and throughout the world suffers from malnutrition, and it is hoped that through this conference, a remedy may be found for this deplorable condition.

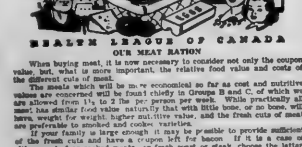
Canada Will Produce More

Canada's part in these post war plans requires a permanent increase in food production, if recommendations of the conference are to be put into effect It is also expected that some form of expansion will take place in Canada's export trade and that there will be provision for the distribution of surplus products grown here, including wheat bacon, and cheese In commenting on Canada's place in the plans made at the conference Dr Barton said "The world picture as it has been developed at this conference could appeal to Canada because it is one of expanding agricultural economy" The results of the discussions of the gathering are encouraging to us, both because they promise much for the future of our agricultural industry and because they promise to raise the standard of living here and abroad. A permanent organization of this food conference is to be set up in Washington shortly, and without doubt much more will be heard of its work.



HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

OUR MEAT RATION

When buying meat, it is now necessary to consider not only the coupon value, but, what is more important, the relative food value and costs of the different cuts of meat.

The meals which will be most economical so far as cost and nutritive values are concerned will be found chiefly in Groups B and C, of which we are allowed from 1½ to 2 lbs. per person per week. While practically all meat has similar food value naturally that with little bone, or no bone, will have, weight for weight, higher nutritive value, and the fresh cuts of meat are preferable to smoked and cooks varieties.

If your family is large enough it may be possible to provide sufficient of the fresh cuts and have a coupon left for bacon. If it is a case of either smoked or cooked meats or fresh roast or steak choose the latter.

Group D includes many of the cheaper cuts, as well as the more expensive meats, and, due to the fact that more bone is present, the allowance is higher 2½ lbs per person per week, so, although they may be slightly more expensive as far as food value is concerned (since you pay for the bone as well), the actual food value of the meat itself will probably be about the same as in the other groups

The allowance is quite sufficient for our needs, and it rests with the individual whether she wishes to have all the meat in the form of a roast or spread it over a longer period by using the smaller cuts, such as steaks and chops. If a roast is chosen, it should be made to last as long as possible, use it cold the second day, then make stew or shepherd's pie.

Remember liver heart, kidney all so valuable are not rationed, also poultry fish, tongue spareribs ox tail, and some cooked and smoked meats and sausages. So with the amount of rationed meat allowed, and using fish once per week poultry possibly once or twice a month, liver or other organ meat once per week and the other allowances meals and eggs occasionally, our families need notice little difference in their meat allowance, except for possibly smaller portions of the rationed meats to make them go as far as possible

Most Important Thing

Automatic Radio Transmitter Part Of Equipment For Merchant Navy

A large yellow "suitcase" tags along with men of the merchant navy when they set out to sea. And to shipwrecked men its contents are more important than either clothing or food. It's an emergency automatic lifeboat radio transmitter and already has saved many seamen's lives during this war.

If no radio man is among the survivors, a seaman can be set in operation by merely pressing a button. This starts an automatic SOS call which continues steadily for two and a half minutes. If attack is from the air, an aircraft distress call—a comely new distress signal—can be sent.

When the enemy strikes the ship's officers must see the transmitter is taken from its locker and put in a lifeboat. It's waterproof, will float and is easily accessible by day or by night for easy eating. If necessary it can be used as a raft.

With each transmitter a separate small receiving set is provided and if it can be saved two-way communication is possible.

The radio is equipped with an eight-volt dry cell battery which will not spill and will provide current for 160 two-and-a-half minute messages. These may be sent at whatever intervals are desired.

SMILE AWHILE

One of John's best friends had died, so he called on the widow to express his sympathy.

"Jim and I were friends," he said. "Isn't there something I could have as a memento of him?"

She rised her velvety brown eyes, which a few seconds before had been wet with tears

"How would I do?" she murmured.

"My dear, a doctor says women require more sleep than men."

"Indeed?"

"Yes, dear;—so—so—perhaps you'd better not wait up for me tonight."

• • • •

Father (sternly, after looking over young son's report card)—Don't tell me you let a mere girl get ahead of you?

Son (meekly)—Yes, Pop, but girls aren't as mere as they used to be in your day.

A professor at the University of Chicago was riding in a taxi to Wrigley field with his wife, superintendent when they were caught in a traffic jam. After some moments of waiting, the taxi driver got out to see what was the matter. She came back, got in, nodded her head in depression.

"It means forever," she said.

Two sweet young things were discussing affairs of the heart.

"So you've accepted Tom?" said one acidly. "I suppose he didn't have to mention that he had previously proposed to me"

"Well, not exactly," replied the other blandly; "but he did confess that he'd done a lot of silly things before he met me."

• • • •

Sue: What were you doing after the accident?

Ned: Just scraping up an acquaintance.

• • • •

Shopper—Will you please tell me where I can see the candelabra?

Salesgirl—Just walk through this arch an the basement, madam, elevator to the left.

"My husband plays tennis, swims and goes in for physical exercises. Does your husband take any regular exercise?"

"Well, last week he was out seven nights running."

• • • •

Doctor: "You should take a bath before you retire."

Patient: "But, doctor, I don't expect to retire for another twenty years."

• • • •

"Before you married me she sighed "you used to call me by long distance just to hear my voice."

"Well," retorted her husband, "now you won't let me get far enough away to use long distance!"

• • • •

Mistress (hearing crash in kitchen): "More dishes, Mary?"

Mary: "No, ma'am, less."

In the sixth grade English class the teacher was discussing etiquette. When she finished, she asked Bobby how he would ask a girl to dance. Bobby replied: "Come on, sweet, let's elope!"

• • • •

"Something seems to have made you sweet this week, Tommy."

"Yes'm! Pa's slipper it was."

Means Hard Work

Producing, Handling And Dehydrating Eggs For Shipment To Britain

Canadian farmers are producing 48 million eggs for the people in Britain to eat this year. In Britain only one fresh egg is allowed each person a month. Eggs from Canada will help enormously in filling out the British ration.

A lot of hard work will go into the production of these eggs and into their handling and dehydrating. Dried eggs are no novelty but have turned out to be the answer to problems of transportation and refrigeration. Not only does dried eggs go into one-fifth of the shipping space formerly used but, with no refrigeration problem, the eggs are most acceptable when they reach Britain.

National Research Council in Ottawa has experimented and investigated the effects of the various processes of drying, packaging, storing and transporting the eggs. This has resulted in improved quality control methods.

The process of drying the egg is very interesting. The eggs are broken, eggs and whites removed from the shells and thoroughly mixed together. The yellow mixture is then pumped through a tiny nozzle at high pressure into a large drying chamber which looks like a huge oil drum shaped. Inside this chamber the fine fog of egg meets a hot dry current of air which dries the egg and into a powder. This powder settles to the bottom of the chamber from where it is carried away to be packed for shipment.

These palatable, high quality dried eggs will be used in baking and for making many nutritious dishes such as omelets, scrambled eggs and custards in fact they can do all that is claimed for them, just by following directions on the package.

It is expected that there will be enough egg powder on the British market to allow each family to purchase a five-ounce package a month, the equivalent of a dozen fresh eggs. Supplies of egg powder which are shipped in 14 pound packages for institutional use will reach British factory workers and children in dishes served in canteens and British communal restaurants.

JUST FOR PRACTICE

A Rome radio broadcast recorded by Reuters agency gave extracts from an article in the newspaper Il Tevere urging Italian gunners "to get more practice" by shooting Allied airmen forced to parachute to the ground. "A parachute comes down slowly," the article said. "It makes an excellent target for machine-gunners and artillery."

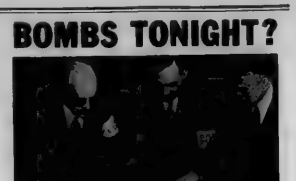
BOMBS TONIGHT?



TOY HOUSES, darts for bombs! A.R.P. workers study models like these, to be ready if real bombs come. They're out training all hours . . . come in hungry. "Man, that Flaked rye of Kellogg's Corn Flakes hits the spot when I get home!" says Cecil Piddy (centre). Bits the spot with 4 out of 5 housewives in Canada, too. Plays Important Part

Army And Navy Strategy Depends Greatly On Radar

The Radar, an electronic device credited with having helped save the British Isles from invasion after the fall of France, is playing an increasingly important part in Army and Navy strategy, according to Dr. W. R. G. Baker, a General Electric Co. vice-president.

Radar—said the radar located planes and ships far beyond man's former "vision" even in fog, darkness and other adverse conditions.

The company's past experience in developing apparatus which forms the basis for the present-day radar enabled construction to start long before Pearl Harbor, he declared.

Many historic remains of Roman and Pre-Roman times can still be found in Tunisia.

Must Be Repaired

French Ships Which Joined Allies Also Need Efficient Men

Several months are expected to elapse before the French ships which have joined the Allies go into action, because after three years of idleness and partial dismantlement they must be cleaned, repaired and refitted and the crews restored to full strength and efficiency. The repairs might be done at Alexandria, Great Britain or the United States, but trained officers and men are scarce, it was pointed out.

The psychological effect of the acquisition of these new units was not questioned in London, but the actual value of the Allies' naval strength was not regarded as high.

The Great Salt Lake in Utah is six to eight times saltier than the ocean.

The last meeting of the Busy Bees club was held at the home of Mrs. McGinnes and also took the form of a shower for our recent bride, Mrs. E. Biedale. Quite a number attended despite the rainy day. President and Vice president were both absent so Mrs. McClellan acted as chairman. A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. Morrison. Due to the last serving day being wet, it was decided to hold it again this Wednesday at Mrs. Repp's. It was pleasing to have Grandma McGinnes as a visitor to the meet.

The next meeting of the B.Bs will be held at Mrs. McClellan's, lunch to be served by Mrs Gee and Mrs. Repp. Following the business proceedings Mrs. McClellan in a very fitting manner presented the shower gifts from the ladies to Mrs. Biedale who much by surprise the latter was unable to unwrap the parcels and thank Mrs. McGinnes on behalf of the group. The best wishes of everyone are extended to Mr and Mrs Biedale for their future happiness.

Board of Trade Notes

S. C. Heckbert was guest speaker at the Board of Trade luncheon meeting on Wednesday when he gave an intensely interesting description of the R.C.A.F manning pool in Edmonton and also of the Mackenzie air-craft repair. The speaker was privileged to make a tour of these wo plants while attending the Canadian Legion convention last week. Mr. Heckbert proved more than usually timely as many men are now tied so closely to their business places through labor shortage possible railroading and worry time that they just have to visualize the tremendous development taking place in Alberta's capital city.

There were 28 members present and regular business was dispensed with. The president welcomed Mr. Hugh R. Evans, one of the very early residents in the Vermilion district, who was present at board of trade proceedings for the first time.

SGT. JACK SMITH MARRIED AT SYLVAN LAKE

The marriage took place at Sylvan Lake of Janet Marjorie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. McCutcheon of Sylvan Lake and Sgt. J. W. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Manasville. The Rev. Ian McKeown officiated at the ceremony which took place in Memorial church.

Attendants were Mrs. Douglas McCutcheon, matron of honor, while Douglas McCutcheon was best man. Ushers were Lieut. Jack Hewlett of Clive and Miss Doris Jamieson of Sylvan Lake. Organist was Mrs. H. A. Fisher of Sylvan Lake while Mrs. Gordon Brown sang.

VERMILION GIRL MARRIED CHRIST CHURCH, EDMONTON

Meech — Korble

In a morning ceremony, Wednesday June 9 at Christ church, Edmonton, Genevieve M. Korble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Korble of Derwent, Alberta, became the bride of Mr. Horace W. Meech, son of Mr. and Mrs. Meech of Vancouver, B.C. Rev. E. S. Otley officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, LAC. F. W. Korble, R.C.A.F., the bride wore a beige dressmaker suit, and corsa brown accessories. A corsage of tea roses and lily-of-the-valley was pinned at her shoulder.

Bridesmaid, Miss Louise M. Korble, a sister of the bride, wore a pastel blue with navy accessories and corsage of Amer can Beauty roses.

Mr. Arthur Wiebe of Vermilion was best man.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was held in the drawing room of the Macdonald, the guests including Mrs. J. W. Korble, mother of the bride, Mr. F. Korble, R.C.A.F., and Mrs Korble, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wiebe Rev. and Mrs E. S. Otley and Mr. T. Korble, R.C.A.F.

The couple left later on a wedding trip to Banff. They will make their home in Lethbridge.

The bride has been on the staff of the Alberta government telephones at Vermilion for the past five years. The groom is a graduate of the University of Alberta where he became affiliated with the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

DEATH AND FUNERAL OF MRS. M. A. FORTIER

Mrs. Mary Fortier, well known resident of Kinsella and Vermilion districts for many years, passed away in the Vermilion hospital on May 29, at the age of 63 years.

The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Father O'Sullivan at the Holy Name church, Kinsella, where a large gathering attended to pay their last respects to their departed friend and neighbor. The pallbearers were Fr. Hilbers, F. Gordon, I. Gordon and F. Shongrunder.

The deceased was born in Quebec, moving to Ontario later, later, with her family she took up farming in the Kilsesty district. After becoming ill she came to Vermilion.

She leaves to mourn her loss, one daughter and three sons, Mrs. J. C. Pisano of Tennessee, Mr. Lawrence Fortier of Vermilion, Arnold Fortier of Islay, Fernando Fortier of Winnipeg.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from the family; Mr. and Mrs. R. Dutton and family; Mr. and Mrs. T. Levison of East Cooley; friends and Neighbors.

Mr. J. Waring had charge of arrangements.

—CARD OF THANKS—

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks for the kindness and sympathy extended us during our recent bereavement, and for the beautiful floral tributes. We also render special thanks to the matron, nurses and staff of the Vermilion municipal hospital and to Iv. Bradford, for their kindness, care and attention to Mrs. Fortier during her last illness.

The Family.

TURKEY HILL TID-BITS

Clive Jones suffered a painful accident last Wednesday when his team ran away and pulled two wheels of a heavy wagon over him. He was unhitching the team at the time and had them all unhooked but one trace when one horse bolted. Young Jones' tongue to one side and this knocked Clive off his feet and under the wheels. He is able to be around but under difficulties.

Annie Gobson, a former Turkey Hill girl, who also hurt last week when he got a bad fall at the oil well. He also is still up and around but finds going difficult. We wish both these boys and speedy recovery.

Mrs. Davis has been spending the past week in town nursing her mother Mrs. Hadley who has been on the sick list.

Tom Davis spent several days in the hospital with blood poisoning in his hand. He is now well on the road to recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rankin had a very pleasant surprise last week end when both Eunice and Harvey returned home. Harvey expects to be stationed in Edmonton for some time.

Dud Funnell returned to his camp at Calgary recently after having spent nearly three weeks at home.

Louise Davis was home from Hussery this last week end.

JUNIOR RED CROSS DISPLAY ATTRACTS WIDE ATTENTION

The work of the Junior Red Cross as carried on in the public school under the supervision of our teachers, was brought to the attention of the general public by a display in the show window of Wener's store during the past week. It is quite safe to say that the work that is being done proved a revelation to many people and brings home the fact that our children are proving adept at handicraft work, as well as gathering up a knowledge of the three Rs in our public school. It also reflects considerable credit on the teachers as the work entailed is not compulsory, and is another example of the many extra curricula duties which the teachers cheerfully assume for the benefit of the community.

Vermilion Red Cross Hosts

Vermilion Branch of the Canadian Red Cross will meet at 8.30 p.m. Monday June 21 in the Memorial hall. Representatives of auxiliaries, all members and friends are invited to attend.

LANDMARK DISAPPEARING

The C.N.R. restaurant, a landmark here for 32 years, is being torn down and the material will be utilized in building a house. This building, which rejoiced under numerous names during its lengthy period or useful ness to the public, was generally known as the "Beanery". It was erected and operated as an eating house for railroad men in the old days when railroaders were really numerous here, and for lunches for passengers on the right trains. More recently it catered also to the general public and those addicted to night life were always sure of being able to get a lunch at the Beanery, no matter what the hour. In the good old hunting days too, the early sinned stopped there for breakfast.

The lean to addition of the building was moved a short time ago to the property of Mrs. Eckford where it will be utilized as a kitchen while Ed Lippert purchased the building proper and has nearly completed rearing it down. He will erect a house in the west end.

Rainfall Reaches 6.11 in. Above 1942 and Also Higher Than Long Time Average

Heavy rains during the past week have brought the rainfall figures since April 1 to 6.11 inches. This is higher than the long time average of 4.83 for this period and also above the 5.08 mark set last year. The past week has been almost daily rainfall with a very heavy downpour on Sunday when nearly an inch was received.

Rainfall for June is 3.56 inches to date.

Total rainfall for 1942 was 12.53 inches, while the long-time average, taken over a period of ten years, is 10.92. Figures are supplied through the courtesy of Ray Jory of the Searle Grain Company.

Crops are lagging some ten to twelve days behind due to lack of warmth. Wheat acreage is estimated to be down 20%, and oats down 5%. Quite an acreage of summer fallow has not been seeded due to the severe labor shortage. There is still an odd district with some threshing to do in it.

PROVINCIAL SHORTHORN SHOW AT LOCAL FAIR

Entries from All Over Alberta

The Provincial Shorthorn show is to be held in conjunction with Vermilion Fair and already entries are being received from all over the province; the well known P.J. Roch farms at Morrin, Alta., are the latest to evince interest in this show and their stock will come to Vermilion from the A. circuit at Saskatoon. Breeders interested in shorthorn cattle will have a unique opportunity to see the best shorthorns from Alberta in the show ring and special features will surround the judging of these important classes.

ESSENTIAL LIVESTOCK IS FEATURED BY THE VERMILION FAIR

New Lamb, Hog and Beef Classes Initiated

Acting in conjunction with the Dominion and Provincial Governments the feature of Vermilion Fair this year will be the classes for beef cattle, sheep and swine. Exhibitors will be interested to learn that new Beef Cattle classes have been initiated as follows:

Steer or Heifer under 850 lbs. — prize, $10. $8. $6. $4. $2; Steer or heifer 850 lbs. and over—$10. $8. $6. $4. $2. These animals will be judged on a strictly commercial basis and should offer a chance for keen excellent opportunity or comparison.

Sheep raisers are also offered an unusual opportunity, though a new class for market lamb, judged on a commercial basis with prizes of $6. $5. $4. $2. $2 and $1 these lambs will be judged the first day of the fair and the three top prize winners will then be slaughtered under the supervision of the society and the carcasses will then be judged and exhibited; prizes will be given on the carcass class in the amounts of $4. $3. $2. and the animals will be the property of the exhibitor and available for sale.

A similar class for hogs has been added, prizes to be the same as for the lambs and the same general policy will be followed with regard to judging and slaughtering.

Pilot Able To Help Sick Missionary In Lonely Arctic

Edmonton — Airline officials disclosed how the faint crackle of a radio distress signal barley audible through the static of an Arctic summer night, brought help to a stricken missionary in the far north during the latter part of April.

The missionary, Father C. Adam, Oblate order priest with a parish along the lonely Arctic coast east of Coppermine, N.W.T., is now recovering in Fort Resolution hospital after being flown there by a Canadian Pacific Air Lines rescue plane.

Pilot Ernie Boffa and his mechanic, Thornton Tweed of Edmonton were on a freighting trip at Yellowknife late in April when faint distress signals were received telling of Father Adam's illness at Burnside Harbor, Arctic outpost on Bathurst Inlet 1,000 miles to the north.

Loading extra gasoline in their eight-passenger Norseman plane, Boffa and Tweed took off and had Father Adam in hospital at Fort Resolution, 150 miles south of Burnside Harbor, the next day.

In Martinique in the past 300 years there have been 33 hurricanes, seven earthquakes, 11 tidal waves, two famines and one drought.

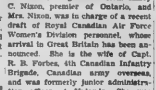
She is the wife of Capt. R. B. Furbee, 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade, Canadian army overseas, and was formerly junior administration officer at Uplands. She was stationed at air force headquarters for a short time before being posted overseas. A brother, Pilot Officer J. C. Nixon, R.C.A.F., was killed overseas in 1941.

Garden Pests

Department Of Agriculture Suggests Ways Of Protecting Gardens And Plants



Cutworms are present in most gardens almost every year. These greyish-brown caterpillars feed at night, cutting off transplants and seedlings at the ground level. They hide in the soil during the day. The Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture suggests that in small gardens, plants can be protected by wrapping paper loosely around the stems or by placing tin cans, with top and bottom removed, over the transplants. Be sure that the lower end of either protector is embedded in the soil.

In larger gardens, where the area to be protected is more extensive, poisoned bran bait will have to be used. This bait is composed of five pounds of bran, three ounces of paris green and one quarter of water.

Before transplanting, the bait should be sprinkled lightly over the garden. This should be done in the evening, following a warm day. Two applications are recommended at an interval of three days. As this bait is poisonous it must not be left exposed in containers where it will be available to young children, livestock, or birds.

He—Say, who is that funny-looking fellow who drives your car and works around in the garden? He always frowns at me whenever he sees me here.

She—Oh, don't mind him. That's only father.

A gentleman from Utah once lured Mark Twain into an argument concerning polygamy, belaboring the humorist with long and tedious exposition in favor of plural marriages. Mark strove valiantly to beat down the claims of his adversary, but with little success. Finally the man challenged Twain to cite some passage of Scripture expressly forbidding polygamy.

"Certainly," replied the humorist. "No man can serve two masters."

The Art Of Forgetting

Try And Remember Only The Good Points Of Your Friends

If you would increase your happiness and prolong your life, forget your neighbor's faults, forget the slander you have heard, forget the temptations, forget the fault-finding, and give little thought to the cause that provoked it, forget the peculiarities of your friends, and only remember the good points that make you fond of them; forget all personal quarrels and histories, which you may have heard by accident, and which if repeated, would seem a thousand times worse than they are; blot out as far as possible all the disagreeables of life. They will come and will grow larger as you remember them, and constant thought of acts of meanness or worse still malice, will only tend to make us more familiar with them. Obliterate everything disagreeable from yesterday. Begin with a clean slate for today, and write upon it, for sweet memory's sake, only those things that are lovely and lovable.—Exchange.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

LAW TO ONESELF

It matters not what you are thought to be, but what you are.—Publius Syrus.

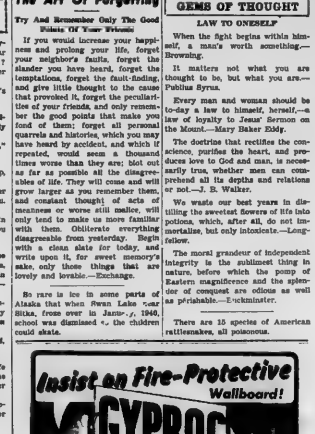
Every man and woman should be to-day a law to himself, herself,—a law of loyalty to Jesus' Sermon on the Mount.—Mary Baker Eddy.

The doctrine that rectifies the conscience, purifies the heart, and produces love to God and man, is necessarily true, whether men can comprehend all its depths and relations or not.—J. B. Walker.

We waste our best years in distilling the sweetest flowers of life into potions, which, after all, do not immortalise, but only intoxicate.—Longfellow.

The moral grandeur of independent integrity is the sublimest thing in nature, before which the pomp of Eastern magnificence and the splendor of conquest are odious as well as perishable.—Eschminster.

There are 15 species of American rattlesnakes, all poisonous.



Education In Canada

THE RECENT MEETINGS of the Canada Newfoundland Education Association, held in Winnipeg, have brought before the public some of the problems connected with education in Canada at the present time. Dr. W. P. Percival, of Quebec, was the chairman of a committee which made the first Dominion wide survey ever conducted in the field of educational needs of Canada, and he presented the results of this survey during the conference. The main points included in the report were the recommendations that the initial expenses for schools be paid out of special funds and the cost of education be doubled that all children be educated until their sixteenth year and that they should attend school during part of their seventeenth and eighteenth year; and that the basic salary for teachers in Canada should be $1,321 a year, which is the present minimum in British Columbia.

* * * *

The report also carried recommendations that in the future emphasis should be placed on principles of morality, and that the importance of worthy citizenship should be impressed in the schools. It right, cutting off transplants and seedlings at the ground level. They hide in the soil during the day. The Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture suggests that in small gardens, plants can be protected by wrapping paper loosely around the stems or by placing tin cans, with top and bottom removed, over the transplants. In larger gardens, where the area to be protected is more extensive, poisoned bran bait will have to be used. This bait is composed of five pounds of bran, three ounces of paris green and one quarter of water.

Before transplanting, the bait should be sprinkled lightly over the garden. This should be done in the evening, following a warm day. Two applications are recommended at an interval of three days. As this bait is poisonous it must not be left exposed in containers where it will be available to young children, livestock, or birds.

Citizenship To Be Emphasized

also stressed the need for the training of pupils in useful crafts, as well as in academic subjects and the report stated that "the time has come when the call for more practical subjects has reached the irresistible stage." The war has affected education, as it has almost every aspect of our national life, and it has brought into prominence many problems, some of which are being dealt with now, and others which are being studied in connection with the Dominion's plans for reconstruction in the years following the war. As in many other branches of public service, it is apparent that education in Canada could be developed to more fully meet the needs of the present day, and at the Canada-Newfoundland Education Association meetings these matters were studied.

Wartime Needs Have Been Met

Educational needs of the country in wartime have been met by special provisions in the schools and universities in Canada. The Youth Training Plan which has been carried on so effectively in the western provinces, has provided training for large numbers of technicians for the armed forces, munition plants, and other branches of war work. A great many men of the Royal Canadian Navy, The Royal Canadian Air Force, and the Army are also receiving technical training in Canadian universities. There are many questions of finance, of the adjustment of salary levels for teachers, of the creation of larger school units, and of a broadening of the curriculum, which should be given consideration now by all thinking people here. Education is a fundamental factor in the shaping of the life of the nation, and as it is improved, many of our present social and economic problems will disappear.

THE EXPERIENCE

Much that we admire in the English is symbolized by the way Winston Churchill pronounces the word "Nazi." In contrast to the careful, cultured, and somewhat impactful "Notzy" of the radio announcers, his "Nasszy" is a simple snarl of derision, implying that it's impossible for a plain man to get the hang of any such foreign world and in this instances, certainly not worth the trouble.—The New Yorker.

More than 10,000,000 people (nearly 30 per cent. of Britain's population) contribute regularly to the Red Cross "Penny-a-week" fund.

New Plane Now Being Designed Is All-Canadian

Ottawa.—Munitions Minister Howe told the House of Commons that the work of designing a four-engined plane for future Canadian transport work has started but that production is at least two years away. Mr. Howe made this statement after he referred to a new cargo-carrying plane of "trans-oceanic type" which was being made now and would soon be coming out of a Canadian factory.

His parliamentary assistant, Lionel Chevrier (Lib., Stormont), declined to comment on the minister's statement but elsewhere it was learned that this cargo-carrying plane is a version of the Lancaster, now being made at Malton, Ont., the first to be test-flown soon. A reliable informant told The Canadian Press that it is the intention to turn out some Lancasters with commercial fuselages—instead of bomber fuselages.

Mr. Howe said outside the house, that the Malton, Ont., Lancaster plant would supply the planes for Canada's new trans-Atlantic air service, scheduled to start early in July. Presumably it will be the commercial version of the Lancaster that will ultimately be used.

After referring to the plane of "trans-oceanic type" now being built, Mr. Howe said:

"But we are doing something that has never been done before. We are designing a plane which will be all-Canadian and which we think will be the plane of the future."

The minister was answering questions about aircraft production from J. G. Diefenbaker (Prog. Con., Lake Centre), who questioned why Canada was not expanding aircraft production and getting into production of cargo-carrying planes.

Mr. Howe said Canada is making cargo planes, the Noordyun Norseman, as rapidly as they can be turned out and went on to tell of the new plane soon coming out of transoceanic type and the other in the design stage.

Mr. Diefenbaker said 25 per cent of the United States war program was aircraft production and wanted to know why Canada was not doing more in that line and why engine production had not started. Mr. Howe said Canada is spending proportionately as much as the United States on aircraft production, 25 per cent. of the whole war program, or $1,000,000,000 out of a total program of $3,500,000,000. The same proportion held good for the next two years.

"We are increasing the production of aeroplanes and working very hard at it. We still have to find quite a few thousand men to bring our production up to our present objective," said Mr. Howe. He said any man with any skill would be hired if he presented himself at an aircraft plant.

ARRIVE SAFELY

Another Large Contingent Of R.C.A.F. Men Now In Britain

An East Coast Canadian Port — Thousands of young Canadian airmen have arrived in Britain after the safe passage of the largest R.C.A.F. movement ever to leave this port.

Sailing with them were flying men from practically every Dominion and representatives of the fighting forces of Norway, The Netherlands, France and other countries.

Rounding out the completely air force movement was a small group of Canadian girls, members of the women's division of the R.C.A.F.

Among the veterans aboard was Sqdn. Ldr. S. L. Bigarden of Wynyard, Sask., with nine years of flying under his belt. He first won his private flying license at Winnipeg in 1934 and three years later joined the R.A.F. He returned to Canada two years ago and had been instructing since, at Moose Jaw and Wrybura Bank.

Another pilot officer among the hundreds of complete air crews was N. M. Thomson, Saskatoon.

DESERVED WELCOME

New York Paper Has High Praise For King, George

New York.—The New York Times, commenting editorially on a King George's visit to North Africa, said he "deserves all the warmth of welcome that he received in North Africa."

Remarking that there are "few harder worked persons than members of the British royal family," the newspaper referred to the King as "equal to the arduous duties of his place, brave, clear-headed, unpretentious."

Canada Plans To Carry Air Mail Overseas

Ottawa.—The wings of Canadian air service, now travelling from Newfoundland to Victoria, will soar over the Atlantic ocean before another month is done, Munitions Minister Howe told the House of Commons.

The minister announced that arrangements have been completed for establishment of a Canadian government-owned trans-Atlantic air service to carry mail to and from the Canadian armed forces in the British Isles and to transport members of the forces government officials and technicians engaged in production of war materials.

"The new war service is not a commercial or a permanent one," said Mr. Howe. "It will carry no fare-paying passengers.

"Space on the aircraft from Canada will be allocated by the deputy minister of transport in Ottawa, Lt.-Cmdr. C. P. Edwards. Space on aircraft westward will be allocated by the Canadian high commissioner in London, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey."

Mr. Howe said outside the house that the service would be conducted by Canadian-built Lancaster bombers, the first of which is scheduled to come off the assembly line at Malton, Ont., shortly.

Development of the air mail service for the forces was forecast last year by Postmaster General Mulock. Following a visit to the United Kingdom Mr. Mulock said pressure on other air services across the ocean for the transport of mail to the forces was heavy, and the Dominion must consider establishing its own service.

In his statement, Mr. Howe commented that the growing strength of the Canadian armed forces overseas and their increasing activities, had made necessary to establish "this quick and effective means of communication with the United Kingdom for men and materials.

"The need for a speedy and regular troops' airmail service is particularly pressing. More than 250,000 members of the Canadian armed forces now are in the United Kingdom. During the past year, due to lack of space on aircraft, they have unfortunately not been receiving mail regularly and quickly. It is expected that the initial flight of the new service will occur early in July."

The minister said it was anticipated the service would take care of all airgraph mail and all armed forces' letters. It was not believed that parcels could be carried at any time.

The route to be flown by the Lancasters in the wartime service already had been pioneered by the civilian air line service, Trans Canada Air Lines. O. T. Larson, vice-president of T.C.A., said at Winnipeg that T.C.A. has had crews on north Atlantic service for a year and a half, with a number of pioneer and test flights made for the study of aircraft and routes.

Over the whole field of war production output, in the United Kingdom, in 1942 was 50% above that of 1941.

Guerillas In Greece Refuse To Cease Their Activities

Ankara.—A German-Italian drive against Greek guerillas, with tanks, planes and artillery in support, has failed to smoke out the Greeks from their mountain strongholds, information from Greek sources says.

According to these sources, Germans issued an ultimatum late in May directing the guerillas to cease their activities before June 4 under the threat of powerful repressive action.

The guerillas were said to have ignored the ultimatum and a strong force was reported sent against them. Only a few of the irregulars were captured, the Greek informants said.

Department Of Munitions Has Many New Ideas

Ottawa.—Savings already effected in the operations of the munitions department were described in the House of Commons by Lionel Chevrier, parliamentary assistant to Munitions Minister Howe. He declared that after 3½ years of war, with an unprecedented outlay of public funds, there have been few charges of graft and almost no accusations of improper use of war money. "In the few cases where waste and dishonesty have been discovered, the department has acted quickly and effectively," he said

He said that production units of the department are carrying on a conservation campaign by which it is expected $155,000,000 will be saved through improvements in the use of material, machine tools and man hours.

By redesigning the body-forging of a Bren gun nearer to the finished shape it was possible to save 1,200,000 pounds of stainless steel and a large quantity of scarce chrome as well as 10,000 man hours on machining. The value of the saving was placed at $125,000.

By replacing a small catch on the Bren gun magazine formerly built up with welding rod, by three press operations, savings of 108,000 pounds of welding rod, $39,000 worth of oxygen and acetylene, 115,000 man hours and 10 machine tools were saved, with an estimated total of $320,000.

Making 25-pounder shell fuses of zinc die castings instead of bronze bar stock saved 44,000,000 pounds of brass, 816,000 manhours, and eliminated 15 machine tools, a total saving valued at over $6,500,000.

Hundreds of successful changes had been made in the Universal carrier. One in the track sprocket alone saved $1,700,000.

Changes made in the packing of motor vehicles for overseas shipment saved 28,000,000 cubic feet of shipping space, 3,635 freight cars, over $2,000,000 worth of lumber and nails and over $1,000,000 in labor

New Terminal For Montreal

Hon. J. K. Michaud, Minister of Transport, will officially open the new Canadian National station at Montreal on July 14. The next day, Canada's newest terminal will begin business. An outgrowth and modernization of the railway's facilities in the metropolis, it has brought about the elimination of grade crossings, the extension of yards, the co-ordination of a vast network of tracks to provide for faster handling of freight, an improvement in the flow of passenger traffic and a new station to meet the needs of the city. The station building itself is modern in design and includes such up-to-date features as a nursery for travellers' children. All train operations over the approaches and within the station area will be by electric locomotion. Method Used For Taxing Overtime May Be Changed

Ottawa.—Revenue Minister Gibson told the House of Commons that while there is no possibility of a man earning less by working more under present tax laws, the department of national revenue is making studies with a view to finding more satisfactory ways of taxing overtime earnings.

Both Mr. Gibson and Munitions Minister Howe denied statements by C. E. Johnston AND How Rivers, that absenteeism was caused by the tax law taking away all or more than the extra money earned by working longer hours. "There is no combination of circumstances under the present tax laws which penalizes a man for working more," said Mr. Howe. "It's impossible for a man to work more and earn less. A man earns more if he works more."

He said Mr. Johnston did not understand the tax laws and asked him not to make statements "misleading and dangerously misleading" to workmen without looking into the law carefully. "There are enough destructive stories abroad now without having them spread from this House of Commons," said Mr. Howe.

Mr. Johnston said if a woman earned $660 a year she paid no tax. If she earned $661 she paid a tax which reduced her income below $660, Mr. Gibson said this was not so. No tax reduced an income below the exemption level.

Clarence Gillis (CCF Cape Breton South) said where income tax was deducted at the source on weekly earnings on the basis of overtime pay the actual deductions sometimes resulted in a man receiving less than he would if no overtime were worked. "At the end of the year you can get a refund if you can get hold of one of these forms and get a couple of lawyers to fill it out for you" he said

The system militated against the whole basis of seeking increased war production on an overtime basis The people did not understand the rebates available at the end of the year and in any case it was hard to get rebates. It might take a year or two before they could be obtained.

Mr Gibson said overtime might raise a man into a higher bracket than the one in which he would eventually have to pay. That was causing the department some concern and was being studied to see if some other methods of taxing overtime could be found, which would equalize the tax and not cause dissatisfaction.

Mr Howe said in connection with coal production that he thought workers were discouraged from overtime work which was essential to increased production as there was little prospect of getting enough additional men into the mines either from the army or elsewhere to raise the output

SERVICE TRAINING

Two Weeks' Course For Air Cadets Held At Saskatoon

Winnipeg (RCAF News Service), — That Air Cadet officers may have the advantage of service training, 55 of them are attending a two weeks' instructional course at No. 7 Initial Training School, Saskatoon, Sask., headquarters of No. 2 Training Command RCAF announced. Another course will be held in August at which approximately 100 air cadet officers are expected to attend. The place where this course is to be held will be decided later.

Air Cadet Officers in No. 2 Training Command are largely responsible for the training of 47 squadrons of Air Cadets made up of nearly 3,000 cadets. There are 12 squadrons of these in Winnipeg, and the rest are scattered with localities in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Northern Ontario.

Up to now cadets had their best opportunity to become acquainted with the R.C.A.F. when they visited summer camps on air force stations in the Command Now, when their duties consist the instructional course they will be able to have more of the air force atmosphere about the squadrons.

Quarters for Air Cadet officers attending the course are to be supplied by the R.C.A.F. Some may be under canvas for the two weeks. Officers will work and drill in service khaki trousers and battle dress. While attending the Air Cadet officers will be honourary members of the R.C.A.F. Officers' Mess and are to be accorded full messing privileges. Familiarization flights will be part of their instructional program.

VERMILION VALLEY M. D. OFFERS MAGPIE BOUNTIES

A meeting of the Council was held in the Municipal office on Saturday July 12. This meeting was held a week earlier than usual to allow the Secretary to attend the refresher course in Edmonton. Those present were Reeve Mr. N. McClellan, Deputy Reeve Mr. D. McHowe and Crs. Gordon, Shepherd, Lord and Kent.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Financial statement for May was read and accepted.

A bounty on magpies' eggs and feet was decided on and the necessary by-law was given three readings. The bounty will be paid at the following rate: 5c for each pair of feet and 5c per egg. In addition a first prize of $2 and a second prize of $1 to the school getting the highest and next highest points. The school children and others will hand the eggs or feet to the teacher who will issue a voucher on the M.D. and will be payable at the municipal office.

Applications from Donald Wilson and Mary McKinnon for Old Age Pensions were approved providing the applicants have lived the required time in Canada, via — 20 years.

Council accepted responsibility for the care of Shirley Tattersall until other arrangements can be made.

The following were appointed weed inspectors: Alex Calloway for Div. 2 and that portion of Div. 3 south of the river; Jesse Pechaquan for Div. 1 and 3 and that portion of Div. 2 north of the river; Lloyd Brown for Div. 1 and 6.

Wild Land Tax on W½ 5-50-5-4 for 1943 was cancelled. This land has been leased by the C.P.R. Co. to Robt. Rankin.

Council ordered that the title on S.W. 13-50-6 be received in the name of H. J. Tattersall. The two were consolidated as one unit and it now appears 12.61 S.E. ¼ was never owned by Tattersall.

Pound fees of $2.85 to Monaghan Bros. and drainage to John Shaw of $5 were ordered paid. In the matter of eight horses impounded in Reeve McLean's pound with damages of $25, a committee reported adversely on the damages and the same were not allowed.

Secretary-Treasurer was instructed to obtain the Minister's approval for the sale of N.½ 14-53-5 to C. Christmann for $2960.

Pay-sheets amounting to $185 and bills amounting to $885 were passed and ordered paid and Council adjourned.

UNPLEASANT — BUT NECESSARY

From the Ottawa Evening Citizen, Rudyard Kipling was at his best when immortalizing the colorful British private 'soldier in prose and verse. A staff officer once asked Kipling why he did not do the same for those of higher military rank. The poet replied that it was impossible to become lyrical over King's Rules and Regulations.

It is impossible, of course, to become enthusiastic about rules and regulations of any sort, for the simple reason that by their very nature they invariably impose restrictions upon the freedom of action of individuals. When anything of the kind threatens British people they write to The Times about it. While it all to the good in time of peace; but in war time, particularly in war against the most overbearing would - be conquerors the world has ever known, we should all think well before complaining about government orders which might temporarily deprive us of the right to live our lives in our own chosen way.

The various orders that are issued from time to time by the National Selective Service are cases in point. Nobody will contend that these orders could possibly be welcomed by anybody. But those in authority have decided that they are necessary if we are to win this war without too much dislocation of our national life.

The object of the most recent order issued by the National Selective Service is to make available for essential work men who are now employed in non-essential occupations, that is, men who are producing things or rendering services which, in these difficult times, we can readily do without.

It is not pleasant to have the even tenor of our lives disrupted, but war is no respecter of persons. Thousands of our young men of military age have come straight from the colleges and joined the armed forces of this country. Thousands of older men have given up lucrative jobs in order to play their part. It seemed so bright in order to play an honorable part in putting down oppression. Many of them have already given their lives.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

Another quilt was finished Wednesday when the ladies met at the home of Mrs. Repp. The next meeting day is June 30th and at Mrs. Deford's.

A meeting was held at the school on Thursday night to discuss a picnic or treats for the children at the close of school. Due to war time shortages it was the general opinion that kiddies like it was decided to take all the school children to the shop on Saturday June 26. Transportation will be provided by the parents. Quite a number were in favor of a picnic. A good many more than did attend should have been present at the meeting.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. J. Repp on the birth of a baby girl on Saturday June 19.

Mrs. Knutson was a recent visitor at the Riedale home and Miss Smith, the same evening visited the Gow home.

The Chinese thought of it first!

THOUSANDS of years ago, the Chinese used a form of gunpowder—a flaming chemical of defence dumped over battlements upon invading enemy.

And from this age-old beginning has evolved explosive powder made from high-power alcohol. Like the airplane, it has been developed for the progress of mankind—but in evil hands it has meant tyranny and enslavement.

As the tempo of this war for liberty increases and our armed forces in all parts of the world swing to the offensive, more explosive powder for our shells, bombs, depth charges and torpedoes is a vital necessity.

And because we have vast fields of grain and the facilities to convert them into high-proof alcohol, the United Nations shall have an overwhelming superiority of fire-power to pulverize the enemy into unconditional surrender.

Thus, China's primitive powder of defence has finally developed into the weapon to drive tyranny forever from this earth. In a way, it is the hand of ancient China reaching out in defence of free men everywhere.

Alcohol for War is also used in the manufacture of Synthetic Rubber, Drugs and Medicines, Photographic Film, Lacquers and Varnishes, Dressing Jelly, Cosmetics and other Necessities, Instruments, Plastics, Blueproof Glass and many other products. Every Seagram plant in Canada and the United States is engaged 100% in the production of high-proof Alcohol for War.

There is no music in the roar of a forest fire. It is a dirge filled with the promise of death

SCIENCE STEPS IN TO HELP THE CANADIAN FARMER

Today, in every field of industrial endeavour, science is playing a most important part, and this is true also in farm production. It is combatting the pest menace enriching the soil and, what is more important science is doing a real job for the Canadian farmer in providing the right type of lubrication to protect his farm machinery against today's extra wear and tear. Far in these wartime days every piece of farm equipment must work harder and longer. The demand on farm machinery for harder work, increases in ratio with the demand on the farmer for greater production. Care then for farm equipment is one of the most important considerations and proper lubrication means greater care. To afford farming industries every help in the right selection and prompt supply of correct lubricants McColl-Frontenac Oil Company Limited has a representative in this district who is prepared to advise farmers on the operation and preservation of farm machinery

Noticed around: Bill Irving cutting his winter's wood on the old homestead. He walks to and fro until that means a trip of nearly 10 miles which is good going Bill. Wonder how many young fellows would do that?

Noticed in the big list of decorations in the name of Major Jean Vallee, she has been decorated First Class Member of the Royal Red Cross a principal matron in the R.C.A.M.C. She is well known as a former nurse on the Vermilion hospital staff and is now in Africa

Jerry Harle spent a nice time on Saturday night at the Wilson home playing with Freddy Brook and Evelyn Wilson while his dad was busy trapping Bob Wilson's plave. It rents the farm while Bob is away doing war work.

Phone 7 for Quality and Service

A second class for the training of women radio operators for Trans-Canada Air Lines will be opened on June 21. It will last four months. Twenty-two women, mostly from western Canada, have been registered.

Canadian National Steamships acts as agents for the Canadian Government in the operation of Axis ships seized as prizes of war.

With the extension of its mainline to Victoria, B.C., Trans-Canada Air Lines now has the longest air route on the continent, 3,911 miles.

FREE SHOW FOR CHILDREN HERE ON FRIDAY, JULY 16th

Admission Is 1½ Pounds of Fat

A free show for all school children and those younger than school age is being presented at the Columbia theatre on Friday July 16. Two complete programs will be run starting at 2.30 and 4.30.

The admission ticket is obtained in this manner— Each child will take 1½ pounds of rendered fats to any one of the three meat markets in Vermilion. Bailey's, Craig's, Davies', and on exchange the fat for an admission ticket to the show. Should there be several children, as in one family, who wish to bolt their fat in one container, each child in that group will obtain a ticket, providing weight average 1½ pounds per child

Fats should be delivered to the meat markets well in advance of the day of the show in order to avoid any last minute rush.

Teachers or rural schools should instruct their pupils of this plan as they are eligible for the free show also. The more fats the children turn in the more bulk-is can be fired by our Canadian soldiers in their great effort to win the war

The free show is being sponsored by the Vermilion Salvage committee of the board of trade in co-operation with Manager W. P. Pilkie and the management of Bailey's Craig's and Davies meat markets.

What would it mean if it did?

OVER and over again, it's the lack of proper lubrication that causes costly breakdowns to farm machinery and damage to parts that may be difficult to replace. There is no need for this to happen to you. For, you can easily obtain a regular supply of the famous McColl-Frontenac farm lubricants from the McColl-Frontenac Representative in your district and avoid loss of time, money and even your equipment itself!

There is a McColl-Frontenac petroleum product made to meet the -abrication requirements of every piece of equipment on your farm.

Here are four that will definitely help you to keep your machinery in perfect working order.

RED INDIAN MOTOR OIL and RED INDIAN AVIATION MOTOR OIL

Here are two great oils that will lengthen the life of any engine. They ensure full power and economy under all operating conditions. These finest oils combat acid corrosion, friction, waste and wear. They stand up under highest engine heat . . . they flow and lubricate the moment the engine starts.

TEXACO MARFAK

For Wheel-Bearings and Vital Friction Points

This famous lubricant lasts longer and lubricates better under the toughest working conditions. It is self-sealing and keeps the working lubricant in where it is needed most, prolonging life of bearings and universal joints by keeping out rust, sand and dust.

URSA X^(10) (CANADA)

The Perfect Motor Oil for Diesel and Heavy-Duty Gasoline Engines.

Highly resistant to the formation of gum, sludge and carbon. Even X^(10) (Canada) keeps rings, ring grooves, valves, screens and filters clean. Provides maximum bearing protection. Ensures full power and lower fuel consumption.

Sixteen Years Ago To-day

Interesting Items Gleaned From the Files of the Vermilion Standard
16 YEARS AGO TODAY — 1927

June 23, 1927

F. M. Stewart of Edmonton was appointed principal of the Vermilion public school at a meeting of the school board. Resignations accepted were H D Houston and Miss Watson from the high school staff and Miss L. Reid and Miss Peterson from the public school.

James Arnold Smith, 11-year-old son of Mr. A Smith was drowned in the Vermilion river on Tuesday morning between 11 and 12 a.m. The sad fatality was caused by the capsizing of an old punt in which were the drowned boy and four other school companions.

The Board of Trade has sent resolutions to the provincial government urging that an all-weather road be built from the eastern boundary of the province through Vermilion to Jasper.

June 21, 1911

After the midsummer holiday four teachers will be engaged in the town school. The attendance for May and June averaged 125 pupils, too large a number for three teachers to handle Ferrell and Walker, contractors, are engaged in erecting residences for J Kennedy and A. Youngblut, both on Second Street North. J. Lipsey is building a residence for himself east of the curling rink.

The bakery and confectionery of R. J. McClinton has been bought by Charlie Tubb, Mr. McClinton has purchased a large business in North Battleford.

CAMPBELL LAKE

(This bulletin was received just too late for last week's issue of the Standard.)

People here have been so very busy the rain has been no time for news or write-up and that includes your correspondent.

We will try and give you items of interest for next week's issue.

Geo Dollman was taken suddenly ill on May 23 and had to be rushed into the hospital where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. While he was away, his friends and neighbors gathered at his place and had a "bee" and finished painting in his crop for him. George is now home and looking fit by well.

The farmers are report all their gardens are up but are progressing slowly. The cutworms are bad in some places. The recent frosts, however, while they did not damage the crops, did affect the smaltaloms, but not seriously, for some sheltered trees appear to be bearing fruit.

The rains while so very necessary have hampered operations, but most farmers in the district have completed seeding; some still have to sow for green feed.

The high wind on May 30 blew down five main line telephone poles, putting the whole line out of commission for the time being. Those have since been repaired by the telephone men from town.

Church was held for the first time this season in the North Vermilion church on May 16 with Miss Jean Holland in charge. There is Sunday school at 2 p.m. before each service.

Miss Holland is planning summer camps for the girls, and the boys, also for the Young People.

Cpl. George Mead of Flagg, Ont., arrived home on leave on June 6. He was accompanied by his brother Bert of the R.C.A.F. also, from Edmonton. George left to return to his post on June 12.

Miss Mahaffey took the children on a hike and treated them to a weiner roast at Campbell Lake on June 16.

We hope Miss Marcella Pechonpanch, who is at present in Lamont hospital, will soon be well enough to be back home again.

We also wish Mr. John Graham who is a patient in Vermilion hospital a speedy recovery.

The ladies of the North Vermilion church are meeting at the home of Mrs. P. Owen, on Wednesday June 23.

Mr. Jacob Bruner, of Edmonton, who has been in charge of the building of the new drill hall at the Barracks, was a visitor at the home of he sister on Monday evening

Mrs. Ree Kelly and daughter Marion spent the week end at Clare, more visiting her mother Mrs. Hankins.

Congratulations are in order for Cpl. and Mrs. P. McCambridge of Calgary on the birth of a son on June 9.

Mr. Jas. Kenny Sr. is the owner of a new car.

Pte. Geo. Richardson of Victoria, B.C., is home on furlough.

TWO-THIRDS of the total number of loans outstanding in Canada's Chartered Banks average less than $500 per loan.

Through bank loans, Canada's Chartered Banks help Canadians to benefit themselves, their fellows and their country. Many of these loans are small—but all contribute their share to the day-by-day activities of Canadian enterprise.

Some further facts about Canada's Banks:

Chartered Banks' loans related to agriculture as shown on the last official return to Parliament, totalled $540,118,473. This sum included loans to farmers, ranchers, fruit raisers and to grain dealers and grain exporters.

Every general manager today heading a Chartered Bank entered the bank as a junior in some small branch.

Up to and including February, 1943, no fewer than 6803 men and 154 women bank employees had enlisted in the armed forces.

Canadians in every walk of life and in every part of Canada are served by more than three thousand branches and sub-agencies maintained by the Chartered Banks to facilitate the nation's business.

CJCA is pleased to present Miss June Sutherland in a 15-minute program "On The Home Front," each weekday but Saturday at 10:30 a.m. On the Home Front brings you authoritative material on home conservation and thrift planning. Currently, the program features tips on modern canning and preserving methods. This program should prove very popular with victory minded housewives. For hints that are patriotic and thrifty, be sure to be on hand at 10:30 a.m. for, On the Home Front.

"Last Night in the Rose Room", featuring Johnny Duffy and his orchestra, is a lively, cheering presentation of good music. This show, brought to you by the Kelsey Co., is just a little different from the usual musical program, and should be a very enjoyable highlight in your busy morning. Don't forget your date with Johnny Duffy every morning at 10:45, Monday through Friday. We'll be waiting for you!

PEOPLE WHO AREN'T THERE —

That growing legion in radio is a select group composed of "the unheard characters of the airwaves". Winifred Vista's "Myra" is perhaps familiar to radio audiences that when you pick up the 'phone, be it Winnipeg or Vancouver, you half expect her to cut in on your conversation. But Myrt is only a myth—a frequent interruption from the Winnifred Vista telephone company when Fibber Mcgee is putting in a call. Myrt's voice is heard only by Fibber, never over the air, yet she's known almost as well as the loquacious Fibber, himself. She is one of radio's favorite "unheard characters. The Fibber Mcgee and Molly show has another unheard character, Mrs. Wallace Wimple whose rise in popularity coincides with that of her husband, a comparatively new creation of young, many-voiced Bill Thompson. Mr. Wimple is an exaggerated exemplification of the hen-pecked husband and from his comments, you get a perfect picture of his bellicose spouse. "Uncle Dennie", Molly's irrepressible uncle is another "unheard" character who contributes many spots of humor to the McGee show.

RELY ON CANADA

In the years 1926 to 1930 only 39 per cent of the total imports of beans into the United Kingdom was supplied by Empire countries, principally from Canada. With supplies cut off from Europe, Canada stepped into the breach, and by the 3rd year of the war, Britain looked to Canada to supply 75 per cent of the total required. In the 4th year of the war, Canada's responsibilities had increased to 80 per cent of the total quantity needed to maintain the bacon ration of four ounces per person per week.

Mayor of Camberwell, England, Voices Thanks to Queen's Fund

Headquarters of the Queen's Canadian Fund in Montreal have just received a letter from Councillor J. H. Round, J. P., Mayor of Camberwell, S.E.5, London, England, thanking the people of Canada for their aid to Britain, and emphasizing the value of the work done by the Lord Mayor's Fund, through which the Queen's Canadian Fund operates in the United Kingdom.

He writes:

"Those of us, who during the war period, have had the responsibility as Mayors, of locally administering the Lord Mayor's National Air Raid Distress Fund, are deeply appreciative of the great generosity which has been displayed not only by the people of our own country but by our friends throughout the Commonwealth.

"It is especially gratifying to note that the Dominion of Canada has sent us a sum which is now closely approaching the £1,000,000 mark and I think it would be appropriate if an expression of our gratitude for this magnificent generosity could be sent through such channels as would assure the donors that we are very indebted to them."

Sterilized Wrappings From Cigarette Packages Help In Healing Wounds

The innocent cigarette package wrappings sterilized in boiling water have been used with great success in treating open wounds and ulcers in the hospital at Lagos, Nigeria, according to Dr. M. Ellis of the British Colonial Medical Service.

In an article in the British Medical Journal Dr. Ellis writes that the wrappings have the advantage of being non-irritant and also permit the inspection of wounds without having to uncover them. "We believe," Dr. Ellis says, "that the rate of healings is increased by that type of dressing."

JOHN'S COUNSEL TO CHRISTIANS

Golden text: Beloved, I pray that in all things thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth. III John 2.

Lesson: II and III John.

Devotional reading: Acts 20:32-38.

Explanations and Comments

The Elect Lady and Her Children

Epistle of John, verses 1,2. "The elder unto the elect lady and her children," is the salutation of this brief letter. Who is the elder who wrote it? John the Apostle or John the Presbyter? No one can answer this but let us think of him as the apostle who called himself the elder because that was his official title. Who is the elect lady: an individual or a church? Many scholars think the term "elect lady" refers to a church, and her "children" to its members, because of the plurals in many of the verses and of the general tenor of the whole. "Why John does not name himself we do not know, nor do we know why he addresses the church as "lady", but the divine anonymity gives a graceful turn to the Epistle that would be lacking if it opened with (say) 'John to the church at Smyrna'." (Abingdon Commentary).

Exhortation and Warning, 3 John 4-11. John has evidently seen and conversed with some members of the elect lady's household, or of the church, and has been satiated with their sincerity; they are walking in the truth, and he writes that he rejoices greatly on learning this. He then gives his oft-repeated exhortation to love one another, and to keep the commandments.

Next John seeks to put them on their guard against certain deceivers, evidently itinerant preachers who use the hospitality they obtain to undermine the apostle's preaching. These false teachers do not agree that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh. To confess that Jesus Christ had come in the flesh is to hold to the deity and the central fact of Christian belief. Not to recognize in him the authentic revelation of the infinite God and the highest ideal of humanity, can, in the opinion, imply only moral depravity.

Conclusion of the Epistle, II John 12. Dr. F. B. Meyer closes his discussion of this Epistle with this admonition: "Let us not fritter away here thoughts that will make them worth reading and keeping."

SCROLL IS REVERENT

When it is known that Britain has borne the cost of airdromes, barracks, hospitals, and other buildings erected there and occupied by the Americans at a total outlay of about $600,000,000, it may be understood that there is such a thing as lend-lease in reverse.

Woman In Wool Coat Shipyard Is Expert Rivet Passer

"I became a rivet passer and I love it," said 21-year-old Mrs. Del Elliott of Victoria as she hoisted herself through a narrow pathway in a half-built frigate.

Mrs. Elliott, mother of a 13-months-old daughter, wondered what she would do in a shipyard when she traded a nurse's uniform for a greasy pair of overalls. She hadn't long to wonder—soon she was tossing rivets, cold ones at first, over short distances to another girl with a tin funnel-like container.

Before long, however, she was passing the hot rivets short distances, and slowly but surely her accuracy and distance increased until today she can easily toss a red-hot rivet anywhere it is needed.

"One day," she said, "I was working with a riveter who drove 1,300 rivets. I got a great kick out of being able to do my job well enough to help him drive that many rivets in a single day."

Have Been Richly Bestowed On Prime Minister Of Britain

Churchill started painting pictures as a recreation after the last war. In 1920 he exhibited paintings at Paris under the name of Charles Morin, and when his work was first viewed, the experts declared that "this young man has a future." Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

TUBERCULOSIS

Twenty cases of active tuberculosis, all adults, and all requiring treatment, were discovered by the survey clinic in Saskatoon, conducted by the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League.

Reporting on the survey, Dr. Harvey C. Boughton said there were probably another 30 "real suspects" who were being kept under constant check. There are also a large number of persons who have had tuberculosis, which is now inactive, but who are receiving further observation.

In the mass survey the clinic has fluorographed 28,500 men, women and children, leaving about 10,000 persons unexamined. The survey is being continued.

"I think Saskatoon has had the most intensive combing-over any community has ever undergone, because no effort has been spared to clear up the slightest suspicion or trace of tuberculosis," Doctor Boughton said.

Although Saskatchewan has health regulations requiring the periodic medical examination of persons employed in restaurants and cafes, they have not been enforced in the last few years. In the Saskatoon tuberculosis survey, 14 such employees were found to have active disease. The clinic is now making a recheck of all food handlers. Certificates will be given to all food places where the employees have all been examined and found free of tuberculosis.

R. G Ferguson, M.D., C.B.E., medical director of the Anti-Tuberculosis League, reported that the Christmas Seal Fund had paid for the examination of 64,000 Saskatchewan residents in 1942, and that it was intended to examine 100 000 this year. Forty-thousand have already been examined since January 1.

Pattern For Disaster

BY J. B. RYAN

CHAPTER VIII.

ESTEBAN strode from the room and returned a moment later carrying the black whip that was part of his gaucho outfit. The Pancho made a gurgling sound of appreciative understanding, and even Chris Morgan nodded to himself. Already he had seen that bullwhip become a deadly thing in the hand of Esteban Valdez' men.

He patted her shoulder and discouraged her. "Do not be worried, Rosita mia. You have seen me use this whip every night. Surely the skill I have acquired I know others will not fail me in our hour of desperation."

Esteban was the first to crawl through the window. Morgan and Pancho helped Rosita to reach the ground. When all four were reunited between the walls of the two build ings, Esteban, the whip wrapped loosely around its own stock, tiptoed down the passage, moving slowly to allow the men to keep close to him and also in order that neither Verde nor Guillermo should become aware of this flank attack.

The turning of the passage appeared, a dull gray patch in the gloom. Esteban's hand touched Morgan's sleeve in warning, and the American moved to a stop, halting Rosita and Pancho in the rear. A couple came abreast of him

Esteban had not planned his next step carried him out of the protecting darkness and his measured gait became a glide

IN THE semi-darkness the figure of Esteban described into a blur At the far corner of the house a blob of shadow altered to become a similar nebulous shape Raymundo Verde had become aware of Esteban's presence in the alley

Suddenly the arm of Verde straightened "Halt!" he commanded, his leveled pistol gleaming dully

Esteban's dangling arm had moved also But where Verde's arm had swept in an arc the hand of Esteban simply moved forward and back, like a jolted pendulum.

Because of the distance and the darkness Morgan was unable to follow the course of the activitiated bullwhip. But almost before Esteban's jerking hand had stilled, there sounded a sharp report. Verde jumped and the crack of the whip was followed by a shrill scream.

"Dios mio!" Verde sagged, clapping his hands to his face. The gun clattered on the stones and the fat man turned to run broken.

Again the whip sang and snarled. Esteban braced himself like a cowboy about to throw a roped steer; the leaping body of Verde seemed to halt in midair, then flopped backward heavily to the ground.

Then Morgan and Pancho arrived on the scene of action. To Pancho on the quivering Verde he also Esteban to slacken the tightened whip. Morgan grabbed up the fallen pistol and faced the corner of the alley. Guillermo must have heard the cries of Verde.

Verde's hands were still clapped against his face as he was hauled to his feet. "Nombre de Dios," he kept mumbling, "you have blinded me—"

"No, senor," said Esteban. "I did not touch your eyes. I merely split your cheek open to the bone."

FINGERLY Verde lowered his hands and blinked at his blood-smeared palms. An expression of relief crossed his face at this evidence that his eyesight was unimpaired. Esteban did not remove the knife from Verde's prisoner's throat; as he once had done with Morgan he looped the cord around Verde, binding the man securely enough he had used a rope.

"Get Guillermo," he urged Morgan and Pancho "Rosita and I can take care of this fellow." He was already away in the car with the two of them we can keep them from causing more trouble until we figure out some way of proving their villainies"

To Pancho pounded behind Morgan, grasping the remnants of the broken knife The two were halfway up the alley when a beam of light, flashing through the street ahead, dipped in and out of the alley Morgan and Pancho had time to avoid being revealed in the brief glare As the same time he caught the sound of motors and grinding gears. The police had arrived.

Pancho gripped the American's sleeves. "Come back, senor," he advised. "We are too late."

They heard the front door being kicked open; a car door slammed, followed by the grinding of brakes. Morgan swung Rosita into his arms to get out of the alley before the car headlights swept through it again He and Pancho rounded the corner at full speed.

"Get out of sight!" Morgan cried to Rosita and Esteban. "They are driving this way. Run, Pancho, run!"

They did not have time to run the length of the valley, short as it was. The searching car, Morgan could tell by the sound, was already at the corner before he had taken a dozen strides.

Beside Morgan was the dark passageway between the houses, the cul-de-sac into which they had come through Pancho's window. It was a pocket in which they would be trapped if seen, but they had no choice. If they remained in the open an instant longer they would be caught by the lights of the police car. Morgan darted into the dark aperture, the others crowding in after him.

The headlights swept over the cobblestones, almost reaching the toes of Pancho. Rosita fattened herself against one of the walls, as did Esteban and Pancho. But Morgan remained at the mouth of the passage, lifting the gun he still held in his hand.

"NO, SENOR!" Esteban whispered in hoarsely "Not that! It is not about the police, that will make us criminals indeed"

"I shall kill no one." Morgan replied grimly. "unless Guillermo is in that car directing the search Keep Verde quiet We may be able to get out of this yet."

The car, loaded with men, flashed past the hiding place Morgan lifted his arm steadied and he pulled the trigger The sound of the shot was followed by an even louder bang Morgan had aimed at one of the rear ing wheels, and his bullet had sliced through the tire like a machete

The car whirled in the grip of the unexpected blowout. As Morgan had hoped there was no room in the narrow alleyway for the driver to maneuver the racking, careening automobile.

The headlights danced crazily from side to side as the driver fought to maintain momentum All at once there came a resounding crash, and the street was plunged once more into darkness

The car was tilted on two wheels, buried half its length into the hole it had created in the roadway "Come" Morgan cried, leaping out of the passage "Now is our chance to get away!"

But Morgan took only one step in the direction opposite the overturned car. "To Pancho caught his arm.

"Let me lead the way," Pancho said eagerly "No one in Buenos Aires knows the lots as well as I. Once I get you out of sight, Rojas and Guillermo will never find us"

They left Verde wrapped securely in the coils of the whip, seated on the ground in rheumatic fashion As Tio Pancho moved swiftly. He bent low to keep from being seen against the bone of the police car, then followed the alley long enough to climb the brick building that towered over his humble cottage. Here, Pancho ducked into another abysmal pocket, squirmed through and the fugitives were on a second of the waterfront's dismal thoroughfares. Had Morgan stood still and closed his eyes until the count of 10, he would never have located his companions again. So twisted was the labyrinth through which Pancho was leading them in an effort to throw Rojas and Guillermo off the trail.

Pancho leads them to a hiding place

Navy Divers Valuable

Have Furnished United Nations With Information About Enemy Subs

Important to the war but virtually unsung are the navy divers, men who proved their value during the African campaign.

They are responsible for getting many of the secrets which the United Nations have learned about enemy submarines

Just as soon as a signal, "enemy submarine sunk, latitude 111, longitude . . ." is received, a naval leader steams to the position. A helmeted diver goes over the side.

Later, sometimes as much as two hours, he returns to the surface with such things as the U boat's log and secret documents which occasionally reveal valuable information Possession of a new code book, for instance, can mean a chance to intercept enemy orders

This latter fact underlines the reasons for the navy's reluctance to publicize any submarine "kill" until some time after the event.

During the African campaign several cargo ships and transports were sunk British and American navy divers were rushed into action, many of them being flown from the United States. They worked day and night; they only take 30 seconds to get ready, and no pats and pens to wash.

Looking After Himself

Nazi Commissioner In Holland Is Well Fixed For Food

A Free Dutch paper published in London, which gets its news of events in Holland from underground sources, reports that Seyss-Inquart, the Reich's Commissioner, has appropriated for himself at the Hague a large new house, and that several rooms are stacked with food. The place looks more like a grocery warehouse than a home. It has also taken over a large country estate, and sent to his home in Berlin many famous Dutch paintings and works of art. No doubt similar conditions apply in the homes of all the Nazi leaders in Germany and in other occupied countries

German looting of Dutch art was continued by a Dutchman, the Berlin correspondent of the Hague newspaper, Het Vaderland, reporting that a hundred and fifty pictures by Dutch and Flemish masters were auctioned in the German capital during the month of February Most of the paintings, he says, came from private collections and were bought for "private collections."

According to the free Dutch weekly Vrij Nederland, private collections were "purchased" and paid for in marks through the Netherlands Bank Thus the Netherlands State actually paid for them from funds assessed by the Germans for various costs of occupation, or taken as forced loans. Museums, however, have been compelled to "lend" many valuable paintings as decorations for the offices of various German officials.

When has been a major subject with the Germans since the war started, and the well-fed Goering has publicly stated that wherever planes in the Europe they will not be the Germans. Looting of art treasures is a carry-over from the last war As on that occasion the Germans will be forced to give back the stolen property when peace comes.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Mussolini used to call the Mediterranean "our sea." Now the British have it. Il Duce will likely say it is all right—because he wasn't using it anyway

Has Luxurious Home

Norwegian Fascist Leader Employs Retinue Of Servants In Mansion

A palatial home, unparalleled in Norway for its luxuriousness, has been built outside Oslo by Vidkun Quisling, notorious Norwegian Fascist leader. He took over a fine old mansion, extended and remodeled it, and at heavy cost installed bathing and ten pavilions and bomb-proof underground air raids rooms with ceilings of concrete 12 feet thick and further layers of sand.

Quisling now has a retinue of 80 servants, 40 of whom are personal bodyguards armed with rifles and revolvers. Newspapers escaping to Britain say that trouble among members of the Quisling party spreads apace and attacks on Quisling followers are of daily occurrence.

HARD TO REGULATE

One fault about food rationing, as we see it, says the Ottawa Citizen, is that the thing isn't based on "selection" enough. The tall man, who needs all the fat producing provender he can put away, is on all fours with the stout fellow who can get all the carbohydrates he requires on a diet of spinach and tap-water

Repatriated Prisoners Reaching England Say Hague Treated Them Well

The joy of the men who have come home from Italian prisons has its pathetic side, little as they were apt to pity. One correspondent writes that the glum faces seen at the quayside tempted some to think they were not welcome; and they laughed about on discovering that the expression came of sadness for their impaired bodies. They themselves had forgotten disabilities in the gladness of being once more in England.

There is a touch of comedy in their disgust with the war-time macaroni of which they have had more than enough.

But the repatriated prisoners acknowledged that the Italians did the best they could for them. They are deeply appreciative of the goodness of the sisters of mercy in the camp hospitals Their guards "one and all agreed that they had no desire to fight the British, and hoped sincerely it would soon be over." while of German allies these guards spoke no kind words"—London Times

Interesting Meeting Wednesday Is Well Attended

Thirty-two attended the regular weekly meeting of the board of trade on Wednesday and a more than usually interesting session took place. Visitors present were Cpl. Mark Norton of the instructional staff of the Red Deer Training Centre, Chas Sinclair traveller for Marshall-Wells, and J. F. Wiebe inspector for the Prairie Farm Assistance act. Tom Watts acted as chairman.

TOWN ROADS

The subject of town roads was discussed and brought forth many suggestions and considerable interest. It seemed generally agreed that more consistent maintaining would benefit the roads greatly. The scarcity of both help and machinery was given as the cause for the condition of the roads generally at the present time.

Jas. D. Adam, K.C., vice president of the Vermilion board attended the regular monthly meeting of the Wainwright board of trade recently and gave the local members an idea of what things are carried on in the southern town. He also extended to them an invitation to pay Vermilion a visit and the action was unanimously endorsed by the board.

Rev. L. G. Sieber will leave for his new appointment at Revelstoke early in July, was present for his final meeting here and the board expressed their regret at the departure of a very popular member, at the same time congratulating him on his appointment to a larger centre. Every success was wished him in his future undertakings.

WILDMERE WINKS

Can't it just rain three days? Sunday it rains down by buckets-full — the ground was like a lake for awhile. It's wonderful how quickly it drys in between the rains, but summer-fallowing is nearly impossible to do owing to it being so wet.

Morton Tovell of Bird Hill district was a visitor down in our part of the country one day last week.

Sgt. Norman Smith and his pal Sgt. Brown were week end guests at Norman's home. Mr. and Mrs. Adam Smith, Wildmere. The boys are stationed in Edmonton.

The writer's brother who is stationed at Calgary was amongst the forty boys who were "penless" one morning not long ago when thieves stole all their pants.

A nice crowd attended the shower held for Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Strannan at Battleview on Friday night. The young couple received many lovely gifts, and both thanked everyone to come and see them—but all of none of course. Jack Veitch and Sons furnished the dance music George Harrison was M.C. The shower was sponsored by Mrs. Joe Frissell to whom so many thanks for the splendid time enjoyed by everyone.

If ar one needs spuds call at the Ivar Larsen home in Cummings.

Mrs. Carlson and Mrs. Adam Smith both are children from Mrs Merriman last week

Mr Brace our student minister went to Edmonton last week to see his father who was in the city from Toronto. We were fortunate to hear through Brace speak over the air on Fri day afternoon

Potatoes are scarcely showing up through the ground yet but Mr. Potato Bug is right on the spot to welcome them. Really they are crawling nearly everywhere you look We have destroyed hundreds we believe already this spring

The writer and family called for a short time on Mr and Mrs. Bob Martin last Monday evening.

Rose Brett was at the Smith home on Monday getting a few eggs. They're still some seeding to be done

School will be out over our next news items so please "Wonder if I will pass" is all you hear these days where two or more children are gathered together

We know numerous protests are going in regarding the long boil day. We ourselves think it is foolish where small children are concerned Winter sets in so early for beginners and children can't study through hot weather in July We are only one what do others think?

INTERESTING WEDDING AT ISLAY ON JUNE 19th

Hood — McKee

A wedding of considerable interest took place in St. Paul's Anglican church, Islay, on Wednesday, June 16th at 1:30 p.m. when Miss Marian Jean McKee, assistant of the Islay hospital, was united in marriage to Mr. Charles Edward Hood of Vawn, Sask. The Ven. Archdeacon Leversedge performed the ceremony.

Entering the church on the arm of Mr. Trephurst the bride looked charming in a Heavenly blue, two-piece crepe suit with navy accessories, and a corsage of red roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Her only ornament was pearl earrings, a gift of the groom.

The couple were unattended.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Hosbuck, who also accompanied Mrs. Baxter who sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

About thirty guests gathered at the sun porch of the hospital where Mr. and Mrs. Urquhart greeted with the bridal party. Colorful house plants, lilacs and carnations were arranged about the room.

The bridal table was laid in each face, a four-tier wedding cake banked in pink not in which lilacs and lilies-of-the-valley were scattered. On each side stood tall vases of carnations.

A toast to the bride was proposed by Ven. Archdeacon Leversedge and responded to by the groom.

After a short honeymoon the happy couple will be at home at Vawn, Sask.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING HELD AT CLAYSMORE

HOWLETT—WINTERS

The marriage of Margaret Ellen Winters to Mr. Leslie Howlett of Westbank, B.C., was solemnized at the farm home of the bride near Claysmore on Wednesday afternoon June 16 at 2 o'clock. The Rev. K. Yirrell of Mannville officiated.

The bride was becomingly dressed in a suit of mid-blue with white accessories. She carried a bouquet of roses and carnations. Her only jewellery was a wrist watch, a gift of the groom.

The reception was held in the evening and a large number of friends and relatives gathered to extend their very best wishes for all future happiness to the bride and groom. Mrs. H. Bennett of Onoway, Alberta, a sister of the bride, assisted in receiving the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Howlett left on the night train for Jasper where they plan to spend a few days before continuing to their home at Westbank, B.C. where the groom has a fruit farm.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co., Ltd.

WORLD LACKS FOOD

The United Nations Conference of 43 nations has concluded its investigations at Hot Springs, Virginia. They find:

1. That there is and will be for long to come a scarcity of food in the world.

2. That while it is desirable to improve the nutrition of the people of the world a much more important goal for future years is to bring about freedom from those diseases from which millions of people have always suffered.

3. That there are no real surpluses of foodstuffs in the world.

4. That production of food must be greatly increased in the future.

5. That surplus foodstuffs available in any country must quickly be made available to the hungry people of other countries.

6. That to bring about a better distribution of foodstuffs, the Conference went on record as opposing tariffs and other artificial barriers to international trade.

This is all splendid news for the prairie farmers, for it indicates a return to sound economic and humanitarian thinking while the governments of the world, and most of the people, abandoned during the past 30 years.

There will undoubtedly be much opposition to these recommendations. Certain interests will still desire to have many kinds of goods made uneconomically in the United States and Canada behind tariff walls Farmers, and all of us, therefore, will have to press our Canadian Government to leave tariffs so as to permit the free flow of foodstuffs goods and commodities throughout the world.

Britain's present production of saucepans and kettles only enables every household in the country, on an average, to buy one new kettle and one new saucepan every four years.

Islay Man Bereaved by Death Of Nephew in the R.C.A.F.

Killed in Crash

W. George McNabb of Islay received the sad news a few weeks ago of the death of his nephew, Flight Sgt. Robert Franklin Carers at Yarmouth, N.S., where he had been attached to the coastal command for the past year.

Flight Sgt. Carers was killed in a crash of an R.C.A.F. bomber just as he and his three companions were taking off at Yarmouth, N.S. As they were having difficulty in taking off, the ground crew of four came to their assistance and had just been working for a few minutes when there was an explosion in the machine, which instantly killed all four occupants and two of the ground crew. Two others of the ground crew were injured, also a woman who was passing in a car.

Flt. Sgt. Cavers was accorded full military honors at the funeral, every attended funeral which took place from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Cavers, Carleton Place, Ont., to the village United church, where service was conducted by Flt.-Lieut. P.H. Ellis, Chaplain of the R.C.A.F. Arnprior. W.O. P.L. Collins of the R.C.A.F., Arnprior, was in charge. Carleton Place and Almonte branches of the Legion attended.

Robert Franklin Cavers was born 26 years ago in Appleton, Ont., where he received his education and later attended Carleton Place and Almonte High schools, winning a scholarship at the latter place. He later went to Vancouver, B.C. to complete a course in Diesel engines. At its conclusion he enlisted with the R.C.A.F. in the fall of 1941, graduating as a wireless operator in Calgary, Alberta. Following his graduation he was stationed at Vancouver and for the past year had been on the Coastal Command at Yarmouth, N.S.

In addition to his parents he is survived by two brothers, Harold Cavers of Appleton, Ont., and Private

FAREWELL TO REV. AND MRS. L. G. SIEBER

Departure from Vermilion Widely Regretted

One of the largest congregations seen in First United church for some time gathered on Sunday evening to say good-bye to Rev L. G. Sieber and to hear him preach his farewell sermon.

At the close of the regular service a social hour was held at which Mr. D. A. Adam presided and spoke in complimentary terms of Mr. and Mrs. Sieber and their contribution in this community. Mr. Gerald Hopkins on behalf of the congregation, presented a substantial purse and a letter expressing good wishes and appreciation. Miss Jean Holland presented Mr. and Mrs. Sieber with two books which were given by the people of the North Vermilion field with their compliments and best wishes.

The local ministers were represented at this social hour by Ven. Archdeacon Leversedge, Rev. Mr. Marshall of the Presbyterian church, who brought his congregation with him, and Capt. Hussler of the Salvation Army. Archdeacon Leversedge spoke feelingly of his associations with Mr. Sieber and his regret at losing him from the community.

The social hour was given a very friendly and informal touch by the serving of coffee and sandwiches by the ladies of the congregation.

Mr. Sieber has been in the United Church here for three years and has won the respect and admiration of the people through his quiet sincerity and efficiency. Many local organizations will feel his loss keenly and Revelstoke, to which place he is going, will no doubt feel his influence before he has been there for long.

Before coming here, Mr. Sieber, who is a graduate of St. Stephens' College in Edmonton, was at Stony Plain for some years in the work of the United Church. Having earned his livelihood in a variety of occupations before entering the ministry has enabled Mr. Sieber to understand and associate with a wide range of people in their everyday life. We know that they will be a very real asset to the community wherever he and Mrs. Sieber reside.

SELL HOLDINGS IN U. S. FIELDS TO DRILL VERMILION

(The Western Examiner)

Improvement in the general economic situation in the oil producing field is evidenced by the fact that Acme Gas & Oil Co. and Oil Selections Ltd., two Toronto companies, have sold out their interests in wells in Oklahoma and Texas, and will start in the drilling out of the 5 sections that Bearsdale Oils holds in the Vermilion field. Acme already has two wells on its own acreage there.

Acme has 69.4% interest in Bearsdale Oils and Oil Selections has 24.5 per cent.

Regarding the U.S. holdings of the two companies, Montreal Financial News says they have disposed of their interests in the Hurt well in the Oklahoma City field and that negotiations have been concluded for the sale of interests in various wells in Texas.

The Hurt well has been giving trouble for some time and Texas wells have been giving directors anxiety for years due to salt water intrusions

Both companies still hold substantial royalty interests in the U. S. which provide a fair revenue and also constitute a hedge against the sale of the interests in the wells.

DRAY TEAM RUNS AWAY

Smashes Up Mannville Editor's Car

Irvin Gordon's big black dray team ran away on Monday afternoon, and finally came to a stop all wound up around the shiny new car recently purchased by Editor Whitehouse of Mannville, inflicting a considerable amount of damage to it.

The team took right while standing near the track, raced down Bulyea avenue, clipped a light post and last their dray wagon, continuing on until they straddled the car. One of the animals nearly walked over the machine, inflicting large dents in the hood and door and smashing the windshield to bits.

Mrs. Whitehouse was sitting in the front seat of the car, but beyond receiving quite a start, was uninjured. The car was purchased two weeks ago from Harry Jealous of the Crown Lumber and aside from the accident had been a nice looking vehicle.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Whitby are leaving this week for Gull Lake where they will join their daughter Lois and spend their vacation

SCHOOL DIVISION PLANS BOYS' DORMITORY

Will Be Located at Kitscoty; Applications Invited from Students Interested

The Board of the Vermilion school division has in mind the operating of a boys' dormitory for high school students at Kitscoty, similar to the one that was instituted some years ago for girls.

A survey is now being made of the boys living in rural areas within the division which are remote from those centres having high school facilities and if a sufficiently large number of boys make application, it is the board's intention to open a dormitory for them.

Parents who have a boy or boys they wish to benefit by such an undertaking, or if you know of any such boy in your area, please get into touch with Jas. R. Robson, secretary of the Vermilion school division, Vermilion. Applications should be made as soon as possible in order to allow the Board time to make the necessary arrangements.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS SIX STRAIGHT GAMES IN FAST-BALL LEAGUE

Though wet weather continues to slow up the schedule a few of the regular Fast-ball league games have been played to date. Thursday last the Army boys won from the Firemen 14-13 on a muddy smooth sliding diamond. On Sunday the Firemen and High school tangled with the students coming out on top 13 to 10, with the Barracks on Tuesday the Army lost to the High school in a close encounter 10-9.

LEAGUE STANDING

	Won	Lost
High school	6	0
Army	4	5

Games for next week: Tues., July 6—Firemen vs. Army at the Public school; Thurs., July 8—Firemen vs. V.H.S. at Public school; Tues., July 12—Firemen vs. Army at Barracks.

ALASKA HIGHWAY HAS ENOUGH TRUCKS

EDMONTON — No more civilian trucks are required for construction work on the Alaska highway, according to word received by Walter S. Campbell, Federal Supply Representative, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The United States Army has made available a number of heavy duty trucks for transporting materials and supplies", Major R.J. Hutton, Executive Assistant to the Division Engineer has informed the board

"These vehicles, supplemented by trucks owned or operated by the construction contractors will satisfy the trucking requirements for the rest of the job," it was announced.

NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL PRINCIPAL ENGAGED

John H. Finlay Coming From Wainwright

John H. Finlay has been engaged as principal of the Vermilion public school. He succeeds James J Part who resigned after ten years service, to accept the position of secretary-treasurer of the town.

Mr. Finlay has been principal of the 5-roomed public school at Wainwright for the past year. He has had ten years experience and comes very highly recommended. Included in qualifications are the extra attributes of music and gymnastic work. His physical training class at Wainwright gave a display in tumbling and gymnastic work last winter that excited great admiration. He is a married man with one child.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CAMPS FOR CAMPBELL LAKE

Under Auspices United Church; Application to July 10

The United Church of Canada is planning camps for boys, girls and young people at Campbell Lake this summer. Boys' camp is from July 24 to July 31; Girls' from July 31 to 8th; Young People's Aug. 2 to 9th

There will be planned programs of Bible study, campfires, swimming and recreation under a competent staff, including Camp Directors, Camp Mother, Lifesaver, Instructor, First Aider, and experienced leaders.

Come out for a week under summer conditions and enjoy the great out doors! Application forms have been placed in the churches and schools of the two new fields and when filled in should be returned to Buck Brace, Amburndale or Jean Holland, North Vermilion.

As there is a limited registration, prospective campers are advised to have their applications in by July 10 at the latest

TENNIS CLUB REDUCES FEES FOR THE SEASON

Late Start Due to Inclement Weather and Uncertainty of Tennis Ball Supply

Owing to the late start in playing, tennis due to the inclement weather and the doubtfulness as to the ability of the executive of the Vermilion tennis club have reduced the fees for the 1943 season and the following will apply for this year only: Adults $3 each, man and wife $5, school students $2. New tennis balls are now considered out of the question as one of tennis may not be enjoyed

It is planned to keep expenses at a minimum in order to keep down the reduced fees and to this all members are asked to do their part in the work of conditioning and maintaining the courts. Should the fees be too low for the amount of work done by the members, however, the club will be very glad to receive any donations over and above the fees.

Any further information may be obtained from the secretary Miss Hilda Cooper.

A little more summer heat has been experienced this week and in the past three days Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, no rain has fallen except for a shower of about one-tenth Monday afternoon. The growth is tremendous.

Fair Plans Under Way

Wide Interest in the Livestock Classes

Vermilion Fair on July 29, 30 and 31st promises to be one of the outstanding agricultural events of the year, already entries have been received from exhibitors coming to Vermilion and be sure the keen interest and wider interest than usual has been manifested in livestock classes

Owing to the fact that the latest display building is being used for the storage of grain it has been decided to delete for this season all work other than livestock which will be a feature of the show

Entries are also being received from Shorthorn breeders from various parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan who are desirous of taking part in the Alberta Provincial Shorthorn show which is being held in conjunction with the Vermilion Fair.

Midway facilities will be provided at Vermilion, with rides for the children and fun for all. Build-up money amounting to $300 has been entered, donated by local organizations will give participation opportunity of testing their skill at games and amusements. Recently from Moose Jaw where the Western Canada Fair Circuit opened this week indicate that George Hamilton Aviation will present standard attractions. They will be presented in conjunction with the Vermilion Fair will be booked forward to three gala days

SCHOOL'S OUT!

"School's Out" was the glad cry echoed and re-echoed in Vermilion streets and homes on Wednesday as public and high school students started on the longest vacation in school history. Schools in Alberta do not re-convene until Dec. 1st.

Teachers too, heaved a sigh of relief as the term ended although many wondered just what the extra long vacation held in store for them. Definite plans in many cases were lacking.

Of the high school staff Principal Barnard will continue his duties at the Un-ersity summer school, leading towards his Doctor of Education. Mr. Hay will mark papers in Edmonton during July, and was uncertain of his movements after that. Miss Kassay may pick berries in June or the July but is definitely attending the short course in Fine Arts held at Banff in August. Miss Braaum will attend summer school.

Retires After 20 Years in Profession

For Principal James J. Part it was the final bell after 20 years in the teaching profession, 10 years of which he spent in Vermilion. He becomes secretary-treasurer of the town of Vermilion on July 12

Mrs. O'Brien goes to the farm home of her brother near Peapeka; Miss Lawrence and her mother are going to Seattle; Miss Nugent will probably end up taking a physical training course in Edmonton or Calgary; Miss Noonan intends going to her home in southern Saskatchewan and the plans of Miss Dey, Miss Cudney and Miss Lipsey are unknown to the Standard.

DONATE REGISTERED BERK BOAR TO THE RED CROSS

Will Be Auctioned During the Vermilion Fair

Mr and Mrs. D. G. Ganton have offered a registered imported Berkshire boar 12 weeks old to be sold at auction, proceeds to be donated to the Red Cross society. This pig is still on display at the Vermilion Fair and the sale will be conducted at that time

Canada's Growing Navy

THERE HAS BEEN wide spread interest in the addition to the Canadian Navy of four escort destroyers, a gift of the United Kingdom. Our navy has undertaken to protect the western half of the North Atlantic convoy routes, and these ships will be of great assistance in carrying out this task. They will be appreciated by Canadians not only for their very great usefulness at this time, but also as a further sign of Britain's desire to support the Dominions in all possible ways. It is also an acknowledgment of the confidence of the British government that the officers and ratings of the Canadian Navy will use these ships effectively in the war against the powerful U-boat menace. Named after four Canadian rivers the Saguenay, the Kootenay, the Ottawa and the Gatineau, leave is no doubt but that these ships will give valiant service in protecting supplies and war materials bound for Britain.

• • • •

Canadian Navy Is Expanding

The growth of Canada's naval power since the beginning of the war has been amazing, and it represents an achievement of which we may be very proud. At the beginning of the war, Canada's total naval personnel was 1,700, which is less than the number of men required for one battleship. Today, there are 60,000 men in the navy, and Naval Minister Macdonald recently announced that by next year this number would be increased to 90,000, which will make it equal, on the basis of manpower, to the pre-war strength of the Royal Navy. The number of ships has also increased rapidly, and at present the Canadian Navy has over five hundred fighting craft, including destroyers, corvettes, submarine chasers, mine sweepers and other vessels. It is believed that two more British destroyers may be added to the four which have already been given to us, and it is also believed that Canada will shortly build several aircraft carriers.

On Guard in The Atlantic

In guarding the western half of the North Atlantic convoy routes the Canadian Navy has assumed a difficult task and one which requires the best of both ships and men. Many Canadian sailors are from the Prairies, and few have had previous naval experience, yet they have proven themselves capable of carrying out this important part in the Battle of the Atlantic, and great credit is due to them, as well as to the workers who have produced the ships which they man. It is clear that Canada has assumed a place of importance as a naval power and that it is playing no small part in the hastening of an Allied victory. It is expected that there will be little reduction in the strength of the navies of the Allied Nations in the years following the war, and we may look forward with interest to the future of the Canadian Navy.

We hear a great deal about vitamins in our diets these days but we must not forget the mineral content of our food. The minerals are important in the proper formation of our bones, teeth and body tissues. If we have an insufficient amount of minerals these parts of the body are weakened or diseased. Iron is necessary for the blood clotting and for strong bones and teeth. Phosphorus is responsible for a healthy nervous system. Iron is necessary for the blood as the red blood pigment and it protects us against nutritional anaemia. Copper aids in the utilization of iron.

Milk is our richest source of calcium and we should include three glasses of it in our daily diet. Cheese has a higher percentage of calcium than milk as it is a more concentrated food, so if we could add a small amount of cheese to our daily menus it would be to our advantage. Cheese is an excellent meat substitute. Other foods we should eat for their calcium content are beets, turnips, cauliflower, carrots, celery, asparagus and beans.

When we take milk for calcium we will also get a fair amount of phosphorus. Lean meats, fish, eggs, cheese, nuts and whole wheat cereals contain appreciable amounts of phosphorus.

Liver, pork or beef, is an excellent source of iron so we should be on the lookout for new appetizing recipes for cooking it. Other organ meats such as heart, kidneys, sweet breads are also high in iron. Dried peas and beans, eggs and molasses are good sources of iron.

We will get sufficient copper from many common foods.

The lack of iodine causes goitre which is found in the inland provinces. Nowadays it is possible to buy table salt which has iodine added to it so we should use iodized salt all the time especially when we have little or no salt water foods.

We should bake and steam vegetables not only for the vitamin preservation but also for the mineral content. Because a certain amount of the latter is lost in the cooking water we should cook vegetables in as little boiling water as possible and for as short a time as possible. Never throw the water away. You can use it for making cream soups, gravies, and sauces. You should boil leafy vegetables about 5-10 minutes, root vegetables such as turnips, parsnips, carrots 20-30 minutes, beets as much as 60 minutes depending on their size.

A post card request to the Western Division Health League of Canada, 311 Avenue Road, Toronto, will bring you a free copy of its authoritative vitamin chart.

Protein For Poultry

Is Going To Present Problem For Farmers This Year

Never before have producers been obliged to worry as to just where they would get this or that ingredient in order to blend suitable live stock or poultry rations. Proteins and carbohydrates and minerals and vitamins have all been observed in an academic or detached manner. Millers and feed manufacturers have pretty well taken care of the situation, but the protein shortage is now so acute that poultry raisers will have to settle down and to a very large extent, solve the problem themselves.

It is not a simple problem to solve. Animal and vegetable proteins are both required, and how to get these in sufficient volume to develop and maintain in production the unprecedented batch of chicks this year is something that calls for keen intelligence and outstanding farm management.—Farmer's Advocate.

Aircrew Training

Men From Various Parts Of The World Make Up The Student Body

A navigator who saw action against the Japs in the Aleutians, three soldiers who returned to Canada for aircrew training, two air force sergeants and an airframe mechanic, all repatriated to Canada for pilot training, Englishmen, Welshmen, Scotsmen, an American and one Irishman from Eire, make up an unusual class of student pilots at No. 19 Elementary Flying Training School, Virden, Man. It is a significant picture of just what the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan means.

Hailing from Arborg, Man., Flying Officer Leo Shebeski, who has remustered from a navigator to a pilot, spent a year in Alaska on bombing missions against the Japs in the Aleutians. "The men of my squadron were flying and working under adverse conditions but morale was very high," observed Flying Officer Shebeski when interviewed. "In a year of close contact with squadron members, I never heard an angry word spoken between the men." Shebeski lived on a farm with his parents for 23 years, taking a prominent part in activities in the Arborg district. An enthusiastic agriculturist and graduate of the University of Manitoba, he won the Canada Malting Cup at the Provincial Seed Show in 1936 and the Ian McPhail Trophy (Junior Seed Growers), 1937. At the University of Manitoba he won the Lieutenant-Governor's Gold Medal in 1941. A sister, Irene Shebeski, serves in the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

Sgt. Derek Horne, 1537 Clive Dr., Victoria, B.C., in the Canadian Army since the outbreak of war came back to Canada for pilot training. Before he left Britain, F. V. Croil, Hanna, Alberta, traded the army khaki for air force blue and was repatriated to Canada. Two years overseas with the Canadian Army, then back to Canada for pilot training is LAC J. A. Silke's service career to date. He lives in New Westminster, B.C.'

Two air force wireless operators, Sgt. J. R. Bailey, Oxbrit, Ont., and Sgt. J. E. Taylor, Athabasca, Alta., got that chance to fly when they remustered overseas and recently returned to Canada.

Up to now LAC George Goodwin, Vancouver, B.C., turned his talents to keeping aircraft in fighting trim while overseas; his ambition now is to fly 'em.

The Best Time

Good Reason. Why Farmers Should Be Staying In Afternoon

To the old adage, "Make Hay While the Sun Shines," modern science has added the indication farmers should do their haying in the afternoon.

Preliminary studies at New York State Agriculture college, reported by Prof. Otis F. Curtis, show the food content of alfalfa and other hay and forage crops is influenced by the time of day at which they are cut.

The reason, he explained, is that all carbohydrates are manufactured by plants from carbon-dioxide and water only in the presence of light, and "it stands to reason, as the tests have shown, that the plant tissues contain the most food after a full day of sunshine."

Recipe Of The Week

ALL-BRAN MEAT ROLL UP

½ cup All-Bran
½ cup buttermilk
2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening

2 cups ground cooked meat
1 cup tomato catsup
1 teaspoon salt

Soak All-Bran in buttermilk. Sift flour, baking powder, soda and salt together. Cut in shortening until mixture is like coarse corn meal. Add soaked All-Bran; stir until dough follows fork around bowl. Turn onto floured board, kneed lightly; roll or pat into rectangle ¼ inch thick. Combine meat, catsup and salt; spread in thick layer over dough. Roll like jelly roll; place in baking pan and bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 30 minutes. Serve with Green Pea Sauce, if desired. Yield: 10 servings.

GREEN PEA SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons minced pimiento
½ cup cooked peas

Make white sauce using butter, flour and milk. Add pimiento, peas and seasonings.

Re-Examined For Military Service

19,182 Men Were Passed

From 44,539 men from diphysically unfit for military service on examination by private physicians, 19,182 have been found fit on re-examination since Oct. 31, 1943, Labor Minister Mitchell said in a written reply tabled in the House of Commons.

Included in those re-examined and found fit were 5,676 men previously found fit but re-examined because of doubt of their medical category.

Those subsequently found fit were called for service, except for those granted postponements.

TENNIS IS A GOOD GAME AND FINE EXERCISE

Tennis Exhilarating

Now at last the summer season is here and the opportunity for playing outdoor games. Tennis is fun and most exhilarating. The exercise is good for you and your keenness of spirit will develop.

Tennis is a game for all ages, unless of course, your doctor has advised against exercise. Young and old find it thrilling and stimulating competition packed with enjoyment for all.

Exercise in the open air, combined with fun—that is tennis! Could anything be more healthful or desirable? And anyone with perseverance and enthusiasm for the game can learn to play

It is quite true that to become a tennis champion requires speed and a high degree of endurance. But not all want to become champions. The majority prefer to play the game for the game's sake, making it as mild or as strenuous as we choose.

Our 32 page booklet is extremely helpful not only for the beginner but also for the experienced. It gives all sorts of pointers and is written by a well-known authority on the game.

First Canadian Congress is Held By Ukrainians

Winnipeg. — The first all-Canada Ukrainian Congress in its resolutions passed unanimously at the closing session, appealed to Ukrainian Canadians to continue to make ceaseless efforts for an early and decisive victory for the Allied Nations and went on record as being opposed to all forms of totalitarianisms and all they stand for.

The total number of delegates who attended the congress was 735 men and women, of which number about 100 attended as guests.

P. Lamzovich, of Edmonton, presented the resolutions.

Expressing explicit confidence in leadership of constituted authorities, a resolution said, "this congress stands pledged to be ever ready and calls upon every Canadian, particularly represented by this congress, to fall in line and give the utmost support on every call by those in authority."

The resolution opposing totalitarianism further said "that Ukrainian Canadians stand shoulder to shoulder with other Canadians, and are ever ready to put forth every effort to prevent the infiltration of any part of totalitarian philosophy into our policy, during the present war and during the post-war reconstruction.

The forbears of Ukrainian Canadians have been victims of autocratic people, whereas totalitarianism, be it Nazism, Fascism or Communism, is the very antithesis of democratic principles."

A four-point resolution on the winning of peace said that in the interest of a durable world peace and stability it was necessary to recognize the fundamental principles of the Atlantic charter and the four freedoms, and that it was a duty of every Canadian citizen to exercise the democratic privilege in a united effort that these principles be observed.

This congress takes an active interest in the appl[illegible] of the following principles:

1. The right of all peoples to choose a form of government under which they will live.

2. That changes must accord with the freely expressed wishes of the people concerned.

3. The establishment of a peace which will afford to all nations the means of dwelling in safety within their own boundaries and which will afford assurance that all the men in all the lands may live out their lives in freedom from fear and want.

4. That the Ukrainians should receive equal treatment with other recognized nations, as a free and united member in the family of European nations.

Congress urged all Ukrainian Canadians to give their uninterrupted services in all branches of essential war work and food production, and that every participant of the congress offer leadership to Canadians of Ukrainian origin in speeding up the fighting men comforts and assistance, and that support be given to the Canadian Red Cross and auxiliary war agencies.

A tribute was paid to all Canadians who have given their lives in defence of Canada and for a better world. This resolution said that through the Ukrainian religious and social organizations, and the press, assistance in re-establishment and readjustment of bereaved homes and families should be extended to all who are in need.

TO DEFEND ITALY

Germany Has Vast Reinforcements To Help Against Invasion

London. — German reinforcements have been sent to Italy the past few weeks and formations of Nazi troops are stationed not only on the mainland but on Sicily and Sardinia, it was learned.

The forces were in addition to hitherto units already operating from various points in Italy and behind Mediterranean wildcats.

Military circles believed the total strength of Axis forces in Italy was between 300,000 and 400,000, including 15 to 20 Italian divisions and five or six German divisions. There was little indication that the Italians had yet called home some 30 divisions from the Balkans to defend the motherland.

Reports Axis speedily were hastening the invasion defences of the southern Axis partner came on a German dispatch promised aid to Italy "in case of decisive battles on European soil."

Supply Of Supernumerary Foods Needed For Increased Livestock Production

Calgary.—Because of the tremendous development in livestock production throughout the Dominion and because of the importance of that development to Canada's war effort, every avenue must be explored to utilize fully the supply of supplementary foods, F. W. Hamilton, Canadian feeds administrator, told members of the milling and feed manufacturing industry meeting in Calgary.

The meeting was attended by representatives of milling companies and feed manufacturing concerns and the first action taken was to set up a body to be known as the Alberta Feed Manufacturers' Association. Its purpose is to establish standards in feed and to foster and develop consumer confidence with a resultant consumer demand.

P.F.R.A. For All Provinces Has Been Suggested

Ottawa.—Application of provisions of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act to all Canada and the immediate survey of Canada's national resources with the object of providing employment and promoting a better balanced economy were the principal recommendations in the interim report of the House of Commons construction and re-establishment committee, tabled in the House of Commons by Gray Turgeon (Lib., Carlton), committee chairman.

The committee's work is continuing but it submitted suggestions agreed upon so far to permit early action.

"Our studies have convinced us that in many respects Canada's agricultural life would be greatly improved if the general provisions of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act could be applied to all Canada," the committee reported.

That act, passed when the prairie provinces were suffering acutely from drouth and price depression, provides for federal assistance in soil surveys, in construction of water conservation projects like stock-watering dams and irrigation systems, in taking sub-marginal land out of production, in creating community pastures, and in educating farmers in scientifically tested methods of operation for particular conditions.

"Your committee feels that a proper survey of Canada's natural resources should be undertaken now," the committee reported, "in order to ascertain the nature and extent of such resources, their location with respect to existing transportation facilities, their suitability for post-war requirements of the Canadian people, and for post-war industrial development and settlement, with the dual purpose of providing post-war employment and of a better balanced Canadian economy

New relations must be established between government and industry and between management and labor within industry, the committee reported. It said it proposed to present a later report on this subject

Further study is being given to the fishing industry, to the coal industry, and to agriculture

"Your committee is strongly of the opinion that every member of the armed forces and the merchant navy is entitled to be assured that parliament and government will be prepared to do what lies within their power to prevent any recurrence of mass unemployment in Canada," said the report

Youth Labor Is Now Subject To Transfer Order

Ottawa Labor Minister Mitchell announced in the House of Commons that increased control has been taken over the employment of youths by making those 16, 17 and 18 years old subject to compulsory employment transfer orders, in the same manner as men in the age groups liable for military service. Previously compulsory employment transfer provisions were restricted to single men between 19 and 45 and married men between 19 and 25.

The minister said that the employment of a bona fide school teacher in any other occupation, without the issuance of a special permit has been forbidden Such special permits will be issued by national selective service only in accordance with conditions and directions approved by the labor minister

Beginning a review of his department's work during consideration of 1943-44 fiscal year estimates, Mr. Mitchell said that to provide for fuelwood-cutting operations in view of a threatened shortage in the coming winter—selective service officers have been authorized to give compulsory direction to the employment of men between 18 and 65 years in this work.

Labor Minister Mitchell told the house the Canadian manpower policy was the best "that can be devised".

In a detailed statement made to the house began its review of 1943-44 labor department estimates, Mr. Mitchell described the distribution of manpower and womanpower resources, the employment of Japanese, conscientious objectors and prisoners of war, the demands of the armed forces and war industry and steps taken to ensure agriculture, mining and other vital activities were provided with workers He warned that shortages of labor would continue as long as the war

Germany Orders Evacuation Of Ruhr Civilians

London - Germany has ordered the evacuation of 3,000,000 civilians from the bomb-shattered Ruhr and massed more than 1,000 fighter planes—80 per cent, of her entire fighter strength in western Europe for a desperate attempt to fend off relentless Allied bombing fleets European reports said

Berlin dispatches to Swiss newspapers said that the evacuation of non-essential civilians from the Ruhr ended by more than 2,000,000 persons in the past month and had been ordered completed by the end of last week with German authorities frankly admitting that many industries in the decimated valley had left their homes.

German propaganda broadcasts under-scored the folly of punishing air reprisals and the R.A.F. and the R.C.A.F. bel[illegible] round the clock attacks directed at the western area of the Ruhr and reported the populations of both the Ruhr and the Rhineland-Westphalia valley [illegible] many's principal source of arms had been subjected to unbelievable raids"

Nothing of how much is at stake Germany has mounted at least 30,000 anti-aircraft guns and tens of thousands of searchlights, in addition to the fighter planes in western Europe largely along a belt 200 miles long and 20 to 30 miles deep stretching from the North sea along Germany's western borders, according to information reaching Britain.

Night fighter strength along the Ruhr hinterland alone has been more than doubled in the past year and 1,000 to 1,500 heavy guns are believed to have been rushed from Russia to western Europe in recent weeks. One estimate was that Germany already have three times as many fighters in western Germany as they did in Russia at the height of the North African campaign.

More than 1,500 heavy anti-aircraft guns from 88 to 135-millimeter caliber were reported to have been set up in the Ruhr including at least 300 concentrated around Essen alone. Probably double that number of light guns of 40 millimeters or less also have been mounted there. Cologne and Bremen were estimated to have at least 500 flak guns each.

Searchlights in the Ruhr valley probably total at least 500 and large cities, such as Frankfurt and Cologne, are believed to have 200 each for their own immediate defence.

Penetrating this "Maginot line" of the air, German and British night air raiders now encounter clusters of 10 to 30 searchlights every five miles. With the night fighters and guns, western Germany the most formidably-defended fortress in the world against air attack.

The British experts reported that well over 1,500,000 Germans now are tied down in western Europe manning the searchlight and fighter defences, including full-time A.R.P. personnel Guns guarding some of the more important cities are mounted on 200-foot-high concrete flak towers," miniature forts with accommodations for hundreds of troops

The Germans also were said to be making increasing use of camouflage, with whole areas of large cities being altered to make parks look like city streets and large lakes going underground with green netting to prevent them from serving as landmarks.

WILL URGE NAMING FEDERAL ROADS BODY

Move to bring about the formation ... a Dominion roads department has been initiated by the provincial directors of the Alberta Motor Association.

At their recent meeting in Calgary the directors passed a resolution which is designed to bring about a broader and more uniform roads program for the dominion.

The A.M.A. seeks to have federal legislation passed to provide that no federal aid for road construction would be given to a province diverting motor tax revenue to purposes other than road construction.

Similar legislation has been passed in the U.S. and it has had the effect of barring states from merely using motor tax revenue to finance general expenditures. Reports have indicated that many of the states now have legislation themselves that prevents the diversion of motor funds.

The A.M.A. has sought for many years for the earmarking of motor taxes for highway maintenance and construction purposes.

ISLAY

Mrs. Al Bowcroft left Monday morning for Montreal to visit her daughter Betty.

Stamp out the I don't campaign got under way Monday. A committee was formed of Muriel Stone, Mrs. Mitchell and Rev. A. T. Stamp ... can be bought at all the stores and post office very soon. Yvonne Mitchell and Sonia Smith will canvass the village.

Mary McEachern of the R.C.A.F. arrived home from Victoria for a 12-day holiday.

Sergeant Victor Torrance is home on leave. Congratulations are due him and Emily Hutchinson who were married last Thursday.

Marjorie Torrance who is employed at Burns in Edmonton is home on a ... holiday.

Tuesday evening Islay village and community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Anderson to wish them many ... and happiness ... though we were like the season and the crop, a bit late—as the master of ceremonies said — and ... them with a token of our esteem, by triple mahogany tables. Very fittingly Mr. Anderson replied. A ... lunch was provided by all, and much enjoyed as we sat around on the lawn.

Times are progressing here for many, as well as in other parts too. George Robinson arrived back from Edmonton with a new car. Mr. Coleman also exchanged his for a coupe. Donald and Bill McFadyen are driving a light Ford truck purchased from George Robinson.

Mrs. H. Gilchrist has arrived back for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Young have returned after a month's absence, visiting in Saskatoon, Hibbald, Red Deer and Edmonton. They report a fine holiday.

If the weather is fine the ten Mile Bushland was to have last week will be held Tuesday July 6th.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott of Swift Current are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin, Mrs. Scott's parents.

Mrs. Walter Easton and Charles left Tuesday night for Vancouver to spend the summer.

GREEK CLERGY OFFER THEMSELVES FOR THEIR PEOPLE

In a review of the position of the Orthodox Church in Greece, the Swiss paper "Semeur Vaudois" of April 16th tells of a sacrificial offer of their people. The paper speaks of the execution of hostages who pay for the acts or attempts, the activities of the resistance, the assassination of innumerable deeds which spring from the nature of things under the occupation.

"Some months ago the German authorities received the Metropolitan of Athens in his palace audience. He went straight to the point —

"I protest,' he said in substance against the violation of the rights of the person. You believe that the massacre of innocent people is indispensable for the maintenance of order. Allow me to inform you of those who could eventually die if need be, and those who ought not to die. You kill fathers; after their death their families are broken with out support, without bread. You kill sons; after their death their families lose a moral and material support a pillar very often unique and irreplaceable. You proceed to take intellectuals men of great value as hostages. I have with me a list of persons whom you could shoot, without society suffering immeasurably by it, with out their ... an occasioning the ruin of the home.'

"'Show us this list.'

"The Metropolitan offered several sheets of paper to the German chief. At the head of the list was his own name. There followed the names of the Greek clergy.

The German authorities were opposed to this offer, asserting that such an attitude on their part would on the one hand deepen still more the chasm between the Greek people and the occupiers, and, on the other hand would suggest to the rest of the world that Germany was persecuting the Greek Church.

Vermilion, Alta., July 1, 1943.

It's the Trickle That Counts

War, say the ... that it spreads into almost every part of the world, is won by the organized little efforts of individuals — the monotonous left and right turns on the drill field, the collection of fats in the kitchen, the unsalted motions beside a lathe, the added work of feeding larger numbers of live-stock and the extra number of daily taps on the typewriter, flow into and make possible the great stream of war effort destined to overwhelm Hitler and his shady colleagues.

While this is true, many of us fail to appreciate it sometimes. Our humdrum job can appear to be so remote from our kins of war as something exciting and important. It is fair and accurate nevertheless, to say that the good which will take place care of the enemy depends entirely on the trickling flow of individual effort from all of us.

With that conception of our part in the job of war, we see more clearly the reason why individuals should buy Victory Bonds, no matter how small; why each war worker cannot afford to stay away from his shop unnecessarily, and why all ... on the simple matter of making an income tax return, the co-operation of the individual is vitally important.

Money which goes into the Dominion Treasury from the income tax returns made by more than two million Canadian citizens is just as necessary as the money received through the sale of Victory Bonds in shaping the military machine which is to be poured into the fields of Europe. When each individual pauses to meet the request of the Department of National Revenue for prompt completion and return of the income tax form, he is making a vital contribution to the efficiency of his country's war job.

Over a million additional acres of land have been ploughed up this year by farmers in Eastland and Wainwright, mainly for potatoes and grain. Railway livestock allotments now under cultivation amount to 4,382 acres and the number of allotment holders on the British railway is 82,584. This alone represents a crop value of £750,000 ($3,322,500) a year.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

It has been learned to think that it could not quit raining as we've had only three or four days throughout the month of June in which it hasn't rained.

Crops are looking very good, while there is a fine growth of grass ... old weeds. Cutworm damage should soon be over unless the late season means cutworms later than usual also.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson and family motored to Edgerton on June 13th. Mrs. Ferguson remained there to visit her parents. Mr. Ferguson and the family planned to drive to Wainwright on Sunday 20th to meet her mother and sister who had been unable to get passes.

Mr. Hughes is visiting at the Hughes' home here.

Mrs. Barnwell was a visitor to Edmonton two weeks ago.

The Poplar Heights school children and their teacher, Mrs. Lee Klaschinsky, visited Chatsworth on Wednesday June 16th. Softball was played during the afternoon after which a weiner roast was held. Mrs. Klaschinsky expressed her thanks and appreciation for Chatsworth's hospitality and Miss Castel replied, expressing her enjoyment in entertaining the visitors. We were very sorry that all the school children of Poplar Heights were unable to be present due to lack of transportation.

Charlotte Ferguson is now at home for holidays.

George Neetman was a visitor to Edmonton last week.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Randolph Hutchinson has been quite ill and hope she will soon be well again.

Mrs. R. Good is also laid up having suffered a sprained ankle last week.

Mr. Henderson was a visitor at the school last Tuesday, 22nd.

The children have completed their exams now and are looking forward to school closing on Wednesday. Miss Castel plans to treat them to Wednesday evening's show at the Columbia theatre.

The dance held at Ottawa last week was fairly well attended despite bad roads. An enjoyable feature was the Highland Schottische by Mrs. McBride and Mr. Angus Mackinnell.

MORE FACIAL TISSUES MADE

OTTAWA.—A thirty per cent increase in production of facial tissues is provided in a new order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The taller the man, the longer the carved handle. Thirty per cent of the requirements shown issued to Canadian National tradesmen this year will have handles 18 inches long. Three are for the tall men. The balance will be two inches shorter. Experiment has proved that the extra two inches for tall men reduces labor effort and defers fatigue.

CHINA'S FIRST LADY LIKES HER COFFEE

MONTREAL.—On her recent visit to Ottawa and Montreal, Madame Chiang Kai Shek, beloved wife of China's great war leader, brought her own special tea. But she drank it only in the afternoons, according to Percy Alderman, chef in the special Canadian National Railways car in which she travelled from New York and back again. For breakfast and dinner she preferred coffee. Chef Alderman found, too, that she was fond of a good western beefsteak.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

Wedding bells again rang in this district when Miss Thelma Kay of Tulliby Lake became the bride of Mr. Frank Robinson of Bowtell. The ceremony was on Monday June 28 in St. Barnabas Anglican church, Vermilion. The Ven. Archdeacon Loversedge officiated.

The bride was becomingly dressed in navy blue with white shoes, white hat and accessories.

Best wishes from the people of the district are extended to the happy pair. They were guests for dinner on their wedding day at the Sherwood home and Mrs. F. Hisdale was a guest at the same time.

George Monaghan had the misfortune to have his tractor break down on the highway during his trip to town planing the road. It must be said that the Monaghan Bros. certainly do an excellent job of keeping the road in good shape and many complimentary remarks have been heard regarding the high standard of their road maintenance.

The children are busy writing exams and we sincerely hope our teacher Miss Rhesa Smith is back with us again next year.

The many friends of Mrs. Gow Sr. are pleased to see her back among them once more.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Gould and Jean were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Repp.

Mr. and Mrs. Kottmeier were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gow evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gow.

ONE-WAY DISK

An illustrated pamphlet, "One-Way Disk Maintenance and Operation" has just been published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture as No. 78 in its Wartime Production Series. The pamphlet points out that the condition of the one way disk depends on the wear of its blades, the gang and wheel bearings, and the power lift and its linkage. How to restore these essential parts to good condition and to keep them that way is clearly described. A copy of the pamphlet may be obtained from the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Vermilion Branch Red Cross Thanked For Excellent Work

Receive Letter Direct from England

The following letters have been received recently by the Vermilion branch of the Canadian Red Cross, and indicate very pointedly the excellent and painstaking work being carried on by the local Red Cross auxiliary.

Rev. L. G. Bieber, Red Cross Branch, Vermilion, Alberta.

Dear Mr. Bieber:

Enclosed find official receipts Nos. 817 and 818, covering the very large shipment received from your branch this week.

It is a great tribute to the people of Vermilion that they continue to turn in so much excellent work, and many people in Britain will be more comfortable for the hours spent on it. It was a great assortment of work, topped by 18 quilts.

I am sending you a copy of a letter received from England this week, which will let you see how much bedding is appreciated there. Perhaps Mrs. Rintoul who writes the letter received a quilt made in Vermilion.

Kind regards to all the members.

Very truly yours,

K. Allison Procter,

Convener of War Work.

By H. G. L. Strange

Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co. Ltd.

News has just come from Great Britain that the British Ministry of Food after extensive tests have found that "Canada Approved" Vita min B1 bread is released, all things considered, as a better bread than even the present wheat bread of Britain or the loaf of the United States now reinforced artificially with Vitamin B-1.

The International Food Conference which recently met at Hot Springs, Virginia, made recommendation by unanimously recommending that processes should be used in making flour just been published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture as No. 78 in its Wartime Production Series. The pamphlet points out that the condition of the one way disk depends on the wear of its blades, the gang and wheel bearings, and the power lift and its linkage. How to restore these essential parts to good condition and to keep them that way is clearly described. A copy of the pamphlet may be obtained from the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Dear Friend:

I am writing to you a few words of thanks, being in need of bed and bedding, and not having the means of getting any, I was advised to ask help from the Soldier and Sailor's Association.

My husband has been a prisoner of war since June 1940, and I have two children, a girl 10 years and one who will be 4 in August. She has not ever her Daddy since she was 4 months old.

On the bedding I received was your address, and I thought how kind and thoughtful of you people so far away, to send such nice things over to us here. I just had to sit and write my word of thanks to you in Canada, and hope and pray that it soon will be over. So please thank one and all from me who is very grateful for what I received.

Yours faithfully,

Mrs. Alice Rintoul.

My family are Jean age 10, Maureen age 4.

MONEY PRICES SET BY BOARD

OTTAWA.—Ceiling prices for honey have been set by the Foods Administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, for the coming season.

Maximum wholesale price for extracted honey in bulk is still 12½ cents a pound, and producers selling the extracted honey in bulk or in large containers other than glass, direct to the consumer on the markets or elsewhere are permitted to add 2½ cents a pound. The maximum price for standard comb honey is set in the order as 40 cents a section.

IS MOWER IN REPAIR READY FOR MATING?

When the teeth of hay mowers are properly set and the whole machine running smoothly, the labor of haying on the farm is free from many vexatious and delays. The Dominion Department of Agriculture recently issued a Bulletin No. 116, "Mower Repairs and Adjustment" which contains practical information concerning the reconditioning and repairing not only of mowers but of farm machinery generally.

But in addition to Bulletin 116, "Mower Repairs and Adjustment," there are other pamphlets issued by the Department of farm machinery, showing how it is possible in only several years to the service of the machines and at the same time per cent avoidable delays when the machines are most needed. Pamphlet 8 — Special Wartime Pamphlets which are applicable at all times, namely, No 72 Seeding Machine Maintenance, No 73 Engine Lubrication, No 75 Portable Grain Elevators on Farm Use, and No. 76, the One Way Disk Maintenance and Operation. The pamphlets may be obtained by writing to Information Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

FREE SHOW FOR CHILDREN HERE ON FRIDAY, JULY 16th

Admission Is 1½ Pounds of Fat

A free show for all school children and those younger than school age is being presented at the Columbia theatre on Friday July 16. Two complete programs will be run starting at 2:30 and 4:30.

The admission ticket is obtained in the usual manner—Each child will take 1½ pounds of rendered fats to any one of the three meat markets in Vermilion. Bailey's Fancy Bakery, and ... chance the fat for an admission ticket to the show. Should there be several children as in one family, who wish to bulk their fat in one container each child in that group will obtain a ticket, providing weight averages 1½ pounds per child.

These fats should be delivered to the meat markets well in advance of the day of the show in order to avoid any last minute rush.

Purchasers of rural schools should instruct their pupils of this plan so they are eligible for the free show also. The more fats the children turn in the more bullets can be fired by our Canadian soldiers in their great effort to win the war.

The free show is being sponsored by the Vermilion salvage committee of the board of trade in co-operation with Manager W.P. Pilkie and the management of Baileys, Craigs and Thirves meat markets.

Seekers of Farm Prosperity

Western Canada will be gratified with the interest being shown in Parliament in the proposals which have been advocated since 1936 by the Line Elevator Companies for more intensive scientific research in developing industrial uses for farm products. The Line Elevator Companies have all along contended that greater farm prosperity would result from expanding markets through finding new uses for wheat and other farm products. In 1936 and 1939 a representative of the Line Companies visited the principal research laboratories of the United States and reported great possibilities for utilizing large quantities of wheat in the manufacture of alcohol and starches. This information was made available at that time to the Dominion Government and the Chairman of the Committee of the Manitoba Chamber of Commerce. The weekly newspapers of the Prairie Provinces joined with the North West Line Elevators Association in urging the Government to establish a Western division of the National Research Council and to erect plants for the manufacture of industrial alcohol from wheat. All beverage alcohol sold in Canada and the United States have since been converted to the use of wheat for the manufacture of industrial alcohol and proportionately larger quantities will be used in the United States.

Parliament a few days ago received a unanimous demand from Liberal, Progressive-Conservative, C.C.F. and New Democracy members for the Government to appropriate $500,000 this year to intensify scientific research for development of industrial uses for farm crops. Many will add to the prosperity of agriculture. Farm organizations, the Governments of Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Pool Elevator Companies, Industrial Development Boards and various Boards of Trade in recent months have all added their voice to the need for action.

It is gratifying to the Weekly Newspapers to find that the consistent support which they have given the Line Elevator Companies' proposals during the past five years is bringing about a united demand from all sections of the country for action by the Dominion Government. It is hoped that steps will be taken during the present session of Parliament to appropriate sufficient funds to establish a Western division of the National Research Council. This laboratory should be dedicated to bringing about greater farm prosperity through development of additional Western farm crops and new industrial uses for crops now being grown. The laboratory should also seek economic means of using wheat instead of petroleum in the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

THE NAVY WANTS MEN FOR SEA AND SHORE DUTY

Lieutenant J. A. Dawson, R.C.N.V.R., Commanding Officer H.M.C.S. "Nonsuch" announces that there are some splendid opportunities for young men over 17½ years of age with high educational qualifications and who are leaving school at the end of this month. They can join as Stokers, 2nd Class, with an opportunity later of taking a course and learning a trade while in the Navy, or, they can join as Ordinary Seamen, and if they show ability and leadership, on reaching the age or 19 years can appear before a Selection Board and if approved will be trained as Officer Candidates.

There are also opportunities for young men with Grade VIII and up to man our fighting ships, during the speedy torpedo boats to the large battleships operating on the seven seas of the world.

SHORE JOBS WITH NAVY

Experienced tradesmen up to 60 years of age who are medically fit and who are qualified blacksmiths, boilermakers, coppersmiths, instructors, repairmen, electricians, ironworkers, machinists, machine operators, fitters or bench hands, pipefitters, joiners and cabinet makers are required for duty in H.M.C. dockyards.

While it is more satisfactory to have a personal interview with the Recruiting Officer, Lieutenant G. H. Gyrwood, R.C.N.V.R., at H.M.C.S. "Nonsuch", Edmonton, information and application forms will be mailed on request.

Tony Lascelles naturalist of Banff, claims that the plague of mice which did such harm to crops which stood out all winter was due to unmerciful slaughterings of hawks.

RADIO GROCS

"Just the Two of Us", with Alex Kevin at the organ and Paul Gray reminiscing. This is the type of program we have all been waiting for. Beautiful organ music as a background for Gray's soul charming verse, given with due regard for the feeling behind the words. His voice blend ing perfectly with the mood created by Mr. Kevin's music. This is a program that will be a regular Sunday night feature that everyone will gather round to hear. Be sure and tune in CJCA this Sunday night at 10.15 p.m. for "Just the Two of Us".

One of CJCA's popular features "The Word Man" heard at 1.15 each Sunday afternoon is making a name for itself in the hearts of old and young alike. When you come across a word, or a pronunciation, or a name that bothers you, just write a letter to the Word Man and tell him about it. He will be glad to help you with your difficulties concerning the English language.

CJCA's Vox Pop program, known as "The People Speak", is a new show, that is showing a wide listener interest. We have received many very fine letters from folks who have comments to make on our efforts at entertainment, and say if you who would like to get on and are invited to do so. The program is brought to you at 1.45 each Saturday. Be on hand next Saturday and hear the offer yourself, and the comments taken from letters we have received, which we are sure will interest you.

Our old faithful program "Club Calendar" is gaining new followers every day. It is a program for the listeners, where your activities and club meetings are posted for all who listen to hear. The service is free of charge, and is widely heard, so if you want to make use of its facilities just drop a note to this station 24 hours in advance of the date your announcement is to be on the air. The program is heard daily Monday thru Friday at 11.30 a.m. and on Sunday at 10.15 a.m.

CREAM PRICES STABILIZED

Alberta cream producers are now assured of stabilized cream prices according to a statement issued by Hon. D.H. McCuish, Dairy Commissioner. The basic price will increase by 4c per pound per month until December. This price will be supplemented by 3c per pound subsidy until December and by 10c per pound until April, 1944.

The first section of the Canadian National Tar-graphic, 71 miles between Tower and St. Catharine, went into operation 87 years ago.

JUDICIAL SALE OF FARM PROPERTY BY TENDER

Pursuant to an order of Honourable Mr. Justice Tweedie of the Supreme Court of Alberta, and of certain directions for sale, sealed tenders will be received for the purchase of the following parcel of farm property, situate 12 miles south from Vermilion, to be sold in one parcel:

The South Half of Section Eight (8), Township Fifty-five (55), Range Five (5), West of the Fourth Meridian, reserving thereout all mines and minerals, and also the right to enter upon the land and work the same subject to the conditions and reservations contained in the original grant from the Crown or in the existing Certificate of Title thereto, and subject to all taxes, rates and assessments imposed thereon, subsequent to the 21st day of December, 1912.

The land is situate 12 miles from Clandonald, Alberta, and consists of approximately 320 acres, 255 of which is under cultivation, 20 acres brush land, and 50 more acres could be cultivated.

The top soil consists of Black soil 6 inches to 12 inches deep with clay subsoil.

The nearest school is 2 miles away.

The buildings are as follows: Frame House 16 x 26, Frame House 16 x 20 and Log Barn, rubberoid roof, 24 x 80. The buildings are in a good state of repair.

There is one well and the land is fenced with two strands of wire.

The sale will be subject to an upset price of $10,200.00

Tenders must be enclosed in sealed envelopes marked "Tender re Lot Eight (8), Township Fifty-five (55), Range Five (5), West of the Fourth Meridian," addressed to the Clerk of the Supreme Court, Court House, Edmonton, and must be in the hands of the said Clerk not later than 12:00 o'clock noon on the 12th day of July 1943.

TERMS OF SALE

Each tender must be accompanied by a marked cheque or cash for 10% of the amount of the tender, and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid into Court within forty days after the acceptance of the tender, without interest. The Purchaser to make his own arrangements for the money by way of mortgage or otherwise.

The deposit of 10% shall be forfeited by the successful tenderer if he refuses to carry out the purchase after the acceptance of his tender. Cheques of unsuccessful tenderers will be returned to them immediately after rejection thereof. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. In all other respects conditions and conditions of the sale will be standing conditions of sale of the Supreme Court of Alberta as far as the same are applicable hereto.

For further particulars apply to Messrs. Mowell, Lindsay, Emery & Ford, Barristers, Canada Permanent Building, 10th Street, Edmonton, Alberta.

Bell has the sincere sympathy of friends to all his former friends here whom Capt Bell wishes best for. He will now complete a duty free number of the staff of the Vermilion Military hospital. The work is interesting and usually not too strenuous. The Captain says that being able to stop work at 5 p. m. and go home without worry about the telephone eventually has its advantages.

Mrs (Dr.) Bell was in Los Angeles at the time of the passing away of Mrs. Bell sr. She had gone there because the latter's brother was ill and not expected to live. When she left Victoria Mrs. Bell sr was up parently in good health and the following day Dr. Bell received word that his mother was not as well as had been but her condition was not considered serious. However she went rapidly downhill and died in her sleep about a week after the arrival of Mrs Bell Strange to relate the brother has rallied.

The Revd Lord Bishop has been busy the past week-end and will be busy until 11 for stating that they were not bothered by casual attendance. It appears that others in the district are apparently not interested in education the results are in some instances tests set by the Education Department being failed by those who are more than the departments term. Educational writing is all very fine and dandy but usually not too interesting. The Captain says that being able to stop work at 5 p. m. and go home without worry about the telephone eventually has its advantages.

Mrs (Dr.) Bell was in Los Angeles at the time of the passing away of Mrs. Bell sr. She had gone there because the latter's brother was ill and not expected to live. WILDMERE WINKS

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Newman, Auburndale on the birth of a daughter at the Vermilion hospital recently.

The grim reaper has again called one or our oldest and highly respected residents from our midst in the person of Mrs. Nicholas of Eagle Shoe has lived a good many years in the district. While she has been a semi invalid for several years she was always sure of a warm welcome at her home and her cheery smile will be greatly missed. Her husband who predeceased her several years ago, she continued to make her home with the household with her son, Alf, until the last fifteen months when she went to hospital where she passed away on Saturday night last. Our deepest sympathy goes out to the bereaved daughters and sons left to mourn her loss also to her many grandchildren. Allan Smith helped Jim Washington overhaul his threshing separator last week when it was wet. Neil Lafleur also came over and helped with it one afternoon.

Since the weather has settled it has been a busy time for farmers in the district and their tractor units have all been busy. Andy Carlson, Jim Smith, Newcomb Hall some seeding to finish. Ray Bell has finished his crop but Fred Bell has this part of it still to do. Jim Lafleur has finished seeding a large crop. Mr. Williamson and Mr. Gibson have been busy with their tractors. Mr. Williamson still has a little seeding to do. Mr. Gibson has finished. Mr. Gibson has been improving his property with a new coat of paint. Mrs. Gibson of Hazelwood has been assisting in her home near Lac la Biche Alta.

There will be no news next week as the writer will be too busy. So will the chief correspondent.

Mrs. Smith is holding an auction sale of household furnishings at her residence on Saturday afternoon July 17th. W. J. Casterton is the auctioneer. Watch for bills and advertisement for listing. 10-1t

FREAK LIGHTNING

A freak bolt of lightning played a few tricks in a Toronto church The bolt hit the tower of St Simon's Anglican church, tore away one whole side of it, went through a trap door leading into the church, hopped and skipped along the rafters and into the p ipit It then tore a strip of wood from a wall and finally grounded itself in the basement.

Veterans "Pull" President

Pulling the president' is always a coveted assignment among senior executive engineers Typical of the veterans who handled the train carrying G. C. Coleman, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, on his recent western tour with W. A. Mather, Winnipeg vice-president of western lines and Montreal directors of the company, was Engineer Charles Fletcher, of Saskatoon, shown above being congratulated by President Coleman on a smooth ride. Engineer Fletcher, who joined the C P R as a fireman at Moose Jaw in 1903, went to Saskatoon as an engineer in 1911 and has been on that division since. President Coleman renewed acquaintance with many old friends in engine and train service during his 8,100 mile tour, and at Penticton, B.C., was up at 5 a.m. to shake hands with conductor Trainman, fireman and engineer.

British Sailor Loses Every Member Of Family Through War

British Able Seaman Thomas Hanlon 22, has lost all 17 members of his family since he joined His sailor's fleet a month after Hitler invaded Poland. Visiting friends, he explained that a twin brother fell at Dunkerque, another brother, a flier, was killed over Berlin, and the remainder of the family — father, mother, eight brothers and sisters— were killed when German bombs struck Middlebrough, near Newcastle, England.

NEED LOTS OF GAS

On a fairly long round trip—up to 1,500 miles, say—one of these huge four-motored bombers would burn some 2,000 gallons. That's as much as 51 East Coast motorists get in a year's time under present "A" rations of 1½ gallons a week. Fifteen raids of this distance by 100 Fortresses would consume the contents of a medium size (75,000 barrels) tanker.

Home Guard Stories

These Two Out Of Many Are Particularly Good

You may remember some of the stories of the Home Guard, says the Marquess of Donegall in the London Daily Despatch. There was one Brigadier Whitehead told me against himself. He was inspecting the guard at the Admiralty Arch.

"Why don't your job be civilian life?" he asked the first man.

"I have," one at the moment, sir."

"That's bad luck. Out of work, eh? What were you doing before, my man?"

"I have just returned from being H.M. Ambassador in the Argentine, sir."

Then there was the very new second lieutenant who pulled up a tired Home Guard for failing to salute.

"Don't you know you should salute an officer? What's your name?"

"General Sir Hubert Gough, sir!"

According To Census

Greater Number Of Unmarried Men Than Women In Canada

The Dominion bureau of statistics has reported that final census figures showed single persons constituted 54.1 per cent. of Canada's population of 11,506,655 in 1941, that Quebec showed the largest number of single persons in proportion to population and British Columbia the highest ratio of married persons.

The bureau said married persons accounted for 41.2 per cent. of the Dominion's population in 1941, widowed 4.6 per cent. and divorced 0.1 per cent. In 1931, 57.4 per cent. of the population was enumerated as single and only 38.3 per cent. as married.

The actual increase in the number of married persons amounted to 784,982 or 18.2 per cent., while the number of single persons showed a much smaller increase over 1931 of 279,156, or only 4.7 per cent.

Single persons of all ages represented 60.8 per cent. of the population in Quebec, and married persons 35.7 per cent. In British Columbia, 47.8 per cent. of the population was married and only 48.2 per cent. single. Ontario also showed a large proportion of married persons, with 43.1 per cent. of the population enumerated as married and 49.4 per cent. as single

All provinces showed an increase in the number of married persons since 1931. The number of single persons, however, declined in Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan, and showed only slight relative increases in Ontario and Alberta.

The distribution by sex showed that of the 6,320,560 single persons in Canada, 53.3 per cent. were males, a ratio almost identical to that in 1931.

Explanations and Comments

Jacob and his Family in Egypt, Exodus 1:8. Time has passed. Four centuries are a brief census of Jacob and his family when they came into Egypt, the fuller account being given in Genesis 46:8-27.

The Remarkable Growth of the Israelites, Exodus 1:9, 7. The small beginning of the Hebrew people, consisting of Jacob and his twelve sons, the "seventy souls" in all who first came into Egypt, has been recalled but their increase was simply and impressively shown. They increased exceedingly. They multiplied during the centuries between Jacob and Moses, until they were numerically a great nation.

"Of the seventy, sixty-eight were males. Of the three females mentioned of Jacob we add the wives of his sons and grandsons, and the husbands of the daughters and granddaughters, and all their servants with their families, it appears that the total number of those who entered Egypt was very considerable, and that Egypt was it not thousands. This fact, as well as the acknowledged gentleness of the Hebrew nation, serves to account for their rapid increase in Egypt. At the time of the Exodus they must have numbered about three millions." (Dummelow)

The Oppressive Measures of the Egyptians, Exodus 1:8-14 Now (several centuries after Joseph's death) there arose a new king over Egypt, who knew not Joseph, in Joseph's time Egypt was ruled by an Asiatic dynasty called the Hyksos, or Shepherd Kings. They were finally expelled and native rulers came to the throne. It was under one of this new dynasty that the Israelites were so oppressed.

God's Concern for the Oppressed, Exodus 2:23-25. In process of time the king of Egypt died, but his death brought no relief to the children of Israel whose groanings continued, who sighed and groaned in their affliction and cried to God for relief And God heard, and remembered his covenant, and God saw the children of Israel, and God took knowledge of them.

"The important thing in religion is not the belief that a crisis is coming but the experience that God knows me." (James Denny).

The manufacture of carpets was introduced from Persia into Egypt. Egyptians as a symbolic hieroglyph for "Israelites" or "Israelitish slave" means a brick-maker.

King Cohen

Smiling at you here is Sergt. Sidney Cohen, 22, of the British Royal Air Force, who obtained the surrender of the Italian island of Lampedusa after he had made a forced landing there in his Swordfish plane. While on a mission from Malta, Cohen's compass developed "a fit of gremlins" and he ran short of fuel while trying to get his bearings. Nearest land was Lampedusa, then under aerial bombardment by the Allies. Sergt. Cohen landed his plane at the airport there and to his amazement was given the formal surrender of the island. His R.A.F. buddies now call him "King Cohen of Lampedusa."

War First Trip

Lady Used To Car Did Not Suspect Bus Driver

A cool and suavely dressed matron got on a crosstown bus the other morning and started off wrong by offering the driver a 10-dollar bill.

Then, when she finally managed to dredge a nickel up out of her bag, she didn't know where to put it. It hardly came as a surprise when she handed in to the driver, "I've never been in one of these before, you know." Looking indifferently at this latest sacrifice on the altar of civilian shortages, the driver said, "Ah! ain't missed you none, lady."—New Yorker.

Paper-Based Plastics

Waste Paper Plays A Most Important Part In The War

Waste paper is helping the R.A.F. in hundreds of ways. The amazing Mosquito aircraft, for instance; alternate layers of wood and specially treated paper form the ply which is largely used to build these machines.

Even doors and tables are now made from layers of a low grade type of corrugated paper, sprayed with resin and covered by an extremely thin sheet of wood. The navigator's table and compartment doors of some aircraft are constructed of this material.

Paper-based plastics are also playing as important part in aircraft and electrical construction, sometimes replacing metal. Specially processed paper produces this plastic material which is used to construct cowls for fighter aircraft and a host of electrical components for tanks, planes and ships.

In the world of electricity, paper, owing to its non-conducting properties, is in ever increasing demand. War necessitates the use of many thousands of miles of cable, much of it insulated with paper.

There are only a few of the war jobs done by paper. To them should be added the millions of shell cases, bomb containers, and numerous components of mines, the production of which uses thousands of tons each week.

Who can doubt the need for stringent economy in the use of paper and the necessity for salvaging even the smallest piece?

Sea horses make snapping noises which apparently serve as a means of communication, according to a scientist.

MISSIONARIES TO SPEAK HERE

The Annual Missionary convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance chapel, Vermilion, will open on Sunday, July 4th, and will continue to Thursday, July 8th. Missionary speakers for this year's convention are to be Rev. and Mrs. G. Edward Hoefe of French Indo-China. Mr. Hoefe has served fourteen years in pioneer missionary work largely in the State of Laos. Now on furlough, this missionary couple are proving to be able missionary speakers. Their aim will want to hear their stirring messages on Gospel triumphs. Sunday services are at 11:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Week night services, Monday to Thursday will be held at 8:00 p.m. Although only a little larger than the province of Alberta, yet French Indo-China has a population of 24,482,000. The Christian and Missionary Alliance is the only evangelical missionary agency primarily responsible for the evangelization of these millions, with a section of one or two small areas. Today the Alliance is supporting over 500 Canadian and American missionaries and 1,000 native and foreign fields. Remember—five full days of missionary tidings! Come, and bring your friends.

BOOKS TO READ

"Thorn-Apple Tree"
By Grace Campbell

This is another book about the Scotch settlers of Glengarry, but with a difference. This is written in a crisp, terse style, a work of balanced artistry. It is a printer's masterpiece, designed by Franklin Campbell, R.C.A., who has provided for chapter head-pieces fifteen of his own incisive, richly wrought wood cuts in the style of art as well as a classic of fiction.

The author, Grace Campbell, is the wife of a United church minister in Regina, and he speaks her admiration for the Manse and its philosophy in her sterling portrait of John Mar Lord, the Scottish minister, in this book. One of its highlights is a description of hammer-throwing at the Highland Games at Hughie Lark's, where the minister beats both Michael and Red Huck in this contest of strength; "And the men of God was a man of muscle too".

The central theme of the book is the waiting of Fairlie Rose through the years while her husband Michael is away to the North West hunting furs with his French Canadian comrade Paul Leclair. We sense the compelling strength of this "flower of Edinboro' blooming like a rose in our wilderness". Her courage is exemplified in her lifting of a lost barrow-pit pitch and invaded the sheep fold.

There are a hundred other good things, the description of sugaring off (a Glengarry tradition) the log drive to Quebec, the epic of Cotton River, and the countless fragments of Canadian folk ways that only an artist in words like Grace Campbell could set down with such assurance.

This is a story every Canadian should read. It is bone of our bone, it belongs —E. P.

High School Boys for Farms
(Edmonton Journal)

Farmers should heed the warning of Mr. Longman and notify their district agriculturist promptly as to how many high school students they wish to employ this year. In another month the long summer holiday will start and many boys, particularly those suitable for farm work, will be available.

It is recognized that many farmers are reluctant to pay good wages to boys particularly city boys for first few months of work they can do will not be adequate. The provincial department of agriculture and the education provincial youth training plan have made a long way toward meeting this danger. Three weeks' training may be given the boys as apprentices on the farm, or they may first be placed in special schools to train there in farm work. It is likely that the farmers will consider the former the more practical plan. Apprentices will receive allowances from youth training funds for the three week period and the farmer will provide board, lodging and salary.

For many farms it must be the labor of high school boys or nothing this summer so the greatest possible use should be made of them. They form the largest and most readily available source of extra labor in the province.

New Rail Keeps Standards High

MONTREAL.—Last year, the Canadian National Railways used 24,671 gross tons of new rail in main line replacements, which is equal to the miles of track. In addition, 5,815 gross tons of relay rail were used for renewal of 369 miles of secondary lines. "Good track is paramount in the safe operation of trains," says J. A. Ellis, engineer of track for the National System. "The track program for 1943 is about the same as last year and it is made necessary by the greatly increased traffic the C.N.R. has been called upon to handle."

MOTHER OF DR. W. W. BELL PASSES IN LOS ANGELES

Lived Here from 1925 to 1929

Mrs. J. W. Bell, mother of Dr. W. W. Bell, passed away at the age of 87 years, on Saturday, June 26th in Los Angeles on June 19th. She resided with her son in Vermilion from 1925 to 1929, going to Los Angeles where she lived since that time. Interment took place in the Forest Lawn cemetery, Los Angeles, on June 22.

The deceased lived in Edmonton from 1910 to 1920. She was in Los Angeles from 1921 to 1925 when she and her husband, the late J. W. Bell, joined their son Dr. W. W. Bell in Vermilion where they lived until the death of the Rev. Bell in 1929. Mrs. Bell visited her son in Vermilion again in 1942, returning to Los Angeles and would undoubtedly coming back to Canada as she always found our weather too cold for her liking.

Surviving members of the family are one son: Capt. W.W. Bell, R.C.A.M.C., Victoria; one daughter Mrs. Arthur Lee Lamb, Los Angeles; a brother, Philip Hancock of Los Angeles and a sister Mrs. W. J. Inglis, Montreal.

EIGHTEEN WOMEN TO BE T.C.A. RADIO OPERATORS

WINNIPEG. — Eighteen students have begun work in the second Trans-Canada Air Lines school for women radio operators. They come from Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Semans, Calgary, Edmonton, Dryden, New Westminster and other western points and from various walks of life. One was a hairdresser; two were teachers; others were telephone operators, cashiers and stenographers. Two are married women with husbands overseas on active service. All have had experience in radio work and three or four have qualified for licenses. The classes will last from three to four months.

50% or over 4,500 out of about 8,000 items of small tools required by India for munitions production and other war supply purposes are now manufactured in India.

DEATH OF BABY SIMMONS

Helen May Simmons, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Simmons passed away in the Lloydminster hospital on June 16, 1943, at the age of four months and sixteen days.

The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. A. Bell at the United church at Islay on June 21. A large number of friends attended to show their sympathy, and interment took place in the Islay cemetery. The pallbearers were Robert Bastian, Frank McClennan, Arthur Waterfield, John Davies and David Dibb.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from:

Dad and Mum; Grandparents Simmons and family; Grandparents Cox and family; Margaret and Leonard; Mrs. Drysdale and Dorothy; Mr. and Mrs. Barnett and family; Eva, Harold and family; Mrs. Bowman and family; Grace Schwartz.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks for the kindness and sympathy extended to us during our recent bereavement, and for the beautiful floral tributes. We also wish to thank the matron and nurses of the Lloydminster municipal hospital and Drs. Sweet and Gordon for their kindness and attention to our baby during her illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Simmons.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said in the house of commons at Ottawa that he had been sold by Henry A. Wallace, vice-president of the United States, that if transportation could be arranged, large quantities of wheat would be purchased by the United States.

First Anniversary Of Training Centre Saturday, July 17

Celebrations to Include Official Opening of New Drill Hall

The first anniversary of the opening of No. 3 Canadian Women's Army Corps Basic Training Centre at Vermilion will be celebrated on Saturday, July 17th, and the official opening of the new drill hall will also take place.

Brigadier F.M.W. Harvey, V.C., M.C., District Officer Commanding, M.D. 12 has been invited to officiate at the ceremonies.

A sports program will be held during the afternoon and in the evening a dance will be held in the new drill hall. Men of the army stationed at the Wainwright Camp will be invited to attend the dance.

WHITEY WILSON DRILLS GASSER AT POUCE COUPE

Whitey Wilson, veteran driller of the Vermilion field, has just brought in a big gas well near Pouce Coupe at 2161 feet. The well belongs to the Alaska Highway Oils and Gas Co. and is located 3 miles north-east of Pouce Coupe and about the same distance south-east of Dawson Creek. It is just 2 or 3 miles inside the Alberta boundary. Whitey has spent the past three weeks on the drilling job and was in town over the week-end loading a string of casing to ship north to the well. He expects to finish off the hole within the next ten days.

TRAGIC SHOOTING ACCIDENT TAKES LIFE OF DOUGALD GANTON

Son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Ganton of Union District

A tragic shooting accident claimed the life of Dougald Johnston Ganton, 16 year old twin son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Ganton of the Union district. The fatality occurred some time last Saturday evening July 3 in the farm home of the boy's uncle, Mr. J. W. Pipe of the Tolland district for whom Dougald was working. He was alone in the house at the time of the accident.

The deceased, who would have been 16 years of age on the following Friday, July 9, was a well grown young man, and had decided to stay home instead of accompanying the rest of the family to Vermilion on the usual Saturday evening trip. On their return late that night Dougald's lifeless body was found in the living room, death being caused by a bullet wound in the forehead. By his side was a .22 rifle. It is assumed that the rifle discharged when Dougald was examining the spring lock, whereas the boy was inclined to be a bit active.

No inquest was held, the fatality being deemed clearly accidental.

Funeral services were held from the L.D.S. Church on Tuesday July 6 at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and interment took place in the Vermilion cemetery. John Marshall, Presbyterian student minister officiated.

The large number attending and the numerous floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held and to the sympathy felt for the family in their sudden and very sad bereavement.

ANGLICANS CONSIDER RE-DECORATION, INSTALLATION OF GAS HEAT IN CHURCH

Project Is Long Overdue

Anglicans in the Vermilion area are shortly to be asked to give financial support to a project too long delayed. The wardens and vestry have decided to ask the parishioners to agree to the redecoration of the church interior, and to the installation of gas heat for heating purposes this fall. The need is urgent and merits the generous support of the whole membership of the church. The project has already been talked of too long—the occasion requires action.

Parishioners will meet to discuss the plan on Monday evening July 12 in the Parish hall at 8 p.m.

Anglican Boys' Camp Cancelled

According to word received by the Standard, the Vermilion Deanery (Anglican) boys' camp scheduled to be held at Garran lake this summer, has been cancelled owing to insufficient applications being received.

Evangelist Returns for Week-end

Rev. John L. Newman of Spokane, Wash., will conduct three days of special services in the Vermilion Alliance chapel, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 9-11. Mr. Newman was a special speaker in two weeks of special Gospel services held in the chapel a few weeks ago. Friends will be glad to know of this short return engagement. The two weeknight meetings will be at 8 p.m. and the regular Sunday services at 11:30 and 7:30. There will be special music at all services. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Those who failed to hear Evangelist Newman before will want to take advantage of this opportunity.

Owing to last minute demand for advertising space several news items had to be held until next week, prominent among these was important news about Vermilion Fair on July 29, 30 31. Watch for it in our next issue.

RIVER CLAIMS VICTIM

MISS MAMIE McFADDEN DROWNED WEDNESDAY EVENING

The swimming pool in the Vermilion river claimed a victim shortly before 10 o'clock Wednesday evening when Miss Mamie McFadden, aged 25 years, stepped beyond her depth and was drowned. Her companion, Miss Dorothy Rexford, hand in hand with her at the time, was rescued with great difficulty from the deep water by Bert Moses, although the latter is not an accomplished swimmer.

The two girls had entered the water from the old cement block on the lower side of the pool. They had waded close to the bank up to the pool proper and enjoyed bathing there for considerable time. Then they started back to the spot from where they had entered the water; nearly to the bank one more dash was decided on and hand in hand the girls stepped backwards into what they apparently thought would be a little deeper water. Both disappeared and subsequent investigation revealed that a narrow but very deep channel runs along for considerable length at this spot, and into this the girls had stepped. Coming to the surface they shouted for help. Owing to the late hour just a few remained at the pool, and of those present only Bert Moses could swim. By the time he had taken Dorothy safely to shore, Mamie had disappeared. Help was sought from town by Mrs. R. Moses and Mrs. W. Mears, and Chas. Laverty aided later by Jack Wright, conductor at tensive probing operations. The body was discovered by Jack some 20 feet down the river from the spot where the unfortunate girl was seen to sink. She had been in the water about 40 minutes when taken out and artificial respiration, applied by Dr. Bradford, proved of no avail.

Miss Mamie was a daughter of Mr. David McFadden of Maunville and had been employed for some time at the Vermilion hospital. Her sister Irene also works at the hospital. The deceased girl was assured to bathing in the river as she was her first visit to the swimming pool here.

BRUNSWICK HOTEL CHANGES HANDS

Big Business and Real Estate Deal Now Completed

Stephen F. Hendrick of Vancouver, a former well known Vermilion business man, has purchased the Brunswick hotel bott, building and business, in one of the largest transactions consummated here for some time. Mr. Hendrick is managing the hotel himself and took charge on July 1.

For many years the new Brunswick proprietor had business interests in Vermilion, opening a general store in 1916 in the old Royal George building which structure was destroyed in the fire which swept the business section of the town in 1918. He then erected the fine brick block which was located on First Street South next to the Elks hall and which housed the poolroom and his store. This was destroyed by fire in the spring of 1919 with heavy loss. He also owned residential properties which have been sold during the past few years to the Boston Cafe and to R. A. Meyer. Mr. Hendrick has recently been living in Vancouver.

Mrs. Culford, who has operated the Brunswick hotel with marked success for many years, intends to retire from business and will probably take a trip to the home surroundings of her native Canada before actually settling any where.

JUVENILE OFFENDERS ROUNDED UP BY POLICE

Accused of Breaking and Entering Business Places

A miniature crime wave swept the town last week, the offences taking the form of breaking entering and burglarizing business places. The crimes culminated in the entering through a small window, of A. E. Kaiser's Tobacco shop and wholesale house and the stealing of a considerable amount of cash. Police got busy and as result of investigation have rounded up three juvenile offenders who for the most part, have confessed the series of robberies. The culprits, who are just in their early teen years will appear before the Magistrate in Juvenile court.

The business places entered were Kaiser's Bailey's barber shop Al Berta Western Lumber Co. and the standard office. In the standard office the young culprits made off with a pocketful of pennies, some change and three-cent items; balls, the secretary's office and one of a drawer, from which the only money involved in town, the reason or

Expensive Guests

Five People Realize How Much Rats Cost The Country

The Manitoba Department of Health has issued figures which show it considers the rat an expensive luxury and says the bill is "huge." According to the figures rat costs two dollars a year to keep in food. It is supposed that the rat population equals the human. That seems to imply that Winnipeg spends in the neighborhood of half a million dollars a year dining rodents. Rather a large cheque to pay for guests who are liable to start an epidemic at the drop of a hat.

Record Rail Shipment

The largest single unit freight shipment ever carried over the Canadian National Railways, and exceeding any known previous record established by loads on this continent, is now on the system double track main line travelling from Lachine to the Government synthetic rubber plant at Sarnia, Ontario moving on a five-day schedule for a distance which that freight will traverse in the hours from near midnight to just past noon. Manufactured by the Dominion Bridge Company, this huge tank, technically known as a "R.R. Extractor", is a war job for a synthetic rubber plant. It weighs 150 tons, is more than 165 feet long, 12½ feet wide and 14½ feet above the top of the track rail. At the company's Lachine plant this record load was placed on three flat cars, being cradled in special beds on the end cars, the middle one being an "idler". It was a big job in loading and after that the Canadian National engineering and operating forces had to deal with problems of many kinds in getting the load on to the main line. Because of its length and projections the tank is being moved only during daylight and then at a restricted speed of 15 miles an hour. At curves extra precaution must be taken so that the front and will not sheer off switch targets or signal posts. The special train making this movement carries a squad of seven Canadian National men who are physically and mechanically prepared to deal with any problem which may develop while on route.

Receives Patent

Plastic Gio-Sign Has Been Invented By Regina Man

Patent for a plastic gio-sign which could be substituted for motor license plates, street and highway signs, and any other kind of metal signs, has been granted by Ottawa, according to word received recently by its inventor, Dr. A. C. Stove, of Regina.

"The plastic gio-sign is indestructible," Dr Stove said. "It will glow in absolute darkness without any light, reflected on it."

The sign is of one solid piece, he pointed out. The body of it can be of any color. The lettering is translucent.

"The plastic used would be satisfactory for any kind of a self-illuminating sign," Dr. Stove said. "The material for it is easy to obtain."

THE NEWEST IDEA

The lads at the base post office in Ottawa thought they'd run into everything until they opened a bag of mail addressed to the troops overseas and found it crawling with—worms. The mess was caused by a damaged parcel containing a piece of dump and and several hundred earthworms, presumably by a fisherman in uniform. Most of the worms were dead and aromatic.

Tax On Family Crest

Old Law In Britain Boosts Revenue For Government

An Englishman with a family crest on his china or auto licence plate is liable to a $90 fine if he doesn't pay the government tax on armorial bearings.

Few people know the law existed until a member of parliament asked the home secretary to have it repealed on the grounds it was obsolete.

"If people want to be snobs enough to carry a coat of arms on their motor cars, let them pay for it up to the hilt," said M. D. Geddes (Cons., Warrington). "But the tax should be removed from such things as old family plate."

What makes the tax so unpopular among persons who know about it, is that any crest, not just one's family's comes within its scope. In fact there probably are quite a few "guilty" Canadian servicemen about the country with coveted family heirlooms they bought as souvenirs in antique shops.

The year before the First Great War the tax brought the government about $360,000. Last year it netted only $108,500.

The Bulgarian port of Varna was the most popular resort on the Black sea before the war.

New Window Screens

Made Of Plastic And Admit More Light Than Glass

They won't rust, they won't wear out, they won't corrode in the salt sea air. They don't need painting, they never need mending, and a film of the wash cloth will wipe them clean.

The fine plastic mesh is sealy-white in tone, and the material itself is slightly translucent—admits more light pours into your room than through the wire screen.—New York Times.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

GOD CALLS A LEADER

Golden text: Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Egypt.—Exodus 3:10.

Lesson: Exodus 2:1—3:12.

Devotional Reading: Psalms 106:1-8.

Explanations and Comments

Pharaoh Orders the Male Children of the Hebrews Cast in Nile—Exodus 1:15-22.

Moses Born and Hidden, and Adopted by Pharaoh's Daughter, Exodus 2:1-10.

Moses Kills an Egyptian Oppressor and Flees to Midian, Exodus 2:11-22.

Flash in his days of excitement and mood, and eager to strike out against every form of oppression, he after wards shows reluctance to undertake responsibility, even when the voice from the burning bush calls to action and assures him of victory. Is there no lesson for us in this seeming story? A providential vocation is not inconsistent with mistake, frailty, and depressed hope; and God does not cast off his chosen instrument because of the blunders which mar the beginning of a great life work (Theodore G. Selby).

Moses Meets with God, Exodus 3:1-6. In caring for the flock of JetHro the priest, his father-in-law, Moses led his sheep and goats to "the back of the wilderness," the wilder part of the Peninsula of Sinai, and came to the mountain of God, unto Horeb. In designating the points of the compass, the Hebrews faced the east, and spoke of the east as before, or before, while the west was the back or behind. Sinai is called here "the mountain of God," the sacred mountain, either because here God especially manifested himself to Moses, or in anticipation of the events recorded later in Exodus. There before a bush that burned and yet was not consumed, Moses heard God speaking to him.

Moses Called to Be the Leader of His People, Exodus 3:10-12. Here at Horeb there came to Moses the summons to deliver his people from their oppression in Egypt and bring them forth on their way to the Promised Land. With a new flash of insight Moses knew that God was calling him to a stupendous task.

Moses knew his limitations, and he pleaded his unfitness for the task. "Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?" he questioned (See Num. 12:3 and compare Jeremiah's words in Jer 1:4-8 What a contrast between Moses staying the Egyptian and Moses at the burning bush!

Face Many Handicaps

British Farmers Do Not Have Easy Job In Wartime

The Canadian farmer is having a tough and strenuous time these days but in comparison with the British farmer, his lot is easy. In Britain normal after-nightfall chores have to be done in pitch blackness, without light visible in the barnyard or from the house or any other of the farm buildings. Night raiders flying over Britain see no light in all the expanse of towns, villages, and countryside. Yet, throughout Britain farmers are milking, feeding their stock, bedding down cattle, working in barnyards and in the farm buildings, and until recently many had to do their tractor ploughing in the blackness of the night made darker by the drawing mists and night commons to the land.

It is not an easy thing to blackout farm buildings with all the chinks and cracks, but it must be done, and for tractor work at night closely shielded lights that dimly illuminate a limited area in front of the machine and allow no light visible to the enemy have to be used.

But there are other handicaps to farming in Britain than working in darkness. The farmer there has got accustomed to his turnip field being turned at a moment's notice into a target for anti-aircraft batteries; he must work his pock-marked fields to the edge of bomb craters—big holes four to 10 feet deep and up to 30 feet across—which must be fenced in if they cannot be filled in or farmed around. One farm had more than 50 of these holes, but what hurts the farmer most is that his income and for the infertile school over the hedge that has taken many years to build up.

Precautions have to be taken against incendiary bombs when the grain is ripening or the straw stacked in the fields. Buckets of water, sand bags, and fire beaters must be kept close at hand. If the army wants its farmhouse, the farmer and his family must look up quarters in the outbuilding. Increased products —grown under handicap of labour and equipment—must be sold at fixed prices, and carry on "Coupon Farming" that is, feed his livestock and poultry on a coupon basis, and in many instances he finds that the feeds allotted under the system are not as fattening as the minimum requirements of his stock.

The British farmer also has to pay a heavy income tax, but, in addition, if his profits for the year are above a certain fixed level, he must give part of the duration of the war exactly 100 per cent. of that surplus profit under the Excess Profit tax. Yet he carries on and has increased not only the acreage but the average production per acre. As an example of increased yield when in 1941 harvested an average for the country of 34 bushels to the acre and oats 80 bushels.

Battle Masonry

Retreat On Sunday, He Pushed His Way Between Two Officers

A little bit of office manners that occurred during the battle for the Marsh Line in Tunisia was found worthy of paying cablo tolls on by one of the American correspondents.

While the battle raged, the company clerk of the Illman Howards Regiment pushed his way between officers, grenade in hand.

"Excuse me, gentlemen!" he said, and lobbed the bomb into a German trench which he then proceeded to capture.

That's English, you know, and it took the fancy of the American correspondent.

Always On The Job

Old-Fashioned Father Was Often Unjust But Never Neglectful

The Peterborough Examiner says: The modern father has resigned too many of his duties to others. The father of an earlier day was his own juvenile court, and performed the office of judge and executioner with the greatest efficiency; he was his own truant officer and school inspector, questioning his children on what they learned, and raising the roof when they did not learn enough; he was his own Dunn and Bradstreet, his own detective agency, and his own Dorothy Dix, investigating the home life, moral and social status of the young men his daughters wanted to marry; he was often unjust, often a tyrant, often a pompous ass, but he was never negligible, and too many modern fathers are just that.

Transport Planes

Are Carrying All Sorts Of Things Between Countries

In describing the transport airplanes were doing these days, the O.W.I mentioned the following facts:

Bertie from the Fiji Islands were flown to Honduras to eat weevils which were damaging hemp root.

A complete hospital was flown to Alaska in 36 hours after the Japanese bombing of Dutch Harbor.

Planes returning to the United States from afar have not flown empty, but have brought rubber from Brazil, platinum from the Peruian Gulf, mica from India and diamonds from South Africa.

THEIR BATTLE CHANT

Cpl Robert Dann, Westville, N.S., writes from Africa that negro artillerymen provided a battle cry for American one sector in the Tunisian campaign. With each fire order, the boys kissed the projectile as it went on its way and chanted in rhythm. "Romeel, count ye' man." With each subsequent fire order they sang out, "Romeel, count ye' men again."

Pattern For Disaster

BY J. B. RYAN

CHAPTER X.

"NO, ESTEBAN," cried Rosita. "If they have caught Pancho, they will be watching for us! Do not go!"

"We must have food," said Esteban. "We have had nothing to eat or drink for over 24 hours." He patted his sister's hand. "Do not worry, Rosita mia. I promise you that I shall return. The darkness will cover my movements; the day is done and the neighborhood will not be as congested as it was when Pancho sallied out."

"Let me go, Esteban," said Morgan. "Your place is here with your sister." He lit a cigar without offering one. "I should be the one to face it."

"Let us not be unreasonable about this," smiled Esteban. "I, as the practical instead of heroic type, have two things to be done—obtain food and protect Rosita. My qualifications for the one job outweigh yours, as you must assume the other duty which, I trust, you will perform as well as I could."

Rosita's eyes widened and she glanced quickly at Morgan. He pretended not to be conscious of her gaze as he answered Esteban. "You are right, I suppose," he admitted. "But—since we shall be safe here, you must take my gun. I have only the automatic pistol taken from Pancho."

Once more Esteban moved his head in negation. "Keep the gun, senor. If the police do trap me, it is better that I have no weapon with which to shoot one of them and make the case against me even worse."

They saw him to the door and watched him slip into the darkening street. Esteban will be all right, said Morgan, as he led the silent girl back to the hiding-place among the great bales. "And when he returns and we have eaten the food we need we shall feel more like tackling the problem of doing something for Pancho."

"What can we do?" she asked disconsolately. "We cannot, of course, break into the jail to free him; if we surrender, we would not be helping him; if we leave Buenos Aires, we will be admitting him to be the false—"

MORGAN fingered his chin ruefully. "I have gotten you into quite a mess, haven't I, señorita? If I had never come to Argentina, this would not have happened."

"Please do not misunderstand me, senor," Rosita placed her hand on the sleeve of his dungaree in earnestness. "It is not that I blame you—"

She checked herself, the fingers tightening about Morgan's arm, and her head turned quickly. Out of the dusk behind her had sounded a squeak of rusty hinges and then the closing of the door.

"Quiet, Rosita!" Morgan whispered, drawing her back into their rude shelter. "That is not Esteban!"

Silenced by his warning the girl cowered beside him. In the quiet thus achieved, Rosita was able to hear the murmur of voices that Morgan had detected over the rasp of metal and the slam of wood.

One of the voices rose. "Sangre de Dios, the place is full! Must we search among all those bales? Are we ready? I have strained my back shifting weights all day!"

Another speaker answered the complaint with a short laugh. "We have our orders from Captain Rojas to go through every wood warehouse along the waterfront. Sometimes there were strands of loose wool hanging on the clothes of him who faced Pancho as though he had been hiding in just such a place as this."

The wood creaked as it accommodated the footsteps of the police as the men spread away from the door. Morgan caught the hand of Rosita, stole around the cleared aisle and hurried through an aisle of piled wool toward the darker recesses of the warehouse's rear.

The muffled thud of an overturned bale echoed hollowly through the storeroom Morgan and the girl came to the end of the passage. A shadowy figure loomed against the square of window on the wall ahead and the American flattened himself against the bales. The policeman turned toward the aisle; the bulked wool yielded slightly behind one of Morgan's shoulders, and Morgan was quick to squirm himself into the opening caused by two bales being stacked a few inches apart.

He pulled Rosita in after him. The place was a tight fit. The bales pressed tightly against their backs and chests, but the aperture was an ideal sanctuary. The wool, falling out after Rosita had squeezed through, practically closed the opening, like foliage over a cave mouth.

THE man in the aisle came nearer. Morgan could hear the soft pat of his hand against the walls of bales on either side of him. Rosita, as if fearful that the pawing hand would grope between the bales and touch her, clung closer against Morgan.

Suddenly, from across the warehouse, came a shout. "Amigos, we have one of them!"

The man's footsteps door banged shut; the man in the corridor beside Morgan and Rosita halted, then raced toward the scene of disturbance. A scuffle was in progress at the door, and from all parts of the building men scrambled to assist the two guards.

The babel of voices died down to allow one person to be heard. "Well, you rascal, where are your companions?"

"I do not know what you are talking about," replied Esteban sullenly. "I am alone. Only base persons prey on me like this!"

The man who was questioning Esteban laughed lovingly. "You are alone?" he asked. "Then what are you doing with all that bread and wine? Do you have enough there to feed a dozen people?"

"I am simple," Senor Morgan, you have a gun. Can't we—tell we help Esteban?"

"They are too many for us," he counseled reluctantly. "And the police do know that Esteban himself would not want us to fire on the police."

"The other two must be in the warehouse." The leader of the police squad was giving orders. "Take this man inside to Captain Rojas. I want this place searched thoroughly by the end of daylight."

"But we have already poked into every nook and cranny—"

"Nevertheless we shall go through it once more, even to the last inch of space. Start from the side and work toward the rear, moving every bale out of the way as you go. Well? Well then if it takes all night."

"The window," he whispered. "While they are busy in front we can creep through the window and slip away."

"But—Esteban—"

"They have taken him away already. He is up to no fire him and "To rancho. We are their only hope."

Reluctantly she yielded to the pressure of his hand and sidled out from between the bales. But when Morgan stepped out into aisle, it was the girl's hand that gestured warningly. Already one of the policemen had turned into the aisle and was on watch at the window.

The path between the bales was dark, but only dark enough for Morgan and Rosita to distinguish the cars, and the machine filled with guards after the prisoner had entered. Then Rojas hurried toward the warehouse entrance, pausing less than a yard from the very people he was seeking.

"Now is our chance, senor," urged Rosita. "We can be gone before Rojas comes back."

But Morgan made no effort to seize the opportunity for flight. To run away would be to stretch endlessly this game of hide-and-seek—a deadly one, indeed. "Rosita — when Rojas returns, he will be alone. Sooner or later we must take the bull by the horns and it may as well be now as later. If we take Rojas perhaps we can convince him that Guillermo is the man he should be investigating for those murders. Rojas was my friend when I first came to Buenos Aires; we may win him to our side if we can prevail upon him to hear our story."

"But—Capt. Rojas would only laugh!"

"No," Morgan declared grimly. "If Rojas will not listen to reason I shall use this pistol."

"Very well," nodded Rosita. "I leave it to you, Senor Morgan, to save my brother!"

ISLAY

Tuesday was a glorious warm day —but—some twenty or more of us had a grand social time at the tea at Mrs. Bodwell's. It was very comfortable on the lawn under the trees. Everyone visited hard—and what a tea! Only those who have been able to enjoy Bodwell hospitality would know. Just like olden times. A nice sum was realized for the W.A. too. Now we are looking forward to a lawn party at Mrs. Ed McFadyen's early in August.

Monday afternoon Mrs. Thos. Gould entertained in honor of her daughter Mrs. Ambrose, home from Victoria for a few days. Also on Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Bert Gould gave a tea in Mrs. Ambrose' honor.

Mrs. Charles Clement returned to Edmonton after attending the wedding of her sister Alma, to George Schurman.

Patsy Torrance left Monday night for Kangudo where she is to be employed.

Miss Patsy Easton has gone to Edmonton for the summer.

Mrs. L. Newcombe from Vancouver has arrived to spend the summer with her parents Mr. and Mrs McBride at Allandale.

While at the tea at Bodwell's quite a number inquired for Rev. and Mrs. Crouch—had anyone heard from them lately—We think Rev. C. should send a little item to the Standard! Some even asked if Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller were coming to Islay this summer.

Potatoes and peas are in blossom—little crabapples are in sight. Fresh meat is very scarce, and some of us would like to chop the heads off all the crowing roosters which begin as early as four o'clock!

We heard radio asking for horse tail and mane, also feathers for war use—so let us save all. There will be a lot of chickens, turkeys, etc. slaughtered this summer and fall

Buy War Savings stamps to feather Hitler's Nest with depth charges — any store sells them a well as the P.O. Ask for them if you aren't asked to buy any.

BOYS WARNED AIR RIFLES, SLING SHOTS AGAINST LAW

Complaints have recently been made to local police that boys are destroying birds with air rifles and sling shots. The complaints came from the west end of town and the offending boys also live in that section. Should any more complaints be made about these boys being seen with either rifle or sling shot, their weapon will be confiscated as provided by law. Attention is drawn to the fact that there is quite a heavy fine for any person convicted of killing our insectivorous birds, the exceptions being crows and magpies.

Our bird life has enough to contend with in their natural enemies such as rats, etc., without thoughtless boys seeing how many robins or other songsters they can wound or destroy.

CUMMINGS FLASHES

The Red Cross auxiliary held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Barlow recently to arrange for a silver tea and to help send a few treats to the boys overseas. The tea was subsequently held at Eltham and was a grand success. Let us do our best for the boys who do their best, at great risk, for us.

Threshing continues around here, being rushed between rains.

Wild fruit is going to be very scarce around as there is no small fruit now within miles of the writer's farm. The blossoms got frozen late, no cherries, no crabs either. The lack of fruit doesn't cause so much worry any-way as there is no sugar to preserve it with.

Talk about dandelions! Lots of them here measure all the way from 36 to 40 inches long

AW2 Edith Wilson, R.C.A.F., W.D. is expected home this week end for a short leave, the first she has had since joining. She is now stationed at Yorkton driving a transport truck and likes the work very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Rudman returned to Edmonton after spending a week visiting old friends in the district. The roads were so muddy while they were here that they found it difficult to visit anyone.

A picnic was held at Auburndale on June 30. There wasn't a very large attendance, not nearly so many as in other years but the day was ideal. The children missed their ice cream, however each got a chocolate bar and some gum and pop corn which is a treat in these times.

Mrs. Henry Meyers and daughter Marlene are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Majury.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Love and daughter Shirley left for eastern Canada last week. Mrs. Love and Shirley expect to stay east all summer.

HAY TENDERS

TENDERS will be received by the undersigned for hay in Vermilion Fair grounds; same to be cut and removed not later than July 25th. Tenders close July 14th. Highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

HANDS

TO MAKE

FARM MACHINERY OPERATE

YES, Mr. Farmer, you need proper lubrication, too, for no amount of manual effort can make machinery go when breakdowns happen. And, without proper lubrication, there are bound to be breakdowns that will cost you time and money.

To avoid the dangers of wear—to keep your farm equipment operating smoothly and at low cost—see your nearest McColl-Frontenac Representative, as soon as possible. He will supply you with the right farm lubricants to meet your particular needs.

Ask him, especially, about the following:

RED INDIAN MOTOR OIL and RED INDIAN AVIATION MOTOR OIL

Here are two great oils that still toughen the life of any engine. They ensure full power and economy under all operating conditions. These fine oils combat acid corrosion, friction, waste and wear. They stand up under highest engine heat . . . they flow and lubricate the moment the engine starts.

TEXACO MARFAK

For Wheel-Bearings and Vital Friction Points

This famous lubricant lasts longer and lubricates better under the toughest working conditions. It is self-sealing and keeps the working lubricant in place. It is ideal for wheel, pinion, ring life of bearings and universal joints by keeping out rain, mud and dirt.

URSA X²⁰ (CANADA)

The Perfect Motor Oil for Diesel and Heavy-Duty Gasoline Engines.

Highly resistant to the formation of gum, sludge and carbon, Ursa X²⁰ (Canada) keeps rings, ring grooves, valves, screens and filters clean. Provides maximum bearing protection. Ensures full power and lower fuel consumption.

THE WATCHERS on the cliffs chase their gains and coming as—night after night—R.C.A.F. bombers deliver shattering blows.

Canadian attack teams are famous for their skill and daring. As new recruits, they entered R.C.A.F. Training Schools. They emerged within a few happy and exciting months as trained specialists—clear-eyed and competent.

Every member of a bomber crew is an expert at his own job, yet at the same time part of a closely-knit, smooth-working team. Happily, too, the air training and technical knowledge possessed by these fighting comrades of the skies will open up golden opportunities to them later in civil life.

No Wonder the Dear Old Sergeant Blushed!

One Man, 28 Women and Only One Pair of Khaki Shorts in The Whole Outfit

There's a certain Army sergeant stationed at Calgary who could, if he would tell the story, lay claim to having been a principal in one of those true life stories of "most embarrassing moments".

Just recently the sergeant was detailed to journey to the Vermilion Training Centre of the Canadian Women's Army Corps where some $00 girls are in training in a centre operated and managed by the girls in khaki with just a few 'Dutineers' because the story of his shorts has titles and other similar tracks.

The sergeant was welcomed and invited to lunch at the sergeant's mess—a lone man with 28 women.

You'll probably say 'nest bait' and on the surface it wasn't.

But the sergeant in question, because the day was warm and he had much traveling to do was wearing his K.D. shorts.

It just happened, though, that the girls in the sergeants mess at Vermilion have a rule barring the wearing of shorts in the mess. The lone male sergeant knew nothing of this until all the diners were seated.

Then a sergeant major, with a glean in her eye, broke the 'horrible' news while the girls broke into gales of laughter.

"Parse, I'll lend you a shirt", one bebyful individual beamed.

The sergeant fumbled for words and blushed — That was the finishing touch.

"Girls", beamed the sergeant major again, gloating over the discomfiture of a 'new' sergeant, "we just have to see the sergeant is transferred here. Men who blush like that are just too rare."

And the sergeant is still blushing because the story of his short has mysteriously found its way back to his home station, and no one needs to be told how his buddies relish the yarn.

ALLANDALE NEWS

Hello again to all, sorry June was left out but will try and do better in July, though it is a busy month.

The first part of June we were all sorry to hear of the illness of Mrs. N. Anderson at Turner Valley. Her mother Mrs. Armstrong and sister May were called. Now we are all very happy to know she has regained health and that she and baby are doing nicely.

Congratulations to Mr and Mrs. H. Omness on the birth of a daughter June 5th

Mr. Ed Mansted is feeling quite well after an appendix operation.

The Allandale annual W. A. Field and held June 16th was a record for the affair, best yet. The Allandale W.A. must sincerely thank all those who were present to make this evening a grand success.

The North Vermilion field church picnic is being held July 31.

The Allandale W.A. is meeting at the home of Mrs. Ray in Vermilion on July 8th. This is a great pleasure for the ladies thanks to Mrs. Lee, we surely appreciate her kindness.

Parents' Give your children a grand holiday. Let them go to Camp Bell Lake camp, boys July 21-31 girls 21-28; Young people Aug 27 This is a great opportunity for your child We appreciate the kindness of [illegible] and she [illegible]

Bernard Ridale was home from camp at Wainwright for the week end and has a very tanned healthy look

Mr. and Mrs. F. Robinson spent a few days visiting relatives and friends in the Union Lake district this week.

Miss Annie Coutts is spending the long summer holidays with her cousins Isabel and Leslie Sherwood

Mr. and Mrs. Repp and family were guests for dinner and supper on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Gould of the Morrison district.

Lottie Hildebrand is visiting a few days with Mrs. Defoed.

A mistake was made in an item recently as it is Mrs. H. Craig who is to visit her mother and not Mrs. B Gow as stated.

Mrs. McGinnis received 500 baby chicks last week. The chicken business is certainly big in this district this year.

Threshing got started again only to have it rain on the second day of work. It certainly is a funny season. Some are seeding green feed, others are working on summerfallow while still others are threshing.

Ladies—The next quilting bee will be held at Mrs. Riedale's on July 14.

Miss I. Riedale is visiting her aunt Mrs. E. Riedale in Islay this week.

Boys' Dormitory

THE DIVISIONAL BOARD OF THE VERMILION SCHOOL DIVISION No. 25 IS ATTEMPTING TO OPERATE A DORMITORY FOR BOYS WHO WISH TO ATTEND HIGH SCHOOL, WHEN THE SCHOOLS RE-OPEN IN OCTOBER.

A survey is being made of the boys living in rural areas within the Division which are more or less remote from centres having High School facilities and if a sufficiently large number of these make application it is the present intention to open a Dormitory at Kitscoty where a dormitory for girls is already in operation.

If you have a boy who would like to benefit by such an undertaking or if you know of any such boy in your area will you please draw his attention to this notice?

Applications, giving particulars of present educational attainment and future intentions should be addressed to—

COST OF MAKING WHEAT ALCOHOL CUT IN HALF

New processes are constantly being developed which will reduce the cost of converting farm crops into industrial materials. An Associated Press Dispatch reports developments of a new distilling process which went into operation late in June and which it is claimed will cut in two the costs of converting wheat into alcohol to be used for war purposes. It is claimed this development will make wheat alcohol as cheap to produce as molasses alcohol. This process will save the United States $50,000,000 annually in war alcohol costs and at the same time will provide one billion pounds of protein feeds for livestock and for overseas human foodstuffs. In advocating establishment of a Western Division of the National Research Council with fully equipped laboratories, the Line Elevator Companies contend that the resultant research will bring about creation of grain alcohol distilleries in Western Canada new industrial uses and enlarged markets for farm crops and greater prosperity to the Western farmer.

July 7, 1927

Deluges of rain fell from Saturday night to Wednesday morning. Wheat fields are in the shot blade and will be in head by July 15th. Indications point to a heavy harvest.

200 people gathered to attend the Jubilee of Confederation celebrations held in Vermilion.

Holiday trips were numerous with Mrs. D. L. Kennedy leaving for Nova Scotia, C. L. Whitby and family for the Coast along with John Bodington, Mr. and Mrs. George Caron motoring to the States.

Thirty-two Years Ago Today

Wheat in the 160 acre field of Wm. Robinson measures 27 inches in height and is coming into head.

The Vermilion Brick Company have turned a kiln of 90,000 bricks, being the first output since this company was incorporated in the spring. Another kiln of about 150,000 bricks is about ready for burning.

A special train conveying R. L. Borden and party made a short stop in Vermilion on Thursday last.

The first moving picture show in the Royal George theatre last Friday night was a first class entertainment. The films were splendid and the large number in attendance were delighted with the program.

A local improvement district was organized in the Angle Lake district and G.J. Algot was elected councillor.

Horses are now worth twice as much in Britain as they were before the war. A news despatch says it is almost impossible to buy any sort of turnout at less than $250

WOODVALE

A week of warm weather, lots of mosquitoes and real growth in field and garden. Rain is still with us too but the heaviest showers went by us and must have fallen somewhere else.

All the young folks attending school in Vermilion and Vegreville have now come home. The five Goutier children having been away for six months, celebrated their homecoming with an attack of mumps.

Fernand Goutier came home this week from the hospital and Mrs. Fiord hopes to leave the hospital at the end of the week.

Congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. Wes Isley on the birth of a son and to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Watt who have another little girl. Mrs. Edna Rees is looking after the Isley children while their mother is away. We wonder if they have agreed on a name for their ten pound new baby brother.

Threshing will have been resumed on Tuesday, weather permitting. Mr. Cox is bringing in his machine to finish up for Ted Meagher, Roger de Breville and the Goutier Bros. in the Hindville district they were threshing at the Lamport farm last week.

Georgette Young left Vermilion last Thursday and many or her friends from the hospital and town, also her parents and sisters from Hindville, saw her off at the train. She is in Carstairs training for missionary work.

Conventions at Greenshields and Lacombe this and next week will be attended by many families of the Woodvale and Hindville districts.

Kenneth Watt hurt his wrist badly cutting the arteries there and requiring ten stitches to close the wound when the head of a double-bladed axe flew off the handle. Frank Watson took him to Islay to the doctor.

The community extends its deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Simmons on the death of their baby daughter.

Edward Cox is home on a two weeks' leave. We hear that Allan Potter has advanced so far in his training that he is flying now. Bernard Portsmith has joined the army and is stationed at Barrisfield, Ont. He has worked for the John Inglis Company in Toronto for the past two years. Betty Portsmith has finished her business course and is employed by an advertising agency in Toronto.

A telephone meeting was held at the school on the 28th. Mr. Alf Logan will be a new member and have a telephone installed in the near future.

Kan Van Wageningen left for B.C. where she will teach school at Grand Forks. Mrs. Van Wageningen left for B.C. with her sister Dorothy Wilson of Vermilion, and Mrs. Levey and Shirley Miller of Kitscoty; the latter being in charge of a party of fifty girls who will all be of the same farm. J.E. Brown is the only farmer in Canada who has a dormitory on his place, accommodating 75 girls, during berry picking time, with showers and other conveniences. We hear that quite a number of other girls from Vermilion will follow this week.

There will be a dance at the Canton school this Friday July 9. The Logan family will furnish the music. Come and have a good time and see who will become the owner of the calf, which was donated by Mrs. Oldenberg.

"We cannot say, we will not say,
That they are dead, they are just away.
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
They have wandered into an unknown land.
And we — O we who the wildest yearn
For the old time step and kind return
Think of them faring on, as dear
In the love of There, as the love of here."

MAUGHAN RESIDENTS HONOURED ON THEIR DEPARTURE for VERMILION

A surprise party, in honor of Mrs. Edwards, Patricia and Peggy of Maughan, was given on the eve of their departure to live in Vermilion where they will make their home. The evening was spent in singing dancing, and playing games, and was much enjoyed by all present.

The guests of honor, Mrs. Edwards, Patricia and Peggy, were each presented with a lovely gift by the thirty neighbors who gathered to bid them farewell and good luck. Owing to illness Patricia could not be present but their wishes went to her at the hospital, and also to Cpl. Edwards and Garnet who are overseas. Blondie Maughan and Andrea Labuncow supplied the music for dancing. A delicious lunch was served by the ladies.

Bazaar and Picnic at Union

The annual bazaar and picnic will be held at Union on Wednesday July 21. The gala event will be officially opened by Major Merriman at Vermilion at 2:30 p.m., while S C Heckbert and D Taylor will also be speakers on the occasion.

A full program of sports has been planned for the kiddies while there will be a hot dog stand, bingo etc on the grounds. Coffee will also be supplied to go with that picnic lunch you bring yourself.

There will be a big dance in the evening with admission being 75c for gents and 1.00 for ladies. Everyone is welcome to picnic and dance.

Our Russian Ally

SINCE HITLER INVADED RUSSIA on June 22, 1941, the war on that front has at all times occupied a place of prominence in the daily news. In June of this year the second anniversary of the beginning of this momentous struggle was observed, and the celebration was marked by a spirit of optimism and confidence on the part of Russia and her Allies. When Hitler sent his armies into Russia, it appeared for a time that he might be able to repeat the rapid conquest he had made in many of the countries of Europe, and his boast that Russia would be defeated in six weeks, was not taken lightly. To the surprise of Hitler and the whole world, the German armies were turned back, and after two years of fighting Hitler's position in Russia was very far removed from the victory which he so confidently expected.

* * * * *

Germans Are Driven Back

Some of the most dramatic and heroic incidents of the war have taken place on the Russian front, and all free people have been impressed with the magnificent way in which the people of the Soviet Union have worked for the defence of their country. In the early part of the campaign, the Germans occupied the fertile Ukraine, and drove to within sixty miles of Moscow. The arrival of winter, and the determined opposition of the Russian armies, saved that city. Later, at Stalingrad, one of the most crushing defeats of this war was dealt the German forces, and they have also been driven from the Caucasus, whose rich oil fields played such an important part in Nazi strategy. As the second anniversary of Hitler's attack on Russia was observed, Germany's position there was precarious, while in spite of the great losses which have been inflicted upon her, Russia's strength was increasing steadily.

* * * * *

Friendship Is On Firm Basis

Out of the desperate struggle through which Russia has passed, has come a new understanding and a firmer friendship between that country and the Allied nations. Before the war Russia had at times been depicted as an enigma in the world's political picture. The war, however, has brought her into close contact with Great Britain, the United States and others of the United Nations, and has given rise to a basis for understanding and community of action now, and in the post-war period. When Russia was attacked Premier Churchill, in the British House of Commons, said: "The Russian danger is our danger and the danger of the United States, just as the cause of any Russian fighting for his hearth and home is the cause of free men in every part of the globe." The extent of Allied help to Russia has been well known, and has been gratefully acknowledged by the people of the Soviet Union. When the war is won, we may be proud to have fought as Allies of such steadfast and gallant people.

Unusual Weather

Britain Suffers From Cold Weather In The Month Of May

Severe weather gave the Lake District a miniature winter in May. During the first 10 days the greatest snowfall, the heaviest rainfall, the worst floods and the most destructive frost this year occurred. Tyneside had not known for 75 years anything like the severe snowstorms that covered the district thickly. Mid-Wales also suffered. Fields for miles around in the Dolgelly area were converted into lakes, roads were impassable and houses were flooded. A fierce gale uprooted trees. In the Wensleydale children brought out their sledges. The Isle of Man had its first May snow in living memory. Gales of great force which swept Southern England did less damage than was expected.—London Times

Keeps Them Busy

Agents In Spanish Town Watch Gibraltar For Ship Movements

On a lazy summer afternoon, the agents of warring nations can be seen sipping drinks at the Bar Nacional, the Bar Belmonte, or on the terraces and balconies of the Hotels Iberia and Sevilla in 79-year-old La Linea—Spain's youngest but most unusual wartime town.

They always seem to have one eye on the Bay of Gibraltar. When they see anything of interest in the bay, some walk briskly to the telephone booths, some head for the telegraph offices, some jot down notes, and some call for another drink.

La Linea is little more than 1,000 yards from the British fortress of Gibraltar. It once was just an adjunct to nearby San Roque. The wartime boom has increased its population to 45,000, including some 4,000 Portuguese and the "rock lizards" or natives of Gibraltar.

The town enjoys a climate similar to that of southern California and its beauty is enhanced by the blue Mediterranean.

Each of the major warring powers —Great Britain, the United States, Germany and Italy—have as many as 50 agents in the town, all trying to get time. Besides keeping watch on Gibraltar, they can talk to workers returning from the fortress. And they can watch each other.

Thousands of La Linea's workers commute daily to Gibraltar, Algeciras or Tarifa.

The town has a city hall, military garrison, tuberculosis house, customs house, courthouse, post office, many two- and three storey buildings and a few modern apartment structures. It is as attractive town.

Its women are pretty, with large black eyes, clear Spanish complexions and graceful movements.

The town is too young to claim many famous sons. However, Pepe Cruz Herrera, the painter, is fast becoming one of Spain's most celebrated artists.

Britain Takes Action

Black Market Offenders In Britain Get Heavy Sentences

There is in Britain no black market such as exists in many European countries, but there are many organized black market prices for many goods, and illegal dealings interfere seriously with supplies to the legitimate market.

But there are some "black market transactions" in Britain—sales at illegal prices of goods not acquired through normal distribution channels. Seven years' imprisonment for serious dealings are treated very seriously by the government, because of the possible ill effects upon civilian morale.

This is particularly so where food is concerned.

The main steps taken against the black market in food have been as follows: First, the Ministry of Food's law enforcement organization has been strengthened by the appointment of many additional inspectors. Second, the penalties which the court can inflict have been increased. In 1942 an order was issued increasing the maximum term of imprisonment from three years to 14 years.

In addition, unless there are special circumstances, the court must impose a fine equal to the profit which the offender has derived from his offence. The fine is not limited to the amount of the profit; a further £20,000 ($5,000) or three times the illegal price demanded for the goods, whichever is the greater, may be added.

Third, all traders in foods must be licensed by the Ministry of Food, and in serious cases the license is withdrawn. This provides a powerful deterrent to any trader tempted to indulge in illegal dealings. Retailers had been subject to licensing since the beginning of the war but since August, 1941, wholesalers also have had to be licensed. The general policy is to grant licenses only to those who were established in the food trades before the war. Financial

IS KEPT BUSY

Gifts For Churchill

Many Are Being Sent By Canadians And Among Articles

According to the London Daily Sketch the Prime Minister's mail from all parts of North America has increased since his speech before Congress. Mixed with the letters, are many gifts from American and Canadian admirers.

When Mr. Churchill spent Christmas, 1941, in the United States, the American people flooded Canada in a big way. Their gifts included 5,000 cigars, a box of onions, a typewritten portrait of Mr. Roosevelt, the Book of Mormon, corncob pipes, a copy of George Washington's will, catnip for the Churchill cat, and a Canadian dime with an extract from the "blood, sweat and tears" speech engraved in tiny letters on its obverse.

HOME SERVICE

VITAMINS ARE IMPORTANT PART OF DIET TODAY

Eight Foods Important

Today everyone has become vitamin-conscious. Proper vitamin diet now depends upon correct foods for the body and the more of them we use more successful we are. Especially is this true in wartime, for it's the vitamins that will win the war. In times of distress they will be able to stand more. As a member of the United Nations it is essential that you eat right foods.

Don't think you can get your vitamins entirely from vitamin pills and go ahead and eat unbalanced meals. This is wrong. The government's new high vitamin content are important. So when doing your market shopping, be sure to buy the correct vegetables and fruits.

Our 32-page booklet tells you how to get the maximum vitamin values from the food you eat every day. It will answer all your questions about vitamins and will explain why vitamins are in certain foods. You may wonder what vitamins are, what they can do, and especially what is the meaning of all this enthusiasm for them. After reading our booklet, you'll no longer wonder.

Foods that are rich in vitamins are not necessarily more expensive than those low in vitamins.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Vitamins to Keep You Fit" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 179 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Welcome Relief for SHARP, SEARING STOMACH PAINS

Do you suffer distress after meals—indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, sour stomach, gas, excessive acid? Don't wait for pain to come again. Take PAL-O-SEDE immediately after meals. Its unique action relieves fermentation, lessens the stomach, neutralizes the acid and aid natural digestive processes. Just send your name and address with 25 cents and a full size package will be mailed post-paid. Or take advantage of our special offer—for a limited time only—2 five packages for $1.00.

A USEFUL WEED

At last science has found something good to say about the field bindweed. One of the most difficult weeds to eradicate from grain fields, it has been found that cuts on the hands of workers handling bindweed roots stopped bleeding immediately. Now medical science knows that this weed has powerful blood clotting properties and it may become a medicinal plant.

The Fly Pest

Is A Serious Menace To The Family's Health In The Summer

If every housewife in the land could see a common house-fly magnified to one hundred times its natural size, she would feel such horror and disgust she would never rest while there was one of them around the place. For the fine invisible hairs revealed by the microscope, hairs that clothe its feet, legs and underparts, are found to be alive with germs and contaminated with unspeakable impurities. These feet are equipped with sticky pads to enable them to cling to such places as walls and ceilings. Imagine the train of dirt and disease a sufficiently powerful microscope would show! Diseases thus carried and spread by the common house-fly include typhoid fever, dysentery, summer complaint, tuberculosis and cholera. The house-fly is also suspected of transmitting infantile paralysis (poliomyelitis.

Grave Danger To Babies

"There is probably no greater source of danger to a baby than the disease germs collected by the wanderings of the house-fly and transported to the foods and persons of its human victims," says a well-known medical officer of health. "Flies will carry on their feet, legs and body, and in the alimentary canal, the specific germs causing typhoid fever, cholera, infantile diarrhoea, tuberculosis and other diseases. These organisms may be deposited in the food, because flies are fond of all human foods, both liquid and solid, and because they are active insects, traveling extensively and flitting about from place to place with rapidity. They wipe their feet, perhaps bearing myriads of disease germs, on everything they touch. When we ponder over the source from which flies come and their filthy habits, we should not allow them to live in a kitchen or a dining room any longer than it is absolutely necessary to kill them."

A house fly moves its wings backward and forward 330 times per second.

Labor Minister Issues Another Transfer Order

Ottawa.—Labor Minister Mitchell announced issuance of the third compulsory employment transfer order which will make thousands of men—including many in wholesale establishments—available for more essential work after July 15.

The order, like its two predecessors, applies to men in age groups subject to call for compulsory military service and, in line with the minister's recent announcement in the House of Commons, to youths of 18, 17 and 16 years of age.

Subject to compulsory transfer to more essential work by national selective service under the third transfer order are men in these age groups in:

1. Any wholesale activity except the wholesaling of the following commodities: Farm products other than tobacco; food products; lumber and building materials; plumbing, heating and ventilating supplies; electrical equipment for industrial use; machinery and equipment; gasoline, oils and greases; fuel and ice; farm supplies; metals; minerals and chemicals; paper and its products; books, newspapers, magazines and sheet music; watches, clocks and timing instruments; leather and leather goods; scrap metal, junk and waste.

2. Raising of special livestock, like race horses, and dogs, cats and other pets.

3. Flower-growing.

4. Horticultural services, except tree surgery.

5. Leather currying, finishing, embossing and japanning.

6. Brewing.

7. Manufacturing in any of the following lines: Fur goods; robes and dressing gowns; necktie and scarves; curtains and draperies; musical household furniture; household furniture of other kinds, except mattresses and bedsprings; office furniture; rattan and willow-ware; caps and hats and fancy boxes of wood; mirror and picture frames; perf . . . cosmetics and other toilet preparations; and hand bags and small leather goods.

The age groups subject to military call-up—and hence subject to the transfer order along with youths of 18, 17 and 16, are set forth by the minister as:

"Every man who was born in any year from 1917 to 1924 and who has reached age 18, regardless of whether married or single; and in every man born from 1902 to 1916 who on July 15, 1946, was unmarried, divorced or judicially separated, or was then a widower without children, even if such a man has since married, and it also refers to a man who has become a widower since July 15, 1940, and has no children now living; as well as to men who since that date have been divorced or judicially separated."

Mr. Mitchell said in his statement that "how many men may be covered by this third order has not been determined, but we hope for, and anticipate the same ready compliance as in the case of the first and second orders."

Men covered in the earlier orders had co-operated "quite readily" with the regulations.

INCREASE GRANTED

Clothes Pins Are To Be Slightly Higher In Price

Ottawa.—The prices board washed up another price problem and hung it out to dry, with wooden clothes pins pegged on a "line" of longitude.

Higher manufacturing costs were too much for the manufacturers of clothes pins to absorb, the board said, so an increase of two thirds of a cent a dozen pins was granted.

East of the 90th meridian—it runs 35 miles west of Fort William—the retail price will be 12 cents for three dozen pins. In the prairie provinces will be 15 cents for three dozen, and in British Columbia 16 cents for three dozen.

NEARLY DOUBLED

Britain's Aircraft Production Far Exceeds Estimate For This Year

London.—Britain alone is producing more aircraft than Germany can produce, Labor Minister Ernest Bevin said in a speech recently.

Addressing he congress of the Women's Co-operative Guild of Labor, the minister said that thanks to the increased numbers of women workers and improved production standards the total production today was nearly double what he had estimated in 1940 it would be in 1943.

Canada Will Ship Surplus Beef To United Kingdom

Ottawa.—Any surpluses of beef in Canada in excess of domestic requirements will be exported to the United Kingdom in the form of frozen meat, Mr. W. Fearnall, manager of the Canadian meat board, told the commons agricultural committee.

An agreement had been reached with Great Britain and the United States that Canadian meat surpluses should go to the United Kingdom, Mr. Fearnall said. No definite date was fixed but this procedure was likely to last at least for the duration of the war.

In other years Canadian beef surpluses for the most part went to the United States as live cattle. Under the agreement this movement, which has been halted temporarily because of the beef shortage, will not be resumed.

R. B. Hamer, director of production services and the agriculture department's principal expert on beef, explained how the meat board planned to handle any beef surpluses which may arise. There is no surplus at present, even with the rationing now in force.

From now until Aug. 16 the board will buy beef at 25 cents per hundred pounds below ceiling prices, which vary in the different markets. On Aug. 16 the board's price will drop one cent a pound and on Sept. 15 another cent, when it will be 2½ cents per pound below the ceiling, which will be steady all year.

If the market prices for beef drop to the extent that the packers are ready to sell to the board at its floor prices, the beef will be taken off the market. It will be frozen in storage and returned to the domestic market if a shortage later develops, or will be shipped to the United Kingdom.

The prices to the United Kingdom have not yet been finally decided but negotiations are in progress. Producers will be assured a steady price for all beef for the duration of the war, Mr. Hamer said, but so far there was no indication how much beef would be available for Britain.

Explaining to the committee why his department had not urged Canadian farmers to increase their beef cattle population in view of an assured market at firm prices, Mr. Hamer said that during the next 18 months the feed resources of North America would be stretched to the limit and therefore must be used to the best advantage.

In order of priority, the use of feed to produce bacon would come first, dairy products, chiefly cheese and concentrated milk next, and eggs third.

Beef, however, would remain the key product for the domestic market and farmers should increase the size and quality of cattle marketed rather than the numbers. Farmers had sufficient initiative to do that of their own accord.

JAILED FOR ESPIONAGE

Rio De Janeiro.—A Brazilian artillery captain and two other defendants were sentenced to 30 years in prison here after conviction of espionage. Two others, including the former German ambassador and the German naval attache who were tried in absentia, were sentenced to terms of 20 to 30 years.

FUTURE AIR POLICY

British M.P. Urges Canada To Take The Leadership

Ottawa.—Mrs. Mavis Tate, Conservative member of the British parliament and a member of the British parliamentary delegation visiting Canada to take the leadership in formulating a commonwealth post-war air policy which, she said, was essential to commonwealth unity.

Mrs. Tate, speaking at a civic luncheon tendered the British, Australian, New Zealand and Bermuda parliamentary delegates, suggested a commonwealth foreign policy, a commonwealth defence policy and a commonwealth policy for civil aviation.

"I believe not only that we have an immensely great contribution to make to the post-war world, but I believe that it is vital that we should make it, and moreover that we should make it as a commonwealth of nations," she said.

OPERATING PLANT

Queen Mary Will Personally Supervise Work In Factory

London.—Queen Mary will operate her own victory factory on the estate where she has lived since early in the war.

She will personally supervise assembling of electrical parts in buildings converging from carpenters' and wheelwrights' shops. The queen mother decided upon this as a further personal contribution to war work after visiting dozens of factories.

When she disclosed the plan to women of a nearby village, several volunteered to help. Members of her household also plan to participate.

Empire Planes Take Heavy Toll Of Axis Shipping

London.—Nearly a quarter-million gross tons of Axis ships used to reinforce and supply the western European front have been sunk or damaged by R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. attacks on Nazi convoys of small ships attempting to sneak along the coast of Norway, the Low Countries and France with supplies for the 40 or more German divisions holding the potential invasion front.

Results of this important way of wearing down Hitler's western European defences are little publicized and the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. never gives total sinkings. The foregoing conservative estimates are based on individual R.A.F. communiques.

Air experts called attention to the striking fact that the last 12 months netted only a quarter million tons as compared to three-quarters of a million tons the previous years. The decline is believed due primarily to the Nazis' increasingly acute shipping shortage.

Nazis in the past couple years have been compelled more and more to rely on coastal convoys to take the load off badly overworked railroads. As part of the same campaign against German communications, the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. has been carrying out systematic attacks on railroads in northern France, bombing or shooting up an estimated average of 145 locomotives monthly.

In view of Germany's present catastrophic transportation crisis experts regard the chronic toll of convoys a real menace to Nazi communications lines.

R.A.F. communiques have announced at least 40 German ships of varying sizes sunk in the North sea and English channel in the past 12 months. Tonnage of the majority was not announced, but a fair estimate places the total at not less than 250,000 tons. Damaged ships totalled around 150, of which many probably were knocked out permanently.

Germany's total merchant shipping at the out break of the war was only 4,500,000 tons. The loss or disablement of around 1,000,000 tons by air attacks alone is imposing a real strain on shipyards, whose entire resources are needed for submarine construction.

R.C.A.F. Crew Reports On U-Boat Attack

"Depth charges landed on the port side of the U boat, about aft and behind the conning tower. Another was dropped to starboard just behind the conning tower . . . Thick waves of debris and almost immediately an oil slick began to appear." That's the story being told by the crew of an R.C.A.F. Liberator after an attack on the east coast, as they report to the intelligence officer on their return. Standing left to right, are Cpl. H. Reiken of Blodworth, Sask., second engineer; Sgt. William Bothell, Muirhead, Sask., first engineer; Flying Officer J. D. Hamilton, second pilot, Peterboro, Ont. Seated at left are Warrant Officer Charles Spence, wireless operator, Montreal, and Flight Sgt. Lynch-Hunt navigator of Fort William and Barnia. At right are Squadron Leader Barry Moffit, A.F.C. Toronto, and Bimisse, Ont., the captain and Flying Officer E. N Nicholl, of Winnipeg, Intelligence officer.

British Parliamentarians Tour Canada

To obtain a picture of the part Canada's Army is playing in the Allied war effort representative members of the British House of Commons and House of Lords are are now touring the Dominion. Before leaving Britain they met Lieut.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, G.O.C in Chief, First Canadian Army and watched training of the Canadian Army in England. Following their tour they will hold a conference to discuss the Empire's war effort. Shown (left to right) at Gen. McNaughton's headquarters, are Brig. R. B. Gibson of Toronto, Air Commodore Lord Stanagate; R. C. Morrison, M.P.; Sir Percy A. Harris, M.P.; Gen. McNaughton, and Lord Marchwood. Lord Stanagate, Mr. Morrison, Sir Percy Harris and Lord Marchwood are among the British parliamentarians now touring Canada.

Churchill And Roosevelt Want Giraud Retained

London.—Prime Minister Churchill disclosed in the House of Commons that the British and the United States governments had asked the de Gaulle-Giraud national committee of liberation on June 19 that Gen. Henri Giraud be retained "on military grounds" as commander of French armed forces in North Africa for the present.

A request for assurances "that there should be no important change in the French command in North Africa at the present time," was made to the committee, he said, on behalf of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander-in-chief.

The representation "was made on military grounds and implied no decision to invest Gen. Eisenhower with full control over the political organization in North Africa," the prime minister said in response to a question by Emanuel Shinwell, Labor.

Mr Churchill's unequivocal words came amid the stormy reaction of the press and some political circles here to what was described by some newspapers as slighting treatment of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, Fighting French leader.

Following so closely on Mr. Churchill's statement that heavy fighting would occur before fall in the Mediterranean the statement was seen as along the line of the analysis by Kirk Simpson, Associated Press staff writer in Washington, of the view that the de Gaulle-Giraud differences would not be permitted to threaten the success of any Allied military operations in the Mediterranean area.

Simpson's story has been a subject of widespread comment in Britain, and apparently it prompted Shinwell's questioning of Mr. Churchill on Allied policy in Africa.

North African despatches reported on June 22 that the French committee had decided that Giraud and de Gaulle each would retain command of his own forces. In other words, Giraud retained his post in line with the British-American request on June 19

Mr Churchill said the request was made "in view of the prolonged discussions between the Fr leaders in Algiers on questions involving the character and control of the French armed forces and the serious effect which this might have on the furtherance of the war effort and the safety of Allied forces"

The prime minister, deprecating "any undue attention to the personality aspect of the new French organization" said:

"The committee is working on the basis of collective responsibility, and we have every hope that all the leaders will merge their personal and individual interests for the common good of France . . ."

Statistics Show Only Small Number Of Canadians Are Bilingual

Ottawa Slightly less than 13 per cent of Canada's population speak both English and French, the two official languages in the Dominion, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported, but there are more than 11½-000 persons in Canada who speak neither

"According to the 1941 census, 1,474,609 persons in Canada could speak both official languages," the bureau said About 70 per cent. of these resided in urban areas and 30 per cent. in rural areas

"This number represented 12.8 per cent of the total population of Canada at the date of the census, as compared with 12.7 per cent. at the 1931 census

"Among those who spoke one of the official languages 7,733,486 spoke English only and 2,181,746 French only There were also 113,414 persons in Canada at the 1941 census who could speak neither English nor French, as compared with 270,165 in 1931."

Here we are as usual

Contrary to our intentions of not scribbling two items this week — however we received a letter from our brother who is overseas. In the letter he stated how much they enjoy the Standard and all the news from around home and other districts, and noted how thoroughly our home town paper is read and enjoyed. So the writer thought that we here at home should make a special effort to send in news items so that they are so eagerly looked forward to by our soldier boys so far away from home and loved ones. A good many Standards now are sent over by our Editor. Gunner Graham is well and says that he has recently spent a leave in Edinburgh and Glasgow, Scotland. Judging by his letter all the old country people are surely good to the boys on leave.

A closing picnic was held at Tribune on Wednesday afternoon last. Not a large crowd attended but there are not so many to go to things like that anymore. Everyone had a good chin wag with their friends and neighbors and saw the Tolland and Triangle school pupils play ball. Tribune won the game. To close the day a weiner roast was held for the kiddies in the evening. Miss Green and Miss M. Glidden, the teachers, are to be congratulated on their efforts in providing an outing for the children which the kiddies enjoyed to the fullest.

A large crowd turned out to church on Sunday morning and Mr. Bruce gave an interesting sermon on how religion started in India and the set that it has grown to the present time.

Inter-Empire Support

SINCE THE BEGINNING OF THE WAR and for a number of years previous to that time, persistent efforts have been made by the Axis powers to spread the impression that the British Empire is about to disintegrate because of internal dissension. The speed with which all parts of the Empire joined with the Mother Country when war was declared in 1939, was ample proof of the false nature of these claims, yet they have continued from time to time in utterances based either on enemy propaganda or on misinformation. The part played by Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand and other parts of the Empire in naval, air and military operations of the war is well known, and their importance is recognized. There are however, many parts of the Empire, including the Colonies, who have made notable contributions about which we have heard little or nothing, and the British Ministry of Information has recently published some very interesting facts in this connection.

• • • •

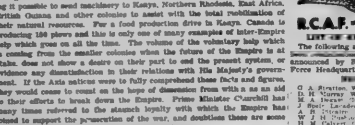
Much Monetary Support Given

We are told that in addition to the support of their own local military forces, members of the British Colonial Empire have contributed over $100,000,000 in voluntary gifts towards the prosecution of the war. In Ceylon, $2,350 000 has been contributed to war funds, and in addition $1,680,000 has been voted by the Ceylon State Council for the same purpose. In recognition of the latter contribution there is a Ceylon squadron of Halifax bombers in the Royal Air Force. The people of British East Africa have subscribed more than $13,000,000 for war bonds, and in Tanganyika a war savings campaign, which commenced with an objective of $2 200,000 was quickly over-subscribed and this figure has since been doubled. In Trinidad, investors in one week purchased more than $37,000 worth of war savings certificates, and the Trinidad Bomber Fund had given more than $900,000 for the purchase of a bomber before March, 1943. It is known that loans totalling more than $30,000,000 have been given to the British Government by the governments of the colonies and by private individuals residing there. In addition to this, Colonial Governments are paying the interest on loans raised within the colonies, and lent to the British government free of interest.

• • • •

Inter-Empire Help Generous

Apart from the financial help which the colonies are giving to the Empire war effort, it is interesting to note that many parts of the Empire are assisting each other in carrying on vital tasks during these critical times. In spite of wartime restrictions, Britain is finding it possible to send machinery to Kenya, Northern Rhodesia, East Africa, British Guiana and other colonies to assist with the total restitution of their natural resources. For a food production drive in Kenya, Canada is producing 100 plows and this is only one of many examples of inter-Empire help which goes on all the time. The volume of the voluntary help which is coming from the smaller colonies when the future of the Empire is at stake, does not show a desire on their part to end the present system, or evidence any dissatisfaction in their relations with His Majesty's government. If the Axis nations were to fully comprehend these facts and figures, they would cease to count on the hope of dissension from with a an an aid to their efforts to break down the Empire. Prime Minister Churchill has many times relieved to the staunch loyalty with which the Empire has rallied to support the prosecution of the war, and doubtless these are some of the facts on which he has based his confidence



THE USE OF NATIVE GREENS

We know that we should eat as many leafy vegetables—fresh if possible—as we can and in the summer it is easy to do just this. Most of us eat lettuce, tomatoes, and celery and consider that we have eaten a sufficient amount of fresh vegetables. It has been shown by food analysts that lettuce and celery have very low mineral content, so we would be wise if we altered our summer menus this year. Green peppers, parsley, dandelion greens, water cress could all be used, chopped and added to a salad they are all good sources of vitamins A and C. Instead of eating spinach this summer, why not try the fresh green leaves of your turnip plants. They are an excellent source of vitamin C and have a good flavour. I know some of you have been told to use the tops of beets, but now when you are urged to make practically all of you can some beet tops fresh and crisp from your garden instead of wilted as they usually are in the store. To show you how valuable native greens are to your diet I am giving you, a table with the content of vitamin C and A and iron an average serving contains:

	Vitamin A Equivalent Thiamine Riboflavin Vit. C.
	Int.	Units	Mg.	Mg.	Mg.
Turnip greens	2.0	14000	.13	.192	151
Young peppers	.3	950	.05	.07	181
Chard	1.0	20233	.06	.24	62.3
Kale	2.0	9000	.20	.40	65
Spinach	2.0	6500	.20	.40	65
Beet Greens
Lettuce	.3	700	.05		5

These figures are for the vegetables in the fresh state. Nutritional value of cooked vegetables depends on the method used for cooking.

When you cook leafy vegetables use a little boiling water and boil for as short a time as possible to retain the minimum amount of the vitamin and minerals. I always remember to save the cooking water as it has the vitamins and minerals that have dissolved out of the vegetables

A post card request to the Western Division Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, will bring you a free copy of its authoritative vitamin chart.

Much To Remember

Men Travelling After War Would Find Army Guide-books Valuable

A great many of the lads who have been in the far corners of the earth in this global war say that once they get their feet planted in the old home town after the big scrap is over they won't do any more travelling But a lot of them, having realized how much there is to the world will want to see it again as civilians.

The more adventurous, who will hit for Africa deserts or mid-Arctic snows, will do well to remember useful information contained in army guide-books. One of them, for example, points out that polar bears' livers are poisonous, a diet of rabbit will lead to death through "rabbit starvation," but seal hearts and kidneys and broiled reindeer meats are edible.—Kitchener Record.

Cats Should Be Taken When Sulfa Drugs Are Used

According to a recent summary compiled by veterinary authorities, the various sulfa drugs which have proved a boon in saving human lives are also saving the lives of farm animals. For example, sulfaguanadine has been found helpful in the treatment of certain types of coccidiosis in poultry, and in calf scour, and also in calf diphtheria. Sulfaguanadine is likewise being used in dealing with coccidial infection in sheep, and in certain cases of enteritis in swine. The sulfa drugs are still too new for all their possibilities and values to be known but there is no question they point the way in veterinary science. However, the Veterinary Director General of Canada points out that sulfa drugs unless used carefully are dangerous and on no account must be used unless under veterinary advice and supervision.

A New Strategy

Japan's Former Ambassador To Washington Sees Way To Victory

Admiral Nomura, Japan's pre-Pearl Harbor Ambassador to Washington, offers the peoples of the Axis an assurance of victory that has at least the advantage of novelty. He says they do not have to attack any more. To win now they have only "to hold out in conquered positions."

In the case of Italy, to which the admiral's remarks are especially addressed, there happen to be no more conquered positions to hold out from But the Germans have been experimenting exclusively in holding out for the past eight months They have not done well with this strategy at Stalingrad, or at Rostov, or at Kursk, or in Tunisia. Libya's experience in holding out is even longer. Battles in the Coral Sea, at Midway around the Solomons and in the Bismarck Sea have already held out a sizable part of the Japanese Navy. Guadalcanal, Papua and Attu have provided additional lessons in holding out in conquered positions. In this succession of defeats Admiral Nomura promises to see a brand-new road to victory.—New York Times.

Surplus Of Feed Grain In Canada Must Be Moved

OTTAWA.—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in the House of Commons that there is a great surplus of feed grain in Canada, much of it still in the fields, and that his anxiety is to get it moved out of the country to make room for this year's crop. Transportation problems interwined with the movement, he said.

There was a shortage of feed grain in U.K. but, through lack of transportation companies, hauling facilities could not handle it.

It had been hoped last spring to move 200,000,000 bushels into U.S. but—in spite of the utmost co-operation from the transportation companies—haulage had been available for only half that amount.

He said that another tobacco crop was in sight. Although the bulk was in the west.

Despite the great demands placed upon the railways by the necessities of war, a great deal of grain was being moved. It was hoped there would be a large movement in the east, for storage, before the freeze-up.

Mr. Gardiner said a report by The Canadian Press on this subject had described him as telling the house the 300,000,000 bushels of grain which it was hoped to sell U.S. was wheat. He said he had referred only to feed grain.

Mr. Gardiner had his war estimates before the house in committee of the whole.

He said the government needed the co-operation of newspapers, transportation companies and everyone who could help to get this grain surplus moved to markets or storage places.

Mr. Gardiner said wheat farmers sold to the Canadian wheat board as long as the minimum price was higher than the market price. But when the market rose, as it did recently, farmers sold to the trade at a rate higher than the minimum price payable by the board. The trade had been selling wheat at the higher rate.

Subsidies paid on farm products in the calendar year 1942 had totalled $98,130,540. These included prairie farm assistance act, wheat acreage reduction, butter subsidy and similar payments.

It was estimated that financing of wheat board operations and carrying charges involved the use of $861,225,000 in the handling of wheat, Mr. Gardiner said, without specifying the period covered. Some $150,000,000 had been paid in other direct subsidies. Also the total money made available for farm purposes had been more than $1,000 000 000

Mr. Gardiner said he felt that the sowered the criticism that hundreds of millions of dollars were made available for the assistance of industry but not for agriculture.

General Chiang Kai-Shek Gives Confident Message To China

CHUNGKING. — Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek told China on the occasion of the sixth anniversary of the outbreak of the conflict with Japan that the time limit for defeat of the aggressor "cannot exceed two years".

"In the seventh year of our war of resistance," he said in his anniversary message, "the offensive that will deal crushing blows to the enemy will be started in various theatres of the world and will be on a unending stream of victories."

"Our war of resistance and the world war situation on this day have reached the highest peak of our uphill struggle," he went on.

"One step beyond will be smooth sailing for us."

His message was one of a series of candidly prediction from Chinese leaders of a complete Allied victory and elimination of Japan as a military power

Export Of Dairy Cattle To U.S. Will Continue

OTTAWA.—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in the House of Commons he will not stop the export of dairy cattle to the United States although shipments this year have been 19,876 head compared with 10,-341 for the same period in 1942.

Speaking in debate on the agriculture department's war appropriation resolution, the minister said he thinks it is "all to the good" that United States buyers should obtain cattle from places like these being sold by Canadian farmers who were taking advantage of higher prices to sell their stock and retire. He said he hoped such sales would continue as long as farmers as a whole kept as many cows as before.

Mr. Gardiner, questioned about protection of the producer of cattle in respect to prices, said that on live cattle there should be a spread of about a cent a pound below the ceiling on beef.

"We have an understanding that buy when cattle get down to ," he added.

e cattle are bought to take care of any deficiencies in the country outside of the area where they were bought. After the supply in Canada has been taken care of, we have an understanding to supply any surplus beef to Britain. That beef must be frozen."

P. E. Wright (C.C.F., Melfort) said evidence given before the commons agriculture committee indicated the price on the open market could drop as much as five cents a pound and the government would not purchase beef on the market, only from the packers. That meant there was no guarantee on the open market.

Mr. Gardiner said if there were a big glut on the open market, and the price were allowed to go down, the government probably would ask congress to buy the beef. The government had authority to do whatever was necessary but as long as the situation remained normal "we are not looking for trouble."

He said that in respect to dairy products, prices now were higher than the government had been told were necessary to cover the cost of production during the war. Stabilization had been paid to production costs when prices and subsidies were considered

"The greater production of butter this year is putting more money into the pockets of the farmer and I think the farmer is entitled to it," he continued. "We intend to carry that policy through as we have it now, and with the increased production of butter, whole milk is bringing more money than it ever brought before. We want the farmer to sell as much whole milk as he can in this country and at present prices he is getting some return."

PRODUCTION CUT

Coal Head Ordered Of War Goods Policy Well Explained

LONDON.—A ministry of economic warfare spokesman said German production in the first six months of 1943 had been cut by Allied bombings and difficulty of obtaining raw materials and labor but that the output of war goods had been fairly well maintained.

He said the flow of war goods particularly defensive weapons such as fighter planes, anti-aircraft guns and anti-tank guns, had been maintained by drawing on reserves, concentrating on a few basic types of weapons and sacrificing consumer goods.

The spokesman declined to estimate the percentage of the over-all production decline until full reports on the damage to the Ruhr have been received. These intelligence reports come by devious routes and frequently are two months late, it was stated.

ACT RESTRICTED

OTTAWA—Operation of the National Housing Act was restricted in 1942 to financing houses necessary to furthering the war effort, F. W. Ellis, director of housing, said in his annual report tabled in the House of Commons by Finance Minister Ilsley.

Ilsley Explains How Living Cost Is Kept Compiled

OTTAWA.—Finance Minister Ilsley told the House of Commons the government was anxious to see that the cost of living index is sound and accurate and had the confidence of the public.

Speaking in continued debate on an estimates item of $14,300,000 for prices board administration, Mr. Ilsley said the government realized the importance of the index to all Canadians, whose cost-of-living bonus was determined by it.

He gave a detailed explanation of the method of compiling the index and the measures to ensure it would indicate correctly the month-to-month changes in the cost of living for the average Canadian family.

Changes such as these brought about by the limitation in the supply of certain goods and the disappearance of others from the market were taken into account in the index, which does not, however, record higher living expenses due to better living made possible by enlarged income

Mr. Ilsley said the Dominion bureau of statistics, which prepared the index, keeps a close watch on quality. A reduction in quality in articles such as clothing might mean the cost of living had increased because the garment would not last as long as in the past. In such cases an adjustment of the index was made

Mr Ilsley said many persons wondered how it could be said the cost of living had risen only 17 per cent. when the prices of foods had risen so much.

It was true that many food prices had risen more than 17 per cent. since August, 1939, and the minister mentioned stewing beef as being up 78 per cent, lard 73 per cent and round steak 66 per cent. The food index in general had risen 31.8 per cent.

But food represented only about one-third of the cost of living as reckoned by the index. In products such as bread and sugar, the index had remained steady while it actually had declined in respect to milk

The housewife noted the increased food prices in particular and did not so readily note that bills usually paid by the husband, such as rent, home furnishings, clothing and miscellaneous items did not show percentage gains as large as for food. The index took account of the average family's rent, clothing, light and heat. "Its insurance and other factors as well as food.

A NEW RULING

Prices Board Announces Further Instructions On Ration Books

OTTAWA.—The prices board has announced its ration administration regulations governing personal living in hotels or boarding houses which are registered as quota users of rationed goods must surrender their ration books or temporary ration cards to the proprietors whether or not they eat their meals there

The ruling applies to persons living in such establishments for a week or longer

The announcement said the few Canadian hotels not registered as quota users must also collect ration coupons and surrender them to the ration administration.

From the ration books the proprietor must remove each week one butter coupon and two meat coupons, and every two weeks one sugar and one tea or coffee coupon. These must be sent by the quota user to the nearest branch of the ration administration

Those who cook regular meals in hotel rooms and who need their ration books for supplies must apply at the nearest local ration board for the right to retain their ration books or cards.

Eden Promises Japan Will Be Taught Lesson

LONDON.—Foreign Secretary Eden declared the day will come when the accumulated weight of the Allied power would "flow eastwards and overwhelm the empire of Japan."

Speaking at a "Salute-to-China" meeting in the Royal Albert Hall, Mr. Eden said, "there is in our hearts a fixed and grim resolve to teach Japan once and for all the lesson that co-prosperity is not achieved by cruelty and oppression and that he who draws the sword shall perish by it."

At the same meeting, Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese ambassador to Great Britain, said, "there is ground for hope that it will not be very long before a large-scale plan of dealing deadly blows to Japan will unfold itself."

Leonard W. Brockington, K.C., Canadian adviser to the British ministry of information, spoke of the trust and respect China enjoys everywhere.

Recently returned from a 40,000-mile tour of the war fronts, Mr. Brockington said, "the flag that in common justice should fly in the first place of honor, the soldiers that should lead the march in the triumphant entry into Japan—surely the flag and the soldiers should be China's."

Paying tribute to the Chinese people on the sixth anniversary of their war with Japan, Mr. Eden said, "every human against the Axis in Europe brings us nearer to the day when the full force of the United Nations can be brought to bear against Japan. Our great bomber offensive is only a prelude to heavier blows."

He said that living next door to Hitler led British to become preoccupied with the menace of Nazi Germany, but he reiterated the promises of other British leaders that the "completion of our task in Europe goods must surrender their ration books or temporary ration cards to the proprietors whether or not they eat their meals there

"We of the British commonwealth and empire have a duty towards our own people in the East who are imprisoned and enslaved by the Japanese," said Mr Eden. "We have a duty to those over-run territories of the empire; the duty to restore to their peoples the freedom and prosperity they previously enjoyed and to assist in their development towards better things.

"Finally, we have a duty towards our Allies, particularly in China, to destroy the Japanese menace and to help them to join in making a contribution for a better order in which all men may live in peace. . . ."

SUCCESSFUL MISSIONARY CONVENTION

The annual Missionary Convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance chapel closed on Thursday, July 8. The speaker for this year was the Rev. G. Edward Roffe, for fourteen years a missionary in North Laos, French Indo-China. In his opening message on Sunday, July 4, Mr. Roffe told of Japanese aggression in the near East, and its effect on missionary work. At present all missionary work is at a standstill in Thailand, and French Indo-China, as far as foreign missionaries are concerned. The native national church is carrying on. Mr Roffe was the first resident missionary in his particular field, and on Monday evening related audience heard him tell of his pioneer labors. On two separate evenings beautiful colored slides of the resulting work were shown. The climax of the convention was reached when on the closing night the annual missionary pledge was taken, amounting to $670.20, which was more than double that of the previous year.

Evangelist Returns

Following the convention, the Rev. John Newman, evangelist from Spokane, Wash. returned, and spoke Friday through Tuesday of the following week. His forceful Bible-centered messages were appreciated by all.

HEAVY SHOWERS THIS WEEK

Heavy showers fell throughout the district several times during the past week. The heaviest of these as far as the town was concerned was on Wednesday morning when rain, amounting to .54 inches, pounded down.

Total rainfall since April according to the Searle elevator rain 'indicator has been 7.24 inches. This compares with 8.16 inches in 1942, and is exactly the same as the two-year average of 7.24 for this period.

TIMELY WARNING —

A suggestion made by the Ottawa Better Business Bureau that Victory Bond holders should be on their guard against irresponsible promoters deserves a wide hearing.

War Bonds are rapidly becoming the average family's most important savings reservoir, the Bureau observes. Thus, such investments and securities are always prime lures for racketeers, with their schemes for persuading people to cash in their bonds and turn the money over to them on irresponsible promises of getting rich quick.

One thing is certain, the Bureau advises—these propositions will sound good. They have to seem plausible to get our money. Some may appear to be an opportunity for one to make a good profit. But, unfortunately, in too many deals, the promoter is the only one to profit.

Says the Bureau: "If you are urged to cash in on your bonds for 'investment' to an unknown proposition,— WATCH OUT! Carefully investigate the offer for these good reasons:

1. It may be a racket.
2. It is real patriotism to keep the War Bonds you have.
3. These bonds are one of the best investments you can make."

Extra Rations for Farm Help

EDMONTON — When the farmer's wife or sister needs extra help to make she is entitled to obtain additional rations through application to the Local Ration Board, states C. G. McKee, regional superintendent of rationing, W.P.T.B.

The funeral of Simon Andrew Fry who died at his home Saturday, July 3 at the age of 86 years, 1 month and 18 days, was held on Wednesday, July 7th. The services were held from the Christian and Mission Alliance, interment taking place in the Vermilion cemetery. The Rev. David T. Anderson officiated.

The late Simon Andrew Fry was born in Milwaukee Wisconsin, U.S.A. in the year 1857. At the age of ten years he moved to La Porte City, Iowa, with his parents. There he resided until 1914 when the family moved to Hughenden, Alberta. In 1927 he and his family came to Vermilion where they started farming in the Campbell Lake district, where he lived until the time of his death.

He was a member of the Christian and Missionary Alliance church.

He is survived by his wife, one son Fred, of Vermilion, and one daughter, Beth Mrs. Ronald Hay, of Vermilion; two brothers, Jacob, of St Johns, Quebec; Donald, Clover Bar, Alta.; Ellsworth, Black Diamond, Alta.; Mrs. George Dollimore, Mrs. Harry Dixon, of Vermilion; Mrs. Milton Farrell, Chadonnald, Clermont and Mona at home. There are thirty grandchildren. One brother resides at Waterloo, Iowa.

Pall-bearers were six sons, Everett, Clermont, Donald, Ellsworth, Wayne and Martin.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Wife and Children, Everett and Iola, Jay and George, Zella and Milt, Donald and Mabel, Mary and Children, Wayne and Mary, Pah and Margaret, Clermont and Mona Hale and Emma, Ellsworth, Mollie and Tommie, Lewis, Jessie and family; Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Dixon and family; The Co-op store; Mr. and Mrs. J. Weaver and Mr. Ostrey; The Farmhands and Killion Families and Dick Sisdwick; Nora and Charlie.

Mr. J. Waring had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MORRISON

The picnic held at the school was greatly enjoyed with ball games, ice cream and a number of races, also a genuine old neighborly chat and it ended up with a dance at night. The music was kindly supplied by the Victory orchestra.

School is over for another term and the teachers, as well as the pupils, I'm sure, gave a regular sigh of relief for a three month holiday.

Betty and Margaret Ollef left July 1 for Vancouver for the fruit picking season. Here's wishing you lots of luck girls and hope it's no warmer there than here the past few days.

Miss Rosa Wolters left for Edmonton where she will correct examination papers, then probably go to the coast.

The meeting held at Mrs. Playne's was well attended and we are glad to have Mrs. Playne for our new secretary. There are 35 more boxes packed for our Morrison boys overseas.

Mrs. Bert Gould gave a party at her home for Mrs. Ambrose (nee Dorothy Gould). A lovely luncheon was served and everyone had a nice time.

We were glad to welcome Brad Odum back again for a couple of days.

Congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rensbeck (nee Margaret Wells) on the birth of a daughter. Both mother and baby are doing fine.

Art Renaghan accompanied Miss Wolters to Edmonton. She re-

LABOR LACK WORST ON WILLINGDON LINE

Of all central Alberta districts, the farm labor shortage is most acute in 12 area some 10 o'clock includes the Willingdon line, and the Vermilion line from Lamont to Lloydminster, according to a survey completed by the Searle Grain Company.

From more than 200 agents in Alberta, the labor shortage was reported as "bad" at 24 percent of stations and "slight" at 66 percent.

Next to some 10 in seriousness was some eight, extending from Camrose to Big Valley and Wetaskiwin to Innisfail, where 32 percent of stations noted a bad shortage. Then came west and some seven, straight east zone nine lying immediately to the of none eight, with ratings of 27 and 23 percent, serious. In the Edmonton crop zone it rated 18 and average of 19 for Peace River.

ports a nice trip (even with a flat) and a good time.

Wee Kennie Gunn has been on the sick list again but we hope he will be better by now.

We are sorry to report that Charlie Hurt has been on the sick list.

Mrs. Ruthena Gunn has also been away in the W.I. Mrs. E. E. Morrison of Vegreville, Federated convenor of war work was unable to be present but sent a most encouraging and interesting report which was read by Mrs. Evans.

Two resolutions were endorsed by the conference; First, that jam sugar and all canned goods should be rationed, and secondly that the present regulations regarding school summer vacations be rescinded, and replaced by the School Amendment Act of 1942 wherein those pupils desiring harvest leave were granted such at the discretion of the teacher concerned.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

Deepest sympathy is extended to Fry and Ganton families in their recent bereavements.

The last Busy Bee meeting was held at the home of Mrs. McClellan with 13 members and 4 visitors. Among the visitors was Mrs. D. Gould of the Morrison district whom we were very pleased to have with us. It was decided to send four parcels to the men overseas from this immediate district. Mrs. Debord will look after the boxes packing, etc. Mrs Walsh who expects to leave the district in the near future was presented with a purse from the club. Mrs. Perkins making the presentation on behalf of the ladies. A new member, Mrs. F. Robinson joined the club, bringing the membership up to 23. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Gannon's Lunch to be served by Mrs. Bevins and Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Gow, Mary and George and Mrs. Dodelly are spending a vacation in Calgary.

Daddy Woodruff and Tom Sherwood enjoyed dinner on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Debord. They were busy that day grading the Bowtell road.

John Brady is busy at present delivering mail on this route.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood and Mr Scott were Sunday visitors at the Walker home.

W. I. Conference At Kitscoty

The W.I. Conference for the Constituency of Alexandra East was held at Kitscoty on Thursday, July 8, during no doubt, in part, in transportation difficulties, the attendance was not as large as in former years. However about thirty delegates and visitors were present to give and hear the reports from the branches which make up the Constituency, namely, Kitscoty, Vermilion, Friendly, Ramsay, Creighton and Five Points.

The proceedings opened with the singing of O Canada, followed by the recitation of the W. I. Creed. The address of welcome was given by Mrs. C. Miller of Kitscoty and was very graciously replied to by Mrs. MacLaulay of Five Points.

The minutes of the last Conference were read by Mrs. H. Hamilton, constituency secretary and were adopted on motion of Mesdames Culford and Thompson. This was followed by the financial report and it showed a comfortable bank balance. It was decided to give a donation of fifteen dollars to the W.I. Emergency War fund. Mrs. H. E. Evans, district director and also Federated Convenor of Social Welfare, who was present at the gathering, said that this money would be used for the benefit of the Merchant Marine and would buy seven turtle-necked sweaters to be given with kit bags.

Reports of the year's work were given by the delegates from Five Points, Creighton, Kitscoty and Friendly branches. There was no representative and no report from the Ramsay branch.

In the afternoon the meeting opened with the singing of "The Maple Leaf Forever". Standing committee reports were given as follows:

Child Welfare and Public Health—Read by Mrs H. Thompson, of Five Points; Legislation — given by Mrs. Culford, Vermilion; Immigration and Canadianization—read by Mrs. Batty, Vermilion; Handicraft — Prepared by Mrs. J. Chisholm, Mrs. W. Harmer, Mrs. Macdonald, Mrs. C. Batty, Mrs. Finlan, Mrs. R. O'Connor and Miss Patterson, all of Kitscoty. Afternoon tea was served by the Kitscoty ladies at the close of the proceedings. The 1944 conference will be held in Vermilion.

HARVEST LEAVE For SOLDIERS

Harvest leave, not to exceed six weeks duration, may be granted in fully trained soldiers of the Canadian Army where service conditions permit. The leave will be taken without pay and allowances when granted. Only soldiers who have experience in farm work are eligible.

Periods during which harvest leave may be granted will vary according to crop conditions in various parts of Canada, but all soldiers must report back to their units before October 21 1943.

Those who may not obtain harvest leave are soldiers awaiting despatch overseas and those awaiting allocation after completing Army Courses. Members of the Veterans Guard who can be spared from their duties may apply.

WOODVALE

The deepest sympathy goes out to the Ganton family of Union district and to the McFadden family of Mannville in their recent bereavements. With so many of our young lads risking and losing their lives in the battles now raging these tragic accidents of young people, otherwise safe in our midst, are felt very keenly.

Heavy thunder and rain storms swept over this district here on Saturday and Sunday, amounting to cloudbursts in several places. Lightning struck the Rankin telephone, burning the wires and blackening the wall above the box, luckily no other damage was done, needless to say the whole family got quite a scare.

The dance at Garnon, school on Friday was a very lively affair, peppy one. Thanks to the untiring efforts of the musicians and the floor managers Adam Dunzo and Glenn Nelson. The cuff was won by Herman Wallace — and a sigh of disappointment went up from the other ticket holders — it was really comical. We heard several remarks by non-dancers how they did enjoy the music of the Logan family and Jack Schaunaloff.

This Friday there will be a dance at Woodvale with the same musicians

AIR MAIL ALMOST DOUBLES LAST YEAR

WINNIPEG —Air mail carried by the Trans-Canada Air Lines in May almost doubled the amount carried in the corresponding month last year. Figures released by G.T. Latimer, vice-president, showed that the mail volume jumped from 166,128 pounds in May, 1942, to 312,746 pounds this year. The number of passengers increased from 9,549 to 12,242. Express tonnage more than doubled, rising from 22,154 pounds to 57,217 pounds.

During the first five months of this year, air mail has totalled 1,852,174 pounds as compared with 850,995 the last year, an increase of 783,127 lbs. Passengers numbered 52,131 as compared with 37,333, an increase of 11,798. Air express rose from 94,429 pounds to 260,500 pounds, an increase of 180,161 pounds, or more than three times.

Mr. Farmer,

YOU CAN'T STAY IN BUSINESS TODAY WITHOUT PROPER LUBRICATION!

THE right kind of lubrication is as necessary as the right kind of seed. For, poor lubrication, like poor seed, results in loss. So, in your own interest, be as careful in your choice of lubricants for your farm equipment as you are in the selection of the seed you sow.

Every McColl-Frontenac farm lubricant is especially designed for a particular job—to help keep farm equipment operating longer—more efficiently and at lower cost.

See the McColl-Frontenac Representative in your district, without delay. He will show you why you should use McColl-Frontenac farm lubricants exclusively.

Here are four that will help your farm machinery do a better job.

TEXACO MARFAK
For Wheel-Bearings and Vital Friction Points.

This famous lubricant lasts longer and lubricates better under the toughest working conditions. It is self-sealing and keeps the working lubricant in where it is needed most, protecting life of bearings. Has universal joints by keeping out rain, mud and dust.

RED INDIAN MOTOR OIL and RED INDIAN AVIATION MOTOR OIL

Here are two great oils that will lengthen the life of any engine. They ensure full power and economy under all operating conditions. These four oils combat rust corrosion, friction, waste and wear. They stand up under highest engine heat . . . they flow and lubricate the moment the engine starts.

URSA X™ (CANADA)
The Perfect Motor Oil for Diesel and Heavy-Duty Gasoline Engines.

Highly resistant to the formation of gum, slud... and carbon. Ursa X™ (Canada) keeps rings, ring grooves, valves, pumps and filters clean. Provides maximum bearing prot...ion. Ensures full power and lower fuel consumption.

CLAVERMORE CLIPPINGS

Ruth and Ann Beatty spent a few days last week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. MacMillan.

Mrs. E. Algot of Derwent is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cortsman.

Mrs. H. Williamson and Junior left last week end for her old home in Nova Scotia to spend the summer visiting her parents and old friends whom she has not seen in years. A good trip and a pleasant summer on the east coast is wished them.

Cleo Harrison who has been working south of Edmonton for some time, is visiting at his home here for a few days.

Miss Vivian Simons and brother Wesley of Innisfail, Alta., are spending the summer holidays with their sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. R. Lynch.

Lloyd Hamilton, who has been attending school in Sangudo, Alta., has joined his parents who came to this district some weeks ago.

Miss Joan Hazelhoof of Edmonton is visiting at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cortsman.

The school lunch committee wish to thank all who helped cream, sugar and freezers for the making of ice cream for the picnic. It was very much enjoyed as were the weiners and buns. Rain either spoiled the outdoor games but Mrs. Amrim, our teacher, with the help of the older pupils, arranged games for indoors and all enjoyed the afternoon.

July 14, 1927

An entire new high school staff consisting of J.W.E. Markle, principal; C. M. Scarborough and Mrs Mabel McConnell has been engaged by the local school board. Grade 12 will be re-established this coming fall term. This grade was discontinued after the spring term of 1925.

Mr. and Mrs A. S. Calvert and two children arrived in Vermilion on Friday last and will shortly take up farming in the district.

42 young people are attending the short course at the school of agriculture this week.

Thirty-two Years Ago Today

July 13, 1911

Mrs. J Craddock and sister arrived recently from the old country to reside in Vermilion. Mr. Craddock is in the C.N.R. freight dept. here

Wheat 42 inches high and to head was pulled from the field of H. H. Hodgins this week.

A big deal in improved property was made last week by R. C. Pinkney, real estate dealer, whereby the five houses and lots owned by C. Stowes, Vermilion, situated in block 5, First Street North, were sold to T. H. Keboe, who came here last fall from North Dakota. The deal was a cash transaction and involved the sum of $2000.

BRIDAL BELL AT MANNVILLE

MANNVILLE — Daughter of Mr and Mrs. Gustave Berg, Miss Grace M. Berg, became the bride of Mr. Charles E. Frost, son of Mr. and Mrs Oscar Frost, in a quiet ceremony on Wednesday last in the Anglican church here. Rev. A. Bell officiated.

The bride wore a floor-length frock of white sheer and carried a shower bouquet of roses. Her attendant, Miss Laura Berg, was in blue, a slip-per-length frock, and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Ernest Frost was best man.

Following a reception in the bride's home, the young couple left for a short honeymoon to the Pacific coast and will be at home shortly in Mannburn.

Golden text Certainly I will be with thee. Exodus 3:12.

Lesson Exodus 3:13—4:31

Devotional Reading Psalm 121.

Explanations and Comments

Moses Is Further Encouraged. Exodus 3:13 - 4:17. Last week we heard Moses pleading concerning his unfitness for the task expected of him, and God's assurance that he would be with him: that he, Moses, would succeed in leading the people out of Egypt and would worship God upon that mountain before them. Moses continued to think his mission through. He saw himself trying to arouse his people by telling them that the God of their fathers had sent him to free them. Would they accept him as their divinely appointed leader? He feared they would not. "Who made thee a prince and a judge over us?" had been their angry question forty years before when he had taken up their cause against the Egyptians. They would again question his authority. When he should tell them that "the God of their fathers" had sent him to them, they would ask, "What is his name?" They might have drifted far away from their ancestral faith. How could he convince them of the nature of God?

To the Hebrews the name of God was descriptive of his attributes—"a shortened summary of his character." the name has been called. At creation he was "Elohim", the God of power; to Abraham in a strange land "El-Shaddai", God Almighty; to Moses amidst the wars "El-Elyon", The Most High What was he to Israel? Moses asked. What name could describe him to the people?

And God said unto Moses I AM THAT I AM. The margin of the Revised Version gives these alternative translations of the Hebrew: I AM BECAUSE I AM, I AM WHO I AM, and I WILL BE THAT I WILL BE. The Hebrew word Yhw, variously translated differs bri, slig-rtly from the word "Jehovah" in form, and is equivalent to it in meaning. The word Jehovah is the result of a combination of the consonants of the original name [the consonants alone are written in ancient Hebrew] and the vowels of its sensitive Adonai, or [Lord]. Most scholars believe that the original form of the name were 'Jahve' or 'Yahve,' God calls himself 'Eiyeh', i.e., I AM. When he is named by others, he is 'Jahve,' i.e., HE IS The name denotes the absolute self-existance of God." (Dummelow).

NAVAL GUN SALUTE

According to Ships Magazine a naval gun salute 400 years ago was indisputable evidence of good will. Real shot was fired, but aimed at the sea. Since the guns could not be reloaded and retired in much less than a half hour, the splashes following a broadside salute were proof that the ship could not fire again for a while.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

HORSE SLEEPING SICKNESS

Proof found by U.S. investigators that St. Louis and western equine encephalomyelitis (horse sleeping sickness) are naturally transmitted by mosquitoes which are common to the Canadian prairies give emphasis to warnings by public and animal health authorities to vaccinate all horses this season.

Just because there were comparatively few cases of encephalomyelitis a highly fatal disease, among horses last summer, vaccination has been almost entirely neglected this year, according to Dr. J. R. Fuller, director of Animal Diseases Research Laboratory, University of Saskatchewan. Dr. Fuller has been a leading investigator of the cause and epidemiology of equine encephalomyelitis and its relationship to human cases. He has urged for some years the vaccination of all horses.

Thousands of animals died in a western epidemic a few years ago. Since then scientists have established the relationship between the disease suffered by horses and human encephalitis cases.

The mosquitoes found to be natural transmitters of the sleeping sickness, or brain fever, as it is sometimes called, are Culex tarsalis, Culex tritaeniorhynchus and Aedes lateralis. They are common in Western Canada. In Kansas, also, during 1942, epidemic outbreaks has been found naturally infected with western encephalomyelitis, Lt.-Col. T. T. Mackie, U.S. Army Medical Corps, reported recently in The Journal of the American Medical Association. He regarded it as even more significant that experimental demonstration had shown two species of Dermacentor ticks could be infected and that in these species the infection could be transmitted to succeeding generations.

Immunity is seen in Canada that horses, unless protected against the disease, may provide a reservoir of infection which is transmitted to humans by such agents as mosquitoes and other insects and provide easy rapid and wide spread of such diseases.

World's largest and most beautiful natural caverns are those in the Carlsbad Caverns of New Mexico.

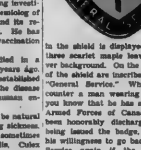
Legal Badges Tell Army Service Story

Privileges To Be Given Men Discharged Short Of Their Term

By Mary Cridland

"By their badges ye shall know them," is sage advice for those who wonder at the meaning of legal badges worn by many Canadian men in civilian clothes. These men have been rejected by the Armed Services, or have been discharged from them.

Discharged soldiers of the present war wear a small, shield-shaped badge surmounted by a crown. Within the shield is displayed a sprig of three scarlet maple leaves on a silver background. On the lower border of the shield is inscribed the words, "General Service." When you encounter a man wearing that badge, you know that he has served in the armed Forces of Canada, and has been honorably discharged. Before being issued the badge, he declared his willingness to serve again on Active Service again if the Government ever needs his service.



Men who have applied for enlistment in overseas forces, and have been rejected because of physical deficiencies, wear a copper badge, light chocolate-brown in color. It is roundoval in shape, with a dark red enamel maple leaf in the centre. Around the border you will find the words, "Applicant for Enlistment—Canada." The man wearing this badge tried honestly to join the Army, but was refused because of some physical disability, and, before receiving his badge, agreed to submit himself to such time as medical standards permit his acceptance.

Not Disrupting Studies

Boys Attending School Not Affected By New Work Order

Extension of compulsory transfer regulations to youths 16, 17 and 18 years old will not in any way interfere with their education, Labor Department officials said.

Under the new order, announced in the House of Commons by Labor Minister Mitchell, youths of these ages who are not attending school may be required to take certain jobs, but none will be taken out of schools or colleges.

It is expected many of them will be used in relieving labor shortages in farming and cutting of fuel-wood, and to replace men transferred out of the less essential jobs.

Details of the plan for using these young workers have not been worked out, but officials said care would be taken to prevent them being directed to jobs distant from their homes.

For Better Health

Officials at Boeing Aircraft in Vancouver where mighty patrol boats are built know well that better health and fitness means more production and that a balanced diet is tied up with that better health. Phil Dill, staff artist, was therefore commissioned to do this cartoon poster, one of a series being turned out to meet specific problems in the plant.

CHAPTER XI

TOGETHER Morgan and Rosita slipped out of the warehouse shadows. Hardly had they placed themselves on the opposite side of the automobile when they heard approaching footsteps, and then the striking of a match as another cigarette was lighted. Morgan, lifting himself on tiptoe, saw the dim figure of Rojas pause beside the running-board of the car. The American glided around and touched his jacket to Rojas' side.

"Arriba, Capitan," he said softly. "Hands up!"

Rojas, blinking his surprise, threw his hands skyward. "Not so loud, senor," cautioned Morgan. "We want a word with you—"

"You are under arrest, Morgan. Put that gun away," Rojas made no effort to raise his hands.

"Rojas, you are hunting the wrong people. Listen—"

The captain stepped back quickly and his hand flew toward the holstered weapon belted about his waist. "Ranches! Pedro!" Rojas' voice rang out into the night with the alarm carrying qualities of a struck gong. "Hurry, Morgan is here—"

Morgan's arm rose and fell crashing the butt of the automatic down on Rojas' head. He crowded the falling figure against the car and eased the stunned man to the ground. "Rosita!" he cried. "Start the car and get out of here! Before the guards come tumbling out of that building!"

The girl darted forward to jerk open the car door. Morgan gathered Rojas in his arms; the turning starter whirled the motor into life and Morgan, throwing himself with the unconscious captain in the rear compartment, heard gears clash; the car jolted into motion with an abruptness that piled Morgan and his burden into a heap on the cushions.

ROSITA gripped the steering wheel more tightly and the crescendo of the motor increased as her foot flattened the accelerator against the floorboard. The police who blocked the exit jumped hastily to avoid the hurtling vehicle.

"Keep going, senorita!" Morgan called. "They'll be after us as soon as they can round up their men."

There was no need to halt for Morgan to take the wheel. Rosita Velasquez was handling the speeding car with all the dexterity Morgan himself could have commanded, and her superior knowledge of the streets enabled them to keep up the pace and quickly put the city behind them.

In the corner of the tonneau Rojas straightened, groaned under his breath and fingered the lump on his head. He eyed Morgan, the girl, the gun resting on Morgan's knee, then gazed at the night dimmed countryside blurring past the window of the car.

"Are you mad, Senor Morgan?" he asked. "This is kidnapping!"

"You force us to take these desperate measures, captain. We want to prove to you that you should be on our side instead of Guillermo's. Guillermo is the spy whose activities brought me to Buenos Aires. It was he who ordered Velasquez and Diaz killed."

"I hope you speak the truth, senor," Rojas smiled. "I would like to believe that the confidence and cooperation we showed one another was not misplaced on my part."

Rosita turned the car off the highway, entering an empty lane that threaded through a grove of trees Where the growth was thickest, the girl applied the rakes, and in that secluded spot Chris Morgan revealed the details of the tangle that had commenced when the American had first observed the faintly smudged surface of what should have been an immaculate and sparkling glass.

CAPTAIN ROJAS heard him through, and was silent for a long moment. "That is a rather fantastic tale, Senor Morgan" he said at length. "I regret that I cannot accept it."

"Why not?" Morgan asked anxiously. His fate would have been built up by Rojas' acceptance of the proof yet, I am sure, senor, if you will believe that I do not lie, we can work together to prove a case that will have to be true."

Rojas shook his head and smiled drily. "Let me point out the error in your alibi, Morgan. According to your own story, Guillermo became suspicious when you asked me to see that Verde did not leave the Casa Grande; Guillermo, you claim, told De Nova to find Diaz, the fingerprint investigator. The police station paused. "I give you a final chance, senor. How did Guillermo convey such a message to De Nova?"

Morgan frowned, endeavoring to anticipate Rojas' objection. "That should not have been difficult. They were both in the same building, the police—"

"Must I continue to explain?" Rojas murmured wearily. "If you will remember, Lieutenant, it was but after we had searched your room on the fifth floor, when Don Felix and I were entering the elevator, that you asked me to locate and keep an eye on the missing Senor Verde, the man whom you now claimed killed Col. Velasquez."

"Yes," Morgan nodded, still puzzled. "I have already told you all that, and I see nothing I may have said that should cause such doubts to enter your mind."

"That is where your whole story falls down. After you left us at the elevator, I was with Don Felix every moment of the time from then on. Guillermo had no chance to talk to him. He could not even descend to the ground floor where De Nova probably was. We left the elevator at the fourth floor because I wanted to have a look at Col. Velasquez's room. Then I accepted Guillermo's invitation to wait in his room until Diaz returned with the fingerprints we were expecting. Don Felix and I were together when the news came that Diaz had been shot."

Morgan was nonplussed. "There is a telephone in Guillermo's room," he hazarded. "He could have called the desk and communicated with De Nova."

Rojas shook his head. "Don Felix did not touch the phone. We did not even discuss the death of Velasquez. Guillermo is a cultivated gentleman. We talked of books, plays and music. He asked if I would like him to play the violin, and I suggested that he play Paganini, O Sole Mio. I shall never forget the exquisite music the fiend Don Felix created for me."

Morgan, too, through the opened door between his room on the floor above, had often heard the music of Guillermo. The bespectacled man was indeed a wizard with bow and string.

"The game is up, Morgan," said Rojas. "Give me that gun and we shall return to the city. You killed Velasquez and Diaz. No other conclusion is left me, a thing I regret exceedingly. My sympathies are with America in this war and I was quite eager to help you stamp out German espionage in Buenos Aires. But you went to the Casa Grande not to watch for spies but to obtain our military data from Col. Velasquez."

"That is a lie!" Rosita interrupted. "Uncle Miguel was no traitor!"

"Permit me to contradict you, senorita." Rojas inclined his head politely. "Col. Velasquez' missing papers were found on Esteban, your brother, when we arrested him at the warehouse. . . . Well, Lt. Morgan, do you surrender?"

"Surrender? No!" Morgan's voice took on a sudden vehemence. "Rosita—when you and Esteban took me out of the Casa Grande how did you manage it unobserved?"

"There is a service elevator," the girl explained, "used to move baggage, laundry and supplies from the different floors. The elevator was not in use at that hour of the day and no one saw us when we took you away."

"And the time is only a little later now," nodded Morgan in vast satisfaction. "Do you think we could get into the hotel by the same method?"

"We might," Rosita replied doubtfully. "The elevator will be idle, I know. But—the door at the rear platform will be locked."

MORGAN grinned and produced the pin-ringed keys from the pocket of Guillermo's coat. "Not in the Casa Grande—thanks to Capt. Rojas, O.K. esquerda, back to Avon. I've just had an idea. If we can sneak into the hotel there is a long chance that we can put the skids under Guillermo."

The girl glanced doubtfully toward the policeman. "But—Capt. Rojas—"

"I shall handle Rojas," Morgan said briefly, "until I have time to look into the rumble seat."

Rosita took the automatic while Morgan left the car and opened the baggage compartment. He found a section of rope long enough to bind the arms of Rojas securely.

Rojas made no physical protest as his hands were tied behind his back. "I shall not forget this indignity, senor," he promised darkly.

"Sorry, captain," Morgan apologized. "But I cannot trust you not to create a disturbance when we return to Buenos Aires, or while we are in the hotel." The knots tightened. Morgan took the handkerchief and fashioned a gag to place over Rojas' mouth and jaw.

Back on the highway, Rosita headed the car toward the lights of the distant city. Because the police would be on the lookout for Rojas' car, she sought the darker streets as soon as possible, and worked her way toward the Casa Grande by a circuitous route. Finally she swerved the car to the curb and stopped.

They remained in the car until the street was clear of pedestrians in both directions. Then Morgan hustled Rojas toward the sidewalk and, taking his captive's arm, induced him to walked with them to the corner and into the service entrance of the Casa Grande.

All the doors along the platform of the hotel were closed. Rosita took the keys from Morgan, unlocked one particular door, and nodded her head in signal that the hall within was temporarily deserted.

"Stop at the fourth floor," Morgan whispered to Rosita, and Rojas shrugged with the grit into the waiting silence.

"But your room is on the 5th floor," said Rosita.

"We are calling on Guillermo," said Morgan, closing the door of the elevator. "Say a little prayer, senorita, that Don Felix is home and that he has not yet learned that we have been ported from the wool warehouse."

Barrage Balloons in Britain Get Thorough Overhauling Every Day

Britain's barrage balloons are moored for the duration, and so are their crews, who must be on watch 24 hours a day, says "Britain." Every morning the cable must be oiled and there is a general checking up. The winch must be cleaned and started up, and the "purity test" must be made with a meter which registers the amount of oxygen mixed with the gas. Too much oxygen can cause a dangerous explosion. The fabric must be carefully examined for punctures, and any holes must be mended. Pocket duty is very important, for if balloon might suddenly leave its moorings and go up. Members of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force are gradually taking over the job, except on island sites where the balloons are water-borne. A full crew consists of sixteen W.A.A.F.s but there must never be fewer than nine on duty.

SELECTED RECIPES

HOME-BAKED BEANS

1 pound dried navy beans
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon pepper
½ to ¾ cup Five Hive Corn Syrup
¼ peeled large onion
¼ pound salt pork
½ tablespoon salt in ½ cup boiling water

Look over and wash the beans; cover with cold water and let stand overnight. Drain. Cover with fresh cold water, bring to boil and simmer ½ hour. Drain and turn into bean pot. Sprinkle with the mustard and pepper, drizzle with the corn syrup and add the onion, cut-up salt pork and boiling water to cover. Cover and bake in slow oven, 300 degrees F., for two hours. Pour the salt and the water in which the beans have been; complete the baking (about 8 hours longer). During baking add water as necessary to keep the beans moist; uncover toward end of baking to allow the top to become crisp Tomato ketchup or chili sauce may be added when the beans are nearly done. Reduce salt, if pork is very salty.

Reclaimed From Sea

United States Army Engineers Have Created Air Field At Bermuda

Many remarkable achievements have been made in the reclamation of lands from the rivers and the seas, and one of the most interesting of the present war is the airfield created by United States Army Engineers at Bermuda.

Named for one of its pioneers, Kindley airfield adjoins Fort Bell, one of the defences of the island, and it was literally built up from the bottom of the sea. Where 18 months ago there was just the clear water of Bermuda, there is now one of the most up-to-date airfields that air services could wish for Millions of cubic yards of fill were dumped into the area by dredges until there was sufficient top surface on which to lay out runways and erect buildings that by any modern standard would be called impressive.

Fort Bell has undergone extensive modernization at the hands of the Americans who held that area of 99 years' lease from British One of the roads is to be named Andrews in memory of General Frank M. Andrews who was killed not long ago in an air crash in Iceland, and another is to be Parr road in memory of the former commander of the air base.

Over 33-page booklet deals with the corner of the land who had refused fabulous offers from wealthy Americans who wished to build homes there But he gave up his palatial home and the land as a contribution to winning the war, saying that it was the King's wish he would be glad to do so. His death soon after was attributed to a broken heart.—St Thomas Times-Journal.

POST-WAR PLANS

Many cities in Great Britain, among them Birmingham, Coventry, York and London, are already planning for post war buildings Planning is the right word, for no longer are builders allowed to build haphazardly. The re-building of British cities is being controlled, and York, for example, is trying to determine in advance whether to plan for a population of 50 000, 100 000 or 150 000.

DREAMS DO HAVE SIGNIFICANCE TO YOU

Bad Dreams

Did you dream one night of some terrible prehistoric monster? Did it frighten you into awakening? Don't dismiss the dream as just the consequence of cheese before bedtime. Such a dream might mean you have a subconscious dread of something, or maybe you are afraid to face unpleasant problems.

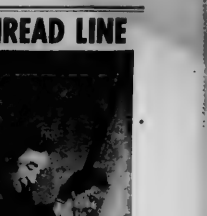
For dreams do mean something, modern psychologists do not laugh at our dreams. They use dreams as clues to messages from the unconscious, revealing to the conscious mind mental states of which we may not be aware.

Our 32-page booklet deals with the corner of the land who had refused fabulous offers from wealthy Americans who wished to build homes there But he gave up his palatial home and the land as a contribution to winning the war, saying that it was the King's wish he would be glad to do so. His death soon after was attributed to a broken heart.—St Thomas Times-Journal.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "The Meaning of Dreams" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of the booklet.

Bombs in general use by the R.A.F. in 1940 weighed 500 pounds. By March, 1942, bombs weighing 4,000 pounds were used and by September, 1942, we were dropping bombs weighing 8 000 pounds.

ON THE THREAD LINE



BUSY WOMEN come to the workrooms in hundreds to sew dirty bags, hospital garments, refugee clothing. "When there's a lot to be done, a good deal depends on getting a head start in the early," says Emily Allen, business girl (1939). "Kellogg's Corn Flakes are my favorite at breakfast time or anytime." Yes, Kellogg's Corn Flakes are the favorite in an ever-increasing number of Canadian homes. They're ready to eat in 30 seconds, leave no pots and pans to wash. Economical, too. Get some tomorrow. Two convenient sizes. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

LOCAL ELKS HONOR DEPARTING MEMBER

W. H. Graham To Leave for Red Deer

The local lodge, B.P.O.E., gathered in their hall on Tuesday evening to say farewell to one of their members, in the person of W. H. "Bill" Graham, who leaves on Saturday of this week for a month's sojourn at Pitlala, prior to commencing duties in his new position at Red Deer.

Some 25 Elks enjoyed a social evening during which the Exalted Ruler, Bro. Vernon Cooper, presented Bro. Graham with an Elks pin as a small token of esteem and remembrance. Mr Graham has been Loyal Knight of the local lodge for the past year and a half, and up to the time of his illness last fall was a very active member. He was invariably particularly during the annual Elks fall carnival.

The very best wishes for their every success accompany Mr. and Mrs. Graham and family to their new home in Red Deer.

GAS HEAT FOR ANGLICAN CHURCH AND RECTORY

Redecoration of Church Also Planned

Parishioners of the St. Saviour's Anglican church have decided to redecorate the church, and to install gas in the church and rectory. Estimated cost of the two installations is $450. The money will be raised by special donations in amounts of $25, $10, $10, $5 and $1. Already, without any canvassing, three $25 and two $15 and two $5 donations have been made. It is hoped that the entire amount will be subscribed by the parishioners voluntarily coming forward with their contributions. These may be made to A.E. Butler, Bank of Commerce; R. J. Bell, Nelson-Hill Hardware; Thos. Waits, Northern Hardware; or to Ven. Archdeacon Fortescue.

As part of the money required is for installation of gas in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Bell, it is hoped that Anglicans in the Ottawa and Pleasant Valley parishes will aid in raising the desired amount.

WEDDING BELLS

SCHURMAN—BRISTOW

At 4 o'clock on the afternoon of Friday July 2nd, the manse of the United church in Islay became the setting for the marriage of Alma Winnifred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bristow of Islay, to Mr. George Schurman, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Schurman of Cherry Grove, Alberta. The Rev. A. Bell of Islay officiated.

The bride, attended by Miss Margaret Burkit of Lloydminster, wore a charming gown of royal blue with beige accessories. The bridesmaid was tastefully dressed in dusky rose while both the bride and her attend ant had corsages of iris and bluebell. The groom was attended by his brother Ralph of Vermilion. Mrs George Hand of Vermilion played the wedding march very beautifully.

After the ceremony a delightful reception, attended by about thirty guests, was held at the home of the bride's parents. The guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a dress of polka dot blue for the occasion. Mrs. J. Harvie of Streamstown poured tea while Mrs J. H. Bristow, sister of the bride, and Lois Easton and Miss Iola Schoonmaker assisted with serving.

Out of town guests present included the groom's mother, and his brother and wife from Cherry Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schurman, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron of Vermilion, Mrs. Mary McEachern of Victoria B.C., Mrs. C. Clement and Mrs. Margaret Stevens of Edmonton, sister of the bride.

After the reception the happy couple, showered with good wishes left by motor for Calgary, where they spent a short honeymoon. For going away the bride wore a travelling habit of grey and white with white accessories. On their return they will make their home in Vermilion where Mr. Schurman is now working.

VERMILION BOY MARRIED AT LONDON, ONT.

Pratt — Turner

In the church of the Resurrection, London, Ont., Rev. J. Atkinson united in marriage Kathleen Lily, eldest daughter of Mrs. Annie A. Williams, T. Turner and Douglas Raymond Pratt, this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Pratt, Vermilion, Alberta. The church was decked with pink and white peonies and pink and white snapdragons against a background of ferns and palms. Miss Helen Hodgson was at the organ and Miss Jean Stanek, the soloist sang, "O Promise Me".

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The brides' sister, Mrs. B. T. Connelly, matron of honour, wore a pale pink sheer floor length gown, hip and chapel veil of pink net. She carried a shower bouquet of Happy Day roses and bridesmaid, Miss Marjorie Lee, bridesmaid, wore a blue gown made similarly to that of the matron of honour and carried a shower bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. Barbara Ralph, the flower girl, pras in a long floor length sheer crepe frock of white tin and wore a small hat of flowers with long pink and blue streamers. Her bouquet was a shower composed of sweet peas and blue cornflowers.

The best man was Pte. James Porter, R.C.O.C. and the ushers were Cpl. Jack Wright and Pte. Ken Wright.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue sheer crepe dress and corsage of Better Time roses, navy blue hat and white accessories.

After a reception given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Pratt left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. The bride wore a powder blue suit, white hat and accessories and shoulder bouquet of Canadian Hill roses.

On their return they will reside in London.

Out-of-town guests were present from New York.

BEES ATTEND CHURCH IN SWARM

"Betsyin the Beltry" is just an old expression but a swarm of bees in a church is another matter altogether, especially when they are not disturbed until the congregation and the minister arrive for service. Such was the experience at the Rosslyn school on Sunday evening when people arriving there to attend church, started only to exit hastily, as a swarm of bees, evidently looking for a new hive, were busily engaged in making themselves very much at home in the building. And what's more, they weren't brooking any interference. The bees were finally persuaded to move when an overdose of smoke was applied to their particular corner of the room.

Holly No. 1 On Production

Increases Output of Field

Increasing the commercial output of the Vermilion oil field, Holly No. 1 well was placed on production recently. It pumped at the rate of 240 barrels per day flush production. After the well had been cleaned out, under reamed and bailed dry the oil rose to almost 1200 feet. Since then the settled flow indicates a steady production of 75 barrels per day.

The well was drilled by the K. de K. Drilling company for O.B. Hollingsworth. Operations were supervised by C. B. Barlow.

One of the pioneer operators of the field, Mr. Hollingsworth and associates drilled Richardson No. 1 in Sept. 1940. The Holly No. 1 is located just east of the Richardson well.

Fair Opens July 29th

FEATURES EDUCATIONAL DISPLAYS

Vermilion Fair will swing open its gates to patrons on Thursday next, July 29th, and will continue in operation for the remainder of the week. Judging by the sale of advance tickets to date the attendance should shatter all records and the Directors are looking forward to the 1943 Fair with confidence that district residents will fund much for their education and entertainment.

The Dominion Government Exhibit outlined elsewhere in this issue will have a wide appeal; the Northwest Line Elevators Assoc'n will have a practical and interesting display which will be of interest to women as well as men, and the Searle Grain Company, with a timely display of weaving and weaving equipment, is meeting a greatly felt need. These exhibits will be housed in the former ladies' rest room building, the rest room having been moved to the exhibit hall to give greater convenience to ladies visiting Vermilion's friendly Fair.

The Provincial Department of Agriculture will have an expert in attendance at the Fair to demonstrate the use of sprays in harvest operations and to give instruction in repair of farm machinery that may be carried out by the farmer; these demonstrations will be of great value at this particular time and every farmer is urged to take advantage of the opportunities which will be thus made available.

The Provincial Shorthorn Show appears to be attracting much interest and entries at the time of going to press would indicate that all the classes will be well filled. Shorthorn judging will begin at 11 a.m. on Friday, the second day of the Fair and all are interested in this event. Cattle should be on hand to learn important points which will be brought out by the judges

Children's classes are also being featured this year and Mr. R. A. Andrew, well known agriculturist, will place the awards in these sections.

Of particular interest to stock raisers will be classes in market lambs and in commercial hogs, in these classes judging will be held at 4 p.m. on Thursday, after which the three top individuals in each case will be slaughtered and the carcasses will be placed on display under glass so that those who are featuring the improvement of livestock on their farms may have an opportunity of comparing the live and slaughtered animals.

Many Entertainment Features

The W. J. Casey Midway will be at Vermilion Fair and, although smaller than the Wallace Bros. Shows of last year it is said that the entertainment provided is no less enjoyable, with riders for young and old and fun for all.

The grandstand attractions need no further recommendation but will be found to be their own advertisement and everyone is assured of ample pleasure through a visit to the Vermilion Fair on July 29, 30 and 31.

Harness racing will please the lovers of the track sport and W. D. Jones and daddy and spectators cheered and applauded from the grandstands in the cheering section were Frank Cairns, of Lashburn, Sask., and George Brierley of Elden Vale, South Wales, who are stationed with the R.A.F. at North Battleford, Sask. They were on hand to present with the training cester and "all the girls" they supported asking for a posting there "even as tailpipe boys".

There was an outdoor supper on the spacious grounds at the centre. There were sandwiches, salad, lemonade, icewream and cookies and most everyone had a hand helping.

There was the arrival, later, of the men from the army camp at Wainwright who came in trucks and cars and who were welcomed as old or new friends by the girls.

There was the official opening of the new drill hall in the evening when Col. Cunnington ruefully looked at the scissors (which were to open the red white and blue rope across the drill hall door) and said: "I hope these things cut!" Col Cunnington congratulated the sports girls on and they probably would have beaten the men! Mrs Cunnington presented ribbons for the sports events. His Worship Mayor J. W. G. Morrison brought greetings from the people of Vermilion. When you leave a visit don't forget to remember the dressed chicken supper here" he said Mayor Boyd thanked the people of Vermilion for their open homes to the girls and also praised the Service club in Vermilion

There was a demonstration of drill by a previous squad of thirty-six N.C.O.s of the training centre conducted by Regimental Sergeant Major A McV Cardy, and led by Sergeant Major M Hewett of the C.W.A.C. As they marched past the gaily decorated stage the salute was taken by Col Cunnington

There was dancing to the orchestra on the cricket Rifle Regiment and later there was the surprise appearance of the 25th Battalion Pipe and Drum Band which marched down the drill hall. The Band, attending a service were making attempts at a concert here on this occasion. Their concert last year was a wonderful success and many Vermilion people will be looking forward to hearing them again this year.

Mrs. Wood will be in charge of the Vermilion radio auditorium during the Fair and will welcome the people of Vermilion and district.

Special L. P.'s of Red Deer were secured and on hand again.

Agriculture And The War

AGRICULTURE IS THE MOST IMPORTANT single industry in Canada and at this season of the year the attention of a large part of our population is engaged in the many branches of farm activities. There is a saying that "an army marches on its stomach" and there is no doubt of the great importance of food production in war time, both for the fighting forces and for the vast army of workers who supply them with the implements of war. The products of Canadian agriculture have provided not only for our domestic needs, but have played an important part in keeping Britain supplied with essential foodstuffs. In the United Kingdom, the war brought many acute problems connected with food supply, and Canada has been able to do much to assist in this way. Difficulties in keeping of some foods, and also the limitation of shipping space, has led to the development by Canadian scientists of new methods of dehydration and concentration of many essential foodstuffs, and today many of our products are being shipped overseas in these forms.

* * * * *

Food Contracts For This Year

Under 1942-43 contracts, this country has undertaken to supply Great Britain with large quantities of Canadian farm products. The contracts for this period include 125,000,000 pounds of cheese; 32,000,000 one-pound tins of evaporated milk, and 670,000,000 pounds of bacon. In addition, Canada will endeavour to send to the United Kingdom 9,000 long tons of dried eggs. This amount is equivalent to about 81,000,000 dozens. We are told that in 1942, 85% of our entire cheese output was shipped to Great Britain, as was 15% of our egg production. In that period also, 75% of the inspected hogs slaughtered in Canada were sent to the British Isles. This represented 40% of Canada's entire meat supply for the year. It is interesting to note in this connection that one week's shipment of bacon and pork products at the present time, is equal to the yearly amount exported ten years ago. The entire catch of salmon and herring made here in 1942 was sent to Britain.

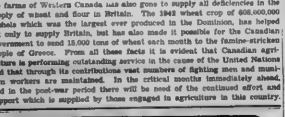
Canadian Wheat Sent Overseas

In addition to these large shipments of meat, eggs, fish and dairy products, there was also sent vast quantities of Canadian fruits, vegetables, cereals and honey. Money from Western Canada has been an important factor in these shipments, and wheat from the farms of Western Canada has also gone to supply all deficiencies in the supply of wheat and flour in Britain. The 1942 wheat crop of 600,000,000 bushels which was the largest ever produced in the Dominion, has helped not only to supply Britain, but has also made it possible for the Canadian government to send 15,000 tons of wheat each month to the famine-stricken people of Greece. From all these facts it is evident that Canadian agriculture is performing outstanding service in the cause of the United Nations and that through its contributions vast numbers of fighting men and munition workers are maintained. In the critical months immediately ahead, and in the post-war period there will be need of the continued effort and support which is supplied by those engaged in agriculture in this country.



WARTIME CANNING

This year our fruit canning will vary from pre-war days. Previously if one or two jars of fruit had to be thrown out, it didn't matter, but now all fruit cannot must be properly sterilized so it will keep. It is vitally urgent to pre-act wastage.

The government has given us several important points this year as an aid in our canning:

(1) Do not use the open kettle method for canning fruits. This requires one's sugar than the hot or cold pack methods, because we counted on the sugar to help keep the fruit. Below is much greater chance for re-contamination as everything is exposed to the air after being sterilized.

(2) The black wartime rubber rings will make a perfect seal. They should be dipped in boiling water for a few minutes until they deteriorate. The rings should never be pulled out to test their elasticity, as they won't go back to original shape nor should they be used a second time. Once a jar is cold do not try to turn the screw tops further as this breaks the seal and will cause spoilage.

(3) Make less jams and jellies - they require twice the amount of sugar.

(4) It is possible to can without sugar, depending entirely on sterilization for keeping the fruit. The sterilization time should be five minutes longer when no sugar is used. You can tomatoes without sugar with complete safety; the same applies to fruit. If you use sugar make a light syrup by using 2 cups water—1 cup sugar.

Preservatives should not be necessary when you use the proper method for sterilization.

The Pure Food Act in Canada forbids the use of a preservative in commercially canned fruits.

To Conserve Labor

Announcement Made That Canada Will Discontinue Production Of Antimony

To conserve essential labor, it has been decided to discontinue production of antimony in Canada, it was disclosed in Canadian War Orders and Regulations.

The booklet contained an order exempting imports of antimony from the 15% war exports tax, 5% sales tax and three per cent. special excise tax, because production at home was being stopped.

Antimony is used in a number of alloys, chiefly with lead, and finds its way into many war materials. Canada's needs will have to be met by imports once existing stocks are depleted.

Pilot Officer "Bob" Fritz

Tabbed by Western sports writers as one of the best ploughing halfbacks in Western Canada Pilot Officer R. P. "Bob" Fritz, erstwhile Winnipeg Blue Bomber coach and football player, is well on his way to distinguishing himself as Fritz is piling up the hours three days in his element try timber. He got off to a flying start when he soloed on June 18 after nine hours and 15 minutes of dual instruction.

His training so far, has translated into a sincere and all encompassing respect and admiration for the boys with their wings on," observed the husky footballer in an interview.

A former Auxiliary service officer at No. 1 Training Command, R.C.A.F. Winnipeg, chiefly concerned with summer sporting activities, Pilot Officer Fritz started his aircrew training this spring. Fritz had a great competitive spirit in sports and was respected right across the country by crack sports writers. He was picked for the Canadian Press All-Star team in 1937. His football career began in the United States where he was four years All Conference fullback at Concordia College, Minnesota. Highlights in his playing career were coach of the University of Alberta Football team in 1940 and 41, star member of the R.C.A.F. Bombers when they won the Western Canada football championship in 1942, coach and player of Winnipeg Blue Bombers 1935-36, coach and player of Edmonton Eskimos 1937-39.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fritz, 720-sixth St., International Falls, Minn., are the parents of Pilot Officer Fritz. His wife lives at Willmar, Minn., and he has a brother, John, in the United States Army. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree at Concordia College, Minnesota, and took post-graduate work at the University of Minnesota. Before joining the R.C.A.F. in June, 1943, he was athletic director of the University of Alberta and radio commentator on Radio Station CJCA, Edmonton, Alberta.

Much More Expensive

Whirligig Of Old School Days Is Now A Helicopter

Harking back to the days of simpler joys, do you remember what we used to call a whirligig? It was a plank set upon a stump in such a way that the boys and girls could ride in the circumference while another playmate in the middle made the affair go round and round. Like the swing it was cheap and it provided a lot of fun in the moments between picking the potato bugs hoeing the garden and gathering the eggs.

The "hovering whirligig" isn't nearly so innocent nor so inexpensive. It is, in truth, a helicopter, but the R.C.A.F. boys have tagged it with the whirligig name. It's a 'plane with a set of windmill wings above the fuselage, wings which, when set in motion, can lift the plane almost straight up off the ground, or set it straight down, can hold it hover or go back or ahead slowly. It was formerly thought to be a freak, but within the past few months it has been built in real earnest.

Now the Royal Canadian Air Force has ordered 400 and is trying them out. If we know the truth it is quit possible that the so-called small aircraft carriers being used to combat the U-boat in the Atlantic may be equipped with helicopters. At any rate those who have witnessed the take-off and alighting of the meandering whirligigs will be sure death for lurking U-boats because they will be able to spot them and hover over them in a way no ordinary 'plane can.—Lethbridge Herald.

Fly Control Methods

Necessary Precautions To Be Taken To Keep Flies Out Of The Home

Do not throw dish water or scrub water near the house, or in the back yard. Nothing attracts flies more quickly. Sink a hole and lined cover but no bottom in the ground, and pour waste water into this box as soon as used. Keep the lid down and the flies out.

Screen the doors and windows of your home and keep them shutting. In the army refuse is burned or buried, and the same practice should be followed in civilian life, except of course where garbage is collected by the municipality.

Food, water and milk supplies should be carefully protected from flies.

Wilson's Fly Pads properly distributed about the house in plates of water will attract and kill any flies that manage to get into the house despite the screens.

Tables, sink-boards, pantry shelves or any place where food is set—and where flies have crawled—should be cleaned with a scrubbing brush and soap or disinfectant. Pay reference to these simple rules of hygiene will more than repay the thought and effort by safeguarding the nation's most precious asset, the health of our people.

AIRCRAFT PRODUCTION

Was Tough Enough

U.S. Army Accepted Man For Service After Shooting Himself

His commanding officer thought Pfc Andrew J. Capurso was too frail for anything but limited service in the United States army, but Capurso has since proved he learned that: In the past four years Capurso, a former member of the Greek movement marine has been on three torpedoed ships, twice loaned adrift in the Atlantic, once for 16 days in an open boat in which three men died, again when he used the body of a dead man as a raft for three days; he was interned in North Africa for 10 months, underwent air raids in England and was wounded in the head by shrapnel at Dakar. A native of Pensacola, Fla., he weighed 168 when the war started, lost 65 pounds, is back up to 138.

Thousands Of Water Projects Now Completed

REGINA. — Water development projects completed in the three prairie provinces during the three P.F.R.A. years, ended in 1935 up until the end of 1942 totalled 19,867, George Spence, director, said recently.

Of this total, 12,187 projects are in Saskatchewan, 5,673 in Manitoba, and 2,107 in Alberta. The projects include dugouts, stock-watering dams and irrigation works.

Mr. Spence said that 1,342 projects had been completed in 1942. Present plans call for additional projects to be finished this year in the three provinces.

During 1935, shortly after the P.F.R.A. was started, 53 projects were completed in the prairie provinces, 13 of these were in Saskatchewan, 19 in Manitoba and 12 in Alberta.

The following year 1,740 were finished. Of this total 873 were in Saskatchewan, 543 in Manitoba and 325 in Alberta.

Figures released by Mr. Spence reveal that the greatest number of these projects were completed in 1939—1,842 in all—with 1,048 in the three provinces. Saskatchewan again had the largest number, 2,876 compared with 2,066 completed in Manitoba and 478 in Alberta.

One Of Canada's Post-War Plans Is Being Started

VANCOUVER. — Rehabilitation is part of the war effort and has been started even before the war ended in the form of the federal government, said in a prepared address to a Vancouver service club.

He reviewed the data he has collected in a year of studying the problem throughout Canada, outlining the costs and tentative scope of the Dominion's post-war rehabilitation plans.

The costs, he said, "seem astronomical," but the most reliable estimates available were that such expenditures need be little more than half as costly as are essential war operations and that about one-half the present rate of taxation and borrowing would be adequate for the programs envisaged.

Dr. Weir predicted that a total of more than 600,000 discharged persons could be effectively provided for in early post-war period if an orderly demobilization procedure were instituted. They would be absorbed by provincial-planned enterprises (100,000), Veterans' Land Act (50,000), construction enterprises (150,000), vocational training (250,000), return to former positions (250,000).

Dr. Weir admitted the more than 600,000 civilians now engaged in essential war industry complicated the post-war training problem. They are not entitled to benefits under orders-in-council covering the government's rehabilitation program, many of them would attend vocational schools and universities, using accommodation that will be badly needed for discharged persons.

He expressed the hope "most of those munitions workers and similar types of employees will return to their homes to their husbands and children, to their schools, to their former jobs."

"After all," he added, "discharged people who risked their lives at $1.30 a day are surely entitled to post-war consideration than are those who assumed no such risks in the 'Get rich quick' days of the last war."

Dr. Weir numbered the training centres available for service men and women after the war, and said that if industry provided for adequate training in private plants and yards, "there should be sufficient physical accommodation available in Canada for this purpose for the number of trainees annually, although shortages or congestion in certain centres may be temporarily unavoidable."

AFTER THE WAR

British Lobster Says United States Will Have Largest Navy

LONDON.—The British House of Commons was told that the United States will be the world's foremost naval power after the war.

Opening a debate on the future of the British merchant marine, Laborite Emanuel Shinwell said: "We shall be supreme no longer. The hub has passed to the people of the United States."

Shinwell pointed out that Great Britain began the war with about 20,000,000 tons of shipping but would have no more than 9,000,000 tons after the war. On the other hand, he said, the United States entered the war with about 7,000,000 tons of shipping and would have between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 tons after the war.

BILL APPROVED

Providing Creation Of National Council On Physical Fitness

OTTAWA—The House of Commons social security committee considered and approved a draft proposal "to promote the physical fitness of the people of Canada."

The act is to be administered by Pensions Minister Mackenzie.

The bill provides for the creation of a "national council on physical fitness," the members of which will not be appointed by the government in council. Only the national director will receive a salary, the other members receiving actual expenses incurred in the discharge of their duties.

A fund of $225,000 is to be provided from which the council will make grants to provinces for the carrying out of promotion of physical fitness.

NEW TERMINAL

Canadian National Opens Its Modern Railway Station In Montreal

MONTREAL.—The new central railway station, one formerly connected with the Canadian Pacific railways, described by engineers as one of the world's most completely modern railway stations, was formally opened here by Transport Minister Michaud.

In a simple ceremony, Mr. Michaud cut a silken ribbon across the north plaza and Mayor Adhemar Raynault unlocked one of the central doors to open the terminal that was 14 years in building.

Mr. Michaud, Hon. Wilfrid Gagnon, of the C.N.R. board of directors, and R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president of the C.N.R., spoke briefly in the opening ceremonies.

Work on the terminal started in 1939, but was suspended shortly after completion of excavation work a victim of the depression. For seven years the huge hole in the ground remained in the heart of the city until the greatly increased traffic of war brought a rush to complete the project in its modified version.

Way Was Paved By Commandos For Canadians

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa.—Commando troops paved the way for the Canadian landing on the southeast tip of Sicily, it was learned here when two British officers returned to Africa from the embattled island. The landing was accomplished in the face of extremely light resistance.

The Commandos went in ahead of the Canadians with whom they had travelled from Britain protected by a naval force. A naval officer, Lt.-Cmdr. J. D Fernald, who was aboard the headquarters ship on the way to Sicily, said the wind reached almost gale proportions, threatening to upset the whole operation but, fortunately, it subsided just before landing. Some landing craft shipped considerable water as they struggled through the surf.

One of the Commando units was to secure the west flank of the beaches where the Canadians were to land, another the east flank. The first Commandos made the shore without being attacked from the air and met only sporadic machine-gun fire from the beach defences.

"The first troops to land, then the others," Fernald said. "Meanwhile shore batteries were giving a certain amount of trouble but gradually they were silenced, the last one fairly late in the morning.

"Later I went ashore and everything looked extremely active. Tanks and amphibious vehicles were going in and all the Italians (natives) who were there seemed to be pleased to see everybody. They were polite and so were the prisoners who were being shipped out in some mysterious way with the troops."

Fernald heard the Canadians fighting a few miles inland and the action because the troops were already inland and along the west coast of the southeast tip of the island.

The other officer, Capt. W. R. Sendall of the Royal Marines, related how the Commandos landed in moonlight, assisted by flares dropped by the R.A.F. The landing was not opposed and the Commandos seized the limestone cliffs, cut wire strung along the sandy depression on the other side. One minefield was cleared away

So accurate was the work of the navigator that they landed within 100 yards of the point they were supposed to reach, a beach near Punta Castellazzo. They cleared out an old customs house used as a strong point and soon made contact with the Canadians

SHORTAGE ACUTE

Doctors Badly Needed In Some Rural Areas Of Canada

OTTAWA.—Pensions Minister Mackenzie said in the commons that unless the situation can be met otherwise it may be necessary to use compulsion in the movement of medical men to the areas where they are badly needed.

He was answering M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, who said conditions in some rural areas were "very terrible" because of the shortage of doctors.

In Australia compulsion had been imposed on doctors, who were given the rank of major in the forces, and similar action had been taken in the United Kingdom so they might be moved where they were needed.

Mr Mackenzie said he understood similar compulsory action was about to be taken in the United States.

"That may be the only remedy in Canada, unless we succeed in meeting the situation in another way," he added.

High Praise For Canada's Ship Building Effort

LONDON. — Canada's shipbuilding effort since the start of the war was described as "one of the most remarkable things in the history of the British Commonwealth" during a general debate in the House of Commons on wartime and post-war merchant shipping.

Sir Arthur Salter, joint parliamentary secretary to the ministry of war transport, said Canada now is building approximately the same tonnages of merchant ships as Great Britain, in addition to corvettes and other protective naval craft. Only the United States has a greater merchant shipbuilding program.

"Canada has shown an astonishing power of adaptation in industrial capacity to the development of production of what is most needed in every war sphere," Sir Arthur said.

Her shipbuilding effort was "magnificent."

Emanuel Shinwell, Labor, asserted that Britain is faced with losing the supremacy of the seas to the United States after the war and that American "big business" would likely make an effort to control United States policy.

Declaring that "we can hold our own on the high seas if we get a fair chance, although unable to compete financially with America," Shinwell said:

"I am not speaking of the America of President Roosevelt or of Vice-President Henry Wallace. If we had to contend with a recurrence of that sort our problem would be comparatively easy to solve. We are dealing with the arms race of big business, the America of Wall street, the America of those who believe they can use the huge reserves of the United States to adopt as an investment policy all over the world and to enable their shipping facilities to dictate to that policy."

Replying for the government, Philip Noel-Baker, joint parliamentary secretary to the transport ministry, said that "shipping must be an international affair." The government, he added, is ready to collaborate with like-minded governments "to establish conditions in which the shipping of the world can be efficiently and economically carried on."

The "gigantic problem" of international shipping could be solved if the United Nations would work together after the war and not set themselves up as rivals and opponents, Noel-Baker said, adding:

"The main hope for the prosperity of every merchant navy lies in the expansion of international trade and I trust that expansion is going to come about.

"It must follow from the application of the pledges of the Atlantic Charter."

He said the United Nations had already committed themselves to the principle of collaboration and agreed to continue the control over shipping for a time after the war.

NEW ANTI-SERUM

U.S. Navy Physicians Believe It Will Prevent Influenzan Outbreaks

SAN FRANCISCO —United States navy physicians hold in their hands a new weapon—a weapon which they hope can overthrow any future outbreaks of influenza, which killed 21,000 0.0 throughout the world at the close of the First Great War.

The 1918 naval district headquarters reported that animal experiments of its laboratory research on influenza "are definitely promising" to warrant the expectation that application to human infection will be successful.

The new agent is an anti serum inhaled directly into the lungs in the form of a thick mist.

While it remains in the lung tissue it neutralizes any influenza virus developed by the patient and thus protects him against the disease, said Commander Albert Paul Krueger, director of the naval laboratory research unit which developed the process.

The report said the serum was 90 per cent effective for protection against influenza, and that in treatment of influenza already contracted, the anti toxin was about 50 per cent. effective.

LONDON.—Clement Attlee, deputy prime minister, indicated to the House of Commons that the Atlantic Charter would not prevent the United Nations from taking over permanently strategic strongholds of the Axis.

V. S. A. ALUMNI TO MEET AT LAKEVIEW, B. COOKING LAKE

The summer re-union of the members or the V.S.A. Alumni will be held at the Lakeview pavilion, South Cook Lake on Friday July 30. The program consists of softball, horseshoe tourney, swimming, boating, social supper, games and dance. Everyone is expected will be a business meeting.

It is expected that many ex-V.S.A. students will attend the function.

CUMMINGS FLASHES

A shower was held at Autumn Leaf school last week in honor of Miss Lois Arthur. She has been teaching there for some time and has resided in the district all of her life. She received many lovely useful gifts. A large number attended and a very fine time was enjoyed by all. The bride-elect left on Thursday for Vancouver where her marriage to Mr. Arthur Olson took place on July 17th. Good wishes are extended to them on their many happy years of married life. The sad Cross silver tea held at the home of Mrs. Alex Stone was a very successful. A large number were present and the articles offered for sale realized the sum of $26 including the $1 that was served for which a charge was made.

Miss Doreen Brush of Lumsden, Sask., is a guest at the home of her brother W. Brush and family. She expects to spend the summer in the district.

Miss Edith Wilson of Yorkton, Sask. spent two days leave with her mother Mrs F Wilson and sister Mrs. W. Brush and family. Edith is fit and well and likes her new call ing very much but the old farm will always look good to her.

The sympathy of the district is extended to Mrs. Fred Arthur on the loss of her sister Mrs. Howard Arthur whose funeral was held at Lloydminster from Minnesota to be laid beside her husband who died a year ago. They are interred in the Ambersdale cemetery

Mrs. George Stone and son Alex were Edmonton visitors for a short time last week.

ALL ORGANIZED GROUPS SHOULD FORM POST-WAR RECONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

Calling on all organized groups within the Province to play a part in formulating a post-war reconstruction program, Hon. A. J. Hooke this week said that "We must be assured of a post war order in which all the people have economic security with individual freedom."

Mr. Hooke is a member of the Alberta Post-War Reconstruction Committee, and he heads a working committee which currently is framing a program of reference for the various sub-committees which were appointed at an organizational meeting in the Legislative Building on June 21.

The general committee is headed by Hon. N. W. Tanner, and other members include Premier E. C. Manning, Alfred Speakman, M.L.A., E. J. Martin, M.L.A., Mrs. C. R. Wood, M. L.A., Dr. Robert Newton, President of the University of Alberta, and Mr. H. E. Tanner, well-known spokesman for war veterans.

Many local problems can be solved only by local co-operation." declared Mr. Hooke. "For this reason it is needed every community and in every industrial, business and commercial enterprise, committees be set up for the purpose of studying and outlining post-war problems, and suggesting proposals for consideration by the general committee."

Information regarding post-war reconstruction activities in the provincial Government may be obtained by writing to the Secretary, Alberta Post-War Reconstruction Committee, Legislative Building, Edmonton.

All submissions should be addressed to the secretary, and requests by organizations for oral presentations in support of written submissions should go to the same office.

WILDBERRY WINKS

Owing to being very busy we were unable to send in any news last week.

The writer's cousin, Miss Frank Gidley and daughter Donna of Vancouver visited the writer and family last week for three short days. At least they seem short when you have not seen them for quite awhile She left here to visit her dad Mr John Graham and sister Mrs Carlson at Lawson Creek B.C. before returning to the Coast. Her sister had a baby daughter on July 5th, fifteen years after the last of her four boys were born. Mrs. O'Malley said that it had been very cool and rainy at the Coast all spring.

Mrs. H. Martin, Triangle, was a city visitor for a few days. She had to take her daughter Peggy who hurt her shoulder by falling off a horse sometime ago, up to the University hospital to get it attended to. We all wish her a complete recovery this time.

On Wednesday July 7th the B.W.B club met at the home of Mrs. John Wilson, all but two of the members being there with their visitors present. Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. York, Mrs. R. Smith and Yvonne Morse. It was a very pleasant meeting. A list of finished work was turned in and a lot of sewing and knitting was given out. A kitchen shop chest is to be started and the money from same to be used to purchase material to carry on. After the business part was finished Mrs. Wilson served a very tasty lunch and a good cup of tea which everyone did enjoy. Next meeting is to be at Mrs. Carlson's on Wednesday Aug. 4th.

Mrs. O'Malley, Donna, Mrs. Wallington and the Graham children visited for a short while at the George and Cliff Cruthers homes on Tuesday, July 13th.

We enjoyed a very pleasant visit from Mr. and Mrs. Alex Rushton of Vermilion not so very long ago It is the first time they have called at our home and we hope it won't be so long again. Mr. Rankin is our school division trustee so he visited our school and Triangle while here.

Billie Smith finally finished up his threshing run of the 1942 crop. Mr Barnhart had to burn his barley as it was too musty and wet to thresh

On Sunday morning the Rev. Mr. Le Vere held church at our school. Two years ago he was our student minister and he is now stationed at a church in Saskatchewan. We were pleased to see him once more and thank him for the splendid sermon he preached. We hope he will come again to pay us a visit at some future time. A good crowd turned out to hear him.

GETTING and keeping help may be a worry, Mr. Farmer, but replacing broken-down farm machinery is a more serious problem.

So, care for what you have by ... ...ut you can in lubrication. For proper lubrication you keep it operating efficiently for a much longer time.

McColl-Frontenac farm lubricants will help protect every piece of equipment on your farm. Call on the McColl-Frontenac Representative in your district, without delay.

RED INDIAN MOTOR OIL and RED INDIAN AVIATION MOTOR OIL

More are two great oils that will lengthen the life of any engine. They ensure full power and economy under all operating conditions. These four oils combat acid corrosion, friction, waste and wear. They stand up under highest engine heat . . . they flow and lubricate the moment the engine starts.

TEXACO MARFAK
For Wheel Bearings and Other Friction Points

This famous lubricant lasts longer and lubricates better under the toughest working conditions. It is self-sealing and keeps the working lubricant in where it is needed most, prolonging life of bearings and universal joints by keeping out rain, mud and dust.

URSA X^OO (CANADA)
The Perfect Motor Oil for Diesel and Heavy-Duty Gasoline Engines.

Highly resistant to the formation of gum, sludge and carbon, Ursa X^OO (Canada) keeps ring grooves, valves, screens and filters clean. Provides maximum bearing protection. Ensures full power and lower fuel consumption.

Fourth Compulsory Employment Transfer Order

A Direction to Specified Employers and Employees

This Order applies to any person who is male, 16, 17 or 18 years of age, and who is working at any one of the employments specified in the order. It is also directed to the present employers of those young persons.

A. Objective:

The Order provides for the transfer of the young men affected, to work which is of more importance to Canada's war effort. Transfers will be made after taking into account the health and domestic circumstances of these young men.

B. YOUNG MEN WHO ARE AFFECTED:

Every young man who is by any one of the employments specified, who has reached his 16th birthday but has not reached his 19th birthday, is covered by the Order.

C. EMPLOYMENTS SPECIFIED IN THE ORDER:

The Order applies to the following employments (whether carried on for hire or reward or not) and whether carried on for profit or not:

(1) Any occupation in or connection with the following: (a) Timber cutting; (b) Lumbering; (c) Shelling of logs for pulpwood; (d) Sawing, shaping and preparing lumber, pulpwood, shingles; (e) Construction, including any work that has contributed to durables, fuel, agriculture, pasture pioneering, clubs, hunting alleys, pool rooms; (c) operation of ice cream parlours and soda fountains; (f) manufacture of feathers, plumes and artificial flowers, chewing gum, wine, lace goods, greeting cards, jewelry; (g) retail shavers; (h) factory production of cosmetics and set goods; (i) retail and wholesale furriers; (j) retail sale of confectionery, candy, tobaccos, books, stationery, news; (k) retail sale of motor vehicles or accessories; (l) retail sale of operating goods or musical instruments; (m) service stations (gasoline-filling stations); (n) taverns, liquor, wine and beer stores.

(2) Bus boy; chairman and cleaner; station farrier; dancing teacher; dish washer; domestic servant; doorman and starter; elevator operator; grocer helper; grounds keeper; hotel bell boy; porter (other than in railway train service); private chauffeur; taxi driver.

D. How the Order affects Young Men still attending School:

Young men in the age groups mentioned, now employed, will not be interfered with insofar as returning to school at the opening of the school terms in the Autumn is concerned; but young men in the age classes covered, who are now working during their summer vacation, must comply with this Compulsory Order.

E. Procedure to be followed:

All men so affected above must report to an Employment and Selective Service Office not later than July 24th, 1943. Men resident outside a city or town having an Employment and Selective Service Office, who are too far removed to call personally at such an Office, may write to the nearest office in the first instance, and await further directions.

F. Appeals:

If directed to transfer to employment subsequent to interview, a man may, if he objects, enter appeal with a Court of Referees, within 7 days of receiving such direction.

G. Penalties:

Penalties are provided for employers who retain, or take into their employ, after July 24th, 1943, any man covered by the Order except under special permit. Penalties are provided for failure of an employee covered by the Order, to register or follow a subsequent direction to employment.

H. Authority:

This Order is issued under authority conferred on the Minister of Labour by National Selective Service Civilian Regulation (P.C. 246 of January 19th, 1942, and amending Orders in Council).

Employers or employees uncertain of the application of this Order in a particular case are advised to communicate immediately with their Employment and Selective Service Office.

Attention is directed to the fact that the Third Compulsory Order, which contains a list of occupations differed from the above, also requires certain young men 16, 17 and 18 years of age to report to National Selective Service.

Alexandra C. C. F. Convention Held At Kitscoty

An Alexandra Constituency C. C. F. convention was held in Kitscoty on Thursday, July 15th.

By reason of the fact that the convention had been called on a short notice the members present decided to elect a provisional executive, not necessarily from among those present but rather one from among supporters in different sections of the constituency whether present or unavoidably absent. It was also decided to leave the appointment of officers until the whole executive could meet in the near future.

Messrs. Ainlay and Spencer, Provincial President and Vice-President were present and addressed a public meeting in the evening.

Mr. Spencer devoted his remarks to matters of health and education, two important social requirements which are already, in accordance with C.C.F. policy, controlled by society, individual enterprise has shown no ambition to develop, for the purpose of profit, these two social requirements.

Mr. Spencer quoted from a recent medical profession is at present overworked in its efforts to combat and control disease and he advocated the development of a public health system whereby attention could be paid to the maintenance of health rather than the treatment of sickness and disease, thus eliminating to a large extent the suffering that by reason of lack of attention, now exists.

In the matter of education Mr. Spencer felt that society should only be satisfied, educationally, when the right of equal opportunity from the primary school right through to the university has been accorded by law to every Canadian child.

These two ideas of social responsibility, in the fullest measure, by society for society to society, are fundamentally C.C.F. ideals.

Mr. Ainlay in a very able address pointed out the necessity of the extension of social ownership into the other and wider fields of social requirements.

He felt he could not agree with a common sloane of the day that "All that is necessary is Victory". His presented evidence that monopolistic and capitalistic interests, who claim to believe in individual and private ownership, are working night and day to see that the old order of individual exploitation by individuals of individuals which existed before the war, and which was the cause of so much suffering to so many individuals, would be re-instated as soon as hostilities ceased.

Mr Ainlay emphasized the importance of political and economic organization. He could see there was no difference between the two. The human body has two arms and with out a brain to direct the body is crippled. Political action and economic reform are the two arms of the social body, both are necessary if human progress is to be achieved

In question time Mr. Ainlay admitted the difficulties confronting the agriculturists in the matter of organization. They are unable he said to utilize the privilege to strike against unfair treatment by those who control them. Their only hope said Mr. Ainlay, is by political action to elect persons to administer the affairs of the nation in such a way that they will obtain their requirements

The Alexandra Provisional Provincial C.C.F. executive consists of the following subject to their acceptance of the responsibility: R. E. Stanley, (Chandonald) Graham Skinner, Bellevue; O. Vinge, Norway Valley, Wm. Hanson, Lea Park; W. Harry Gordon, Islay; Chris Cairns, Kitscoty; H. Walters, Tolland; H. Johansson, Earlie; H. Mitchell, Blackfoot South. J. F. Miller, Dickshoot North; L.V. Nicholson, Rivercourse; Elmer Clay, Paradise Valley.

Those are requested to meet at Kitscoty on the evening of the 11th of August for the election of officers and for the organization of C.C.F. affairs in the Provincial riding of Alexandra.

RATION BOOK 3 TO BE ISSUED IN AUGUST

EDMONTON — New ration books will be issued in Canada August 25, 26, 27 and 28, according to information received by C. G. McKee, regional superintendent of rationing.

Any community may operate any or all of these days, and if conditions warrant may distribute books before or after these dates, providing they assume responsibility of advertising their own dates locally. Ottawa officials have notified the Alberta superintendent.

Local Ration Boards have been increased from 37 to 83, thus greatly facilitating the distribution of books throughout the province". Mr. McKee states.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

(Written for last week)

Crops are growing rapidly with ideal weather conditions. July has not brought quite as much rain as June did. Weeds are three feet high in many places as it was too wet to get onto the fields to summerfallow until last week

Mr. Ferguson and family motored to Wainwright on July 1st. Mrs. Ferguson returned with them. Howard remained there to visit relatives

Miss Opal Wood has been holiday ing at her sister's, Mrs. A. Tovell's.

Miss Alma Hutchinson spent her holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Hutchinson.

Mr. Hughes, who spent a couple of weeks here, returned to Edmonton last week.

Miss Castel left by bus on the night of June 30th for her home north of Lloydminster. She treated the school children to the show that evening and to ice cream. School closed at noon that day and the janitress presented Miss Castel with a scarf and pin as a token of their esteem.

A new item we were sorry we missed was that Mr. and Mrs. Bert Davies and family were recent visitors at Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davies, the former's par ents.

Miss Margaret Mcclanchie spent the week end at Mr. and Mrs. Harry Good's.

Mr. W. J. Fooks of Arme Mrs. is visiting at Jim Thompson's. He ar rived by train on the morning of Wednesday 7th.

Miss Joan Axford is holidaying at Ushaletston's for a few days.

Arthur Axford and Hughie Chaldleston were visitors to Wainwright on Friday July 9th Arthur has purchased a Chev sedan and went to bring it home that day.

The United church picnic was held last Wednesday on the grounds on which it was held last year. During the afternoon races were held for all ages. Basket supper was enjoyed after which the young people played softball. All children under 12 years of age were treated to ice cream. Mrs. McKee and Mrs. James Tovell made the ice cream for the Ushaletston's contribution. The boys' camp opens on Wednesday 14th at Campbell Lake. Mrs. W. J. Fooks is camp matron there during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Chaske of Edmonton are visiting the latter's mother and sister, Mrs. Barnwell and Lena at George Neutman's. They arrived by car on Saturday and plan to spend a week here.

Lloyd Ushaletston is working at Pat Cumming's. Nick Shpyrko is also working there.

ANNUAL MEETING ALBERTA FEDERATION AGRICULTURE

CALGARY, July 12.—Study of labor supplies and farm commodity prices, agriculture's two most pressing problems, will form the basis of the annual meeting of delegates representing the 82 member organizations of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture in Lethbridge, July 22 and 23.

Donald Gordon, Chairman, War time Prices and Trade Board, Ottawa, and an official of National Selective Service will be in attendance. In addition to delegates, several hundred farmers from various parts of the province are expected to attend

Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor, stated that only about 10% of the postponement for military service asked for by farmers has been refused.

Lubricating oil does not wear out; it becomes contaminated with dust, grit, carbon and waste which makes it no longer suitable for engine lubrication. The oil must be drained to remove this contamination, before further use.

QUANTITY OF MONEY and volume of credit are matters of high national monetary policy.

Canada's Chartered Banks exist to perform two main services:

1. They receive the savings and other funds of the public, who thus build up bank balances in the form of savings and current accounts.

2. They advance short term loans to persons or enterprises needing money and able to repay within a stated period.

Along with these main functions the banks, through more than 5,000 branches and sub-agencies, render a large number of other important services related to local and national needs — services which have greatly increased as a result of the war.

But the quantity of money in existence in the country at any given time, and the volume of credit, are matters of high national monetary policy. The nation's own central bank, the Bank of Canada, determines them. The Bank of Canada makes extensive use of the Chartered Banks' facilities in giving effect to these policies.

The Chartered Banks' responsibility, clearly established and regulated by the Bank Act, is in the realm of commercial banking—that is, to receive deposits and to serve the needs of trade and industry.

SOLDIER of the SOIL

THIS year the Canadian Farmer urgently needs help. He needs your help to produce the food so necessary for victory. Many thousands of farm workers are serving in the Forces, so that the former "Soldier of the Soil" is shorthanded, but determined as he is, he is called upon to produce more food than ever before. Food is one of the most powerful weapons of war. Grains, bacon, dairy products, eggs, beef, fruit, vegetables—FOOD is food our enemies, our allies and our people we must have.

WHAT CAN YOU DO?

You may be a school teacher, student, business or professional man, an office or store clerk—no matter what you are, if you have a few hours, days, weeks, or months of free time this summer, you can do much to help yourself and the farmer a great and patriotic service by helping out on the farm. You may be inexperienced, but you still can help. You will find work on the farm healthy and congenial. It will give you the satisfaction of feeling that you have brought Victory nearer.

What you should do NOW!

Consult any special local committee or office established to deal with farm labour placement in your city or town; or

Write the Director of Farm Service and Farm Labour Program at the Capital of your province; or

Get in touch with your nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Interesting News Gleaned From the Files of the Vermilion Standard

1927

July 21, 1927

Tenders are being called for the erection of a one-roomed frame school at Woodvale.

The outside work in connection with the big arena rink has been completed and painting finished.

Vermilion and district won 6th place in the district's exhibit at the Edmonton exhibition. Vermilion was the winner of this case the year previous.

The first regular train over the C.P.R.'s new line, Lloydminster to Clandonald arrived in the latter place on July 19th.

Thirty-two Years Ago Today

July 19th, 1911

Rev. J. H. Dell, Mrs. Dell and family arrived in Vermilion this week from Sutton, P.Q., to settle on Sec. 5-51-7.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McClinton left on Saturday for their new home in North Battleford.

At a special meeting of the town council the full report of Bowring and Lucas, electrical engineers of Toronto, was considered in detail. The decision was unanimously in favor of a steam plant and by-law No. 51 to raise the necessary sum of $18,000 by debenture was read three times and passed.

Olaf Arneson has a 240 acre field of wheat averaging a height of 62 inches clear of the roots.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

Quite a number of the ladies met at the home of Mrs. Riddale on Wednesday and another quilt was finished. The next place of meeting will be Mrs. Deford's on July 28th.

Fahn, it must be a queer feeling to be driving down the road in your car and suddenly see a wheel run about 2 of you and realize that only place it could have come from was off your own car. Well, say Barney—he enjoyed (?) this experience recently.

Mrs. Perkins expects to visit her husband at Chilliwack in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Carroll and Mrs. Carroll Sr., were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison.

Mrs. Conrad and daughter Edith visited over the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Sherwood.

Shirley and Maxine Monaghan are visiting this week with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Deford.

We are pleased to see Grandma Till among us again.

Tom Preston is now driving a coupe.

TURKEY HILL TID-BITS

(Crowded out last week)

The welcome sympathy of Turkey Hill district is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Gunson and family in their recent sudden and tragic sorrow. It is hard to think with any hope at the threshold of young manhood, but those who are left many rest assured in the future without suffering to a perfect peace, which is something we who are left cannot enjoy in this world.

A letter recently received from Mrs. Hey Eastland (nee Barbara Young) from Penticton states that the canning factory is once again in full swing even though they are working short-handed. Barbara has this year been promoted to supervisor. Good work Barbara!

Laurine Davis left last week for the Pacific coast where she expects to spend the season picking fruit. After the season (if she lasts that long) she plans on spending a few weeks sight-seeing with an aunt Mrs. Kate Whacher on the island. We wonder how the prairie girls will like berry picking. No doubt their board bill will be small and their tummy aches large for the first week or two. However we feel sure, even though they have to work hard among the thorns of raspberries, loganberries and black-berries (yes, the blacks have thorns, and how!) that they will greatly enjoy their summer and have many pleasant memories of scenery and entertainment, for the more seem, side is soon forgotten.

Mrs. Hadley of town is visiting with her daughter for a while.

Mr. Jones was in our district a few days ago. It was a more pleasant visit than one of his visits last spring when he was knocked out by a kick from one of his horses.

As we write these notes the news of the invasion of Sicily is uppermost in our minds as it is bound to be uppermost in the minds of all who have sons, husbands brothers and friends overseas. We all feel our boys may be there which is bound to be true of many. We must all feel that after all this is what they went over for and we have all known it was bound to come sooner or later and the sooner it comes the faster it will be all over and our boys home again. Some no doubt will not return but most of them will with a wealth of experience. We must all have patience, courage and faith that our prayers for their continued success and safety will be answered. The time our boys are away seems to drag on long now, but when it is all over and they are home again a few years out of a lifetime will seem pretty short. Good luck boys, and do it at home I say, over age, hope and faith.

Letters received recently from Cliff and Gordon and Biffy Mahon advise that England is a very beautiful place, but does not fill the bill on Alberta and home does. Both long to be back in Alberta. May your wish soon be a reality boys.

VERMILION WELLS ARE 'NOT COMPETITIVE'

OTTAWA. — Transport Minister Michaud told the Commons Friday night the operations of Canada Oils Ltd., a subsidiary of Canadian National Railways set up to obtain oil from the Vermilion field, would not compete with the private oil industry.

He was questioned on an item of $600,000 in the transport department war appropriations to assist the Canadian National in this development.

The sum is repayable loan, he said, and the project was designed to develop new wells in a proven field to ensure a supply for oil-burning locomotives in the western Canada region.

Manly Edward (Lib., Calgary West) told the house the oil at Vermilion was easily accessible and was a low grade crude which need not even be refined before being used in locomotives.

Health League of Canada presents Topics of Vital Interest

DROWNING ACCIDENTS

Many persons apparently dead as result of drowning can be revived by artificial respiration, even after immersion in water for periods of up to one-half hour the Health League of Canada reiterates as reports of water accidents come in from all parts of Canada

Drowning accidents take hundreds of lives in Canada every year and many could be saved by prolonged artificial respiration. There are numerous instances on record where persistence has reclaimed accident victims, who to all appearances were beyond aid, the league says. Artificial respiration by the Schaefer method should be continued as long as six hours or even longer, or until the victim's body attains its figure mortis. This applies not only in cases of electric shock and poisoning with gas fumes but also in drowning accidents.

The artificial respiration should be started as soon as the victim is recovered from the water and continued without interruption at the scene of the accident until the victim has been restored or until the rescuers are positive life is extinct. There have been instances where people have been revived even after they were pronounced dead. First signs of life are frequently not observed for a long time. In a case of electrical shock in Windsor, Ont., artificial respiration was kept up for eight hours before there was any sign of life.

In drowning accidents it is essential to keep the body warm by means of blankets and hot water bottles. In the Schaefer method the accident victim is placed prone on his stomach, with the head turned to the right side. The rescuer kneels astride the body and applies pressure rhythmically to the back in the region of the lungs.

In a considerable number of cases victims of the lungers prevents air getting through to the lungs, making artificial respiration efforts not only useless but actually harmful. Rescuers should make sure that air is getting through to the lungs. The tongue should be drawn and kept clear of a tongue forcep, if available.

Instruction in resuscitation methods should be given more generally, the Health League states. It warns against people, even strong swimmers bathing alone.

TROOP CARRIERS

Preparations for the moving of troops in North Africa involved alteration to over 300 ordinary merchant ships for use as troop carriers, floating workshops, etc., all of which was completed in a short time and in the utmost secrecy.

PAPER FROM SALVAGE

In the year that war broke out Britain imported more than 1,300,000 tons of paper-making materials but day her imports are negligible and paper is being made from salvaged paper and sometimes from cotton rags.

By the middle of November 1942, Britain had sent to Russia equipment for 30 armored divisions on the German scale.

SHEEP NEED SALT

Salt is necessary for sheep all the year round. Ranchers indicate that they each eat about one-quarter oz. salt per day, if they can get it. They must obtain enough salt when it is supplied in block form. All stock salt should contain iodine. If iodine salt is not procurable, potassium iodide should be added.

FISH FOR FISHES

New Zealand jokers had their chance when it was announced that trailer shortage made it necessary for dairymen in the Marsetu district to send their cans filled with milk to the creamery in the morning and have them returned filled with water at night.

How The Baby Has Grown

Just 25 years ago, when air mail began in Canada with a flight made by Capt. Brian Peck, between Montreal and Toronto, the total was 124 letters. Today, Trans-Canada Air Lines carries nearly half a million letters in one day. In five years, T.C.A. planes carried more than five and a half million pounds of mail, which, at the 3-cents estimate of fifty letters to the pound, works out to more than 275,000,000 letters. Women do much of the cargo handling, replacing men on active service.

Should Not Complain

City Of Essen Deserves Bombing It Has Been Said

Essen has the distinction of being the most bombed city in the world. There is something more than poetic justice in this circumstance. If there is any truth in the aphorism that he who lives by the sword shall perish by the sword, Essen has a lot of bombing coming to it yet. There is no city in the world which has devoted itself to war and destruction as Essen has done. As the home of the Krupp armament works it has been the very centre of Germany's preparations for aggression against her neighbors, both in this war and in the previous one. The city which has devoted itself so wholeheartedly to the worship of Mars for generations has no cause to complain if those who have made it their aim to drive Mars from the earth concentrate upon the city's destruction.—Vancouver Province.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JULY 26

BIBLE TEACHINGS ON THE THRIFT IN GIVING

Golden text: Know ye not that the righteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? I Corinthians 6:9.

Lesson: Deuteronomy 21:18-21; Proverbs 23:20, 21; I Corinthians 6:9-11.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 37: 1-11.

Explanations and Comments

The Punishment to Be Meted Out To the Incorrigible Child, Deuteronomy 21:18-21. A man whose son is disobedient and rebellious and disobedient, whom no chastening will afford, shall be brought by his parents to the elders of the city at the place of judgment, and give them as stubborn, rebellious, disobedient, a glutton and a drunkard. Their formal word of accusation is sufficient, no other witness was required, but the parents must be agreed. Thereupon the elders shall stone him to death. "The state is regarded as having an interest in the proper upbringing of children, and as exercising its authority when that of the parents is powerless." So shall the evil be put away, and all Israel shall hear and fear. There is no imitation on record of this penalty having been carried out.

The Unrighteous Shall Not Inherit the Kingdom of God, I Corinthians 6:9-11. At Corinth, the wealthy capital of the Roman Province of Achaia, of Greece, Paul had labored for 18 months, preaching first to the Jews and then to the Gentiles. Seven years later, while at Ephesus on his third missionary journey, he wrote to the church he had founded this letter which we call First Corinthians. The unrighteous shall have no part in the present privileges and future blessings of the kingdom of God; he told them in our excerpt from the sixth chapter of that letter. "The Kingdom of God is a spiritual kingdom, (Jn. 18:36); its blessings and privileges are spiritual; hence one could such unspiritual men as those enumerated, whose conduct tends to harden the heart and dull the spiritual insight, have any part in it?" (Dunsdower).

Such evil-doers were some of you, Paul added to his friends, but you submitted to baptizing, you were set apart for God's service, and were accepted as righteous through the influence of the Holy Spirit and the working of the Holy Spirit. Reformation is possible.

STEEL HELMET

Col. Malcolm C. Grow, chief surgeon of the United States army 8th Air Force, has added a steel helmet to the "Sak vest" he devised for the protection of Allied fliers. U.S. army headquarters disclosed in Britain is announcing that he has been awarded the Order of the Legion of Merit.

Nine Jap Power Barges Were Salvaged By Australian Engineers

Nine Japanese power barges sunk at Milne Bay, Papua, have been salvaged by Australian engineers. Each weighs 25 tons and is worth £15,000.

The barges were sunk by air strafing or demolition charges 50 yards off the beach in 20 to 75 feet of water.

A diver fastened steel cables to their sides and they were raised off the sea bed with a pile-driver used in reverse. The lines were then tightened until each barge hung in a cradle under water suspended between two pontoons.

Then the pontoons were towed half a mile to sheltered water and worked inshore. Then an army truck was anchored between two coconut palms and the power winch heaved the prizes on to the beach.

The engines were reconditioned and the barges again sail the blue island waters, but in the opposite direction.—Australian Press Union.

Guarding The Coast

Danger Of An Attack On West Coast Is Reduced

Airdromes and other air travel facilities now established in British Columbia will play an important factor in the Pacific conflict, Air Vice-Marshal L. F. Stevenson, air officer commanding, western air command, told the New Westminster Board of Trade.

"There was a time in the past when the Japs could have raised hell, but the danger of attack has certainly diminished," he said in an address. He said an attack by a fast-raiding force was possible but not probable.

Air Vice-Marshal Stevenson said that when peace came airdromes established on the west coast might be utilized as terminals for civilian air routes.

Pattern For Disaster

BY J. B. RYAN

CHAPTER XII.

THE elevator, built for power instead of speed, moved slowly from floor to floor. When Morgan reached the fourth floor, Morgan fingered the knocker here before pressing Rodin Roelts to leave the elevator. "Use this key, and do not delay. It will open Guillermo's door, and we want to get into his room before he suspects who we are and has time to give any warning."

The girl nodded and stepped from the elevator.

Still gripping the bound and gagged Rojas Morgan followed Roelts the short distance to Guillermo's door. The suprise of the musician was complete. Sealed in a comfortable chair near the lamp, he did not look up from his book until Roelts was closing the door, and by that time Chris Morgan was well within the room.

"Don't move, Senor Guillermo, and be quiet," said Morgan, kneeling his pistol at the man in the chair.

The musician sank back confidently into his chair. "You appear unduly excited, Morgan," he commented coldly. "May I ask why you have invaded my room in this high-handed manner?"

Morgan led Captain Rojas to a chair and bade his prisoner be seated. Morgan's eyes, by this time, had noted that Don Felix's quarters were in the condition he had hoped for. The lampshade, the desk, the racked violin—the furnishings had been unchanged since his previous visit.

"You HAVE come to take your leave, Don Felix," said the American. "You have made it too hot for me in Argentina, and I've got to skip out. But before I go, I intend to smash this little spy ring of yours."

"Yes?" Guillermo's composure remained unruffled. "What proof have you, Morgan, that I have indulged in the activities you mention?"

"I have no proof that I know, and you know that I know. I am a desperate man, Guillermo. If I get rid of you I will have accomplished my mission—smashed this pattern for disaster which you have laid out. The senorita and I came here to make you a promise. Unfortunately, Captain Rojas ran into us and we had to bring him along. Rodolfo Velasquez and Tio Pancho have gone for an automobile. They will be here in about half an hour and then you are going for a little ride."

Guillermo folded his hands in his lap. "Even if I am forced to leave Senor Morgan?" he asked.

"Unless you admit the things I know you have done," Morgan replied, "I shall have to get rid of both you and Captain Rojas."

"I have nothing to confess," said Guillermo.

Would the bluff work? Had Morgan guessed wrong? In the silence that descended on the room, Guillermo remained relaxed in his chair for such a length of time that Morgan began to fear that the latter observed musician would not react to the threat of death as Morgan had anticipated.

Finally Don Felix stirred his long legs and sighed. "This waiting becomes tiresome, senor," he explained. "Must we all have the mourners at a funeral? I—if you were not here I would be playing on my beloved violin. It would relieve the monotony, senor. And Captain Rojas—he likes music."

"Very well," Morgan yielded. Go ahead and play."

Guillermo stepped to the wall and lifted the violin from its support. He faced the room, leaned against an edge of the desk and rested the bow of the instrument against his shoulder.

"What would you like to hear, Senor Morgan?"

"How about Rumorreque " suggested Morgan. "Since things are going my way that would just about fit in with my mood."

THE bow ran lightly over the strings. Don Felix paused, and his slim hand shifted down the neck of the violin to the tuning pegs. "One moment, senor," he apologized, while I adjust the strings."

Morgan nodded.

Don Felix turned a peg, played a chord experimentally, shook his head, and adjusted the strings once more. To Morgan, the violin sounded all right, but Guillermo continued to frown and moved his fingers from peg to peg.

Then the musician's face brightened. "I have it, at last! Now I shall play for you, Senor Morgan, something you will never forget!"

The poised bow dipped gracefully, producing the opening strains of Rumorreque, a gay, lilting music filled the room. There was no doubt that Felix Guillermo was a master of his craft. A pity, Morgan thought, that such talent should be in the hands of one so unworthy.

Don Felix smiled with a flourish. "You like it, Morgan?" he smiled. "Shall I play something else for you?"

"No," said Morgan. "That will be enough."

Guillermo restored the violin to its support and returned to his chair. "The time must be half gone" he surmised. "Velasquez and Tio Pancho should be here soon."

"They have some difficulty locating a car," said Morgan. "If they are a bit late, Guillermo, do not fret."

A KNOCK on the door interrupted Guillermo. "Perhaps those are friends have arrived, senor. Shall I admit them?" His raised his voice toward the door. "Morgan has a gun!"

The door crashed open and men surged into the room—De Nova, the girl noted, and Rodolfo Velasquez all with guns in their hands. It was Velasquez, De Nova, who struck Morgan and tore the pistol from the American's grasp. Morgan did not resist, for he knew he was outnumbered. Roelts was taken in charge and the bound and gagged musician from Capt Rojas.

"Thank you, Senor De Nova," grunted Rojas. "You came just in time to save me from a man who must be demented."

"Wasn't his arrival strangely opportune, Rojas?" said Guillermo, unquired mildly. "Doesn't it strike you as odd, Don De Nova, that the one who once before pulled Guillermo's chestnuts out of the fire, should be the one to come to his rescue now?"

Don De Nova laughed. "I have heard loud voices in this room and reported to me—"

"Guillermo, you were not loud," countered Morgan. "And do you, Don De Nova, call Captain Rojas in such slight provocation? Rojas, Rodolfo informed De Nova of my presence in this room in the same breath that he told De Nova that Don Jose Diaz and shoot him if necessary."

Verde, his right cheek a mass of bruise and gauze, echoed Rojas as a daughter, but a little more uncertainly. "The man is mad, Rojas, as you say."

"Wait!" Rojas' eyes narrowed. "Can you prove this, Morgan?"

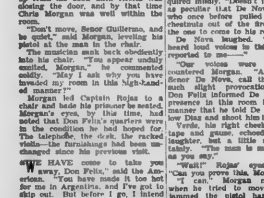
"I can," Morgan nodded. "But when he tried to move, De Nova jammed the pistol harder against Rojas' head. "Hand still, Morgan!" snapped the manager. "Captain, this man should be taken to jail before he attempts any more tricks."

But the police were in the majority in the room. Rojas stepped forward, passed the manager aside and disarmed him. "Do about this, gan," the captain said briefly. "Let's get to the bottom of this thing. This affair does not look right to me."

All eyes watched as Morgan approached Guillermo's violin. But instead of touching the instrument, Morgan caught the rack itself and, with a heavy tug scattered plaster over the floor, tore the entire structure from the wall. The violin fell, leaving Morgan holding the rack frame.

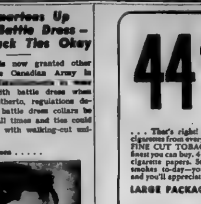
"Did you see, Captain?" said Morgan, touching a thin wire that ran from the rack into the broken plaster of the wall. "A dictaphone . . . which you will undoubtedly find in De Nova's office. The weight of the violin disconnected the circuit, but when the violin was lifted, anything said to this room would be recorded on the machine below . . ."

"I see," Rojas nodded. "But . . . this will prove only that Guillermo told De Nova you were here. After all, you threatened him, and he had the right to summon assistance. This



Army Smartens Up Men's Battle Dress — Black Ties Okay

Authority is now granted other ranks of the Canadian Army in Britain to wear ceremonial dress—a black tie with battle dress when off duty Hitherto, regulations demanded that battle dress collars be buttoned at all times and ties could only be worn with walking-out uniforms.



. . . with battle blouse.

Army authorities explained that the wearing of ties with battle dress permitted soldiers to adopt a more "dressed up" appearance without having to change into the walking-out uniforms. Soldiers coming off guard duty and others whose duties might on occasion curtail off-duty hours will now be able to slip off to dances or other social events without losing time to change clothes.

Walking-out uniforms still continue to be worn of course, and the new authorization was introduced for the benefit of men gee orally.

does not free you from the murder charges."

Morgan smiled. "Remember O Bole Mio, Captain, that Guillermo played for you? A code message preceded that also . . . instructions to De Nova to find the fingerprint man, and take whatever steps necessary to conceal the truth about Colonel Velasquez' death. O Sole Mio is a great favorite with De Nova and a great hurry when he heard it; he had no time to remove or cleanse the fingerprints. It is possible that O Sole Mio and Hunnerqvue are both on the cylinder for you to hear."

"Dear me!" With a hoarse shout, De Nova whirled and plunged toward the door. But Morgan, who had been watching the manager out of the corner of his eye, sprang and had hooked his foot about the ankle of the fleeing man, causing De Nova to tumble full length upon the floor. Two policemen pounced upon the sprawled manager and hauled him to his feet

"What was your hurry, De Nova?" inquired Morgan. "Did you want to smash that record before we had the proof that you were told to kill Diaz

"I—I—" the manager stammered, his face pallid. "Don Felix is as much to blame as I and he—he stabbed Colonel Velasquez!"

"Keep quiet you idiot!" snarled Guillermo But the damage had been done.

HALF an hour later, Chris Morgan found Roelts, Velasquez waiting in the hotel lobby for them. "It is all over," he announced. "Guillermo's whole setup has been exposed. It was De Nova who used Don Felix as a information to certain individuals who were willing to pay for it, and in some trifle De Nova thought that Velasquez was a spy. Using De Nova the dictaphone was used thus informing De Nova that a message awaited him in his soundproof office.

"And Fatehun and Verde have confessed, telling all they knew about Guillermo. Captain Rojas is at a phone now, ordering that Esteban and Pancho be freed immediately. Shall we go to meet them."

"We shall have to," Morgan agreed. "I can see Rojas' face narrowing. "Can you prove this, Morgan?"

"I can," Morgan nodded. "But when he tried to move, De Nova jammed the pistol harder against Rojas' head. "Hand still, Morgan!" snapped the manager. "Captain, this man should be taken to jail before he attempts any more tricks."

Permit Required

Farmers Cannot Slaughter Livestock Unless They Have A Certificate

From now on it will be illegal for a farmer to slaughter his own live stock for use on his farm unless he has a certificate from his local ration board.

Under meat rationing, a farmer is allowed to slaughter livestock for use on his own farm or for sale to other farmers who also must use it on their own farms. He must however, first have a farm slaughterer's registration certificate.

He can obtain this by notifying the local ration board in writing, giving his name and address.

FOR CHILDREN ENJOY SALVAGE FAT MATINEES

302 Pounds of Fat Collected

As a result of two Friday afternoon matinees run last week at the Columbia theatre, to which admission was 1½ pounds of fat, 302 pounds were collected for Canada's war effort. An even 200 tickets were turned in at the theatre indicating that the same number of children enjoyed the double feature program.

The Salvage committee of the Vermilion Board of Trade wish to publicly thank Mr. Pilkie for his kindness in donating the theatre and providing the pictures absolutely free, and also to thank the management of Dalley's Craig's and Davies' Meat markets for their co-operation in handling the fat.

FAMILY GATHERING AT THE HOME OF MR. AND MRS. H. W. BROWN

Coming from widely separated points in Canada, every member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brown gathered at the farm home north of town on Sunday, together with several friends. Sgt. "Scotty" Brown, R.C.A.F., came from Quebec on furlough and Miss Lorna Brown, also of the R.C.A.F. W.D., was home from Guelph on furlough. Ken Brown came all the way from Vancouver to be with the family, while, Clive, a son-in-law, arrived from Tofield for the day. Other members of the family who are at home are Corydon Brown and Mrs. Brown, Grace and Lucille. Five grandchildren were present, the latest spending the day at the brown home were George Sullivan and family and Archie Turner. Need, to say a great many snaps were taken and an extremely enjoyable day spent. Scotty and Lorna have returned to their posts, Ken to the Coast and Clive to Tofield.

CARLETON-HUGHES-CLAYS-MORE RED CROSS NOTES

The May meeting of this Auxiliary took place at the home of the President Mrs. Hart. Mrs. Hart greeted the ladies with a hearty welcome and voiced appreciation for the co-operation and that it was very encouraging to see so many ladies in attendance. A number of the Carleton ladies due to unfavorable weather and road conditions have been unable to attend the meetings during the winter months, but have been very industrious and have 14 quilts to their credit since January 1st. Besides as well as a number of knitted and sewn articles. Mrs. Sanborn and Mrs. Colpitts have finished several sweaters, scarves and pairs of seamen's socks as well as a number of other articles. Mrs. Chas. Nelson made up and donated the material to be raffled for war charities, a very pretty silk quilt, wool filled; the top is in patch-work, done in crazy-work design. A committee composed of Mrs. McMillan (Claymore), Mrs. White (Carleton) and Mrs. McCormick (Hughes) was appointed and these ladies are in full charge of the project. Tickets are being sold on this quilt and the very lovely cushion donated by Mrs Kerman. One ticket entitles you to a chance on either the quilt or cushion. The draw will be made on the grandstand the last night of the Vermilion Fair, July 31. A draw will be made for the quilt and a second one for the cushion. Will all those having ticket books return the stubs and proceeds to any one of the above named committee before or on Saturday July 31.

The work convenor, Mrs. Manson Barr reported 3 sorts sewing, 4 knitted articles and 1 quilt handed in.

The representative to the Vermilion Red Cross reported on the March and April meetings held in the Legion Hall.

Donations of sewing requisite made by Mrs. Manson Barr and Mrs. Wm. Barr were acknowledged.

Number of ladies present 22, collection $5.

The June and July meetings met at the homes of Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Wm. Barr respectively with a good average attendance and a pleasing number of finished articles in hand for sewing and knitting.

It was decided to purchase through the Vermilion Red Cross, two fleeces of wool for quilting from Mrs. Van Wageningen, the Auxiliary to take care of the carding. Mrs. Wm. Barr very kindly volunteered to wash it.

A fine donation of $2 in the low-ing fund was acknowledged from Mrs. Britz.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Hay for making the ticket books for the War Charities project. Mrs. Hay's assistance to the Auxiliary from time to time has been much appreciated.

Collection June and July $5.00.

The next meeting will be held on

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

—when Our stock was complete, and we were offered to you at very low prices . . .

TODAY

—the demand exceeds the immediate supply but we are admiring soldier on the dance floor. "They" were Sgt. M. J. Bergy, of Kelowna, B.C., Pte. J. M. Rowan, of Battle Heights, Sask., Corporal L. Fry of Red Deer, Alta., and Lance-Corporals M. E. Savage, of Edmonton, I. K. Nelson, of Enderby, B.C., M.M. Lawrence, of Edmonton and A.B. Stverstson, of Powell River, B.C.

There were sandwiches and coffee and soft drinks at the canteen in charge of Mrs. J. I. McDonald of the W.W.C.A. War Service and there were games of ping-pong going on in the recreation.

At twelve o'clock the festivities came to a close but talking, laughing and the noise of departing cars echoed far, far into the night. The training centre's first birthday party was over.

REV. E. S. REIKIE INDUCTED AS MINISTER OF UNITED CHURCH

The Rev. E. S. Reikie was formally inducted as minister of the First United church at services held on Wednesday evening. The Rev. Mr. Bell of Islay was in charge of the ceremonies assisted by the Rev. E.C. MacLeod at Mannville and the Rev. C. E. Rogers of Lloydminster.

Also present and on the platform was the Ven. Archdeacon Loversedge, rector of St. Saviour's Anglican church, and the Rev. George Driver, newly appointed incumbent of the Kinsooty United church field.

The Rev. Mr. Reid gave the charge to Mr. Reikie while Mr Rogers inwarded the address to the congregation.

Mrs. A. M. West was organist.

The Rev. E. S. Reikie was appointed incumbent of the First United church in Vermilion following the resignation of Mr. Risher. He received his university and college education in Edmonton, graduating from the University of Alberta in 1938 and from St. Stephens Theological College in 1939. After ordination Mr. Reikie served the United church at Caldwell and the Coal branch very successfully. Two years ago he and Mrs. Reikie went to Kinsooty and carried on the work of the United church there.

A congregational reception was held in the United church parlors following the church services.

45 BEEKEEPERS ATTEND FIELD DAY HERE

Provincial Apiarist Gives Pointers

About 45 beekeepers from Vermilion, Clandonald Islay and Manaville, met at Sinclair's Apiary on Thursday, July 22nd.

Mr. W. G. LeMaistre, Provincial Apiarist, gave several good pointers on increasing the honey flow. The in-structor pointed out that the meeting kept Mr. LeMaistre answering questions for an hour or more.

The greatest problem this year seems to be the prevention of swarming. This is due probably to the cold, late spring, which prevented bees from gathering honey. The result is unsettled hives which produce queen cells, resulting in swarming. Mr. LeMaistre suggested the Demaree system of adding supers as a control measure.

Mr. LeMaistre also advised uniting weak hives, the prevention of honey flow and the wintering of strong colonies.

Publications on bees can be obtained from the office of the District Agriculturist, Vermilion.

VERMILION PEOPLE ARE NATURAL GAS CONSCIOUS

Consumers Number 276 and Increasing Weekly

Vermilion people have become gas conscious more quickly possibly than any other community served by this great convenience. It is not quite two years since the first gas connection was made to the residence of Whitey Wilson. That number of users has grown to 276, with thirty more applications for connections on hand at the gas company offices. There is no argument in the minds of Vermilion people when it is unanimous in declaring gas the great modern convenience.

49th Battalion (Loyal Edmonton Regiment) Association

The annual Church Parade of the 49th Battalion (Loyal Edmonton Regiment) Association will take place at Edmonton on Sunday, August 8th, 1943. The parade will "Fall in" on the market square at 9.45 a.m. and move off at 10.30 a.m. The service will be held at the Parliament Hill grounds as usual. Medals and reveres will be worn with brassards on the right arm. Motor cars will follow the parade both going and returning to pick up those who find the march too much for them. The 2nd (Reserve) Battalion has been invited to attend and a cordial invitation is extended to all ranks of the 1st Battalion (now in Sicily) who have been returned to Edmonton. Captain the Reverend E. T. Seraey, Chaplain to the Association will conduct the service.

The annual luncheon after the parade will not be held this year due to the impossibility of making suitable arrangements.

"Forty Niner" magazine will be mailed to members before the Parade

The brass and bugle bands of the 2nd Battalion will play for the parade.

Major General Griesbach will command the parade. 15-16

Exhibits At The Fair Greatly Increased

Many Prominent Exhibitors—Two Big Days Left — Don't Fail To See the Sea Lions' Act

Vermilion's 1943 fair promises to be exceptionally successful with an outstanding list of entries in the livestock classes. Reports with regard to the midway and grandstand attractions are glowing and district people are assured of a grand three day holiday at the Fair this year.

Prominent among the exhibits of heavy horses are Mrs. Lotis Cruickshanks of Wasses, Beak.; R. A. Allen, Lyalta, Alta.; John Brydon of Mannville; W. D. Williams & Sons of Vermilion, J. R. Allen, Wasses; J. W. Cruickshank, Maidstone, Beak.; W. R. Cornish, Mannville; Mungo Forbes of Vermilion, all of whom are well known breeders.

In the beef cattle classes the shorthorn breed predominates owing to the fact that the Provincial Shorthorn show is being held in conjunction with Vermilion Fair; W. L. Robinson of Vermilion, prominent Herefordian is to have plenty of competition from P. J. Rock of Burnsbuller, Gilbert Creech, Lloydminster; P. R. Byers, Clover Bar; W. R. Cornish & Son; A. C. Bell, Grenville, Morris, Alta.; Stanley Rock, Morris, W. D. Williams & Sons of Vermilion and C. H. Wilkinson, Clover Bar.

The Hereford classes are larger than for many years the exhibits coming from Homer Campbell, Clandonald; M. Hebuk, Vermilion; Mrs. J. Simard, Vermilion and is expected that the beef cattle judge Mr. Chas. Yule, President of the Calgary Exhibition will have three busy days in allocating awards.

The dairy cattle classes are featured by the exhibits of Wm Barr of Vermilion and Thos. Selph of Vegreville and will add much to the appearance of the show ring.

Light horses are being strongly featured by the Vermilion Fair board this year and while the list of en-

RESIGNATIONS AND APPOINTMENTS ON THE SCHOOL STAFF

Mr. Hay in Air Force — Miss M. Nugent Resigns

Mr. Gordon Hay, V. H. S. science teacher for three years, has resigned from that position and has enlisted in the R.C.A.F. He has already gone east to Lachine Que to take a six weeks' course. He will then take a post as instructor in mathematics with the air force.

Mr. Hay's position here has not yet been filled. His departure is generally regretted by teachers and townspeople alike.

Mrs. Hay will remain in Vermilion as she has been selected to fill the vacancy in the public school caused by the appointment of Miss Hazel Lawrence to the Edmonton teaching staff. Mrs. Hay taught the Hudson school west of town during the past school year and has a wealth of experience.

Miss May Nugent, grade 5 teacher has resigned and Miss Dorothy Osborne of Tofield has been appointed to fill her position. Miss Osborne is also teaching the Clandonald Village school for the past two years.

GAS HEAT AND NEW INTERIOR PAINT FOR ANGLICAN CHURCH

Fund Is Now Open

Following the decision of the parish towers of St Saviour's Anglican church, that it was desirable that the church and rectory be heated by gas, and that the interior of the church be redecorated, an appeal for the necessary finances, amounting to $480, was made. So satisfactory was the first response that orders have now been given to the various painting and heating contractors to proceed with the work.

Slightly over $200 of the $480 has already been subscribed without any further being made and it is hoped that the full amount will be raised in this manner. Donations may be made to the church wardens H. E. Butler, H. J. Bell, Tom Watts or the Rector. Donations are asked in amounts of $1, $2, $5, $10, $25 and $25—so give the amount you feel able to. The actual money is now needed and every Anglican in the town and district is expected to do his or her share

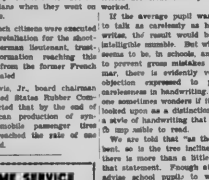
DEVELOP YOUR TALENT FOR FASHION DRAWING



Fashion Drawing

Is your ambition to be a fashion artist? Many girls and women have become interested in this, especially in more recent years, because of the increasing popularity of the professions.

The fashion artist's objective in most cases is to sell merchandise. You must learn, therefore, to present a piece of merchandise as attractively as possible so that many women will want it. An example of fashion art is pictured above.

You must idealize and dramatize the figure underneath a garment.

Of course it must be realized that it is not a profession that one can step right into without any ability whatsoever. You do need an observant eye, a good imagination, good taste, accuracy, a sense of proportion and balance plus a strong ambition to succeed.

You may not have excessive talent, but if you have a little you can develop it with work and patience. Our booklet helps the beginner, showing how to draw all sorts of fashion figures with diagrams clearly illustrating. The simple instructions are not at all difficult.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Fashion Drawing Made Easy" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 179 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

HAIR WETTER

In the 3rd African campaign, in 17 days (March 1-17, 1941) the columns under the command of General Cunningham drove an average of nearly 44 miles a day. This is the fastest military pursuit in history, and is approached only by the record of the Eighth Army in 1942-43.

ROOM FOR EVERYONE

The population of the earth is estimated at 2,000,000,000. That's a lot of people, and still there is plenty of room for everyone to enjoy a happy, prosperous and contented life. If all these people would only learn how to get along with each other without quarreling.

Poor Penmanship

Illegible Handwriting Seems To Be Both Modern Thing and Disease

The Huron Expositor, Seaforth, says: The teaching of penmanship in either public or secondary schools would appear to have become particularly conspicuous by its absence, if one is to judge by results produced by the average boy or girl, when they put pen to paper either by way of correspondence or examination papers.

Of course penmanship is not as important as it once was, but it is still important enough to be taught, and still more important that school pupils be able to convey their thoughts on paper as intelligently and legibly on examination papers as by oral means.

At least that is the opinion of a high school teacher of English, who after his patience and persuasive powers had become exhausted, issued the following ultimatum to his pupils:

"Put holes in your o's and o's and dot the i's somewhere near the right place: also make your n's different from your u's. Otherwise papers will not be accepted unless these five letters are treated fairly." And it worked.

If the average pupil was allowed to talk as carelessly as he or she writes, the result would be an unintelligible mumble. But while there seems to be, in schools, an attempt to prevent gross mistakes in grammar, there is evidently very little objection expressed to persistent carelessness in handwriting. In fact, one sometimes wonders if it was not looked upon as a distinction to have a style of handwriting that was next to impossible to read.

We are told that "as the twig is bent, so is the tree inclined." And there is more than a little truth in that statement. Enough at least to advise school pupils to wait until they are famous before they squash all their signatures down into a scratch or scrawl, because by that time they will have gained enough sense and experience to understand how utterly foolish it is.

TAKES OVER THEATRES

Berlin dispatches said Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels had taken over the operation of all German theatres from private operators because of dissatisfaction with the programs. The reports indicated he believed the programs were not attuned to the Nazi war effort.

Mobile Express Handler

"Waybill Coop", is the expressman's term for this mobile office designed for quick handling of small express packages at the Canadian National Central Station in Montreal. The compact, specially equipped office is moved wherever wanted to check weights and provide shipping labels. The waybill clerk shown in the photograph is Jack Perry, and the scaleman is Philippe Robitaille.

Worth The Effort

Salvaging Of Training Ship Gave Rescuers Thrill Of Week

A few years ago the naval training ship Caledonia, formerly the 58,800-ton Cunard White Star liner Majestic (and still earlier the German liner Bismarck), sank in the Firth of Forth after an outbreak of fire. She was in deep water, but she was needed for the war, so the British salvage section of Steel Control went to work. Captain C. G. Bonner, Q-ship V.C. of the last war, was officer in charge of the salvage. The operation was one of the most successful ever achieved. Eighteen hundred ports, as well as hull openings had to be sealed by divers before the ship was pumped dry. She came up at the first attempt. As a result, Britain gets 40,000 tons of steel from what was once the world's biggest ship.—Ottawa Citizen.

GOD REVEALS HIS PEOPLE

Golden text: Call upon me in the day of trouble: I will deliver thee, and thou shalt glorify me. Psalm 50:15.

Lesson: Exodus 3—12.

Devotional reading: Psalm 81:5-16.

Explanations and Comments

The Struggle with Pharaoh, Exodus 4:1-31. Read Exodus 4:18 ("where two weeks ago we left off our study of the making of a Nation") to 4:31. The oppressed Israelites heard the message brought to them by Moses and Aaron, believed that Jehovah had seen their affliction, and bowed their heads and worshiped. The next task awaiting these leaders was at the court of Pharaoh. When they went there and asked Pharaoh's permission for the Israelites to go into the wilderness and hold a feast unto Jehovah, Pharaoh answered, "I know not Jehovah, and moreover I will not let Israel go," and then he charged Moses and Aaron with having made the people slacken their labors. "He had now these men did not presently him with a request, but with a mandate from One of greater authority than himself. This stung him to the quick. He was no god. Who was this other God, stronger than himself, who dared to issue such a command?

The result of the interview with Pharaoh was that he ordered their Egyptian taskmasters and Hebrew officers to require the Hebrews to gather their own straw for their brick making (which had hitherto been furnished them) and to make the same number of bricks daily despite this added labor. It was an impossible task, and the Hebrew officers set over the people by the taskmasters were beaten for their failure to accomplish it.

These officers took the matter into their own hand and laid their case before Pharaoh, only to be told: "Ye are idle, ye are idle;—therefore ye say, Let us go and sacrifice to Jehovah. Go therefore now and work; for there shall no straw be given you, yet shall ye deliver the number of bricks." On their return from this heartaining errand they met Moses and Aaron and bitterly charged them with bringing about this increased affliction.

Moses in His Discouragement Turns to God, Exodus 5:22, 23. Moses' faith was severely tried. "He lay on the ground about 24 hours," writes Josephus, himself back to Midian, and thinking himself hardly used," and daringly he laid the blame for the increased affliction upon God. Why had God sent him hither; why had God given him ill will his people; why had God not delivered them from Egypt's power?

God Renews the Former Promises and Promises, Exodus 6:1-7.

A new crop to appear in Saskatchewan this year is Black Argentine rape, grown because of the fine marine oil that can be obtained from the seed. Five thousand pounds of rape seed is available this year, almost at 10 pounds per acre, it will result in approximately 500 acres of Black Argentine rape in Saskatchewan this year. Unlike [illegible] seed, rape seed has been placed in the hands of experienced seed growers in the province. It will be grown largely in northern sections, according to officials of the Department of Agriculture.

New Customers

Figures Show Why Merchants Should Never Be Asleep

"A new customer is born every 10.4 seconds. An old one dies every 21.6 seconds. Industry loses 1,660,000 old customers in a year and gains 3,030,000 new ones who know nothing of you or of your product."

That's what a top official of the War Production Board recently told fellow Americans, urging businessmen to place no dependence on the traditional way of doing business, of marketing, distributing and selling, urging them to seek for the new, to go on telling their story through advertising whether they had goods to sell or not.

For Canada his figures would be approximately these:

A new Canadian customer is born every three minutes. An old customer dies every five minutes. Canadian industry loses 118,000 customers a year and it gains 250,000 new ones "who know nothing of you or your product."—Financial Post.

8,000 CANADIAN SOLDIERS MARRIED IN ENGLAND

Creates Next-of-Kin Problem

Marriage of an unofficially estimated 8,000 Canadian soldiers overseas to English and Scottish girls has created a next-of-kin problem for the authorities at National Defence Headquarters in Ottawa. It means that they have changed the address of their next-of-kin from their Canadian paths to that of their British wives with addresses in the United Kingdom. Dependent's allowances to be forwarded in the new recipients in a treasury officer at Canadian Military Headquarters overseas.

If a soldier who has married since proceeding overseas becomes a casualty, his wife as immediate next-of-kin will be notified as a matter of routine, but Records now advise that the soldier's former next-of-kin, that is, his mother or father in Canada, will also be notified.

Casualty lists are issued only after confirmation has been received that next-of-kin have been officially notified. The Canadian home town of the casualty as usually shown on the list is assumed to be the same as the home town or his next-of-kin. If, however, his next-of-kin (wife) is in the United Kingdom, the Canadian next-of-kin and address will also be shown.

‡ WILDMERE WINKS ‡

Albert Howard, R.C.A.F., is home on sick leave. Albert spent several weeks ill in a hospital in eastern Canada before coming home. We all wish him the best of health from now on in his work for King and country.

Mrs. Sam York and baby daughter recently spent a couple of visiting with sister and family near Marwayne. Mr. and Mrs. Len Kenat then brought them home on an outing and took their own daughter Lorna back home with them. She had been visiting her grandpa, Mr. and Mrs. G. Gilbson at Basswood. Their sons Lloyd and Jimmie stayed to visit a while longer at the Gibson home.

Mr. O Gibson and son Howard spent a week in Winnipeg and our rounding district a short time ago.

Miss Margaret Gilbanne of Edmonton is down visiting in her old home district of Basswood for a few weeks. Her mother and sister Elsie of the C.W.A.C. are to come at some future date.

Miss Evelyn Howard has gone to Grande Prairie to see about her new position, grade 8 room in the town school, when school re-opens.

We wish to extend our own and the whole community's best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Ted Miller (nee Lottie Smith) of Thorneliffe. Ted is with the R.C.A.F. in eastern Canada and will return there when his furlough is over. We do not know if Mrs. Riley will accompany him back or not. The happy young couple were married on Saturday afternoon in Vermilion. Ted is a Wildmere born and raised boy so we wish he and Lottie a long happily married life and a safe landing to Ted who is a rear gunner in the R.C.A.F.

Sunday visitors at the writer's home were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gibson and Mary, Mrs. Gibson Sr., Mrs York and baby, Russell Kenyon, Harry Ames, R. Moffat and Bill Arthur, the latter four are from Auburndale.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas Menard and family, Triangle, spent Sunday at the Albert Smith home in Basswood and later in the evening called at Mrs. Adam Smiths' in Wildmere. Charlie was a city visitor last week too.

Adam Smith Jr. is a very busy young man trying to get the people's wheat quota out before the end of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Reade attended the Riley-Smith wedding in town Saturday.

A nice crowd attended church on Sunday morning. Mr. Reave gave the life's history of John Wesley and

FARM HELP WANTED

The agricultural industry provides the main livelihood for the people of Alberta. It is a great source of new wealth. The industrial life of the province exists on the productivity of the farms. That is the reason why everyone should be interested in the welfare of agriculture. When the farmers are prosperous everybody gets a better living.

The main concern of agriculture this season is to get the crop off as quickly as possible during the coming harvest. With farms depleted of labor because of the demands of armed forces and industry the supply of labor is exceedingly scarce. Organized help must be extended by the villages towns and cities in order to complete the forthcoming harvest in good time.

GOODWILL VISIT

(The following item is taken from an issue of the Australian Glen Innes School "Observer" printed in Edmonton.)

VERMILION. — On Saturday six Aussies arrived here on a goodwill visit and succeeded in establishing a strong friendship between Vermilion and Australia. The party, which was led by Corporal Hutchinson, consisted of Bulldog (On the Kourtle) Drummond, Blue Barnes, Splinter Marley and Bob Roberts.

Tasting a new fuel which averaged 10 miles per gallon, and mixed with many tins of red paint, the party arrived by Saturday morning's train. In response to the Mayor's words of welcome, Bob said, "Not a bad little spot, cobber!"

During their stay the Corporal demonstrated the Australian crawl, whilst Splinter Marley disproved the theory that when a body is full no more liquid can be forced in. The hardiness of Australians was also demonstrated by the Corporal who proved that lumber makes a perfect bed.

Evidences of increased activity in this town since the Aussies' arrival is found in a statement by a certain N. C. O. "Never have we been so busy."

A party of leading townspeople including the Mounties, Mayor, several husbands and the Rib Shake (with Bill), bade farewell to the party.

In a speech of thanks, the Corporal said: "My poor ma and no head." These sentiments were seconded by all the party.

A local cafe owner presented an engraved Melbourne cup to Bulldog as a token of esteem.

The goodwill of the townspeople was admirably expressed by the Mayor in an explicit telegram to this paper. It said: "Keep those . . . in Edmonton." For certain reasons several words have been censored. A further goodwill visit may be arranged shortly.

NEW C.W.A.C. CANTEEN IS A POPULAR SPOT

Located in the New Drill Hall

The most popular place at No. 2 Canadian Women's Army Corps Basic Training Centre, Vermilion, these days is the W.W.C.A. War Services Canteen in the large new drill hall which was officially opened last week.

The equally popular Mrs. J. L. McDonald ("Mrs. Mac" as she is known to the staff and trainees), who is in charge of the canteen was this reporter's unofficial escort and took her on a tour of inspection through the spick and span building.

In the canteen itself were Mrs. McDonald's assistants, Mrs. J. Lachance and Mrs. J. Stephen, both of Vermilion, and I couldn't help but be so enthusiastic as they of the enormous frigidaire, the ice cream "fridg", the soft drink cooler and the shiny new sinks. Lining the back were well-stocked shelves of everything from cleaning equipment for the girls' uniforms to the usual supply of fruit, candy and cookies which are forever in demand. Nicking on the wall was Mrs. Mac's little cuckoo clock.

TINY KITCHENETTE

At the rear of the canteen is a tiny kitchenette where Mrs. Mac and her helpers have their meals. Beyond is a stock room, a store-room, a private writing room for the staff and Mrs. McDonald's sunny bedroom and office—"the only rooms in the building with a real board floor—the rest are cement," Mrs. McDonald pointed out. The lounge where the canteen is situated, is furnished with comfortable chesterfield and chairs with small smoking tables, lamps and a large radio. Colorful homespun curtains hung on each side of the big windows and thick rugs cover the floor. In one corner were some musical instruments — "the training centre orchestra practice here in the evenings—" Mrs. McDonald replied to my query.

Through double screen doors we came to a small hallway lined with hooks for coats and caps and off this hall were doors leading to a bathroom for the girls; a recreation room with ping-pong tables and an assortment of games like shuffle-board and jig saw puzzles and a separate reading and writing room. "Visitors are received every day after five o'clock," Mrs. McDonald told me, "and on Saturdays and Sundays from 2 o'clock in the afternoon".

HUGE DRILL HALL

The drill hall itself is enormous. It is heated by a hot air unit . . . the rest of the building is heated by a separate water heating unit.

The large stage has a dressing room on each side and there is an order for $50 folding chairs and a backdrop, wings and curtain for the stage. Concerts will be held in the drill hall but it is not equipped for moving pictures which will continue to be shown in the residence building.

The girls love to come over here," Mrs. Mac said. "They feel at home" they are getting away from the barracks, even walking just a few hundred yards across the parade ground.

TO THE STUDENTS

Tofield Plans Big Help for Harvest

The Farm for Victory Committee at Tofield is planning to employ 60 city High school students during the stooking and threshing seasons this fall. A bursary will be provided in town. Three local teachers have volunteered to supervise the gangs and to look after their interests. In this way it is expected that Tofield district farmers will be able to employ students in much the same way as did farmers in the Edmonton district last fall when gangs of students gave valuable assistance in the harvest fields.

FARM LABOR SAVING DEVICES ARE FEATURED

Dominion Dept. Agriculture Display Excellent at Fair

Practical information of special interest to western farmers in connection with the war production of food for the United Nations will be a feature of the exhibit of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at the Vermilion Fair, July 29 to 31st.

The exhibit emphasizes the production of feeds, and as bacon and eggs are among the principal food products Canada is sending to Britain special illustrated panels will be shown depicting the objectives desired from the farmers in Western Canada during 1943.

Other large panels will display agricultural production and the marketing of agricultural products for the years 1939 to 1942, and Canada's objectives in 1943. How the 1943 objectives compare with the 1939 production and how they compare with the production of 1918 will also be shown. Figures are given on the marketing of hogs, cattle and sheep, together with those of the production of eggs, poultry, meat, and dairy products. Another section of the exhibit deals with the methods of use and conservation of fruit and vegetables.

A display which has proved popular with farmers in the past will again form part of the exhibit. This is a comprehensive collection of all kinds of labor-saving devices, including self-feeders for hogs, self-watering devices for hogs and poultry, feeding racks for sheep and hogs, models of various kinds of hay stackers, hay rake, low-slung wagon, and many other pieces of farm labor-saving equipment. Officers of the Dominion Department of Agriculture will be in attendance to answer questions and assist farmers in obtaining any particular information they desire.

Damages International Phone Line, Warner Farmer Fined

Shooting Incident Grave Offence

(Lethbridge Herald, July 12, 1943)

Shooting at telephone lines carrying international circuits associated with the war effort is a most serious offence and will not be considered lightly in future, Magistrate Arthur Beaumont, K.C., warned Privt. Neil son, in Royal Canadian Mounted Police court here Saturday morning as he fined the 24-year-old Warner farmer $25 and $4 costs or six months at hard labor for wilfully damaging telephone lines.

Nelson pleaded guilty to the offence.

In passing sentence, His Worship stated that if he felt that the accused did the damage deliberately and with full knowledge of what the results might be, he would not hesitate in imposing the maximum sentence of two years imprisonment. He warned him accused and others who might be similarly careless with their shots ing that severe penalties could be imposed for such offences in future.

Nelson, the court was told, disrupted international telephone circuits between Dawson Creek, B.C. and Washington when he shot at two insulators on a pole near his farm home and broke two main trunk wires they held.

For several years, Crown Prosecutor L. E. Fairbairn, K.C., told the court, telephone company officials have been reporting smashed insulators on the poles near Nelson's farm. On June 30 last, the two main trunk wires were found broken, severed by bullets, and putting the Dawson Creek Washington circuit out of commission. Consequently, the circuits could only be restored by re-routing through Seattle or Winnipeg at great expense to the Alberta Government Telephones.

Due to the nature of the messages carried by the circuit, explained Mr. Fairbairn, the disruption was obviously of grave importance. The offence could not be treated lightly.

HARVEST HELP FOR FARMERS

I have just returned from a long trip to the various provinces of Eastern Canada, looking, among other things, into the needs of Eastern farmers for prairie grains.

The late spring and the heavy rains delayed seedings in the Eastern provinces; indeed, considerable acreage has not been seeded at all. There will, therefore, be heavy demands this coming fall and winter for Western grains, particularly for oats and barley.

It would be a patriotic duty for the West to try to harvest every single acre sown to crop, in some way single bushel of grain. But labor is now very short both in the East and in the West. It would be of invaluable help to our farmers, and to the war effort of Canada and the United Nations, therefore, if the residents of towns, villages and hamlets in the prairie provinces would take some time off this coming harvest season and make their services available to our prairie farmers to help to gather in our crop. This most important coming crop. This would enable our Eastern farmers to produce more precious bacon and other food products that would be shipped to Britain and to the Armed Forces Overseas, which products are certainly badly needed for the coming important military operations.

It was agreed to support the local rationing committee to the extent of $5 per month. Other contributions are being made by the town of Vermilion and M.D.'s adjacent.

Refunds of taxes were ordered in the matter of those parcels which had acreage taken by the new highway.

Payments amounting to $232.90 were ordered paid and bills amounting to $486 were passed and Council adjourned.

RADIOGRAMS by Tom Allford

Just a few facts we thought you'd like to know about radio in general:

Advertising from CJCA on behalf of the 4th Victory Loan did not cost the Government or people of Canada a single penny. CJCA's time, and staff services, was either donated outright by the station or contributed by commercial sponsors. Nor was the staff reimbursed by the Government for overtime and expense involved in the campaign.

CJCA, like other community broadcasting stations in Canada, is entirely self-supporting, does NOT receive any part of your annual license fee. This goes directly to support of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, a network entity and Government monopoly. CJCA, in common with all Canadian community broadcasting stations, is supported only by advertising revenue. Advertising occupies 2% of the daily run, makes available to everyone what even the richest man cannot buy.

Early morning newscasts from CJCA at 7:30, 8, and 10 a.m. for your greater convenience—in addition to regular news periods at 12.30 noon; 1.30 p.m.; 5 p.m. and 10 p.m. With flashes on the hour every hour.

CJCA's special American network broadcasts are proving very popular with all our listeners. These shows are all top flight shows, bringing you 45-a best in radio entertainment. They are as varied as the preference of our listeners, featuring musical shows, variety, sports review, and the leading bands of the day. Be sure to listen to The Gay Nineties Review on Sunday 12:30-1, and Friday 4:30-5; Dinah Shore Thursday 8:15-8:30 and Saturday 10:15-10:30; Paul Whiteman presents, Sunday 5:30-6 and Wednesday 4:30-5; Your All Time Hit Parade Sunday 6-6:30 and Thursday

UNION DISTRICT BAZAAR, PICNIC, DANCE A SUCCESS

Opening Address by Mayor Morrison

A Bazaar and picnic sponsored by the Union District War Services club was held at Union school on Wednesday July 21st.

Mayor Morrison, Vermilion, gave an address and spoke very highly of the fine efforts of the ladies who had unsparingly given much time preparing so many fine articles for the bazaar, besides a splendid display of garments to be included in the "Bundles for Britain". He concluded his address by declaring the bazaar officially opened, urging everyone to buy freely for such a worthy cause. Another prominent citizen in the person of Mr. Donald Taylor also honored the district with his presence and took part in some of the sports.

The picnic was not so largely attended owing to counter-attractions being held on the same day. Throughout the afternoon tickets were sold for a fine wool blanket donated by Mrs. Norman Yarwood and the lucky ticket No. 4 was drawn at the dance in the evening, the winner being Mrs. G. Magstead, Vermilion.

The dance was largely attended and much enjoyed, music for the dance being supplied by the Logan orchestra in their usual pleasing manner.

Much of the credit for the huge success of the foregoing events is due Mrs. P. H. Cartwright and her energetic committee. A nice sum of $78 will be handed to the Queen's Canadian fund as a result of the event.

The committee in charge wish to thank all who donated or helped in any way to make the bazaar and picnic such a great success.

Little Ships Of The Navy

AN IMPORTANT FACTOR in the success of the present Allied offensive is the disruption of the Germans' system of communication in Europe. The many raids made by the R.A.F. on railway systems and locomotives on the Continent made it necessary for the Germans to increase their use of coastal transport, and many of their supplies were carried from one European port to another by merchant ships travelling close to the shore. To combat this, and to deal with other enemy craft in coastal waters, the Royal Navy used small ships which were referred to in dispatches as "light coastal forces." These ships, as we told, are made mostly of wood, and measure from fifty-five to one hundred and fifty feet in length. Their combat ability is of wide range, for they are equipped with depth charges, torpedoes and mines, as well as guns which are capable of sinking any ships in their own class.

* * * *

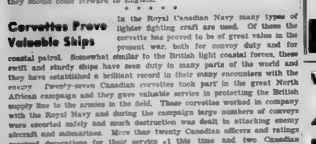
Enemy Shipping Is Disrupted

These small ships were first built two years ago, and proved remarkably successful in conveying British ships through coastal waters. Later their activities were extended to harassing enemy shipping. Swift and deadly in action, they are said to have caused much havoc among the ships they attacked. Exact figures concerning the amount of enemy shipping destroyed by this branch of the navy are not published, but it is known that a large number of the enemy's most valuable cargo ships have been destroyed in this way. Although these little ships are called "the newest branch of Britain's oldest fighting service" they maintain the tradition of British naval strategy laid down by Admiral Drake who said "Under the joining together of the enemy squadrons out of their several ports. Keep their victuals from them. Follow them in case they should come forward to fight with you."

* * * *

Corvettes Prove Valuable Ships

In the Royal Canadian Navy many types of highly fighting craft are used. Of these the corvette has proved to be of great value in the present war, both for convoy duty and for coastal patrol. Somewhat smaller than the British light coastal forces, these swift and sturdy ships have seen duty in many parts of the world and they have established a brilliant record in their many encounters with the enemy. Corvettes of the seven Canadian corvette classes took part in the great North African campaign and they gave valuable service in protecting the British supply line to the armies in the field. These corvettes worked in company with the Royal Navy and during the last convoy battle a large numbers of convoys were escorted safely and much destruction was dealt in attacking enemy aircraft and submarines. More than twenty Canadian officers and ratings received decorations for their services in this time and two Canadian corvettes, the Louisburg and the Weyburn, were lost in the Mediterranean. Two Canadian corvettes have taken their place with the new light forces of the Royal Navy in adding to the already fine record of this branch of our fighting forces.



SOY BEANS AS A MEAT SUBSTITUTE

Now that our meat is rationed we will have to learn the foods that can take its place. Soy beans are very high in protein, almost one-third by protein, and because it is a complete protein soy beans can take the place of meat. Besides being an excellent source of protein they are high in fat, low in carbohydrate and are a good source of thiamin, riboflavin, iron and phosphorus.

Five thousand years ago their production in the east was an important industry and they were used chiefly as a meat substitute. Now that soy beans are being grown in Ontario and the United States we should make a habit of using them in our diets. Soy beans are not edible but the varieties on the market for food consumption are edible.

Why cooked beans should be soaked overnight or for 24 hours when we use them as a meat substitute. Cook them as you would lima beans. They have a nut like flavour. Try this recipe, I think you will find it delicious as well as nutritious.

Soy Bean Casserole

1 cup soy beans	2 cups canned tomato soup
1 onion	diluted half strength
1 green pepper	2 lb bacon

Soak soy beans 24 hours or over night. Simmer in salted water. Chop one onion and one green pepper fine. Place in layers in casserole. Use canned beans, the chopped onion and green pepper and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Continue adding the beans, onion and pepper in this manner until the dish is nearly full. Pour over like 2 cups of canned tomato soup slightly diluted, depending on the size of the casserole. If you can prefer it cut two or three strips of breakfast bacon into inch squares and lay on top. Bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes. This will serve five people.

Put Up Good Stiff

British Vessel Without Any Depth Charges Fooled U-Boat

A. J. McWhinnie, London Daily Herald (Mail) correspondent, tells this story to his paper from an "Atlantic Base":

Then and again a British destroyer made a feint attacks on a submerged U-boat. The German crew avoided any movement that would betray their position and waited tensely for the thundering roar of depth charges. But all they heard was the chugging of the warship's engines and propellers . . . a destroyer waging her own private war of nerves. What the Germans did not know was that the destroyer, during a strenuous trip across the Atlantic, had so many fights with U-boats that she had only five depth charges left.

The destroyer captain could have said "Well, that's all I can do," and left the U boat to escape. He didn't. He ran for minutes the U boat was attached by a destroyer without depth charges. "In all," one officer said, "we made 15 dummy runs in huge dump. The story of her thoughtfulness for troops and how she will give a lift to any one in a service uniform woman or man has often been told. She chats to her passengers often without saying who she is and she tells of one man, a New Zealander who, she thought, had not recognized her. They were talking about the soldier's family, and the Queen asked the name of his daughter.

"Elizabeth," the New Zealander replied, "named after your daughter-in-law, Your Majesty."

Sets Good Example

Queen Mary Shows People What Economy In Wartime Means

Once a fortnight Queen Mary invites the troops in the neighborhood to her home for a cinema show. Concerts and theatrical performances are arranged, and she herself often serves the visitors afterwards in the canteen she keeps for them. She is as strict on the use of petrol as she is on salvage. Using her car only for official business or war work. The latter labor-hood to her home for a cinema many forms. Her chief campaign is for salvage and economy. She never uses a new envelope. She opens her letters carefully herself, put the envelopes by, and then uses them again with a gummed war economy label. And she expects her friends to do the same. All correspondence from Marlborough House is sent to her in this way. She collects the string in her car—boxes, bottles, newspaper scrap iron. Whenever in the course of her motor drives she sees salvage lying about unclaimed, she stops the car, has it picked up, and takes it to the village dump. The story of her thoughtfulness for troops and how she will

Used Batman's Name

King George Travelled To North Africa As T. Jerram

For his journey to North Africa, the King borrowed the name of his batman. Those who saw his baggage unloaded at the African port noticed that it was labelled "T. Jerram." They thought it was a new and democratic incognito, but they found it was the name of the King's guardsman batman. Guardsman Jerram has been in the service of the King and Queen since the days of York. He was valet in peacetime, but he is now in the Scots Guards. He helped up with his age group in 1940, but continues his duties and accompanies the King on nearly all trips.

An eight-man R.A.F. crew flew the King's airplane, an ordinary service transport, to North Africa. The wing commanders, H. E. Collins and C. H. Shee, were at the controls. The Master of the Household, Group Captain E. H. Fielden, was on board. The flight was the first ever made by a British King. It is the first time also that a British king has flown to a battle-front.

Fall Rye Seeding

Hardy Winter Variety Called Dakold Is Especially Recommended

Again it is time for farmers to begin to plan their fall rye seeding. Varieties of rye are not as well known as those of other crops. Tests have been conducted at most experimental farms and information as to which may be obtained from any Dominion Experimental Station, or a recent bulletin from the Federal Department of Agriculture, Dakold, a hardy winter variety, is especially recommended. It was originated in North Dakota and developed by the University of Saskatchewan. Common, produced at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Lethbridge, has proved highly successful in weathering severe prairie winters. Chuwa was also judged hardy enough for Western Canada.

The British Ministry of Agriculture estimates that before the war there were 900,000 allotments in the United Kingdom and that there were 1,600,000 by 1942.

John Kyle

General Superintendent, Motive Power and Car Equipment, Western Region, Canadian National Railways, who has just retired after more than 50 years railroad service, 46 of which were with the Canadian National. Born in Toronto in 1877, Mr. Kyle began as an apprentice with the Grand Trunk in 1893, remaining in Toronto until 1899, when he came to Winnipeg. In 1903, he was appointed general foreman in the mechanical department, Canadian Northern. As assistant master mechanic, he was transferred in 1907 to Edmonton, where he remained for 25 years, serving as master mechanic and superintendent, motive power and car equipment, until his appointment as general superintendent, at Winnipeg, in 1922. In tribute to Mr. Kyle, the International Association of Machinists said, "He was a strong believer and keen supporter of the Union - Management Co-operative Plan. His influence in maintaining good relations between labor and management has not been confined to the Canadian National Railways, but has been an outstanding example to many other industries."—Canadian National Railways Press Services.

Not A New Process

Dehydration Of Vegetables Dates Back To Ancient Times

It's a trick worthy of a stage magician the transforming of 200 pounds of raw carrots into 25 pounds of shrivelled carrot-shreds, and then back again into fresh-looking cooked carrots. But it is not a mere trick: it's the result of patient research by four people in a little laboratory in Ottawa.

Miss Evelyn Stevenson, graduate of MacDonald College, Que., who developed the products at a meeting of Canadian Home Economists Association, said there are already 10 commercial plants across Canada engaged in the production of dehydrated products.

Speeding a wartime emergency, vegetables, fruits, eggs, beef, pork and chicken are adapted and processed for shipment to Britain. Dehydration of vegetables dates way back to ancient times and was widely used as a means of preservation in pioneer days. But since last year when the Government sent out word that methods for color and nutritional preservation have been discovered.

The vegetables are peeled and are held in a brine bath. They are then trimmed, sliced, weighed and spread on trays. The trays are placed in long cabinets where dehydration is effected by means of air passage and dry heat.

To use the product, the vegetables are "soaked in water for from 15 minutes to two hours and then cooked the same way as fresh vegetables.

Is Lampedusa

Native Like The New Order And Are Obliterating Fascist Signs

One of the first experiments in "practical postwar reconstruction" is being carried out on the tiny Mediterranean island of Lampedusa the British Air Ministry has announced.

Under Wing Cmdr. John D. Bladon, 37-year-old R.A.F. ace, the island—surrender of which paved the way for the invasion of Sicily—is struggling back toward the peace which was shattered when Allied air fleets began raining tons of high explosives upon it after the fall of Axis forces in North Africa.

Bladon serves as military governor. He has inaugurated a program which so pleased the natives that the latter have given over the island obliterating signs of the departed Fascist regime, the Air Ministry announcement said.

When Britain Was Alone

Blackest Month May Turn Out To Be Blessing In Disguise

June, 1940, was the blackest month in British history. Germany had conquered Norway, Holland, Denmark, Belgium and France. With the defection of France the British people stood alone to face the conquering hordes of the Reich and of Italy. The task before them was so gigantic that the soul sickened at the prospect.

Yet the situation, appalling as it seemed then, may turn out to be a blessing in disguise: one of the superious workings of Providence.

Today, Britain is mightily armed, and has the support of mighty forces from the United States and other countries, including hundreds of thousands of Free Frenchmen. The Reich is taking a shattering hammering from the air; a hammering that will intensify throughout the summer, and it may be, as air experts hope, that German resistance will crumple under the weight of bombs. The hope is only a "may", but the Allies will do their utmost to make it a reality.

In that event, no costly invasion will be necessary. A million or more British and American lives may be saved.

The French surrender did another thing. If the French and British armies had remained on French and Belgian soil, the German army would either have attacked them, or they would have had to attack the Germans. The rival forces could not have continued sitting down and looking at each other across no-man's-land. There would have been terrific, bloody fighting. And if those armies had been defeated, Britain would never have invaded Russia. There would have been no second front to aid the Allies. But with France emptied of opponents, Germany foolishly as it is now known, invaded Russia, and has suffered millions of casualties which have weakened her considerably. Had Russia not been attacked, the armed forces against the French and British would have been twice what they are now. Germany would have had many thousands more tanks and planes and the bombings of the Reich on the present scale would have been impossible. The R.A.F. losses would have been very serious.

Perhaps it is all going to work out for the best.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

According To Law

Princess Elizabeth Comes Of Age Within The Next Few Months

Our Parliamentary correspondent was quoted in our last issue as saying that the Princess Elizabeth's comes of age when she is 18. A dictum has been challenged. A letter dated from Clement's Inn goes to the Common Law and Blackstone to "fix age regularly" being 21, to Halsbury's "Laws of England" for the elder daughter of a Sovereign having the same legal status as an ordinary subject; to the Civil List Act, 1937, for providing that the annual sum payable to the Princess Elizabeth shall, until she attains 21 years, be "paid to His Majesty as guardian of Her Royal Highness". The Regency Act of the same year is quoted into the debate.

Simple folk, unfortunately on these high legal pastures, cannot help remembering that Queen Victoria ascended the Throne at 18.—London Times.

Canadians Have Had Excellent Basic Training

AN ALLIED FORCE COMMAND POST, North Africa.—Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, second in command of the Sicilian campaign, told Canadian war correspondents the Canadians have gone far and fast in the battle of Sicily.

At an informal reception held at his North African headquarters Gen. Alexander said "the Canadians are good and they will be jolly good."

"Like the American 45th division they went into the battle untired and have done exceedingly well," the deputy commander-in-chief of the Allied forces added. "The Canadians are fine material. They have had very good basic training and they have learned from the experiences of others. They have gone far and fast in this battle. They will be as good as any troops."

The famed commander of the 15th Army group compared the Canadians to a football team. "No matter how much training a team has it doesn't reach its peak until it has had some first class matches," he said.

Then he explained why the Canadians had been put in the centre in Sicily, between the Americans and the British forces.

"Was it deliberate?" asked a correspondent.

"Yes," replied Gen. Alexander. "The reason was that like the American 45th division, they had come in big ships and had to be transferred to their landing craft in water deep enough to accommodate large ships.

"The Canadians will profit from experience. All troops need to have battle experience but the Canadian had the advantage of excellent basic training.

"No doubt if one went to the front one would find that they had made small tactical errors that experienced troops don't make but it is from such experiences they profit. The task assigned them was a very gutting in Sicily will make the Canadians among the finest fighting troops there are."

ALASKA HIGHWAY

Canadian And U.S. Governments Agree On Official Name

OTTAWA.—The Canadian and U.S. governments have agreed that the highway from Dawson Creek, B.C., to Fairbanks, Alaska, shall be given the official name "Alaska highway."

The decision was reached by an exchange of notes dated July 19 and made public by the external affairs department.

Choice of an appropriate name for the road, being constructed by U.S. as a defence measure, has been a subject of controversy for several months. Members of the senate and House of Commons here heard complaints against the name "Alcan highway," which has been fairly widely used.

DOUBLE QUANTITY

Canada Will Send More Frozen Fish To United Kingdom

OTTAWA.—Canada plans to send 9,000,000 pounds of frozen fish to the United Kingdom during 1943, more than double the quantity shipped in 1942, under arrangements with Britain announced last month by Fisheries Minister Bertrand.

(In London the Evening Standard said discussions are under way among authorities for the supply of large supplies of fish from Canada and Newfoundland to Britain.)

Of the 1943 shipments from Canada, about 2,000,000 pounds will be Pacific coast flounders. Supplies from the Atlantic provinces will include 5,000,000 pounds of cod fillets, 1,000,000 pounds of pollock fillets, and 1,000,000 pounds of flounders.

BOYS FOR MINES

Younger People May Have To Be Employed In Britain

BLACKPOOL, Eng.—Ernest Bevin, Britain's labor minister, told the Mineworkers Federation of Great Britain that younger people, perhaps between the ages of 18 and 18, may have to be employed in the coal mines to make good the deficiency of labor.

A few hours after Bevin stated the urgency in calling from 30,000 to 60,000 youths to the mines, the Federation's executive committee decided to send a delegation to inquire into the details of the plan.

WHEAT DELIVERIES

Quota Increased With Bin Used In New Crop Year

OTTAWA.—Trade Minister MacKinnon told the House of Commons that western grain farmers who, through no fault of their own, are unable to take full advantage of their 1943 delivery quotas before the end of the crop year, will be permitted to do so during the next crop year.

He was replying to a number of questions on difficulties being encountered in finding space for quota deliveries, and cars for moving wheat eastward.

Gordon Ross (Lib., Moose Jaw) said the end of the crop year (July 31) is less than two weeks off. It was "obvious" some farmers would be prevented by lack of elevator space, from making the deliveries allotted to them for the current year.

He suggested that in such cases deliveries not accepted at the end of the crop year should be added to the quota for that particular farmer in the following year.

Mr. MacKinnon said this would be arranged in the cases of those whose quotas for all deliveries were not their own fault.

The minister said there were some 13,000 railway cars working on the coasts, on the searchlights, on the anti-aircraft guns, in Newfoundland, in Labrador, in Alaska, in the Bermudas."

The suggestion that these men be released meant to break down completely the units which now are engaged on duties which the chief of the general staff, in consultation with the chief of staff of U.S., considered essential to the defence of this continent.

There were no soldiers "walking around doing nothing." All were on duty as or in training.

Col. Ralston said there are two provisions for farm leave from the army: Compassionate leave where there was hardship on the farm, and agricultural leave which was available to certain classes of soldiers for seeding.

Leave for harvest would be granted under the same condition as for seeding.

In addition, said the minister, for the last four days the army had been discussing further arrangements with the labor departments of selective service officers. There were two proposals: Leave for additional men and use of army defaulters.

Some 5,450 men were already on leave from the active army for farm work.

The army was also co-operating with the labor department in making the services of prisoners available for farm work. In some cases the army was taking responsibility for the security of prisoners placed on farms.

"We needn't be surprised if we hear of the odd escape," he said. "If so, I hope it won't be treated as a major international incident."

Farm Debts Bill Has Finally Been Passed By House

OTTAWA.—The House of Commons passed a bill to facilitate compromises and arrangements between prairie farmers and their creditors, although western opposition members continued to the last their effort to have its provisions widened to the benefit of the farmer.

Here are the main features of the new bill:

1. It extends the system of farmer-debt adjustment in Manitoba in addition to Alberta and Saskatchewan;

2. It retains the limiting date of May 1, 1933, but provides that if two-thirds of a farmers' debts were incurred prior to that date he may seek an adjustment of all debts, including those incurred subsequent to May 1, 1933.

3. It allows cases to be reopened where farmers made a composition of debt prior to Jan. 1, 1939.

4. It establishes new machinery for the administration of the act by substituting for boards of review the county or district courts of the provinces, with appeals to a single judge of the superior or appeal courts of the provinces.

After the bill had been approved by the senate, Conservative leader Quelch (N.D., Acadia) moved that it be referred back to committee to be amended so that it could conform to suggestions submitted by a western debt conference at Saskatoon, Sask., last March 15.

The motion was ruled out of order by Speaker J. A. Glen who said that if it were approved it would change the principle of the bill and might add to government expenditures.

In discussion of the debt adjustment bill, Finance Minister Ilsley amended a clause providing that a creditor could not sell land without by such reduction, except by leave of a court.

The original clause had been protested by western members who said it meant that although the farmer had a right to make more than one proposal for debt adjustment, the creditor might benefit if the land involved were sold within five years at a price higher than that indicated in the debt adjustment agreement.

By its amendments, Mr. Ilsley said the section would apply only to the future, and to compromises and arrangements made under the bill. He proposed also that the time limit should be reduced to three years, and that no additional amount a court decided was due creditors as the result of a farm sale should be paid over to the court instead of directly to the creditors. The amendments were approved.

FARMERS MUST GO

LONDON.—Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden yesterday told leaders of the trade unions and Fascist leaders will be ousted from all occupied Italian territory. Eden told the House of Commons that one of Britain's war aims is the elimination of the Fascist regime.

ALL ARE AGREED

Parties Pass Bill To Set Up Physical Fitness Council

OTTAWA.—The various parties in the House of Commons all endorsed and speedily passed a bill to set up a national council on physical fitness introduced by Pensions Minister Mackenzie.

During discussion of the physical fitness bill, Mr. Mackenzie said it was based on a recommendation of the social security committee. It provides for a grant of $220,000 to the provinces on a 50-50 basis to encourage physical fitness undertakings. Each province would have a member of the council with the national director the only paid official.

There would be co-operation among federal government departments, among the provinces, and with voluntary agencies and individuals carrying out physical fitness work. Enlistment figures had brought home the fact that the standard of physical fitness among Canadians was not as high as it should be.

Mr. Mackenzie said a special school of game injury and prevention benefits as it members of the army.

The minister said a number of the corps were conscientious objectors. He said the corps were formed entirely on a volunteer basis

Geo LaFleche said the Canadians had been involved in some of the most bombed places but the question of reduced need for their services was uncertain, coincident with the hope of finding whether or not they could be used more effectively elsewhere

Many of the corps were on leave from their own brigades and he believed that their training and experience would fit them to become future fire rhiefs in their own communities. They came from 117 municipalities, representing every province.

Their origin was as follows: Nova Scotia, 22; Prince Edward Island, three; New Brunswick, four; Quebec, 30; Ontario, 287; Manitoba, 37; Saskatchewan, 22; Alberta, 12, and British Columbia, 32.

POLICY IN SICILY

People Will Not Be Allowed Political Activities At Present

LONDON.—The Prime Minister Churchill assured the House of Commons the Allied military administration in Sicily would not permit no political activities by Sicilians at present, but that the government hoped they would gradually democratize them of their own accord when delivered from the Fascists.

Replying to questions, Mr. Churchill said both the U.S and Britain were providing experts in civil administration to assist the military administration

Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons that the government not permit the formation of a collaborationist regime with the help of former Italian Fascists.

MAKING REVISION

Some Changes Being Made In Regulations Covering Rentals

OTTAWA.—Russell Smart, K.C., administrator of rents, for the Dominion, said that some of the regulations are being revised, but that he did not want to anticipate them by advance publicity.

Reports circulated in Ottawa that one of the changes likely to be made would remove from one year to six months the notice to vacate which must be given to tenants Evictions would be forbidden from October to April.

LEAVE BOMBED CITIES

STOCKHOLM.—Berlin despatches to the Swedish press described a mass exodus of women and children through the German capital to places of greater safety further east from the bomb-blasted cities of the west and northwest. Their ultimate destination was not stated.

HIGHEST REVENUE

OTTAWA.—Canadian railways earned $60,358,084 in April — the greatest monthly revenue on record against $50,184,977 in the corresponding month of 1942, the Dominion bureau of statistics said. Best previous month was last December, with revenues of $63,382,113.

BACK IN ENGLAND

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND.—Lt. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian army overseas, has returned to headquarters in Britain after a flying visit to the Mediterranean theatre, including Sicily where he saw the activities of the 1st Division.

OTTAWA.—Air raid precautions equipment valued at $4,863,152 has been distributed in Canada, it was reported in a House of Commons return.

WEDDING BELLS

KOZICKI—EDWARDS

On Monday July 26th at 10 a.m. at the Holy Name Catholic church, Vermilion, Margaret, youngest daughter of Cpl. and Mrs. D. Edwards of Vermilion, was united in marriage to John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kozicki of Northern Valley, Alberta. The Rev. Dean O'Sullivan officiated at the ceremony and Miss Frances Antoine presided at the organ and sang. The bride's gown of white sheer, was floor length and her veil with sweetheart headdress was held up by a little train-bearer. The bride carried a shower bouquet of pink and white carnations and peonies. She was given in marriage by Mr. R. Durin, in the absence of her father who is overseas.

The bridesmaid, Miss Patricia Edwards, wore a pale blue sheer gown of floor length, a white hat and white accessories. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

The train-bearer, Miss Olga Kinas, wore a pale pink dress and carried a bouquet of pink and white sweet peas.

The best man was Steve Jorgin, a friend of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a gown of black sheer and old rose, with corsage of sweet peas, an old rose hat and white accessories.

Following the wedding a reception was held at George's "Lower Deck" Tourist camp where Mr. W. Bachew, cousin by Father O'Sullivan and other guests. The happy couple will make their home at Marwayne, Alberta.

OLSON—ARTHUR

On Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., July 20th, 1943 in St. Mary's Anglican church, Vancouver, by the Rev. W. Bachew, Miss Carl Olson, fourth son of Mrs. M. Olson and the late John Olson of Gilt Edge, Alberta, was united in marriage to Gunner with Lois Irene Arthur, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs Alex Arthur of Auburndale, Alberta.

The bride, prettily attired in a black rose crepe dress, with a corsage of pink roses, was attended by Mrs. W. J. Roberts as matron of honor. Bill Roberts assisted the groom.

After the ceremony a beautiful wedding lunch was served to the assembled guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roberts.

BIRTHDAY DINNER FOR MT. MARGARET ROLET AT TRAINING CENTRE

You're probably never heard of an old-fashioned birthday cake with just the right number of candles on his birthday at an Army training camp in Canada. But the Canadian Women's Army Corps it's different because the girls —even the sergeant majors and the servants—haven't lost that touch of home.

Sunday was Sergeant Margaret Rolfe's birthday. In fact it was the all-important twenty-first milestone for the young lady from the interior of British Columbia who was in the first contingent of the C.W.A.C. training centre at Vermilion and was kept there as an instructor.

Sunday dinner at the sergeant's mess at Vermilion on this particular Sunday — that is until the first courses were finished. Then in marched the cook carrying a cake with khaki-colored icing topped by 21 golden candles.

Everyone in the mess sang "Happy Birthday to You".

Sergeant Rolfe attempted to blow out the 21 candles all at once and failed.

From the corner of the room a voice slowly stated, "Smudge 'em" — a drill sergeant with insufficient lung capacity to blow out a few little candles.

The laughter that followed just helped to make the impromptu party a success.

ALL CANNING SUGAR COUPONS NOW GOOD

OTTAWA, July 26. — August and September canning sugar coupons will be good for the purchase of sugar effective today, the ration administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced. Merchants are authorized to honor these coupons on and after that date, notwithstanding that some of them are marked as not becoming valid until August and September.

"This does not mean that additional sugar for home canning will be available later in the season," a spokesman emphasized. "The move is made for the convenience of women who want to can the fruit that is available now, instead of spreading their canning activities throughout the whole summer. There is no present prospect of the present canning sugar allowance being increased."

OLD TIMERS BALL GAME AT VERMILION FAIR

Vermilion Trims Manville 5-1

The attraction was billed as an old timers baseball game, Manville vs. Vermilion, but the way the so-called old timers carvorted around the diamond on Friday afternoon at the Fair didn't indicate that the players were in the has-been stage—but it did show that this bunch could get quite a kick out of real ball, even though they hadn't played for from 5 to 10 years. In spite of lack of practice only two errors were made in the six innings played. This was the first baseball seen here since 1940.

For Vermilion Cliff Reid was the big scorer with two runs, he was the lead-off hitter and drew two walks. Art Wiebe got a hit, Frank Mead got a hit and scored a run, Chesnick, in action for the first time in ten years got a hit that brought in a run but died on third himself. Slim Robinson knocked out the longest hit of the game—with a three bagger—but later scored, while Manyluk came home with the 5th run.

Frank Mead pitched the six innings for the locals while Art Wiebe and Cliff Reid took turns on the receiving end.

The batting order was Reid Merle Parks, Mead, Chesnick, Robinson, Martin, Calvert, Selmore.

For the visitors Lahire, Staden and Clarke divided the pitching duties, with Proudfoot doing the catching.

The batting order was Clarke M. Fadden, Nichol, Lahire, Proudfoot, Staden, Hinton, Henwick, Townsend, Williams, Bennett.

George Mead was umpire while Lloyd Harris was scorekeeper

MAIL FROM OVERSEAS FORCES BROUGHT BY NEW SERVICE

MONTREAL — A large mail from the members of the armed forces of Canada overseas arrived here recently by the Canadian Government Trans-Atlantic air service operated by T.C.A. The flight of the big transport plane was a non stop one from Britain to Montreal, said Trans-Canada Air Lines officials, and brought mail, military and air force personnel and technicians on special missions to Canada, in addition to upwards of 2,000 pounds of mail from the officers and men in the overseas forces. At the airport post office the mail was quickly cleared for various points in Canada.

VERMILION FAIR GREAT SUCCESS

Record Attendance on Friday

The Directors of Vermilion Fair are smiling these days owing to the outstanding success of the 1943 Fair which has now passed into history. The livestock entries were heavier than for many years and the outstanding quality of the stock shown was most pleasing. Officials of the Canadian Shorthorn Association and the North Alberta Shorthorn club were especially proud of the showing made by the Shorthorn cattle in the Provincial Shorthorn show held in conjunction with the Fair; prize awards shown elsewhere in the Standard will give an indication of the districts which were represented in this fine display and it is hoped that similar arrangements may be made in 1944.

Farmers were especially interested in the commercial classes of livestock and many inspected the cattle from the winners in the lamb and bacon hog classes.

Vermilion is apparently on the way to building up one of the outstanding light horse shows in the West and the interest shown in these classes last week was particularly gratifying in view of the effort that has been expended to place Vermilion in the forefront in exhibiting this class of stock.

Exhibits in the sheep classes were of interest being the first time the individual animals were exhibited for the benefit of those interested in the development of the sheep industry in the area.

Mr. William Bradley, representative of the Western Producer at Saskatoon has recorded at Vermilion the entire three days of the Fair, was most complimentary in his remarks regarding the 1943 exhibition. The official judges who placed the ribbons in the various classes were loud in praise of exhibitors who showed up under the handicap of lack of assistance.

The Dominion Government exhibit proved of great interest to both men and women as did the display of the North West Line elevators association, the Searle Grain Company had a most interesting display of weighing and weaving methods which attracted wide interest of the women folks particularly.

Attendance at the Fair greatly exceeded that of any previous year, it being found necessary to stage two evening grandstand shows on Friday night in order that fair patrons might be accommodated; the manner in which members of the public assisted the management in this unusual necessity has been greatly appreciated by those responsible for the conduct of the Fair; the grandstand attractions were given a grand reception by the public and much favorable comment has been heard of the fact that the show was good clean entertainment and that it contained sufficient variety to appeal to young and old alike.

The midway, although smaller than previous carnivals, was also well received and at no time was there the slightest hint of rowdyism being usually synced to spend their money; the rides were busy all through the day and evening and the concessionaires appeared to be getting their money's worth without stint.

The annual draw for $50 was won by Mr. J.G. Boring of Vermilion, he having purchased the lucky ticket from Carl Fry star salesman of advance tickets. Billie O'Connor of Manyville won second prize in connection with the advance sale while Mr. Jary Jones took a nice third.

The officials of Vermilion Fair wish to extend their thanks for the generous support and assistance given this year by the people of the district generally and, already, improvements for the future are under consideration so it is fully expected that the impetus given by the increase in livestock entries will mean even larger exhibits in the future

TO WIN IN SUNNY SOUTHERN ONTARIO

Co-operation In The Empire

IN CANADA AND IN ALL PARTS of the Empire there have been many changes in the standard of living since the beginning of the war. Curtailment of shipping space, the loss of many of our sources of raw materials, and illimit wartime conditions have greatly affected our way of life, and the variety of goods available to us has changed greatly in the past four years. These changes have been in general cheerfully accepted as a wartime necessity, and in some cases it has been found that there are advantages in many of the restrictions and substitutions which the war has brought about. It is likely that some of the changes which have been effected at this time will be continued after the war and that we will profit in many ways by the effort which has been made to provide adequately for the needs of the people from the greatly restricted supplies of the supplies now available. The evil effects of war are by no means many, but out of this war there will also come some lasting advantages to the people in the form of improved knowledge of nutrition, public health and kindred subjects, and in the lessons learned in the value of co-operation between friendly nations.

* * * * *

Ties of Empire Grow Stronger

Within the Empire much has been learned during the difficult years of the war and a closer relationship and an increased spirit of co-operation has developed. A great effort has been made to make use of all our raw materials, to take the place of those now in the hands of the enemy, and in some cases the results have been remarkable. In the British Colonies, many of them too small to make a marked contribution to the armed forces of the Empire, there has been a great development of the production of raw materials and food stuffs to help the cause of Britain and her Allies. In Ceylon the output of rubber has been greatly increased and there has also been an increase in the supply from East and West Africa. Rubber production is also being expanded in the British Mediterranean Colonies and from Trinidad also comes the Empire's principal supply of petroleum and from British Guiana comes almost all the bauxite for the Empire aluminum production.

* * * * *

Colonies Help To Feed Army

Food production has also been stimulated in the colonies, and the British armies in the Middle East have received large quantities of wheat, maize, tinned meat and dried vegetables from the East African possessions. Kenya Colony was a pioneer in the dehydrating of vegetables and was supplying them to the forces before this method of conservation was generally used in other countries. Tea and sugar production has been stepped up considerably in the colonies, and these products are playing an important part in fulfilling the Empire's wartime needs. In regard to all this, the British Ministry of Information points out that: "This speeding up of colonial production is a short-term war necessity. But beyond it lies the long-term plan which looks ahead to the future and aims at bringing about increased prosperity and welfare among the colonial peoples." There can be no doubt but that the stimulus given ill the development of food production and natural resources in these colonies will be of lasting benefit to them and to the Empire generally.

Fast Air Service

Canada Stands To Benefit Greatly From Post-War Development

Clement Attlee, Dominions Secretary, said in an address that thanks to war-time built airfields Canada can expect the development of rapid air transport to begin within a short time after the war.

He said a country of great distances like Canada, where time spent in transport and travel on the ground is an appreciable factor in administration and commerce, stands to benefit more than others from such a development.

Attlee predicted the Alaska Highway may well become one of the main arterial lines of world traffic.

Customer: "My goodness, eggs are high."

Grocer: "Sure, part of the war program."

Customer: "How?"

Grocer: "All the hens are making chalk."

Father: "I don't like your grand report at all, my boy. It's disgraceful."

Small Son: "Well, I told the teacher you'd be annoyed, but he wouldn't alter it."

American industry was well equipped to cope with her own huge war requirements largely because of the vast British orders which had been placed before Pearl Harbour.

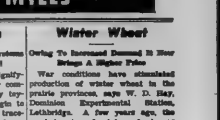
THE VICTORY GARDEN



—Drawing and Text by Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Spraying and dusting to destroy pests in the Victory garden is a relatively simple matter, due chiefly, to the restricted size of the plots. Amateur gardeners in their first year of gardening, should remember that sprays adhere to the foliage better than dusts, but are slower to apply and more troublesome to prepare.

In general, spraying will give better and more lasting results than dusting, but either method, if properly followed, will prove effective. Both the upper and lower surfaces of the leaves should be covered liberal with materials and, if possible, make the applications on a warm, calm day. Nicotine sulphate, in either spray or dust form, should be applied only when the temperature reaches 70 degrees Fahrenheit, or higher.

A small sprayer of the plunger type, holding about a quart of spray, will be found suitable, but a bucket pump or small compressed air sprayer will be found more satisfactory rapidly. Dust can be applied quite effectively through a cheesecloth or burlap bag. For most insects, Victory gardeners should repeat applications at weekly intervals until the outbreak is checked.

THE THIRD REICH

Germany Has Had Three Systems Of Government Since 1919

"Reich" is a German word signifying kingdom, empire, state or commonwealth and is believed by philologists to be related in origin to English "realm", which is traceable to Latin "regere," to rule or keep straight. The verb "reichen" in German means to reach. During the days of the German Empire it became customary to speak of the empire as the reich to distinguish it from the kingdoms, provinces, confederacies and other political units composing it. In this sense the term acquired a peculiar meaning among Germans, and after the abdication of Wilhelm III in 1918 many Junkers insisted that there could be no German Reich without a German emperor, but the same survived and it is still correct to speak of the chancellor of the German Reich. First, Second and Third Reich are applied to the three successive systems of government in Germany since 1871. The empire was the First Reich; the postwar republic under President Ebert and Hindenburg was the Second Reich and the National Socialist regime under Hitler is the Third Reich. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A SECRET SWEET STORY

In Ustick, Mass., Senator D. Herzog's family ate no meat for three weeks, saved the points for a birthday roast-beef dinner. Just before the 7-lb. roast was carved, Senator Herzog's setter ate it.

Winter Wheat

Owing To Increased Demand It Now Brings A Higher Price

War conditions have stimulated production of winter wheat in the prairie provinces, says W. D. Hay, Dominion Experimental Station, Lethbridge. A few years ago, the market price of winter wheat was from five to ten cents lower than that of spring wheat. Increased demand has resulted in a higher price for the class of wheat. At one time it sold at a premium. Also, the early ripening of winter wheat advances the harvest season and helps to counteract the labour shortage. Less from root rot, caused by too early seeding, can be avoided by delaying seeding until September 1. Choosing the most hardy winter varieties such as the M.C. 22 strain of Kharkov, greatly reduces loss from winter killing. At the Experimental Station, winter wheat was killed out completely only once in 28 years, and it gave an average yield of 27.5 bushels per acre, compared with 25 bushels per acre for spring wheat.

WHAT IS LACKING

The trans-Canada highway is now complete, so there is nothing to prevent a motorist from driving to the west coast if he can get gas, tires, a new car, time and sufficient money. —London Free Press.

About 140 species of lizards inhabit North America, only one of which the Gila Monster, is known to be poisonous.

OTHER USES OF SOY BEANS

You will remember in a recent article we said that edible varieties of soy beans are high in proteins, fat, thiamin, riboflavin, iron and phosphorus. They are the least expensive source of good quality plant protein so we should try to find other ways of using them in our diets. They can be used in many forms, as a green vegetable, dried, or in milk form. The latter seemed extensively in the Orient for infant feeding.

It has been found that a child that cannot tolerate cow's milk may be able to tolerate soy bean milk. Soy bean oil can be used for food but is used chiefly for technical purposes. There is a soy bean flour and pound butter that is delicious on bread and can be bought at your grocers.

You can now obtain soy bean flour in grocery stores. Soy bean flour is prepared entirely by grinding the whole bean after the part after removal of the oil. You can use it to take the place of part of the wheat flour in baking. Usually ¼ soy to ¾ wheat flour is used, but for pastry as much as ¼ soy flour may be used. You will find this soy flour makes delicious bread, muffins and biscuits. They are very nutritious and have a unusual nut-like flavour and a very fine texture. The following recipe for Soy Sausage (after baking) is recommended as the best method that they are found. Here is a recipe you will enjoy:

Soy Bean Sausage

1 cup soy bean flour	¼ cup sugar
1 cup white flour	1 egg
2½ tsp. baking powder	¼ cup milk
½ tsp. salt	2 tbsp. butter or shortening (melted)

Mix and sift dry ingredients, add milk and egg, then melted butter. Bake in greased muffin tins 35 minutes.

Fruit, grated soy beans or the edible variety may be used in the mixture. They are cooked like fruit pies and bread, until they are tender, requiring a little longer cooking time.

Nightmare Of Second Front Faces Hitler

LONDON.—Adolf Hitler's nightmare—and the nightmare of the German Supreme Command since the First Great War—of a two-front war has been brought to the verge of fruition by the fall of Mussolini.

It now is plain that Hitler has been confronted with the greatest military crisis of his intuitive career by the necessity within probably a few weeks or less of taking over full responsibility for defence of the Balkan peninsula, at the same moment that the whole Eastern Front is erupting into battle after battle.

Evidence is piling up that the Germans were caught short by Mussolini's ouster. The evidence was provided by the Nazi propaganda machine itself which after hours of silence gave the public only the bare facts of the Italian communiques.

Where Hitler is going to get the troops to fill the gap, however, if he pulled 100 divisions from the Eastern Front, there is little question that the front would cave in.

Another possibility is the scrapping together of divisions from the occupied countries, but if so estimated 10 divisions moved from Norway and 30 to 40 from France it would create local panics to creation of a third Allied front.

It is noted that the war situation has more and more been taking on the appearance of 1918. Germany's collapse then was heralded by the knockout of Turkey from the war, quickly followed by Bulgaria, Austria and Hungary.

USE NEW SIGNAL

Change Made By Italian Radio Station After Mussolini's Downfall

NEW YORK.—Radio stations of the official Italian news agency, Stefani, returned to the air shorn of their idling signal of "Vincere"—Conquer.

In its place the "stations returned to the international radio accepted practice of sending out the letter "V" in code when idling.

All Italian stations, including commercial ones, used the "Vincere" signal before Mussolini's downfall.

The new signal was heard in broadcasts recorded by the Associated Press.

Gen. De Gaulle Says France Must Participate In Settlement With Italy

NEW YORK.—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, in a broadcast over the Algiers radio, said that no settlement with Italy could be made without the participation of France, the United States foreign broadcast intelligence service reported.

His broadcast had been preceded by an announcement that an important statement soon would be heard.

It was added that the French Committee of National Liberation of which Gen. de Gaulle is co-head with Gen. Henri Giraud, met in plenary session.

CONSIDERING PLAN

Wheat Board May Have Monopoly Of Handling Feed Grain Business

OTTAWA.—Trade Minister Mackinnon said proposals for granting the Canadian wheat board a monopoly of handling oats and barley to make sure there would be no holdup of supplies of feed grain needed to eastern Canadian farmers are receiving "serious attention" from the cabinet wheat committee but no decision has been reached.

He said the cabinet wheat committee was watching the situation "very closely."

A SEA MYSTERY

Royal Navy Finds Invasion Barge In Atlantic Without Crew

LONDON. — An invasion barge loaded with Lockheed interceptor planes found bobbing around without a crew in mid-Atlantic provided the Royal navy with a mystery.

The barge was superficially damaged on the nose and had apparently been struck by flying debris, but it was still seaworthy enough to be towed to the Belfast docks. Several empty lifeboats were found near the barge.

The Aid-to-China Fund in Great Britain had reached nearly $9,000,000 by the end of May.

Major-General Guy Simonds, youngest major-general in the Canadian army, is leader of the Canadian forces in Sicily. He was born in 1908.

Germany Was Shaken By Fall Of Mussolini

STOCKHOLM, Sweden.—The fall of Mussolini shook the German people more than any other event of the war, reports direct from Berlin said, and statements cleared by Nazi censorship indicated German already is resigned to the loss of her southern ally.

News despatches to Sweden said Berliners made apathetic by years of unreliable information in their press besieged stands for newspapers announcing the change in the Italian government.

The correspondent of the Social-Demokraten said German friends ran to him "with indescribable expressions" crying out in wonderment, "What do you believe?" In reaction, the Aftontidningen Berlin correspondent said, was like that of a man who declared "with moving seriousness, 'So it has gone that far'."

"It is not concealed that developments in Italy can directly affect the entire German position," the Berlin representative of the Svenska Dagbladet wrote.

All reports stressed that the fall of the Fascist dictator, whom Germans had been taught to believe represented Italy as much as Hitler represents Germany, was a complete surprise even to Hitler himself. Dur Dachrer had no idea of the possibility at his recent meeting with Mussolini, the Aftonbladsposten said.

The German official line was that one could not yet judge the cause and effect of the situation.

(A German Transocean News agency despatch from Madrid said the Italian developments made a "profound impression" in Spain, and that Spanish police were keeping close watch over minor opposition groups, including monarchists.)

It was obvious from Berlin despatches that nothing had affected Germans so much since the flight of Rudolf Hess to Scotland.

A German press campaign against "rumor-mongering" indicated the people reacted just as they did when Hess fled—they rushed to radios and defied the government by listening to Anglo-American news.

(Exchange Telegraph reported in a Zurich despatch that the Nazi propaganda minister had instructed newspapers in Germany to discontinue references to unity between German and Italian battle ideals and aims, to delete comparisons of ideology between the countries and to emphasize Italian assurances the nation would stay in the war.)

NOW IN GREECE

The Whereabouts Of Field Marshal Rommel Disclosed By Berlin Radio

LONDON.—The German radio said that the "secret surrounding Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's whereabouts has been ended" through the publication in Berlin morning papers of pictures showing the former North African commander arriving in Salonika, Greece.

Greece is at the gateway to the German-held Balkans, largely garrisoned by Italian troops, and an Allied invasion through Salonika in the First Great War led to the defeat of Germany.

A D.N.B. despatch told of Rommel's despatch to Greece which is threatened by Allied armies in the Middle East. Previous reports had said Rommel was in France or Greece, and one recent rumor said he had been shot down while flying in Sicily after the Allied invasion there.

Argentine Government Assumes Supervision Of Eight Foreign Industrial Plants

BUENOS AIRES.—The Argentine government in a decree assumed supervision of eight important industrial establishments including one British and six American-owned plants engaged in the production of farm machinery, automobiles and tires.

The decree said action was being taken to investigate charges that the firms violated commercial laws which fix maximum prices and require adequate stocks to be maintained.

Every Facility Used In Getting Mail To North

VANCOUVER.—Co-ordination of mail services to the armed forces and defence project camps in the far north by Canadian Pacific Air Lines, river boats, U.S. army vehicles over the Alaska highway and railway was the object of an extensive northern tour just completed by Canadian and American postal officials.

W. E. Allison, general mail and baggage agent, C.P.R., Montreal, reached Vancouver with the word that Canadians and Americans in the Yukon and Alaska have only one cry: "Mail and more mail." He added, "And we're going to try to give it to them by whatever means lie in our hands."

There has been tremendous increase in mail to northern points in the past two years. Postal authorities in co-ordinating all transportation facilities hope to keep those letters from home flowing smoothly to lonely men in the land of the midnight sun.

The party flew by Canadian Pacific Air Lines from Edmonton to Norman, Wells and back to White Horse, went to Dawson by river boat and came south by air.

Also in the group were: George Herring, chief supervisor air and land mail services, postal department, Ottawa; J. B. Carley, district director, postal services, Calgary; G. H. Clarke, district director, postal services Vancouver; Thomas Reilly, acting district supervisor of postal services, Edmonton, and Major Wallens and Captain Tessier of the U.S army postal corps.

MORE THAN DOUBLED

WINNIPEG.—During the first six months of the current year air mail carried by Trans Canada Airlines was more than doubled, as compared with the corresponding period in 1943, more than three times as much express was carried, and the number of passengers increased by more than 17,000.

Food Shortage After War Has Been Predicted

LONDON.—R. S. Hudson, Britain's agriculture minister, outlining for the House of Commons Britain's agricultural program for the next four years, cautioned that "the first two years after the war are bound to be a time of great stringency on the food front."

Opening a debate on agriculture, he warned that the world would be faced immediately after the war with an acute shortage of food, transport, fertilisers, machinery, farm implements and gasoline.

"We must anticipate that agriculture will have to remain fully mobilised after the war for a period not likely to be less than of weeks or months," he said. "Taking the world as a whole there seems no doubt that there will be a very considerable lack of livestock products, oils, fats, even bread, grain and rice.

"Our plan for the next four years must be to maintain the present production of food for direct human consumption, at the same time taking steps to ensure the fertility of our soil is not undermined."

He called for an increase in the quantity of livestock and an improvement on their quality.

A CLEAR MAJORITY

Coalition Government In South Africa Has Large Opposition

CAPETOWN.—The Smuts-Hofmeyr Coalition government has a clear majority in the South African general election, it was shown when counting of votes took place.

Early returns indicated a landslide in favor of the veteran South African political leader who was largely responsible for keeping the Union in the war at the side of the rest of the empire.

Of 56 seats decided by last night, members of the various parties in Smuts' government had won 54 and the anti-war opposition only two.

Smuts himself was re-elected in his constituency of Standerton.

WILL CARRY FILM

Canada's First Lancaster Bomber To Be Known Overseas Shortly

OTTAWA. — The first Lancaster bomber produced in Canada will shortly be flown overseas. And it will carry as part of its crest a print of "Train Busters," Canada's newest war movie.

Station Officer D. M. "Bitsy" Grant, D.F.C., of Watrous, and Flying Officer J. A. Morton of Didsbury, Alta., the film shows Canadian airmen in action against enemy locomotives.

After its premiere before Royal Canadian Air Force men in England, Canadian release dates will be announced.

ON PRESENT BASIS

Canadians Cannot Expect Change In Tea And Coffee Ration

OTTAWA.—Rationing of tea and coffee in Canada must be continued on the present basis for "some time to come" because stock piles of those commodities are not sufficient to allow an increase, R. T. Elliott, prices board administrator of tea, coffee and spices, said in a statement.

Mr. Mohan said his statement was issued in view of a "considerable" number of inquiries from the public and the trade which were prompted by the recent announcement that coffee rations in the United States were being increased.

RULING CHANGED

No Limit Now On Wheat Grieved Per Family Unit

OTTAWA — Effective Aug. 1, start of the new crop year, wheat producers in the prairie provinces may have an unlimited quantity of wheat grieted for family use outside of their established delivery quotas, Trade Minister MacKinnon announced.

At the start of the current crop year farmers were permitted to have 40 bushels grieted, but the wheat was to be taken from the authorized quota. Then on July 6 Mr. MacKinnon announced that farmers could have 100 bushels grieted outside the quota.

LONDON.—Prime Minister Churchill accepted an honorary fellowship in the Council of the Royal College of Surgeons of England.

WEEDS, THE FARMERS' ENEMY

Weeds use up precious moisture and so decrease the yield of crops. Summerfallow offers a chance of getting rid of many weed plants. Another is to destroy weeds by cultivation and discs on summerfallow should be pulled by hand dried and burned before they set to seed.

The Dominion Government has just issued a most excellent new pamphlet entitled "Weeds and Weed Seeds". Every farmer would do well to write to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, and obtain a copy of this free booklet. It contains valuable information about killing many different kinds of weed plants.

Warm dry weather is needed throughout the Prairie Provinces — Prospects for Portugal's wheat crop are not bright; 1942 production is forecast at 120,000 tons as compared with 495,000 tons last year—Argentina's edible-oil production this year, as a result of the recent severe drought, is estimated at only 112,000 tons as compared with an estimated 200,000 tons in 1942.

South Africa's 1942-43 wheat crop is estimated at 12,500,000 bushels, as compared with 13,200,000 bushels in 1942 and the ten year average of 16,220,000 bushels—India's wheat crop for 1942 is forecast at 908,352,000 bushels as compared with 279,347,000 bushels in 1942.

MANY BREACHES OF W.P.T.B. REGULATIONS

OTTAWA. — At the rate of about 10 a day, Canadians appear for trial in the courts of the Dominion for violation of orders of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Four people a day are charged with violating the orders of the Controllers under the Department of Munitions and Supply. During the week June 19 to June 26, 62 persons appeared for violations of Prices Board rulings, and 21 under wartime orders of the Controllers.

Forty five persons were found guilty of price offences, one was acquitted. Overcharging in the sale of potatoes brought the largest number to court. Meats, butter, honey, syrup, candy, canned fruits and vegetables stripped up others.

For selling tires above ceiling levels an automobile supply company was fined $500.

Under food rationing regulations an Edmonton consumer was fined $150 and costs for purchasing sugar, coffee and butter without coupons.

Mr. Hamilton's new 2 young deer on the road Sunday as she was walking home from church. It seemed quite friendly, looked her over and Mrs. Hamilton did not run. The deer, after it leaped a wire fence and was away through the fields.

Sunday school will re-open Sunday Aug. 8 at 11 a.m. All children are invited to come and parents too — Sunday school used to be a good crop. Those having gone out for them can come back with profit.

The campaign, Stamp out the U Boat is over. Islay's quota was 250. We realized $276. We had 26 stamps-grams on our third sheet. The people here responded splendidly.

Mr. J. C. Mooney is visiting his daughter Mrs. Houston. He expects to be here for three months then return to Victoria.

The Islay Fruit store is having a coat of paint applied on the interior. It does brighten a spot, even one coat now and again.

We hope to paint the outside or the United church. Anyone who just loves to put on paint may have the opportunity. If not, then we hope to see it soon. Your help will be gratefully appreciated.

Islay sidewalks seem to be ashamed of it—meatless. Tall weeds and grasses have grown up to hide them. Well the walks are bad, and not just a little bit!

Mrs. O. Gallagher, Edmonton, is expected in Islay this week.

the weeds are young. Perhaps the best method, particularly with wild oats, is to cultivate in the summerfallow only after the weed plants are in the four or five leaf stage, usually when they are 3 or 4 inches above hish. for at this stage of their growth weed plants are usually quite weak Under no account, of course, should any weeds be permitted to set in seed; otherwise the land will again become badly impregnated. (Many of our Canadian weed plants each contain over 100 virile weed seeds.)

Good work requires, therefore, that the weed plants missed by cultivators and discs on summerfallow should be pulled by hand dried and burned before they set to seed.

Saving Up Meat Coupons Bad Idea

OTTAWA. — Saving up meat coupons to buy large supplies, such as roasts, at one time, is not approved on by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. This practise disrupts the distribution, bringing disappointment to many consumers. "It is in the interests of the people themselves to keep their meat purchases on as even a basis as possible from week to week," officials warn.

The machine in which a T. C. A. crew established on July 22-23, a new record for the Transatlantic crossing was a British-built "Lancaster".

There were 16,450,000 depositors in the Post Office Savings bank in Ot. Ontario, the middle of May. At the outbreak of war, there were about 11,500,000 depositors.

WILDMERE WINKS

Vermilion Fair is a thing of the past once more. While there was not much in the line of amusement for young or old, the grandstand performance was well worth seeing. It was really wonderful to see the reactions do the acts they did. Another thing one met neighbors and friends to chat with. We were pleased to meet again Mr. and Mrs. Hindmarsh o. Westlock. One matter we would like straightened out ere another exhibition rolls around is the age of children one has to pay for and it runs and trucks need a ticket. This year some sold for real small kiddies and trucks as well, while other got to free.

Miss Margaret Gilholme of Edmonton is spending Wednesday last at the writer's home. We were pleased to see her grown to such a fine young lady, since leaving our midst a few months ago. While she likes the city she says she likes her old home district of Bassano best yet.

Mrs. Sam York and baby daughter left for their home near Lac la Biche on Thursday morning last.

Mrs. Robert Martin and Doreen, Mrs. Guy Whitlock, Margaret and Hazel spent from Friday to Tuesday of this week with Mrs. Allew Riley of Vermilion.

Berna and Alice Scuffert of Vermilion have been visiting with their aunt Mrs. R. Martin, Wildmere.

George Cruthers was taken to the hospital on Saturday last. We trust he will be improved in health and be able to come home real soon.

Mrs. John Wilson visited a few days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. Cooley at Manville. Her sister and husband and two children Mr. and Mrs. A. Maple of Peace River country were also at Manville at the same time.

Gnr. Tommy Riley, Halifax, spent a short leave with his sisters and brother in Wildmere and his mother, Mrs. A. Riley in Vermilion. He left on his return to eastern Canada on Wednesday morning of this week.

Albert Howard of the R.C.A.F., who has a home on sick leave, left on Tuesday a.m. for his training centre again much improved in health.

Sgt. Norman Smith R.C.A.F. Edmonton, and Miss Mary Sauder of Bon Accord are spending a couple of weeks at Norman's home. Mr and Mrs. Adam Smith of Wildmere.

Gloria Morand is at present staying with her aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith, Bassano.

Mr. Theo. Wilson of Edmonton spent Sunday with his sister Mrs. A. Hole, Vermilion, John and George Wilson brother and uncle, spent Sunday in town with them.

We are pleased to hear that Rev and Mrs. Reible are getting settled in Vermilion. Mrs. Reible was a former school teacher at our school. We wish them every success in their new field and hope they will come out to our school some Sunday as did Mr. Risher.

Ted Riley, R.C.A.F., left on Saturday morning for his training centre again. Mrs. Riley did not accompany him this time but may go at some future date.

We noticed A.C. Bill Garnett at the Park on Saturday from the Edmonton Manning Pool.

C.P.R. Diesel-Electrics Speed Up War Freight

THIS sleek new diesel-electric locomotive pictured here is one of two which the Canadian Pacific Railway has added to the motive power in its Outremont shops, to speed up the movement of wartime freight through Montreal terminals. Built in the last few months these mates of the same type will be in service, capable of doing highly efficient work on a 24-hour basis in contrast to steam-powered locomotives which require servicing at 16-hour intervals. With the new diesel-electrics a locomotive can be released from yard service for longer haul runs where they are urgently needed to move war freight.

Needing to be refuelled only once every three days and inspected once a month as compared to the daily refuelling and inspection necessary with steam locomotives the diesel-electric units can haul a 6,000-ton load on level track at slow speed and have a starting tractive effort of 60,000 pounds. Their loaded weight is only 115 tons and they are powered with one six-cylinder 1,000 horsepower supercharged diesel engine which runs at 750 revolutions per minute. Their short length of 48 feet, 6 inches and low-wheeled driving trucks allow them to operate anywhere a box car can go — a decided advantage on certain sidings where track curvature is sometimes severe.

In preliminary tests the locomotives have been many on load, doing a strenuous eight hours of work on only 30 gallons of fuel oil. Other notable features found in the early designs of this type of power of some 20 years ago have been eliminated, according to H. B. Bowen, chief of motive power and rolling stock. The new engines were built by the American Locomotive Company, of Schenectady, N. Y., with the electrical equipment supplied by General Electric. The controls are so simple that little instruction was necessary to familiarize the driver, shown in the lower picture, with the operation.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Good are visiting their daughter, Mrs. E. Fowler and Mr Fowler of Edson.

Mr. and Mrs. Hindmarsh, formerly of Maughan, now residing near Westlock, are visiting in and about Vermilion. While here they attended the Vermilion Fair.

Mrs. Carleton of Clandonald is visiting her mother, Mrs. Barnwell at George Lake.

Lena Barnwell planned on leaving Monday to holiday with her sister, Mrs. L. Banks of Edmonton. The Misses Martin will accompany her also to visit in Edmonton.

Mrs. R. W. Taylor of Vancouver wishes to be remembered to all her friends in the district.

To meet the demand for railway ties for new and extended sidings, a demand rendered more difficult by the shortage of timber, the London, Midland and Scottish Railway have commenced to make simple concrete tie blocks in the west of Scotland. The blocks are produced entirely by female labor, and they turn out approximately 1,000 concrete ties each week.

RADIOGRAMS from Allard

From every corner of the globe, radio brings you in a flash the latest developments of the news. This is a vital service today, when news is being made almost every hour, and all of us are hungry for it. Since the personal habits or individuals vary widely, CJCA offers news broadcasts throughout the day, so that every listener may conveniently hear at least one newscast. Morning news periods are at 7:30, 8 and 10, the noon news at 12:30, afternoon news at 2:30, evening periods at 8, 10 and 11 with brief bulletins throughout the day on the hour.

• • •

One of the favorites, on the sober side, that we know our listeners enjoy greatly is "Comrades in Arms". During the long months when the Canadian forces were manning the Island Fortress and making ready for the vital parts they are to play in breaking down the axis ramparts,

"Comrades in Arms", the combined operations broadcast, brought a weekly report of their activities to listeners of the CBC. Today "Comrades in Arms" goes into the forward areas, alongside of the intensified ranks of Canada's land forces, to bring their story to the home folk.

The moment any Canadian fighting force goes into action on land or sea and in the air, public relations officers of the Canadian Army, the Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force commence their work of gathering material of news interest. Their reports are sent by the fastest possible means to Canada, for use on the air and in the press. Public relations officers have also as their duty, the expediting of reports written by war correspondents, and by members of the CBC's own overseas Unit. Heard over CJCA at 8.15 p.m. Fridays.

"GUPPIES" LIKE THEIR BASIC TRAINING HERE

Month Filled with New Experience

"You'll cry when you arrive but we'll bet fifty cents you'll cry when you leave."

Those were the words of Officers and N.C.O.'s at No. 7 Canadian Women's Army Corps Basic Training Centre at Vermilion to a recent group of recruits. They meant what they said because after the first few days trainees began to agree.

Perhaps the words Discipline and Order are quite terrifying to a group of supples who arrive at the training centre from many parts of Canada. Perhaps they have heard the words before but chances are most of the recruits fresh from civilian life are not prepared for the sheer of being commanded by women sergeants and corporals. But at the end of the month graduates sincerely say that they wouldn't have missed their basic training for anything. Ask them again . . . the answer will be the same: "It was simply grand."

One day is much like another at the centre. From reveille until "lights out" the daily schedule is followed to the minute. The six o'clock rising becomes such a habit that the girls almost have one eye open before the bugle blasts. At the eight o'clock inspection parade in the bright sunshine the Sergeant-Major's biting commands become almost musical and it doesn't take long to appreciate the instructor's roar during drill. Nobody seems to sleep during lectures—they are much too interesting. Even talks and special duties are fun and it's not been known for anyone to object to ABK to shine their corporal's buttons or Sidney Smith or Jack Dempsey into sing-songs. the daily learning the words of several C.W.A.C. songs and unlike high school days, P. T. is NOT referred to as physical torture!

The girls learn to live peacefully with several others in each room and there has been comparatively little friction during the long months when the Canadian forces were manning the Island Fortress and making ready for the vital parts they are to play in breaking down the axis ramparts.

Despite the many light showers, a good rain is needed to help the crop along. Farmers are dreading more or less the showers accompanied by high winds for fear crops will go flat again like last year. Some wheat was reported lodging and some barley down after the last windstorm.

Adam and Dunsen is breaking in a saddle horse for Arnot Brown and only got bucked off once, a pretty good feat, as the animal is pretty high spirited.

B.C.A. Van Ness, who used to run an elevator at Borradaile, passed through the district en route from Killam to Kitscoty. He left his youngest son John to spend the rest of his holidays at the Van Waeyenberg farm.

Joy King is spending a month at her parents' home in Thorncliffe after completing her business course in Edmonton.

A turkey gobbler of Mrs. Fortune's in the Hindville district got real bitters and wanted to try to raise some chicks himself. He found a nice nest, laid an egg or two and settled down to the life of a broody hen, finding it quite to his liking, as all he was found and the nest de stroyed. He was apparently quite disappointed as he returned three and again.

Over the week-end planes flew over and the fliers notice the people looking at them. Mr. C. Young acting on a military salute was pleasantly surprised to see the plane tip back wings in acknowledgment (on Sunday, only thirty came down low over Watson school and dipped one wing and then the other when they saw the people waving. One airman even waved back.

Rita Young has been visiting her sister Emily at the Gauthier farm.

Two storms have been experienced their small Shetland pony. Silver Lass, the guests of the H. Rankin family.

Everyone is searching the bushes for raspberries as the wild berries are plentiful in isolated spots, but it is worth looking for them as fruit prices are sky high this year. From one strawberry plot in a Woodvale garden 90 pounds of berries were picked in one week; it is estimated over 120 pounds were picked in all. Apparently fruit can be grown in the district. But this is nothing of consequence with B.C. where a boy or girl picked almost one ton of raspberries in three weeks.

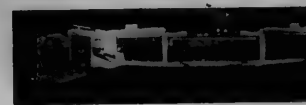
REMOVE THE BLACK TEETH FROM PIGLETS

(Experimental Farms News)

To raise strong healthy piglets from birth and to keep the sows gentle after farrowing the black teeth should be removed within three days after the pigs are born, says C. H. Anderson, Dominion Experimental Station, Beaverlodge, Alberta. By removing these black teeth, so named because of the dark color, the newly born piglets can get down to the serious business of their first feed without causing pain to the sow, if not removed these teeth very often pierce the udder of the sow with the result that she becomes very restless. She may get up quickly and in so doing crush one or more of the little pigs. The pain may be so severe as to cause the sow to refuse to nurse the litter. It is believed that many young piglets become stunted in early life because the black teeth are not removed at birth.

During the past season the young piglets born at the Beaverlodge Station have shown a tendency towards longer and sharper "black teeth" than formerly observed. The practice of the Station, as in many good herds, is to remove these teeth as soon as the pigs are born. The teeth should not be broken off carelessly as this may cause excessive bleeding if the break is close to the gums, but should rather be clipped off with a pair of small side-cutting pliers. Remove the black teeth from all newborn pigs to spare the sow and save the litter.

Mechanical Exhibit Shows Role of Food



Food is fuel for the fighting forces. This is the theme of the novel Line Elevators exhibit that is now touring fairs of Western Canada.

By the use of mechanically operated figures the exhibit demonstrates how food produced in Western Canada is distributed to fighting men at the battle fronts. One feature of the exhibit is a display of emergency and field ration kits for the army, navy and air force.

The central panel is divided into three sections each with an important message.

The section at the left shows the trade routes by which the food moves from Canada to the troops at the various centres. These are the exterior of the United Nations and tiny electric lights that move in endless procession along the scores of route represent the life blood of food pumped out from Western Canada.

The middle section is the most recent miniature trucks bringing the food to the advance supply bases from which the fighters are fed.

One other panel shows some of the obstacles that must be overcome if the food is to be supplied in quantities that will make eventual victory certain. Actually the panel depicts three freedoms that are almost as vital as the four freedoms listed in the Atlantic charter. They are: Freedom from weeds; freedom from insects, and freedom from erosion.

Freedom from weeds is demonstrated remarkable for mechanical ingenuity. It shows a mechanical derrick emptying a United Nations ship at some port in the fighting zone. The food is loaded into trucks and trains that move away to supply the troops.

The section at the right is a battle-front scene with mechanically operated in a section where seeds of some of the principal weeds may be seen through a microscope. To portray the need for battling insects a continually revolving wheel tells the life story of the Warble fly and a dozen Warble-penetrated hides show how severe is the damage caused annually by this pest. Freedom from erosion is the theme of a section where water runs over two sloping miniature fields of close-covered, other bare soil. The grass-covered field shows little effect, the bare field is terribly eroded.

Besides these views there are a number of motion pictures to be shown with the exhibit. They include: Battle for Harvest; Food Weapon of Conscience; A Heritage to Guard, and a number of other movies, including some comic shorts released by the National Film Board.

Approximately 40 million acres in the three Prairie Provinces are used for the grazing of live stock, which number considerably more than a million and three-quarters of horses, more than three millions and a half of cattle, and more than a million and a half of sheep.

We are reminded that Kate Smith introduced the song "God Bless America" about five years ago . . . that it became a "national anthem" within a few weeks . . . that President Roosevelt assigned responsibility for Kate's singing the song in "This is the Army"—that Kate has an article in the current True Story magazine—and that her recorded program for the navy in the services is now enjoyed by CJCA listeners. Kate Smith is everyone's favorite singing star, and is heard on CJCA at 2:30 on Monday, and again at 7:00 on Saturday. Hope to see you then.

Best Time for Cutting Hay

The best time to cut hay and other forage crops is late in the afternoon. All carbohydrates are manufactured by plants from carbon dioxide and water only in the presence of light. Tests made by agricultural colleges show that forage plant tissues contain the most food after a full day of sunshine. Farmers who cut such crops in the late afternoon instead of the morning will steer away in their barns and stacks hundreds of pounds more of actual sugar and starch for

49th Battalion (Loyal Edmonton Regiment) Association

The annual Church Parade of the 49th Battalion (Loyal Edmonton Regiment) Association will take place at Edmonton on Sunday, August 8th, 1943. The parade will "Fall In" on the march at 9.45 a.m. and move off at 10.30 a.m. The service will be held at the Parliament Hill grounds as usual. Medals and berets will be worn with brassards on the right arm. Motor cars will follow the parade both going and returning to pick up those who find the march rate much for them. The 2nd (Reserve) Battalion has been invited to attend and a cordial invitation is extended to all ranks of the 1st Battalion (now the Fifty) when they have returned to Edmonton. Captain the Reverend H. T. Sexsmith, Chaplain to the Association will conduct the service.

The annual luncheon after the parade will not be held this year due to the impossibility of making suitable

"Forty-Niner" magazine will be mailed to members before the Parade.

The brass and bugle bands of the 2nd Battalion will play for the parade.

Major General Griesbach will command the parade. 15-16

RECOGNIZE EFFORT TO BEAUTIFY THE ROAD

Any effort to beautify the highways of Alberta is deserving of full recognition and in fact this is something that warrants full encouragement.

Acting in this belief, the Alberta Motor Association proposes to honor the memory of the late Senator Patrick Burns, of Calgary, by erecting a memorial to his honor.

It is well known that Mr. Burns took especial interest in highway beautification and encouraged all such schemes.

At a recent meeting, directors of the A.M.A. decided to approach the provincial government for permission to erect the memorial. The association will bear the cost of obtaining the plaque and also bear any expense involved in making a permanent installation.

Highway beautification plans have been launched already in some sections of the province and it is anticipated that these will be extended in anticipation of the post-war period when motorists will see a unprecedented stream of tourist traffic.

ROWELL BULLETIN

A shower in the form of a surprise party was held in honor of Mrs. Robinson, a recent bride. Seventeen ladies visited her home where a very good time was enjoyed. She received many useful and pleasing gifts. Among those present was Mrs. Till, a visitor from Vancouver.

A good time was spent on Sunday at the Knutson home where 19 enjoyed a wiener roast. Those from out of the district were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Moses and the latter's mother, Mrs. Phillips of Battleford, Harry Perkins and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Moses.

Harry Perkins arrived home Saturday night for a week's furlough.

Grandma Till and Mrs. Rieble were recent visitors at the Dupuis home in Islay.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace were Sunday visitors at the Stewart home.

Mrs. Kendish has her father visiting her for a present.

The busy sewers met at the home of Mrs. Buford and although there were only five present a quilt was finished. Mrs. Repp attended in spite of the fact that she was coming for a threshing crew of eight.

The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Repp's on August 11th.

The next meeting of the Busy Bee's will be held at Mrs. Cannon's on Aug. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Cooper, Joyce, Evelyn and Gordon motored for supper on Thursday at the Sherwood home, visitors the same day were Mr. and Mrs. Lucas.

We are sorry to learn that two of the Hermanutz children have been confined in the hospital for some time. One was badly scalded and the other is suffering from swollen glands.

Visitors at the writer's this week were Mrs. F. Robinson, the Dodsley and Perkins families, Jim Repp, Dub, Shirley and Maxine Monaghan, Mrs. Coutts, Mrs. E. Rieble, Mrs. Kretchman and Ronald.

Iris Lind is visiting her aunt Mrs. Sutherland for a few days.

How many humble hearts have dipped
In you, and scrawled their manuscript!
Have shared their secrets, told their cares,
Their curious and quaint affairs?
Your pool of ink, your scratchy pen,
Have sped the lives of unborn men,
And watched young people, breathing hard,
Put Heaven on a postal card.

For The War Effort

Record Reduction In Freight Rates Aids Salvage Collection In West

The reduced less-than-carload freight rates for shipment of war salvage materials in the four Western Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia which came into effect recently, will be welcomed by western Voluntary Salvage committees and should result in increased deliveries of necessary raw materials to Canadian war industry.

Salvage of all kinds is a vital cog in Canada's war equipment wheel. National Salvage Headquarters in Ottawa recently set out a "Salvage Priority List" which should be followed by all patriotic Canadians who are cleaning up the scrap in their own homes and seeing to it that it reaches the local voluntary scrap depot.

First in importance at the present time is the collection of fats and bones. As many Canadians know this is a war-duration drive, which will help produce vital glycerine for explosives and other materials for war industries. Canada needs 35,000,000 pounds of rendered fats a year; from householders, hotels, restaurants and other establishments. The objective actually represents only about one ounce of fats per Canadian per week.

Ten thousand tons of old tires and tubes are urgently required by the end of the year.

Scrap metals of all kinds are needed, particularly the non-ferrous types, brass, bronze, and copper.

Rags for use in industrial plants to clean oil or machinery or to wrap delicate parts of munitions, or as wipers for the engines of planes used to train members of the Royal Canadian Air Force are on the "must" list. In this connection, cotton rags are the most important to salvage.

The salvage listed above is not the only type which should be collected, however. Any and every article has some use today, so get it out into the fight.

CITY OF RAGUSA

An oddity about the captured city of Ragusa is that its name is associated with one of Napoleon's marshals—Marmont. Napoleon made Marmont Duke of Ragusa. Later, when this Duke of Ragusa had a post at Paris, Marmont made a secret convention with the enemy and withdrew his force of 20,000 men from its assigned position, making the name synonymous with betrayal for generations of Frenchmen.

How To Get A Raise

The Newspaper Worker Who Uncovered Helped Himself

One morning when Sam Bennett was serving as acting city editor on a New York newspaper, a disgusted caller in saying that Charles Schwab had just been made president of the Steel Trust at a salary of a million dollars a year, Bennett reduced the item to a single paragraph and stuck it on an inside page.

When the editor came down and discovered the item he nearly exploded. "Bennett," he shouted, "why didn't you spread this all over the front page?" Don't you know that a young man getting a salary of a million dollars a year is a great story?"

"Boss", replied Bennett, a little wearily, "after a salary of over forty dollars a week I just don't know what to say about it."

That week Bennett got a raise.—Christian Science Monitor.

HAD HIS REASONS

It was late at night; the taxi had pulled up by the curb and Macpherson got out and began fumbling in his pocket. At last he handed the driver a coin.

"I have known gents what gives a bit more," grumbled the driver.

"Aye," said Macpherson. "That is why I asked ye to stop under a lamp."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

AUGUST 8

GOD SHOWS HIS PEOPLE THE WAY

Golden text: The Lord is my strength and song, and he is become my salvation. Exodus 15:2.

Lesson: Exodus 13—15.

Devotional reading: Psalm 77:11-20.

Explanations and Comments

I. Homeland Road to the Red Sea, Exodus 13:17-22. Moffatt's translation of the first two verses is: Now when the Pharaoh let the people go, God did not lead them along the road to the land of the Philistines, although that lay close at hand, for God thought that perhaps the people might have regrets and return to Egypt if they had to fight their way; so God led the people by a roundabout road in the direction of the desert toward the Red Sea.

It was only some two hundred miles from their starting place in Egypt to the border of Canaan where the Philistine dwelt, yet the Israelites were led the roundabout way and it was forty years before their descendants finally entered the Promised Land. That army of liberated slaves would have been at once overwhelmed by the Philistines, who in later years proved to be their most formidable enemies. They often defeated the Philistines but they never overcame them. Moreover, the roundabout way would the people have were necessary for their training, for they were a wholly undisciplined horde, unwilling to put up with difficulties and ready to return to slavery at every fresh testing-time.

Moses took the bones of Joseph with them as the patriarch had directed (Genesis 50:24-26). What a master proof than the presence with them of the mummy of Joseph in its sarcophagus could the people have had of their leader's faith in their eventual settlement in Canaan!

The Pursuit of Pharaoh's Force and the Panic among the Israelites, Exodus 14:1-14.

The Passage of the Red Sea, and the Destruction of the Egyptian Host, Exodus 14:19-31. Moses had kept a cloud front before the people, and had assured them of God's help. Then he evidently felt the need of a fresh assurance of God's presence with them, and he brought God's help. In response came rebuke as well as assurance. "Wherefore cried thou unto me? Speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward." It was a time for action.

And Jehovah caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all night and made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided. The children of Israel then crossed over on dry land, but when the Egyptians followed in pursuit, the waters returned and overwhelmed them.

BACK IN WAR

A Netherlands submarine which brewed a Japanese force of three destroyers, two corvettes, two planes and one tanker in the Java Sea more than a year ago arrived in Britain recently after an 18,000 mile voyage from the Netherlands East Indies by way of the United States. It is now serving with the war—this time in the Atlantic.

The use of lemon juice by sailors in the British Navy was made obligatory as an anti-scurvy tonic in 1795.

War In The Air

Loss Of Bombers Compared To The Ships They Cause

Bombing is an outstanding visible activity (how constantly we forget the invisible, indispensable activity of the Royal Navy), and Dr. Goebbels has been comforting his countrymen with the assurance that our admitted losses are such that the raids cannot be maintained long on the present scale.

That would not be of much consequence if it were not that the question were not being sometimes asked here whether we can afford losses of 44 a night. On that it may be observed that 44 a night is a maximum. The total loss of bombers in raids on Germany in June was less than 300. That, of course, is not negligible. It means something in money, and over 2,000 brave and highly-trained men; but by no means all the men are casualties; many are unhurt and prisoners of war.

Now trifling is such payment for the immense damage inflicted when compared, for example, with the damage done by submarines, which began on July 1, 1916, and resulted in the capture of a strip of territory 450 miles long and seven deep (other ultimate consequences must no doubt be taken into account) at the cost of 410,000 British casualties.

How do losses of aircraft compare with the supply? It is being very conservative to assume as output from the factories of Britain, the United States and Canada alone of 6,000 a month, or twenty times our present losses. When all allowance is made for the fact that only a proportion of these are heavy bombers, that there are losses in combat in other theatres than Germany and losses from accident everywhere, and that much of the output must go to Russia and China and the Pacific theatre, it will be seen that the day when Germany will restrict her air war against Germany is far from even beginning to look like dawning.—London Spectator.

Has Soldier Son

Lady Surprised Mrs. Roosevelt When She Gave Her Name

When Mrs. Roosevelt was over in England, she also visited Ireland. After she had spoken somewhere, an elderly lady came up to shake hands.

"I hope your sons who are serving," said the lady, "will all come home safely."

"Have you any relatives in the war," asked Mrs. Roosevelt.

"Yes," was the answer, "I have a son who is a soldier in the Middle East."

"May I ask your name?" said Mrs. Roosevelt as a gesture of courtesy.

"Montgomery," was the reply.

It was Lady Montgomery, the mother of the Eighth Army's commander.—Financial Post.

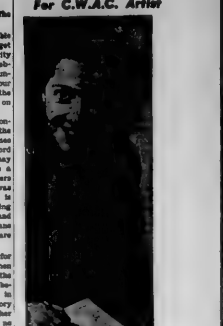
Art Gallery Honor For C.W.A.C. Artist



L-CPL. MOLLY LAMB

The honour of having three of her drawings hung in the Toronto Art Gallery has been awarded to Lance-Corporal Molly Lamb of the Canadian Women's Army Corps. These drawings depict scenes from the daily routine of a CWAC, and are drawn from Cpl. Lamb's own experience in the Corps.

Daughter of Mrs. A. M. Williams of Galiano Island, B.C., 21-year-old Molly has been studying art most of her life. She is a graduate from the Vancouver School of Art, and has studied showings in London, England, and in San Francisco, U.S.A. Last year, Molly had a showing of fourteen canvasses in the Vancouver Art Gallery.

Molly enlisted in the C.W.A.C. in November, 1942. She took her basic training at Vermilion, Alta., as N.C.O. course in Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., and a draughting course in Toronto, Ont. At the present time she is doing mechanical drawing with the C.W.A.C. in Ottawa.

HAS HIS OWN RECIPES

There are no cookbooks in the school Chief Petty Officer Edward Hoswell runs for Royal Navy cooks—but he is the navy's oldest sea cook—he enlisted in 1905—and he has his own recipes. So the students study the preparation of such salty dishes as lobscouse, Irish stew, Chinese wedding cake, bangers and mash, Norfolk dumplings.

LETTER TO MOM

The alarm clock rang at seven the next morning. Homer shot it into pieces. Then got out his baby buggy-bed outfit. He opened the book at Homer Seven and went to work with his elastic stretcher.

Ulysses was awake. He sat up on his pillow, turned up his fifth freckled face. "Hey, Going to be an extra guest-man in the world? Going to be a giant?"

"Naah!" Homer exercised rhythmically. "I'm gonna be a track man. I'm gonna run the mile a hour hurdles today and try to win."

"Why?"

"Because it's the big race of Ithaca High."

Ulysses nodded. That sounded reasonable. "All right, Homer, you run the twenty two, the twenty two, the twenty two."

He was still chanting the fascinating words as Mrs. Macauley called them to breakfast. Homer's entry in Stan was already at the table. So was Mary Anne. She was Marcus' girl, the daughter of "home folks" who lived next door.

Homer didn't pay much attention to the girl's talk until they started that business of getting jobs and going to work. "What about that Ma?" he demanded. "Her getting ideas like that?

His brother laughed softly. "Why it's perfectly natural for a couple of girls to want to get out and flap their wings."

Homer stuffed some sausage in his mouth and frowned. "I thought I was going to be the work around here. I don't think Marcus would want the girls to . . ." He stopped indignantly. "They weren't paying any attention to him, just whispering together." Silly girl talk. He jumped up and grabbed his cap. Couldn't be late to school today. "Oh well. See you tonight when I get home, Ma."

The classroom was filled on the dot of nine. Homer brushed past Helen Elliot, and she gave him a look he put a newly cut rose on her desk. Then he went across the room to his seat and sat there, adoring her brunette beauty.

Miss Hicks started the day's session and Homer was off in his thoughts. A lot of things were bothering him. He knew he was in love with Helen. And he had that job. He was earning a living like a grown man. School didn't mean a right now. It was for kids who didn't know about life.

He stiffened suddenly. That Hubert Ackley. The big ox. He was whispering to Helen, trying to cut in on him. And he had taken the rose and put it in his lapel.

One of the pupils was giving a long dissertation to the class on conquering Assyrians.

Homer jerked his feet and blurted out: "How about Hubert Ackley the Third? Who did he conquer or what did he do?" Ackley rose like a jack-in-the-box. Homer yelled. "Sit down."

Ackley was fierce in retort. Well, at least no Ackley has ever been a common fanfaron, a hoodlum, a braggart, a . . ."

The class was charmed by the memory of the two boys quarrelling. It all ended dramatically with Miss Hicks declaring that she hoped would have to stay in after school. And everybody knew that they were rivals in the track meet that afternoon. It had all the elements of romance.

When the day dragged by somehow and only Homer and Ackley were left Miss Hicks said calmly, "I'm not keeping you in to punish you, boys. I've kept you here in that a better understanding will come out of all this."

Ackley snapped, "He had no right to talk about me like that."

Homer glared at him. "What's the matter with you? You scared? I think you're better than the other boys. And trying to make Helen Elliot believe that too," he fumed.

Firmly, Miss Hicks cut in. "You will both learn that every man in the world is better than someone else. In a democratic state every man is the equal of every other man up to the point of exertion and after every man is free to exert himself or do good or not, to grow nobly or foolishly. I am eager for my boys and girls to exert themselves to do good and to grow nobly. I want you to understand that each of you will begin to be real men in the truly human whom, in spite of your differences with one another you still respect one another. That is what it means to be civilized."

A hush fell over the room after she had spoken.

It was then Mr. Blenton, the coach, came in. Blenton was famous as he demanded that Miss Hicks release Ackley for the track meet. And Homer he told her of Ackley's barnyard, of his courtesy, his obedient character. He rose up bringing. It was all a little sickening because everybody knew that Blenton was always licking the boots of the well-to-do.

"Come on Ackley," he wound up. "I'm giving you permission to take a day off from school."

Ackley sent a startled, sidelong look at Miss Hicks. Then he scurried out after the coach.

Homer stood there and did a slow turn. "Well, Miss Hicks, you saw that. Is that democratic? Is that being civilized?"

He didn't know it but Miss Hicks, as noble as the words you preached was weeping in her heart. "It certainly isn't," she flared. She blew her nose. "And that Mr. Blenton doesn't know the first thing about sportsmanship." She was speaking almost to herself. "I've been good this rushed aside by his kind . . . the kind who go through life, lying and cheating, loading it on those who think are their superiors and covering out men who are above such treachery." Her eyes went straight to Homer. "The two twenty low hurdles indeed. Huh! You go on that field Homer Macauley and go out to win."

Homer whistled. Miss Hicks was unexpected. "Gee, I didn't know that teachers are human beings like anybody else." It sounded so tiny compared to his feelings. He threw in for good measure. "And belief too."

Her smile was misty. "Homer when you leave this school long after you have forgotten me I shall be watching for you in the world." He had turned and was off like a flash. "I will be watching you."

At the athletic field, three of the fellows including Ackley were already in the lanes. The starter was standing at his watch, his pistol in readiness.

A low murmur went up from the spectators as they saw Homer Homer giggled nuddie himself as he caught a glimpse of Helen looking maiden's a hornet. Then Ackley got to the line and the heat he let out was music to Homer's ears.

"How did you get here?" he demanded.

"I was civilized," Homer retorted loftily.

"You haven't got a chance."

"Oh, a fortune teller." Homer chirped. His eyes were on the starter. "Well, confidentially I'm going to win."

"Who says so?"

"Miss Hicks."

The starter's voice rang out. "On your mark! Get set!" There was the loud report of his pistol.

Homer and the others and the crowd and in that instant they all felt mouth as one as if they were members of one big cheering family.

Homer's running legs quaked. This wasn't just a race. It was the test of a strange upsurge of love for Miss Hicks, for nobility. Miss Hicks. And it was a way of proving that he was a civilized man in the better man. And maybe it was to show Helen Elliot that she ought to concentrate on a champ like Homer Macauley.

(The outcome of this race means a lot to Homer. He must make plans for the Miss Hicks and Helen. And he must prove to himself that the Sweet way is the truly civilized way. Don't miss Homer in next week's installment.)

ENLIGHTENING MOMENTS

The merchant seaman was visiting at the home of a generous and patriotic woman who, despite her eagerness to help the war effort, wasn't too well versed about things.

"And there I was on the aft deck," said the seaman, "when all of a sudden I saw a torpedo plunging straight for me."

"My goodness," replied the hostess, cheerfully, "I do hope it was one of ours."—Tit-Bits.

Meat Roll-Up

Hyed makes a wonderful meat extender and has many uses other than stuffing. The individual meat roll-up pictured above uses bread to make a very little left over meat or fresh hamburger go a very long way.

The recipe is one that has been tested in the Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture.

Meat Roll-Up

(1 coupon—6 servings)

1 thsp fat
2 thsp. chopped onion
1 lb. hamburger
1 cup tomato sauce or ketchup
Salt, pepper and seasonings to taste
Reheated gravy or canned tomatoes to moisten
Loaf fresh bread
Maple sugar, in melted fat—add hamburger and cook, stirring well with a fork to keep meat separate. Add other ingredients using just enough gravy or canned tomatoes to make the mixture easy to spread.

Cut 6 thin slices lengthwise from the loaf of fresh bread trim crusts. Spread each slice with meat mixture and roll. Brush rolls with melted dripping. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375F., until golden brown and crisp, about 20 minutes.

Serve with gravy or tomato juice.

Left over cooked meat may be used instead of hamburger omitting the fat and using meat and other ingredients without cooking.

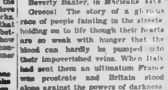
A Glorious Race

People Of Greece Have Fought On Against Tremendous Odds

Beverly Baxter, in Maclean's says Greece! The story of a glorious race of people fainting in the streets holding on to life though their hearts are so weak with hunger that the blood can hardly be pumped into their impoverished veins. When Italy had sent them an ultimatum France was prostrate and Britain stood once against the powers of darkness. Yet Greece, steeped in the glory of her ancient history, said, "We shall fight."

And when Italy was thrashed almost to a standstill Germany too sent an ultimatum and Greece said "We fight on while one Greek can hold a sword."

Our own story is glorious enough but what tribute can words pay to a little nation which had no chance of victory but could only take the arrows into its breast.



Youth Organizations

The Mobilization Of The Youthful Population Will Help In Peacetime

For some time now, Britain's youth has been mobilized for war, and for the Peace that follows. At the beginning of the war, the Old Country was faced with a youthful population whose work had to be directed into the proper channels. Fathers were absent in the Armed Forces, and mothers were working in the munitions factories. Neither could properly look after their children.

Faced with this problem Britain, therefore, set up a Committee known as the National Youth Committee. Its object was to look into the welfare of all the young people who were between the ages of fourteen and eighteen.

The first step taken was to set up Youth Committee branches in every locality.

In the proposals for the Youth Committees it was suggested that the boys and girls should not be interfered with, or pushed, or directed, in the accepted "school" manner. Although the branches were to start up new activities and train leaders, the young people were to be given an opportunity to act for themselves.

In the southern country of Suffolk, the organization grew which was known as the Youth Service Corps. This organization was begun, and its activities directed by the boys and girls themselves. They helped the farmers to weed their gardens and to harvest their own gardened in the towns for their neighbors, delivered parcels for shop keepers when they were busy, collected salvage, collected salvage materials of all kinds, and did a hundred and one other odd jobs. They even did baking.

This service caught the imagination of the boys and girls and spread like wildfire. Within a few months there were service squads, following the general pattern of the original Suffolk Youth Service Corps in every county.

This concerted work of Britain's youth has proved a boon particularly to the mother's farm era. In the harvest time this work has partially filled the gaps in farming. In other words, the boys and girls have done equally well. They have collected over 120 million dollars in salvage and in their School War Savings Groups.

No new youth organizations have been created in Canada during wartime but the old national societies such as the Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. are doing fine work and helping in the picture of total war Organizations such as the Canadian Red Cross, St. John Ambulance Association and others are concentrating almost one hundred per cent on war efforts.

The Canadian Government is considering developing a similar scheme as the Youth Service Corps in England and recently a meeting was held in Ottawa chaired by Major General L. R. LaFleche of the National War Services department to discuss harnessing the effort of youth between the ages of 11 and 18.

The Youth Services department of the Wartime Information Board is currently making a survey of the activities indulged in by Canada's youth and leaders of youth groups across the Dominion are reporting their activities to this department.

Nature Steps In

Blue Foxfield Canada With Two New Openings To Sea

Nature has turn d the tables on the map makers who drew the Canada Alaska boundary on the Alaskan panhandle and has provided Canada with two openings to salt water that were only discovered recently.

Under the Alaska boundary dispute, in which a British American commission drew up a settlement, the boundary was surveyed on a line most closer than 10 miles to the sea. This Canada cut off possible harbors in northern B.C. The Alaskan panhandle contains harbors like Skagway and Juneau.

Recent investigations of defence conditions in the B.C. Alaskan area have demonstrated that in two inlets glaciers have melted back beyond the Canadian frontier a few miles inland. Word of the discovery was brought back to Ottawa by the permanent joint defence board which recently inspected Alaska defence works.

May Become Business

Raising Ships Likely To Become Larger Post-War Activity

The Normandie in shortly to be righted after more than a year on its side in New York's North River. In the Firth of Forth, the British have lately completed a job of salvage on another ship which in its day was the largest afloat—the naval training craft, Caledonia, formerly the Majestic, of the Cunard-White Star fleet.

The account of its salvage is typical of stories, now not used or relegated to back pages, as news copy for tidings from the battle front, which in better times would command the fascinated attention of the world. The Majestic, a 56,600-ton ship went down several years ago in deep water at an outbreak of fire. Ordinarily it is a cargo which attracts the salvers, but in this case it was 48,000 tons of precious steel needed for the war. The work was put in charge of Capt. C. G. Bonner, holder of the Victoria Cross for heroism in the Q-boat war on submarines in '17. Eighteen hundred ports, as well as hull openings, had to be sealed by divers before the great ship was pumped dry. This done, she was raised at the first attempt.

In the past, jewels and bullion and even ivory have been the lure. It may be that mining the sea and river bottoms for metal in the shape of sunken hulls will become a larger post-war activity. The Standard in the one year of 1936 raised 55 vessels among them a British sub, sunk by Kronstadt in 1918. With improved salvage methods and an abundance of victims of the present wars to be worked on, an enterprise essentially romantic even in its quest for prosaic steel may become a business.—Detroit News.

DON'T ALWAYS STUMBLE FOR THE RIGHT WORD

"All right, I don't mean a deer, "Strong as a moose," "white as snow," and you realize how they add to the effectiveness of the person's speech.

Perhaps subconsciously those people cultivate their speech, but it is more likely that they have tried consciously to improve themselves and made their conversation more interesting.

It is not difficult to develop bright phrases. Instead of saying just simply "straight" you might say "straight as an arrow"—it seems so much more vivid and explicit.

Learn how to combine adverbs with verbs phrases such as "laugh uproariously" or "laugh silently." These help make your speech effective in the striking adjectives phrases, for example, "considerable ability" or "startling ability."

All these and many other expressions are included in our 32-page booklet, which shows you how words can be combined into phrases which are appropriate and effective.

Using the right phrases lend force and color to both speech and writing and helps you get ahead both socially and in business. Learn to express yourself.

ACTUAL WORK COMMENCED ON ANGLICAN CHURCH PROJECTS

Gas Being Installed

The ladies of the Anglican church have made a handsome donation in aid of the dual projects of the parishioners, namely the installation of gas in the church and rectory and the redecoration of the interior of the church. It is hoped that the fine work done by the ladies will spur on every Anglican in the parish to do his or her bit, and to make it a point to give their contribution within a few days. The goal is within reach but a little more help is needed and the name of every Anglican is desired on the contribution list. Your donation may be made to Tom Watts, Bobbell or the rector, W. Leversedge.

Installation of the gas in the church has already started together with the reconditioning of the furnaces.

CANTON - WATSON RED CROSS

A meeting was held at the home of Mrs. D. Watson of Hindville with eight members present on the afternoon July 28th. A quilt was finished in the afternoon and seven pieces of sewing were turned in and four given out.

It was decided to send $129 of the $12344 so kindly donated to the auxiliary by Mrs. Oldenburg and the ladies who sponsored the dance and booth on July 9th, to the Vermilion branch and buy bedding, chalks and other needed sewing accessories with the remaining money.

The next meeting will be on Aug. 18 at the home of Mrs Van Wassenhove. Another quilt is to be worked that afternoon.

Dobbin's Hair Has War Use

OTTAWA — My farmer whose son is with the airforce over Germany, won't think the request to save the combings from manes and tails of his horses too unusual. Hair, from the tails and manes of horses is used for shock pads for army tanks, cushions for army vehicles. Hair from the tail makes brushes to clean guns, clean the wings of bombers, fighter and transport planes. And there is a great need in Canada for horses' hair for these purposes.

If the farmer has two bars at hand, and can clean the combings from the mane in one bag, and from the tail in another, he will be contributing to the effort to keep the wings of the airforce free and flying.

There are approximately 1,100 members of the Women's Timber Corps in Scotland. They are felling, cross-cutting, working at sawmills and driving tractors and horses.

Warm Weather Lowers Cream Quality

Prompt and efficient cooling of cream is essential at any time, but during the hot weather we are likely to experience during the present month, it is of paramount importance.

Water is the best cooling agent—it has twenty-one times the cooling power of air at the same temperature. The cream producer wishing to ensure top grades and top prices would be well advised to construct an inexpensive farm cream cooling tank which can be placed between the pump and stock tanks. Plans for such a tank will be supplied free of charge to anyone writing the Dairy Branch, Department of Agriculture.

WEDDING BELLS

KOREN—MEYERS

A pretty wedding took place in the Catholic church, Clandonald, Alta., on July 26th when Miss Pearl Meyers of Clandonald, became the bride of Mr. Louis Koren, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Koren of Rosylvia, Alta. The Rev. Father MacPhee performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a long gown of white satin with long veil and carried a bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid Miss Agnes Doyle wore a long pink sheer dress with veil and carried a bouquet of roses. Frank Koren, brother of the groom was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served by the Sisters of St. Joseph's Academy, Clandonald. Misses Betty O'Neill and Marjorie Schoonmaker assisting.

The wedding party left later for the groom's parents where a wedding dinner was served to friends and neighbors of the bride and groom.

In the evening a dance was held in the St. Columbus hall in their honor. After a honeymoon spent at points west Mr. and Mrs. Louis Koren will reside on the groom's farm north of Rosylvia.

CHRISP—POWELL

On Tuesday July 27th a pretty wedding took place at Holy Name church when Mary Powell became the bride of Richard Chrisp. They were married with Nuptial Mass by Very Rev. Father O'Sullivan. Mrs. Duncan Carey, sister of the bride, acted as matron of honor, and Jimmy Powell was best man.

Music suitable for the occasion, were sung by Frances Antoine. The happy young couple are well known residents of the Turkey Hill district.

FREDERICK—LIPPERT

Knox Church manse, Lloydminster, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, July 24th, when Miss Emma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Lippert of Vancouver, and John Kay, son of Mr and Mrs. John Kay, of Lone Butte, B.C., were united in the bonds of matrimony.

The bride was becomingly dressed in rose crepe with white accessories, and she wore a wreath of rose in her hair.

Mrs. A. Lang was matron of honor, she wore a dress of pink crepe with white accessories. The groom was supported by Mr. A. Lang, as best man. Mrs. T. Thompson was present at the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Andrew Walker, minister of Knox church.

The newly wedded couple will reside at Vermilion where the groom is engaged in farming. They are both highly respected and their numerous friends join in wishing them much happiness for many years to come.

CURRENCE FLASHES

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Samuelson are spending a week in Edmonton on holiday and are visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Air Grew and daughters Barbara and Clara are spending a week at Beba Beach, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Irving who have a summer cottage there. Farmers deserve a holiday and a rest away from the hard work of the farm this summer.

Donna May spent a nice day visiting the Brook kiddies while her brother Boyd was doing chopping there.

Miss Reta Mabry is spending the summer holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mabry at the farm home here.

Little Marjory Brook, who is just 18 months old, was outdoors playing and found a fresh egg. When her mother came along the little child had a hole in the egg and was drinking it in the old-fashioned way and bragging it.

This writer received a letter from the old home town in Scotland which said in part that a large number of Canadian boys are stationed at an army camp there and wondered if any Vermilion boys were among them. All the churches have rubs for the soldiers boys and they are all treated well. Vermilion boys will be doubly welcomed

The passengers arriving on the plane stated that the new Canadian Government trans-Atlantic air service has attracted widespread interest in Britain and was hailed as marking a great advance in the transportation facilities between the two parts of the Empire. It was also warmly welcomed by all the fighting forces of the Dominion arranged in the Burma-Assam and African theatres of operations as providing a speedy means of communication with their families and friends in Canada.

VEGETABLE STORAGE

Storage of vegetables for winter should be planned now states Mr. H. Wilson, Field Crops Commissioner. Victory gardens will produce sufficient vegetables for the needs of each family for the entire winter months, provided, of course proper winter storage facilities are used.

Potatoes or root vegetables may be left until digging time to repair or build root cellars. All too well we recall the early winter season of 1942 when many bushels of good vegetables were either stored under poor conditions. Many cellar were ventilated and insulated against heat and frost should be prepared by every commercial vegetable grower.

Because of the perishable nature of the crop, many growers may hope to market their product directly from the field. The market however, is limited to what it can handle at any one time and such practices should be avoided in the best interests of the grower and the consumer. Orderly marketing throughout the season will insure a more economical use of the crop.

Root delay! Plan storage facilities now

"Farm for Victory" Committee Holds Organization Meeting

W. L. Robinson Appointed Chairman — Resolutions Passed re Pay for Soldier Help; Shotgun Shell Supply; Welding Permits.

An organization meeting of the local Farm for Victory committee was held in the office of the District Agriculturist on Saturday night, Aug. 7th.

The program was explained by E. H. Buckingham, who stated that the immediate purpose of the committee was concerned with labor for harvesting. Applications for help should be made out at the office of the District Agriculturist immediately. The labor situation does not appear to be any more promising than last year but the more applications forwarded from a district to the Selective Service offices, the more help can be expected.

Several resolutions were passed. One resolution asked for a good supply of shotgun shells for shooting ducks destroying grain after it is cut. Another resolution asked that qualified mechanics be granted temporary permits to operate welding outfits owing to the urgency of repairs for farm machinery and not enough operators to do the work.

The meeting protested the arrangement, recently announced, whereby farmers and threshers would be required to pay $4 per day straight time for members of the armed forces employed as harvest laborers. It was agreed that pay for days worked at threshing or threshing was the only fair arrangement.

W. L. Robinson was appointed as chairman of the Vermilion group with Bob Hopkins as secretary. The other members are Donald Harrison, Ed Hart, Andrew Ribkewitz, Basil Hapsier, Roy Walker, Maxson Barr, George Nostman, Jim Tovell, Pat Cummings, George Shepherd, Wm. McCrae and George Brown

VERMILION TO HAVE POLICE COURT ROOM

According to a resolution passed at last week's meeting of the town council, Vermilion will shortly have a police court room, the urgency of which was stressed in a communication from Mayor Morrison to the Council and upon which necessary action was taken. The room is at present occupied by soldiers employed at the Training Centre and was let to them by the Council when the Centre was built last year in order to assist in getting the barracks established and in operation. The room is on the fire hall, is convenient to the cells and regarded as very suitable for this purpose. Police court cases are now heard either in the police magistrate's private office or the Legion hall and sometimes the fire hall. It will also be used for the convenience of the police service.

THIS ALBERTA GIRL'S AMONG C. W. A. C. GRADUATES

Coinciding with the first anniversary of the opening of No 2 Canadian Women's Army Corps Basic Training Centre, Vermilion, Alta., 102 trainees graduated this week end after a month's fundamental training.

Of the graduates 34 are from B.C., 28 from saskatchewan, 25 from Manitoba, 10 from Alberta and two from Ontario. Three girls from the United States came to enlist in the C.W.A.C. at Vancouver.

The girls have left for postings at various military camps and establishments throughout Canada.

They include L. Rose A. Cloutier, Ballater, Cassie G Pashko, Beauvallon; Phyllis E. Piper, Black Diamond; Cassie M.I.T. Fedoschiuk, Blairmore; Florence L. Chalmers, Clandonald; Elaine L. Hall, Donalda; Marjorie M. Fletcher, Edmonton; Dorothy E. Smyth, High Prairie; Wanda H Neilson, Mountain View; Sarah M. McBride, Spirit River.

Lieut. Eunice Robertson will be in Vermilion on Saturday Aug. 28th for the purpose of interviewing recruits for the Canadian Women's Army Corps. She will be at the Canadian Legion hall from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. that day.

CHINESE RELIEF FUND SPONSORED BY LEGION

Donations Now Being Taken

During the conduct of the present war there have been many and varied funds sponsored by national organizations in Canada and in the Vermilion district the Canadian Legion has taken a leading part in raising money to assist the peoples of the countries less happily situated than ourselves; the latest fund to receive the consideration of the Government of Canada in that which is now being raised for the benefits of the gallant and suffering people of China.

For years the people of China have borne the brunt of invasion and have sacrificed their all that their national rights might be preserved; their sacrifice has been a torch to other nations of the world and it is assured that the people of Canada will rally to the call which has gone out for financial aid for the relief of the untold sufferings of this great people.

Vermilion district people will have an opportunity of assisting Chinese people by way of making contributions to the Chinese Relief Fund which opens this week and which must be closed before the end of August; subscriptions will be received by the following on behalf of the Canadian Legion, all donations will be acknowledged through the columns of the Bitmonton papers and deductions may be made from income tax returns.

Those who have been good enough to offer to accept donations are: R.H. Bell, Asg; H. Rigvlbol, Clandonald; H. Batty, Kitscty; Tans. Waits Lane's Drug and Book, A. C. Heckbert, Star Cafe, Boston Cafe, Columbia Theatre, Vermilion.

Every effort is urged to make a subscription to this fund at the earliest possible date and to make the donation just as large as possible.

TOWN NUTS QUOTA OF "DEPTH CHARGES"

Owing to the energetic work of the chairman of the committee in charge, Billie Pilkie Jr., Vermilion went over the top in the July campaign for the sale of war savings stamps. The quota set for the town was $150 sufficient to purchase 5 depth charges at $30 each. Mr Pilkie reported that over $200 had been sold.

Subscription chiefs are being appointed by each local Legion branch for each district this autumn.

Volunteers will record the cash and book up-to-date sales and give this service as obligation as is in touch with their local ration board, and will be capable of giving out ready response to requests for information they may be always received.

Received that application of W. J. Pooks for position of town electrician be accepted, effective Aug. 16, at a salary of $125 plus 10 per month cost of living bonus.

Resolved that lot 22 blk. 30, plan 6287V be sold to F. Hildebrand for the sum of $25.

Resolved that the rink gymnasium and showers be closed for the summer months August and September as from this date.

Resolved that a letter of inquiry, regarding post war plans for a water and sewage system be directed to the proper Federal department.

Secretary instructed to write Utilities, M.D No. 12 and Prov. Government.

Subject to confirmation of council.

LOCAL RATION BOARDS ORGANIZE TO ISSUE RATION BOOK No. 3

Dates for distributing ration book 3 are August 23, 24, 27, and 28th, selected because most of the coupons in ration book 2 expire Sept. 2, and it is essential that the new ration books be in the hands of the public prior to that date

As formerly, it will be necessary to fill in the postal card at the back of ration book 2, stating name, address, prefix letters and number of ration book. Please print name and address officials plead

In each district posters displayed prominently in public places will announce the location of distributing centres, and hours during which they will be open

Distributing chiefs are being appointed by each local ration board for each district this autumn.

Volunteers will record the cash and book up-to-date sales and give this service as obligation as is in touch with their local ration board, and will be capable of giving out ready response to requests for information they may be always received.

June Production in Vermilion Oil Field Is 6,092 Barrels

Big Increase Expected for July and August

There were 6,092 barrels of crude oil produced from the Vermilion field in June, the latest month for which figures have been issued by the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board. The entire production was from oil producers as no wells drilled in 1943 had yet been placed on production at that time.

A sharp increase may be looked for in July and August when production from some of the new wells, including the new Holly No. 1, the biggest producer in the field to date, and some of the Canmar wells, will probably be recorded.

VERMILION MOURN BOY IS KILLED OVERSEAS

Grandson of Mr. and Mrs. S. Barwick

Flying Officer Peter Ronald Benjamin Listowel of the Royal Air Force has been killed overseas. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lance Listwood now residing in Victoria, B.C. Their second son was killed over Germany two years ago. Their eldest son, Gerald, narrowly escaped with his life from disastrous landing in Ceylon by plane and is now on his way to England on leave.

All of the boys were born in Vermilion. They are grandsons of Mr. and Mrs F. Barwick.

Still Use Plenty of Natural Gas

Natural gas consumed in Vermilion during the month of June was 8,000,000 cubic feet. This was nearly 2 million cubic feet less than in the month of May, but is nearly twice as much as that consumed in June 1942 when the amount was 5,127,000 cubic feet.

Voluntary Gifts For Prosecution Of The War Reach Large Sums

Apart from the contributions made by British Colonial Governments towards the cost of their local military forces, the voluntary gifts from the Colonial Empire towards the prosecution of the war now total over £28,000,000 ($102,120,000). Money gifts fall into two main groups —gifts for the prosecution of the war and gifts for war charities; and they have come from every part of the Colonial Empire.

The United Kingdom is providing a great deal of machinery and other equipment to the Colonies in spite of wartime restrictions in supply. Amongst many items of machinery sent out are: rice-milling machines to British Guiana, 10,000 new tools for Northern Rhodesia, eight trucking mills for the expanding dairy and stock farming industry in Kenya. Great Britain is also providing instructional films on the use of modern equipment to East African labourers who are using caterpillar tractors, mechanical diggers and other equipment in the construction of roads and aerodromes.

Water For Poultry

Water Is A Most Important Necessity In Egg Production

In view of the large number of eggs required this season to fulfill the contract with Britain and to supply the domestic demand, the Dominion Department of Agriculture stresses the importance of water for poultry. Birds need an abundance of clean, fresh water before them at all times, especially at laying time—the early morning and afternoon. Lack of sufficient water means lowered egg production. A bird seeks a drink of water the first thing after leaving its nest, and birds will drink more water when it is kept fresh than when it is changed only once a day. Water should be renewed often and containers cleaned at least once daily. Egg quality also is lowered when birds are forced to drink dirty stagnant water.

Birds have no sweat glands. They depend on their lungs to throw off body moisture. Prolonged lack of water means parched lungs and suffering.

Says First Ticket

Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario minister of labor, had the honor of buying Ticket No. 1, Canadian Pacific Air Lines, when he made a charter flight from Regina to Saskatoon to attend the funeral of his brother, John Heenan, Sutherland, Sask. The Regina office of Canadian Pacific Air Lines was allotted the first book of passenger tickets to be put on sale over the system, and Mr. Heenan happened to purchase the very first one of the series. With him on the flight was his nephew, Peter Heenan, of Vancouver, son of the late John Heenan. At top in above picture is the ticket which the Ontario labor minister bought and below Mr. Heenan is seen (centre) purchasing it. At right is J. L. Green, district traffic manager, C.P.A.L.

Speed Of Animals

Antelope Said To Travel At Rate Of 60 Miles Per Hour

Jack rabbits under the stimulus of being chased by an automobile, have been clocked at 45 miles per hour. Under the same conditions a young buck deer reached 48 miles. Pronghorn antelope have frequently been measured in full flight from automobiles and airplanes at a top speed of 60 miles an hour. Thus the antelope is a mile away by the time that the rattlesnake has just started. However, the rattlesnake relies on poison rather than speed to save himself.—Calgary Herald.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

AUGUST 15

GOD PROVIDES FOR HIS PEOPLE

Golden text: Give us this day our daily bread. Matthew 6:11.

Lesson: Exodus 16; 17.

Devotional reading: Psalm 87: 6-11.

Explanations and Comments

The Marvellous Bread of the Lack of Food, Exodus 16:1-8. This is the third recorded "murmuring" of the Israelites. It is the fifteenth day of the second month, and they have come to the wilderness of Sin. "Would that we had died by the hand of Jehovah in the land of Egypt," when we sat by the fleshpots, when we did eat bread to the full!" they wailed, and they accused Moses of having brought them forth into the wilderness to kill them all with hunger. They have already forgotten the hardships of the life of bondage, the Lashmar's lash and all the cruelties they were forced to endure. Their spectacles of regret magnified past blessings and dwarfed past sufferings. Murmurers still have short memories.

Food in Promised, Exodus 16:4-12. "Your murmurings are not against us, but against Jehovah." Moses said to the people, as he told them that God had heard their murmurings and would send them flesh to eat in the evening and bread in the morning, and that they should know that he is Jehovah—know it by this manifestation of his power and care.

The Manner of the Food Provided, Exodus 16:13-15. At evening quails came up and covered the camp. In March and April quails come from the bright of Africa to Syria . . . on the peninsula of Sinai, and in the Red Sea region. Being heavy birds they usually fly with the wind. When exhausted with flying they alight upon the ground, and are then easily captured by hand.

In the morning dew lay round about the camp. When it evaporated there remained on the ground a small round thing (flake) is the translation in the margin of our Bible), small as hoarfrost. Compare the description in 1:17. The flakes drew a thought of as falling from heaven and with it the name, Num. 11:9. "What is it?" is the natural question. So they sought for food along the ground and picked up a small round thing. "Manna." Found, was Moses' answer: "It is the bread which Jehovah hath given us to eat." The manna is always spoken of as bread, and was a substitute for grain.

Mountain goat parents, in order to teach their young the art of safe landings, push them over cliffs.

Seven Long Years

Man Served Time In Prison For A Crime He Did Not Commit

William Roy Hathaway of Birmingham served seven years in the Alabama state prison for a crime of bank robbery which he did not commit, and the legislature has just approved a bill which will give him $7,000 as compensation for those lost years locked behind steel bars.

The $7,000, if invested wisely and prudently, may reasonably start Mr. Hathaway along the greatest road of prosperity he has ever known through an impoverished life, but that $7,000 is small payment indeed for depriving any innocent man or woman of their liberty for such a portion of the average span of existence.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Poland's Demands

Want Real Friends And Full Access To The Sea

Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk states that Poland would demand Real Friends and full access to the sea in the post-war settlements.

Poland's future is dependent on "wide open access to the sea and reparation to the mother country of the lands seized from Poland in the ago-old German march to the east," the head of the Polish government in exile said.

"I should welcome resumption of friendly relations with Soviet Russia," Mikolajczyk told reporters. "I appreciate the efforts of the American and British governments to bring the gap."

Nackerchiefs worn by enlisted navy men were first worn in the British Navy to mourn the death of Admiral Nelson.

CHAPTER THREE

Twice, Homer thought his legs would buckle under him as he took the location. Turn south time he found he had cleared them. It gave him courage. Courage and strength. On and on he went. He was sure he could hear Miss Hick's voice. Heisn't too. Yep. No mistake. Both of 'em. "Come on Homer. C-o-m-e o-n, H-o-m-e-r!"

His eyes seemed to be popping. It felt like his heart would burst out of his chest. And then suddenly there he was, just the end of the lane, over the last hurdle. RIGHT SMARTYPANT THIS EVENING TIME. He had won!

Oh gosh, it was terrific the way that crowd was cheering! But the fun was a little dimmed when he couldn't find Helen. It was a shame she had left so quickly.

At the office he burst in and jumped the low swinging gate. "I won, Mr. Spangler and Mr. Gregan," he yelled to the manager and the bookkeeper. "Look what I got. A medal!"

There were congratulations all around. Then Homer got a little embarrassed when he realized that a beautiful girl was standing there. He recognized her Diana Steed, from that rich family on the hill. She was talking to Tom Spangler, telling him something about how at her house for dinner at seven thirty and Tom was saying not to rush him because he never did anything sharp.

Then up at Mr. Spangler with big, soulful eyes. It gave Homer the queerest feeling. "Oh darling, please be there. Because I do love you darling and you love me too. You do don't you? Yes, you do-o-o-o."

Spangler laughed and shook her a little. "You wonderful boy, you're different. Your people are suffering out. But especially you. You're so spoiled, it's wonderful."

"You'll like mother and father too," she trilled. "Don't forget to wear a tie." She tweaked the point of his green collar fondly.

"I don't like ties," Spangler returned. "I feel all right without a tie. I feel fine."

Homer hesitated. Then he took the proffered hand. "Am, that's all right." His eyes twinkled. "But no more shenanigans. So long."

"Good luck," Hubert called.

On the way back, Homer thought about Ackley. Funny how one minute you could be enemies and the next, friends. He wondered about the enemies Marcus would fight. How did he feel about that? Killing guys . . . maybe getting killed himself. As the thought hit him, he felt sick inside. Back in the office he spoke to Gregan haltingly.

"Say Mr. Gregan, if a fellow dies that way—well, does it make anything better? They don't just die for nothing, do they?"

Gregan watched his young face, contorted now with old sorrows. "My boy," he said softly, "in war and peace, things aren't for nothing, least of all dying. The old man dying, the child, the soldier die for something. They have got something planned, I'm sure, Gregan. When there is war in the world that is when they are trying hardest to achieve their plan." Very simply, he finished, "We die to move the world closer to grace so that the living can live—really live. And when that time comes this poor old wonderful world shall be a place of comfort and ease and—and—"

Homer swallowed hard. "There's a lot to think about, isn't there?"

He turned as the door opened and Spangler came in, grinning from ear to ear. "Willie," he shouted to Gregan, "What would you think if I told you that Diana loves me and I love her?"

Gregan smiled. "I'd think it was about time. Where did you get that tie?"

Spangler touched the striped tie dreamily. "The gal it on me with her own two hands. You know Willie, I didn't mind wearing it after I met her folks and friends. They're really nice people. I just didn't understand them. That's the trouble in this world. Nobody understands anybody enough. We're going to be married Willie. Love is such a wonderful thing."

Gregan got up, stretched and yawned. He smiled fondly at Spangler. "Guess I'll go over to Corbetts and get me a drink—if I'm going to have to listen to that love stuff all night."

The office was quiet as Spangler read a magazine and Homer went over the files.

Homer had been watching Spangler, marveling inwardly. It was certainly strange what a woman did to a man in a short while. First, Tom Spangler wasn't going to wear a tie for nothing nor nobody. And now here he was, not only with the tie but saying he was nuts about the girl.

Homer shook his head. It looked mighty sad for Mr. Spangler, and how he knew it Diana would get him to the altar. It was certainly a mistake he was stepping into.

(Homer has seen trouble and sorrow. Will he find protection of growing up, he's puzzling about that. Which brings us to: Is he right about Diana and how will it affect Homer's life? Don't miss the next amazing instalment.)

Squaws Take Over

Perform Sun Dance Because Young Braves Are At War

Tom-toms throbbed throughout the Fort Hall Indian reservation at Fort Hall Idaho, recently, but heeding their summons were the middle-aged and squaws, not the dusky young bucks who usually dance the rigorous, annual rites to the sun.

Young men of the Bannock and Shoshone tribes are serving with their nation's armed services, but war or no war, the sun dance must go on.

At sundown the shuffling dance by means of which Redmen believe they receive new vigor for the year ahead began at Bannack Creek and Buffalo Jump.

Back and forth from the centre pole to the outward enclosure of the dance ring the Indians stomped blowing shrill notes on eagle-feather-ed whistles. Women were permitted to participate in the Bannack Creek rites but only men entered the dance ring at Buffalo lodge

Only brief rest periods are permitted until the sun dance ends Dancers forego food for the four days and three nights of the rites but such a limited amount of water from a creek nearby brought to them.

The Indians believe that annual observance of the ancient rites will assure them good health and adequate water for their growing crops.

Boys Help Farmers

Wages Earned By Farm Commando Day War Savings Certificates

Some holidays this year will turn many Canadian boys and girls into sunburned farmers. Out in the fields or around the farmhouse they are turning their hands to many new jobs and helping the over-worked farmer.

Ralph Truro, 15, of Toronto, has joined their ranks and every cent he earns he is putting into War Savings Stamps and Certificates.

"I'm doing this to help bring the boys home sooner," he says.

Ralph's contribution was revealed by teachers at St. Hugh's School who told how he had volunteered for the Farm Commando.

Ralph, whose father operates a service station, had previously saved $50 by working in the station on Saturdays. With this money he bought a Victory Bond.

"Now that summer holidays are here I have all the other days in the week free," said Ralph, "and Dad doesn't need me every day. My uncle is in the air force and I know a lot of fellows who are overseas, big brothers of fellows I go to school with.

"I want to do anything I can to help bring them home sooner. The money I put into War Savings Stamps and Certificates and Victory Bonds now will be very useful when I'm ready to go to high school and university."

Now Ralph is learning to drive a team of horses and to milk cows, but his great ambition is to be a pilot

In an article on "Wartime Dental Public Health to Meet Wartime Conditions" in the July issue of the American Journal of Public Health, he notes the difficulty of obtaining dental service existing in many communities. He suggests certain fundamental dentists remaining in civil life supply of dental service to industrial and vital war plants. Attention of school dental services to provide for secondary pupils utilization of sub-professional personnel. And retention of highly refined mechanical dental appliances and replacements in critical areas so that service may be given the largest number of patients.

Sgt Allan Grayston of Montreal, former cameraman with Associated Screen News, was one of the first Canadians ashore in the invasion of Sicily. He carried with him a motion picture camera, to record the landing of Canadian assault troops. Twelve photographers in all are making a still and motion picture record of Canadians engaged in Sicilian operations. Grayston is a native son of Ottawa, educated in Montreal. He joined the 17th Hussars shortly before the war, and went overseas as a despatch rider with the Royal Montreal Regiment. He was selected as one of the first of the new Canadian Army Film Unit when it was formed in 1941. He is the son of W. P. Grayston, well-known Montreal photographer.

The Glass Of Fashion THE VICTORY GARDEN

Bride Wears Unique Wedding Dress

At Cowansey in Britain

An account has appeared in an English paper of a wedding at St. Giles' Cathedral in Edinburgh in which the bride wore a wedding dress of spun glass. She was Miss Helen Nairn Munro, ores a lecturer in glass etching at the Edinburgh College of Art, and she married Professor W. E. S. Turner, of the glass technology department of Sheffield University.

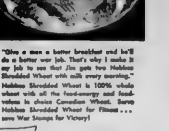
The dress was made of six yards of pale blue spun glass which is said to be as fine in texture as silk and perfectly adaptable to any purpose for which fine cloth is used. Her hat, her handbag and even her shoes were of glass fabric, and her dress was painted with flowers made from another glass product.

We could refer to this wedding as a "glassy affair", and suppose a hope that it may not end in a shattered romance, but we shall refrain. The miracle of flowers preserved under cellophane pales besides that of brides preserved under glass.—Peterborough Examiner.

BRITISH AGRICULTURE

The loss of agricultural land in Britain to military and industrial uses has exceeded the great gain of land made during the past three years in reclamation of marshes and other land At the same time, the output of the soil has increased 70 per cent in comparison with pre-war crops.

Norway's proboscis monkey has such a long, drooping nose that he has to hold it out of the way while eating



—Drawing and text by Dominion Department of Agriculture

For many weeks home soil-tillers have been rallying with spade and hoe and helping to produce food needed to win the war

As each crop is finished, refuse should be cleaned up. Many insects commonly found in the Victory garden are still present in one state or another when the plants upon which they are feeding have matured and the crops have been removed. This is one very important reason for cleaning up the garden promptly.

Most of the insects will move over to other standing crops unless those plants are pulled up and destroyed immediately after harvest. Insect migrants are the cabbage maggot, the imported cabbage worm, aphids, boring caterpillars and many others. Such migration should be checked and reduced to the lowest possible minimum, not only to safeguard limited garden crops, but for the sake of neighboring gardens. All remnants, including roots, should be destroyed, since many of the most destructive pests are root-feeders. In this way the infestation of the current year will be greatly reduced and the numbers of injurious insects going into hibernation kept at low ebb.

Post-War Reconstruction

Co-operation of Every Governing Body Sought

The following statement was issued Friday, June 25, by Hon. A. J. Hooke, Provincial Secretary, for the information of those interested in Post-War Reconstruction:

In a recent memorandum issued by the federal Reconstruction Committee, it was pointed out that the responsibility for post-war preparation does not rest on the shoulders of the Dominion Government alone. "Every province, every municipality, and other local government, and every business enterprise — each of these must study carefully the specific problems that it will have when the war ends to an end," it is stated.

The memorandum continues: "Many of these problems cannot be solved because they are solely locally, because geographic and economic conditions vary widely from one part o the country to another.

"Policies appropriate to Quebec might be useless in Winnipeg or Vancouver, while other policies appropriate to these cities would not solve the problems of rural areas.

"For this reason, as well as for reasons centered with the distribution of legal powers under the British North America Act, there is a large amount of the field of reconstruction awaiting the attention of local authorities and local committees."

From this memorandum it will be apparent that the greatest measure of cooperation between rural and provincial groups in every sphere is essential if the efforts of the provinces are to be co-ordinated with those of the Dominion.

The Alberta Post-War Reconstruction Committee, headed by Hon. N.E. Tanner, is expressly directed by the Post-War Reconstruction Act to assist and maintain this co-operation. For this reason it is considered that all local and business organizations should be informed of the work of their Provincial Committee to date.

The Committee was established under legislation passed at the 1942 session of the Legislature, and it replaced a smaller body set up by order-in-council which had carried out a considerable amount of exploratory work.

The organizational meeting of the Post-War Reconstruction Committee was held in the Legislative Building, Edmonton, on June 21. Attending, besides Hon. Mr. Tanner, were Premier Ernest C. Manning, Hon. A. J. Hooke, Alfred Speakman, M.L.A., Mrs. C.B. Wood, M.L.A., E. J. Martin, M.L.A., and Dr. Robert Newton, the President of University of Alberta.

As a result of the discussions carried on, each of these members was appointed to head a sub-committee charged with the investigation of a specific field of action, with instructions to report to the General Committee regarding the terms of reference considered suitable for each subcommittee.

At this meeting, it was also decided to invite Mr. H. E. Tanner, well-known war veterans' spokesman of Edmonton, to join the General Committee. Mr. Tanner has since done so and his selection has been endorsed by the veterans' organizations in Alberta.

Meeting and Sub-Committees

The sub-committees, with their respective chairmen, are as follows: Agriculture, Mr. A. Speakman; Public Works, Mr. E. J. Martin; Industry Premier E. C. Manning; Natural Resources, Hon. N.E. Tanner; Finance, Hon. A. J. Hooke; Social Welfare, Mrs. C. B. Wood; Education, Dr. Robert Newton.

In addition to the sub-committees set up, there is also a working committee, headed by A.J. Hooke, consisting of Mrs. Wood, Mr. Speakman and Mr. Martin. The working committee was instructed to proceed immediately with investigations, and to frame suggested terms of reference for the sub-committees This committee commenced work on June 22 and will continue as long as necessary.

It is the desire of all members that the fullest consideration be given to every phase of the post-war problem, and for this reason it is urged that every representative organization in the Province all either form, or seek representation on, a local reconstruction committee.

The Alberta general committee is now ready to receive written communications, and organizations wishing to give oral support to the written submissions should request the Secretary for an appointment

On all sides it is now agreed that the time for preparation is the present. It is likewise agreed that unless the people in every sphere of our national life have a voice in the framing of post-war policies, the work will not be carried out to the fullest advantage of all. By acting now and co-operating at all times with the Provincial Committee, the early consideration of reconstruction and rehabilitation projects will be brought about. We must be assured of a post-war order in which all the people have economic security with individual freedom, and to achieve this, all must give their support now.

Every citizen, and especially those in representative positions, is urged to give this matter immediate attention Correspondence, submissions and requests for hearing before the Alberta Post-War Committee should be addressed to H. D. Carrigan, Secretary, Alberta Post-War Reconstruction Committee at the Legislative Building.

Rental Ceilings Must be Maintained

OTTAWA. — "With rentals second only to food in the average Canadian budget it's vitally important that the ceiling levels be maintained" rental officials, Wartime Prices and Trade Board assert.

Thus once again warning is issued that severe penalties for failure to complete form R.C. 40, a statement required of all landlords making or renewing leases after April 25, 1943. If the lease involves change of tenant, change of rental or change of services, equipment or accommodation provided by the landlord are provided.

This caution follows information that some people have failed to comply with the law in this regard. The issue may be written or oral.

Pay Increase For Members of C.W.A.C.

OTTAWA.—Effect of pay increases for the Canadian Women's Army Corps, announced by the National Defence Department on Saturday in conjunction with similar increases for the Women's Services of the Navy and the Air Force whereby their basic pay will be 50 per cent of that paid men in the Armed Forces, instead of the former 66 and two thirds per cent, is shown in the following schedule:

Private (on enlistment) new pay, $1.05, old pay 50c; Lance Corporal 1.20, 1.50; Lance Sergeant 1.50, (no old rate); Sergeant 1.75, 1.50; Staff Sergeant or Company Quartermaster Sergeant 2.00, 1.75; Company Sgt-Major (W.O. 2) 2.50, 2.00; Quartermaster-Sergeant (W.O. 2) 2.50, 2.10; Regimental-Major (W.O. 1) 2.75, 2.50; 2nd Lieutenant 3.00, 2.25; Lieutenant 4.00, 3.25; Captain 5.00, 4.25, Major 6.00, 5.50; Lieutenant-Colonel 8.00, 6.70.

Trades Pay: Additional rates as for male soldiers, 2c, 4c or 7c cents per day according to grade. (Two-thirds of Male Trades Pay rates.)

NOTE: Under the new scale a private's pay may be increased to $1.10 a day after four months' efficient service, and to $1.20 a day after six months' efficient service.

Dependents of members of the C. W.A.C., as well as those of the Women of the Royal Canadian Air Force, other than husbands and children are now eligible for dependents' allowances at the same rates and under the same conditions as apply to dependents of men. Thus a dependent parent or other close relative will receive an allowance up to $30 a month.

Increases in basic pay and trades pay are retroactive to July 1, 1942.

In future, a woman in the services married to another member of the services will not be debarred from receiving dependent's allowance, so long as her income, including dependent's allowance, does not exceed $2,100, and subject to the proviso that girls already in the services who have been married for less than six months, or who may marry another member of the services in the future, will not receive dependents' allowance until six months after the marriage date.

In the past no dependents allowances has been paid to the wife of an officer or man in any of the armed services if she, too, was serving, although the dependents allowance could be paid to a wife employed in a civilian occupation.

The maximum income of $2,100 mentioned in connection with dependents allowances does not include assigned pay, it was pointed out by the Department.

URGES FARMERS SAVE SEED, FORAGE CROPS

If the substantial requests in Canada for alfalfa, red clover and alsike seed from the 1943 crops are to be met, it will be necessary for farmers to save and harvest as much seed of these crops this year as possible, states Nelson Young, Seeds Administrator. Any seed harvested which will be surplus to the farmers own requirements should be sold through the usual commercial channels and the prices should assure a fair return. At present such seeds are retailing at the retail ceiling prices, said Mr. Young.

In helping to overcome the shortage of protein feeds this year, alfalfa, red clover and alsike which are high in protein especially if cut early, should be more than ever relied upon. While those engaged in dairying will need to conserve as much of the forage crops as possible, the Seeds Administrator believes that they may be able to spare their feed requirements and still save a part of the crop for seed. If they can do this, they will help out the seed requirements of the countries of the United Nations which expect to be in short supply.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By M. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co. Ltd

THREE BEAUTIFUL THINGS

John Masefield, the celebrated King Ish poet, once wrote that he thought there were three beautiful things in the world were: A mother with a babe at breast; a full-rigged ship at sea, and a waving field of wheat.

Most people, I believe, would agree with this excepting that while sailors would place a full-rigged ship at sea as the second place as John Masefield has done most farmers who have an eye for the beauties of Nature—and who has not — would be inclined to favor a waving field of wheat as the second most beautiful thing in the world. Be that as it may, there is nothing that brings more pleasure to the eye and to the emotions of a farmer than a field of wheat, healthy, vigorous, and true-to-variety, giving the promise of a good crop of grain, the fruition of his hopes, his careful work and his skilful planning.

This year farmers can find an added pleasure in regarding with proud eyes their fields of wheat. It is that the wheat, in the form of man's finest food, bread, will give life and energy to the members of the fighting forces overseas, and will eventually help to provide food for the stricken people of a hungry world

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

High temperatures and lack of rain fall have caused continued crop deterioration in southeastern Alberta and western Saskatchewan A further decrease is indicated in the Australian wheat acreage this year with preliminary estimates showing an area of 10,500,000 acres as compared with 10,900,000 acres in 1942 Mexico officially forecasts the 1943 wheat crop at 11,023,000 bushels as compared with the 1942 harvest of [illegible] bushels.

U.S. spring wheat is reported to be in satisfactory condition—Turkey and Spain report excellent crop with the harvest underway in both countries—World wheat production in 1943 has been estimated at [illegible] bushels, or approximately 100 million bushels higher than the estimated '41 production.

MOLES AID GARDENER

The British Merchant Navy has delivered 40,000,000 tons of imports annually during the war, and suffered casualties of 16,000 men in the first three years of war. Losses of merchant ships in Allied convoy protection have been 4½ of 1%.

Moles are an old ruiher than a detriment to the gardener, studies of their diet having shown that it consists of earth worms, white grubs, cutworms, wireworms, crickets, spiders, beetles, centipedes, millipedes and insect eggs, with little or no vegetable matter.

C.P.R. Beats Obstacles to Move Wartime Shipments

PARTICULARLY adapted for handling outsize and oddshaped war shipments, Canadian Pacific Railway flat cars shown above coupled with locomotive boilers for corvettes, a huge transformer and a wrecked diesel boat have been of great aid to the war effort of the line in the United States Recently the company's largest depressed-centre flat cars, one of which is pictured at the bottom of this page, were in only ones which could handle a 156-ton locomotive boiler 12½ feet in diameter — from Lachine, Que., to a synthetic rubber plant in southwestern Ontario.

Two of these huge cars now are in use in the United States handling machine engines for the Kaiser shipyards, a type of shipment in which the Canadian Pacific pioneered, as illustrated upper right, where two smaller depressed-centre flat cars are shown, each loaded with a corvette boiler. These important shipments covered 21 feet, five inches above top of rail when blocked up to get them by certain hall-deck girder spans on many bridges and at the same time a thin blocking had to be inserted while the boilers were being lifted on to the cars. Upper left shows the engineering department test down the speeds [illegible] necessary to get the corvette boilers from Toronto to Quebec during all permanent installations which had to be removed temporarily. The technique initiated by the Canadian Pacific for this movement has since been copied by other roads in the great profit of the war effort.

In the matter of the transformer (upper left) the main considerations were to get equipment heavy enough to carry it from Toronto to Malton, Ont., with its weight of 134 tons being only one ton less than the maximum load capacity of the biggest depressed-centre flat car the company has in its [illegible] rolling stock of 77,700 items, all in war service. The boat (centre) was an outbound load with a maximum width of 12 feet, 10 inches. It was 61 feet, six inches long and was transported from Owen Sound, Ont., to Saint John, N.B., on two specially [illegible]

HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS COURSES FOR GIRLS' CLUBS

To meet the growing demand for additional services in the organization and operation of some program for Girls' Club Work, the Department of Agriculture is again offering direction and supervision for Girls' Clubs. Project books containing directions and lesson material on various phases of Home Economics have been prepared. These courses are available to any group of girls between the ages of 12 and 25 who wish to form a club. Other girls clubs already organized may still obtain this material. The necessary direction and supervision for carrying out these projects are provided by the Department of Agriculture

The following courses are available at the present time.

1. How to be well groomed and well dressed.
2. Clothing — a first year sewing course for beginners.
3. Clothing — a second year sewing course dealing with more advanced work
4 Food preparation.
5 Home decoration.
6. Home administration.

Anyone interested in obtaining further information in regard to these may write to Agricultural Extension Service, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

A.M.A. URGES ACTION ON SALVAGED RUBBER

Action on the part of federal salvage authorities to move tons of rubber collected at rural points in the province has been initiated by the Alberta Motor Association.

When the salvage campaign was undertaken to collect vast quantities of old rubber, the A.M.A. gave its full support. In consequence, large stacks of rubber were assembled in the province, adding to the campaign objective of 10,000 tons of rubber.

It appears that these stocks have not been moved east, due mainly to freight or other problems, or the heavy demands of war services on the transportation systems.

Naturally the rubber should be moved to the points of delivery first planned if it is to be of value in aiding the country's conservation program. Thus, officials hope that some action will be taken as a result of the matter being brought to the attention of the authorities by the A. M.A.

While these stocks remain, there may be less incentive for collection agencies to carry on valuable work that has been organized in some districts to augment the supplies of old rubber, a commodity now so vital in carrying on the war.

Because engine parts cannot be replaced owing to the war, the first diesel electric car to be placed in railway service in North America, is now a trailer working out of North Battleford. The car began operations on the Canadian National in 1935 and has been used on branch runs. With the engine removed, it relieves a heavy gas car and a passenger coach for other service.

Wrigley's Treasure Trail — the favorite quiz show on the air, is one of the few programs that does not go off the air for the summer. When the boys take their vacation they put in a "pinch-hitter" and carry on as usual. In July and August, when so many of our old friends are having a well earned rest from their busy radio-life, it is nice to have one old friend to be sure of. So send in your Wrigley's Gum wrappers and your name and address and listen each Tuesday night at 9:15 for Treasure Trail, over CJCA. It is twice the fun and excitement if you have a letter in the picture, and you are holding your breath until they get the envelope opened and read the name over the air. So send in your Wrigley's wrapper and be on hand next Tuesday night. It's a date.

Do you like thrilling stories of great daring and valor? If you do you will not want to miss the Green Hornet Series heard over CJCA at 7:30 each Wednesday evening. These the stories of Brett Reid, editor of the Daily Sentinel, who becomes the Green Hornet and enforces the law in the ways most fitting in each individual case. No one but his own servant, Kato, knows of Brett Reid's dual life, and this makes the story even more interesting and thrilling. If you are not a Green Hornet fan now, be sure and listen next Wednesday to the most thrilling drama on the air.

1943-4 Grain Quotas

The initial wheat quota for the 1943-44 crop year has been set at 5 bushels per authorized acre. Last year the initial quota was 5 bushels.

This announcement was made by Hon. J. A. McKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, on July 20th. The minister said further that the initial quotas were lower than last year because of the "present congestion" in country elevators.

Last crop year's wheat quota began at 5 bushels to the authorized acre and ended up at 15 bushels. The "authorized acreage" is 66% of the acreage sown to wheat in 1940.

The final total quota for the 1943-44 crop year has been fixed at 14 bushels per authorized acre.

Up until August 16th certain delivery points in the prairie provinces will be permitted to accept deliveries of wheat under the 1942-43 quota of 15 bushels. This privilege is extended to farmers who are unable to complete deliveries of their quotas because of conditions beyond their control.

With regard to oats and barley, the quotas in effect on July 31st are extended to Aug. 15th, 1943, and apply only to old crop grain. An entry in the 1942-43 permit book is required.

Effective Aug. 16th the general delivery quota on oats will be 5 bushels per seeded acre and on barley 5 bushels per seeded acre. Such deliveries must be recorded in the 1943-44 permit books but may include old as well as new crop oats and barley.

Flax deliveries are under no restrictions and need not be entered in permit books.

The wheat quota of 3 bushels is in effect now at points where no extension has been granted. At points where the old quotas have been extended to Aug. 15th the new quota will not apply until Aug. 16th.

spoonsful of formalin to the sows feed or water twice a day is recommended.

Older pigs should be provided with plenty or sleeping room, so as to prevent them from piling up in the sleeping pens. Above all, these sleeping quarters must be clean, dry and free from draughts.

Breeding stock should be kept constantly on a good growth of pasture so that they can store up essential vitamins and minerals to carry them through the winter.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SWINE RAISERS

More attention must be devoted to the care and feeding of of the weond sow than has been the practice in the past, says Dr. R. Walton, Animal Pathologist. If strong, healthy, vigorous litters are expected the sows must receive proper and adequate attention during the gestation period.

Now is the time to think of putting away some well cured alfalfa or clover to be fed to the pigs next winter.

Pigs should be provided with adequate dry sleeping quarters at all times. This is especially important for sows nursing young pigs, since chilling of the new results in scour ing of the young pigs. Other causes of scouring are unsanitary hog lots, dirt on the teats and udder of the sow, and improper feeding of the sow.

When scouring in young pigs is encountered, the addition of two tea-

FARMER SLAUGHTERERS MUST REGISTER AT LOCAL RATION BOARD

EDMONTON. — Farmers who kill livestock for use on their own farms, or for sale to other farmers for consumption on their own farms, must register with the nearest local ration board. This applies also when farmers have livestock killed by a packer or other valid slaughterer in order to consume the meat on their own farm premises.

From the local ration board the farmer will obtain a card certifying that he has registered and giving him a registration number. This card, or the number on it, must be recorded by any packer who kills meat for the farmer's home use, or for the farmer to sell to his neighbor for his home use. The number must also be recorded by any storage plant accepting this type of meat for storage in a locker.

Officials of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board state that many farmers have neglected to register as farm slaughterers, and remind them that this measure is in accordance with rationing regulations and must be observed.

QUALITY IN HONEY

A warning to bee keepers against the too early extraction of honey has been issued by Mr. W. G. Le Maistre, Provincial Apiarist.

Honey is made by bees from the nectar gathered from flowers. Nectar is usually quite thin and it is by evaporating excess moisture and working it over that the bees make it into honey. When the honey is concentrated or properly ripened the cells of the comb are filled and a wax capping placed on these cells.

Honey in Alberta is usually well ripened when the combs, on the average, are about two-thirds capped. If extracted before it is well ripened fermentation may occur. Furthermore, honey has the property of absorbing moisture even when in cans, and this moisture may cause it to ferment in storage. Honey should therefore be stored in a dry place.

Road Surface Program Advanced

Road surfacing operations have been undertaken on main highways in different parts of the province, according to reports which the Alberta Motor Association has received from the provincial department of public works

Stabilizing crews are at work on the Clarenholm, Stavely road. A detour was established and traffic is being diverted by flares and signs.

In the north country, grading and gravelling crews are at work. The projects include the Smith-Kinuso, Fmort McLennan, and Dunvegan-Hythe roads.

Northern roads were severely damaged as the result of heavy rains in recent weeks. Heavy traffic also was reported on the Peace River highway due in part to trucks hauling a large volume of supplies for C-S contractors in the north country.

The War Against Submarines

CANADIANS WERE TOLD recently that progress is being made in the Battle of the Atlantic and that we can now be said to be holding our own in that important phase of the war. In May the toll of enemy submarines was said to be one a day, and in June the shipping losses in the North Atlantic were the lowest in nineteen months. It is well known to the enemy that the valuable and ever-increasing volume of Canadian and American munitions and supplies must be transported to the battle fronts in ships, and the intensive submarine campaign in the Atlantic was, in part, Germany's answer to the bombing of her industrial centres. On April 7, of this year, Goebbels wrote in the German newspaper "Das Reich": "We possess a terribly effective weapon in submarine warfare which at the moment is hitting Britain harder than the air war is hitting us."

Offensive Was Started Early

Since the beginning of the war Germany has steadily increased her rate of submarine production. It is believed that by establishing a system of standardization the number of man-hours required to produce a U-boat have been reduced by one-third, and that Germany may have as many as five hundred submarines in commission. This would mean that over one hundred might be at sea at one time. Since the campaign began, Britain and the United Nations have developed increasingly powerful counter-measures against the U-boat. The navies and air forces have co-operated in attacks on any places connected with the building and operating of submarines, as well as on the U-boats themselves when they are at sea. This offensive has been encouraged by the activities of the Anti-U-Boat Warfare Committee, set up in London in 1943.

Air and Naval Attacks Heavy

Submarine bases and building yards on the Continent have been constant targets for air attack and we are told that the majority of submarine crews, which are trained in the Baltic sea, never return to their bases due to the mines laid there by the Royal Air Force. It is estimated that about one third of the German plants for submarine production have been destroyed by air attack, and Lorient and St. Nazaire, the principal submarine bases on the French Atlantic coast, have been subjected to numerous thousand-ton raids. Planes of the Coastal Command also attack U boats relentlessly in the Bay of Biscay, through which they must pass on their way into the Atlantic. The naval forces of Britain, Canada and the United States have all taken part in the offensive against the submarine at sea. Many new and secret devices have been brought into use and new, fast sub-chasing ships have been used. The Canadian navy protects a large section of the North Atlantic convoy route and Canadian corvettes, as well as the ship-building yards of the Dominion have played an important part in this critical battle against the submarines.

EGGS AS A MEAT SUBSTITUTE

Now that meat rationing is established, you probably have your own system of meat planning for the week. In households of two or three people you will find it more advantageous to serve meatless meals a couple of times a week. You can replace the meat by foods such as eggs, cheese, fish, poultry, which are in the same category nutritionally.

Eggs are important in our diets because they provide us with the best quality protein, essential minerals and vitamins A, D, B1 and B2. You should eat 3 to 4 eggs a week, if you plan to have an egg dish for supper you could use part of your meat ration that way.

Do not cook the eggs at a high temperature as the whites become tough and leathery. Eggs are readily and completely digested when properly cooked.

You will find eggs a great asset to your menus not only for their palatability but also because they can be used in a variety of ways. Eggs are used as:

(1) Main dish—omelles, omelets, casserole dishes.

(2) Leavening agent—in sponge cakes. The egg white holds air beaten into it and forms a foam. If necessary, half the amount of eggs in a sponge cake may be replaced by milk and baking powder 1 egg, 2 tbsp. milk and ½ tsp. baking powder.

(3) Thickening agent—in the egg coagulates. One egg may be replaced by 1 tbsp. flour or ½ tbsp. corn starch.

(4) Enrichment—in mayonnaise.

Issued by the Western Division Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue and Toronto, for Egg Dishes.

Herd On Civilians

Renovation Of Clothing in Made Difficult By Labor Shortage

In the tight grip of the coupon we are all learning how to make clothes and other things last longer. Until recently, we were accustomed in the past, and not without reason, of reckless extravagance, has taken the notion to heart. There is no military depots in the country which receive all sorts of damaged goods, repair it as best they can and send them back fit for further service.

The renovation of clothing is the chief work of these establishments. Worn uniforms are cleaned and repaired. They are made if not as good as new, good enough to be re-issued and to stand up to more of the rough usage which the soldiery give them. One such depot in northwest deals in a year with 182,000 battledress blouses, 104,000 pairs of trousers, 50,000 suits and 100,000 greatcoats. There are also underwear, respirators, anti-gas clothing, and scores of miscellaneous things which the army uses and wears down.

Meanwhile the civilians' efforts to follow this good example are severely handicapped. The staffs of the various firms who clean and "valet" clothes have been so depleted that they cannot always be persuaded to accept garments for treatment, and the customer has learned that he may have to wait weeks, possibly months, instead of the few days that were enough in peace-time.—Manchester Guardian.

Lasting only a quarter of an hour, a hailstorm did damage to the value of $1,000,000 in Dallas, Tex., in May, 1930.

Tribute On Canvas

Artist Paints Munitions Girl At Work In War Factory

In the Royal Academy in London is a new outstanding painting by Miss Laura Knight, R.A. The subject for that picture is a munitions girl, Ruby Loftus, 21, working at her bench in a war factory. Wearing blue overalls and a bright green hair net over her dark hair, Ruby is bending over her work, her sleeves rolled up over her elbows and her eyes intent on what she is doing. Sparks are flying from the lathe.

Before her in the bench are the tools she uses for her specialised work. In the background are other workers at other benches, all women, all doing an efficient job of work. The picture is a tribute to the women who are doing so much for the war effort by the enthusiastic way in which they have taken over work in war plants which had never before come within women's sphere.

British Nursery Schools

Plan Has Been Greatly Expanded During The War

Nursery schools, designed to help busy mothers with infants below school age, have been expanded in Britain during the war, and the organizations headed by Dr. Blatz of Toronto has helped greatly in this. But the Nursery School Association has long been established in Great Britain, and, when the war started, there were 8,000 infants in over 100 nursery schools and 170,000 in nursery classes.

The ancient Greeks and Romans painted signs on walls in public places as a means of spreading news.

Farm Property

Guide Issued For The Selection Of Agricultural Sells

In evaluating a farm property and in estimating the chances of making a satisfactory living from it, the nature of the soil, among many other things, must be given serious consideration, says P. C. Stobbe and A. Leahey, Field Husbandry Division, Dominion Experimental Farms Service, in the Farmers' Bulletin No. 117, "Guide for the Selection of Agricultural Soils". The first essential of success in farming is to have a fertile soil that is adapted to the crops which are to be grown on it. However, in addition to productivity, other factors relating to the soil, such as the cost of tillage and other management operations, must be kept in mind. In order to help farmers, the main features that should be observed in examining farm land are contained in the bulletin, covering to detail the examination itself, discussion of the eleven soil zones of the Dominion, the various soils, local conditions to be observed, depth, colour, texture, structure, together with a glossary of terms, soil classes and soil maps of Eastern Canada and the Prairie Provinces. A copy of the bulletin may be obtained by writing to the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Drug Addicts

Study Conducted In U.S. Showed That Many Are Cured

In a follow-up study of 4,768 patients discharged from the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital at Lexington, Ky., after treatment for drug addiction, it was found that 74.7 per cent. of the patients had required and 28.3 per cent. had remained abstinent. The figures included those who had died or could not be traced.

"The general belief that a drug addict cannot be cured is not supported by this follow-up study," The Journal of the American Medical Association, commends.

Manitoba casualties in the 1941 epidemic of western equine encephalomyelitis (sleeping sickness) were greater than casualties suffered by the Manitoba Regiment at Dieppe, according to Dr. F. W. Jackson, deputy minister of health and public welfare for the province, reporting in the July issue of the American Journal of Public Health.

Results of an experimental vaccination program on 3,000 persons justify continuation of experiments on so that the value of the vaccine used may be ascertained, Dr. Jackson states. There were many more volunteers for the experiment conducted in 14 Manitoba areas than the department was able to immunize.

The Manitoba outbreak was part of a much wider epidemic which affected Saskatchewan, North Dakota and Minnesota, causing a total of 2,957 cases and 342 deaths, with a case fatality rate of 11.5 per cent. North Dakota had 1,108 cases, Minnesota 804, Saskatchewan 543 and Manitoba 520. There were 61 deaths in Saskatchewan and 71 in Manitoba. The Manitoba fatality rate was 13.3 per cent., the highest, while Saskatchewan's rate of 8.1 was the lowest.

Eighty-one per cent. of the Manitoba cases were in individuals 21 years of age and over and the "high-attack rate" was in the working-age group, 20 to 50 years.

"Western Equine encephalitis would definitely seem to be a disease of adult males in the older age groups, and adult males who work out of doors," Dr. Jackson comments.

The deputy minister said he was disinclined to blame on the encephalitis the illness of all those who had not yet recovered, but reported that a study of infants who had contracted the disease showed several cases in which there would probably be permanent disability. Two babies were completely spastic and would be permanently incapacitated.

"Since the occurrence of the epidemic, over one-third of the cases which occurred in the armed forces have since been discharged as "medically unfit" to take further training," Dr. Jackson reports.

HEALTH OF COAL MINERS

A group of miners, picked at random, will be used in British Health Department experiment intended to better the health condition of coal miners. They will be examined every three months and their diet checked carefully.

FOR COMIC OPERA

Were it not so tragic for the Italian people, a merry comic opera could be written on the fiasco of Mussolini as a modern Caesar. His absurd expansion and downfall would have made a perfect libretto and score for Gilbert and Sullivan.

At a meeting of the Standard Cloth Panel held at Bombay (India) plans were made for increasing India's production of cotton piece-goods by 10% to 4,760,000,000 yards annually.

SMILE AWHILE

Shopkeeper (angrily) — What's the idea of throwing those shoes away?

New Assistant—They're no good. I've tried 'em on six customers and they don't fit any one.

Sentry—Halt! Who goes there! Voice in the Dark—Cook, with doughnuts for breakfast.

Sentry—Pass, Cook. Halt, doughnuts!

"Husband—"My shaving brush is very stiff; I wonder what's wrong with it."

Wife—"I don't know; it was nice and soft when I painted the bird cage yesterday."

"I want something really nice for a present," explained the shopper to the assistant.

"For your husband, madam?"

"No, from my husband," came the reply, sweetly.

"Did you ever make your living writing poetry?"

"No, but I had a similar experience. I got lost in the woods and didn't eat for a week."

Teacher: "Now, Freddy, who does a polar bear wear a fur coat?"

Freddy: "Oh-er, well I suppose he would look funny in a boxed one."

"What's the time?" he asked sleepily.

"Just two o'clock."

"That's all right," he said, turning over, "I'll be up."

Applicant: "Well, here I am about the job you advertised."

Boss: "I see. Do you think you can do the work?"

Applicant: "Work? I thought you wanted a foreman!"

Doctor: "Look here, don't you know my consulting hours are from 6 to 7 p.m.?"

Patient: "Yes, but the dog that bit me didn't."

Mother, to small son who is going to a party: "Now, dear, what are you going to do when you have had enough to eat?"

Little Tommy: "Come home."

Architect—Now, if you'll give me a general idea of the kind of house you need . . .

Client—I want to have something to go with a dear knocker my wife brought home from Oxford.

A Federal Question

Oriental Problem Should Not Be Left For Fail To Solve

British Columbia has no desire to be saddled with the responsibility of solving the Oriental problem, which has become in more ways than one a pretty big matter. The responsibility for the development of the problem in Canada's, not British Columbia's, and the responsibility for finding a solution should be Canada's, too.

It is Canada that must find the answer. It is Canada that must bear any dissatisfaction that flow from it. In the past it was the custom to let British Columbia look after the consequences, but Ottawa should have learned by this time that plans will not longer work.—Vancouver Province.

The Royal Navy

With the opening of the "Battle for Europe", the task of the Royal Navy is staggering. It is a pleasant fact that today, despite casualties, it has more ships than it had when the war began, thanks to the tremendous speed-up of Britain's shipyards, which built 900 warships during the first three-and-a-half years of the war; and these shipyards are working at an increased tempo this year.

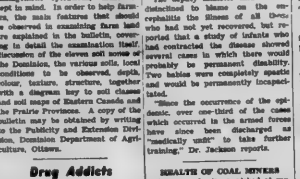
Women On Scientific Front



Employees of the Inspection Board of the United Kingdom in Canada are here shown at their draughting board where they are designing special gauges for use in checking parts of munitions made in Canada's war factories. The gauges are for use by Government inspectors to double check certain articles which must be manufactured on a high precision standard. Women with scientific training have found an outlet for their abilities in this work and these young graduates are helping the Empire to attain the Axis through science.

Comparison Of Bombing Costs For Air Battles

LONDON.—Evidence of economical employment of air power is revealed by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. assault on Hamburg in which Germany's second city has been wrecked at a cost of 88 bombers and between 600 and 800 men.

A direct comparison of the R.A.F.'s feat with that of the luftwaffe in the Battle of Britain is not available for lack of a complete breakdown of Nazi air losses over and around the British Isles.

However, several contrasts are outstanding. The R.A.F.'s and R.C.A.F.'s feat of dropping 8,500 tons of bombs on Hamburg in a few raids represents a larger tonnage than the luftwaffe dropped upon London during the whole blitz period.

During the blitz, the luftwaffe lost approximately 2,500 airplanes of all types. About half of the German effort was directed at London so it may be estimated that 1,900 of the planes were lost against the capital. That works out for a ratio of one plane per five tons of delivered bombs.

The R.A.F. and R.C.A.F.'s figures work out to one plane lost per 108 tons of bombs delivered. Nazi losses include both bombers and fighters, making the personnel losses lower per plane.

But the startling disparity in losses more than makes up for the man-hour factors. Hamburg's one time of delivery also stood out in the Hamburg raids, which averaged 45 to 50 munitions workers killed, is comparable only to the famous World War I preparatory artillery barrages, in which thousands of guns were massed for simultaneous blasts.

Figuring the average cost of an R.A.F. bomber at $400,000 and the average cost of bringing the crew at an equal amount the cost of destroying Hamburg roughly amounts to $74,000,000.

German figures on casualties are believed to be low. Before the last Hamburg raid Joe Germans estimated about 4,000 dead. The London blitz casualties from approximately the same weight of bombs were three times that figure. Nazi radio rumors setting the Hamburg casualties at 200,000 are also believed to be unreliable.

If the German figure is anywhere near correct, it presumably indicates a mass evacuation before the first attack. In the heaviest attack on London—that of may 10, 1941—1,436 persons were killed.

In connection with the effect of the Hamburg attacks on civilian morale, it is believed they compare only with the severe attacks on Liverpool, May 17, 1941, when the city's morale failed to break.

However, the Liverpool attacks were only a fraction as severe as those on Hamburg. Plymouth suffered an even more shattering attack late in April, 1941, which forced partial evacuation of the city but morale was maintained.

FRENCH FASCIST

Reported To Have Been Assassinated By Three Unidentified Men

LONDON.—The Paris radio announced the assassination of Jean Moncurie, secretary of Jacques Doriot's Parisi French Fascist party, by three unidentified men.

The broadcast, recorded by Reuters news agency, did not say when the assassination took place or give any details.

Doriot, his henchmen and various headquarters have been the object of frequent attacks by French patriots in the past. The political leader's secretary was killed in Paris last August by members of the French underground.

RETURN OF TERRITORY

LONDON.—T. V. Soong, Chinese foreign minister who is visiting Britain, told a press conference that China expects Manchuria and Formosa to be returned to her after the war. When asked about the Chinese attitude toward Hong Kong, the British crown colony, he said he preferred not to take notice of the question."

NEW POSTAL SERVICE

Will Be Established To Officers And Men On Merchant Ships

OTTAWA—A new postal service to expedite the handling of mail posted in Canada and addressed to officers and men serving on foreign-going merchant ships, was announced by Arthur Randles, director of merchant seamen.

The mail will be cleared through Montreal and should be addressed:

Name of person,
Name of ship,
C-O Post Office Box 9000,
Montreal, P.Q.

Mr. Randles said the arrangement was made in an endeavor to give further service to seamen and was made possible through the co-operation of Canadian postal authorities, naval postal services and the British ministry of transport.

CHANGE POLICY

Allied Victories May Cause Sweden Into Open Defiance Of Nazis

STOCKHOLM.—Allied victories may be stirring Sweden into open defiance of Germany.

Sweden, governed by the wishes of the Nazi giant to the south, political observers at Stockholm say that Sweden now might be ready to deny the passage of German troops through Sweden to Dinlands.

Reports that the government allowed a good deal of strain during the North African coastal campaign, has "not been idle" since the North Africa forces moved on to Tunisia and Sicily, Gen. Wilson said.

Now these observers believe that Sweden's fate will decide whether to make the decision public. When and if Sweden makes the move, it will be the most important political step in three years.

Air Strength Of Axis Said To Be Failing Fast

LONDON.—The best available statistics of German air strength indicate that the Allied many-front offensive is forcing the luftwaffe to expend its planes at a rate almost unable production capacity.

This estimate was regarded by air specialists as conservative because it does not take into account the terrific blows to the German aircraft industry inflicted by British and Canadian night attacks and the specialized American day raids which were directed against the factories producing the Nazi top fighter plane —the Focke-Wulf-190.

The Allies have estimated Nazi aircraft production at 20,000 planes a year maximum but many experts suspect that the actual rate is not more than two-thirds of that.

Axis losses during July were 1,202 aircraft shot down in the European theatre African theatre and Middle East. These losses were reported in British and American communiques. Russian communiques reported 2,901 German aircraft shot down on the Russian front.

Losses due to planes irreparably damaged or destroyed by ground strafing or wrecked in accidents, placed at an absolute minimum of one-third of combat losses, add up to 400 more.

Under the most stringent and conservative assessment of all claims, the total German minimum losses are estimated at 2,400 a month.

An accurate breakdown of German fighter plane losses was not available for the European theatre only. The U.S. air force destroyed during July a minimum of 800 fighters with 130 more probably destroyed and 275 damaged, not including those shot down by the 108 lost in Sardinia which normally have the highest fighter score because they fight off swarms of fighters before going down. Of 111 German aircraft reported destroyed by the British and Canadians in the European theatre during July 103 were fighters or fighter bombers. This totals a minimum of 763 fighters and fighter bombers for one theatre alone.

The Germans thus were believed to have expended almost an entire month's fighter output in western Europe alone while losing large numbers of fighters in Russia and the Mediterranean theatre.

It is estimated that Germany's first line air strength in western Europe averages about 1,750 planes. German day fighters in western Europe are estimated at 250 which would mean that Fortresses have wiped out the normal German defence forces twice over in a single month.

The meaning of these figures is simple: the luftwaffe is bleeding to death.

Army Medico

Accompanying Canadian Sicily invasion forces to the Middle East were Nursing Sisters of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps and Capt. Marion Ross, of Toronto, who is the first woman to be commissioned in the Canadian Army as a medical officer. A graduate in medicine of the University of Toronto, Capt. Ross did post-graduate work in bacteriology at the University of London. Before joining the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps in November, 1942, she held the appointment of Bacteriologist Emergency Public Health Laboratory Service, under the British Ministry of Health.

MILITARY HOSPITAL

WINNIPEG.—Contracts for erection of a new 150-bed military hospital for A4 artillery training centre, Brandon, has been awarded to the Bird Construction Company of Winnipeg, it was announced. Arrangements are being made for work to start immediately.

Wilson's Army In Middle East Is Ready To March

CAIRO. — Future events in the Mediterranean theatre depend upon how far the Allied forces can go in Italy and Middle Eastern troops are ready for any development, Gen. Sir Maitland Wilson, commander-in-chief in the Middle East, said.

Pledging Middle Eastern resources to Gen. Eisenhower's North Africa command "as long as he wants them," Gen. Wilson added the Middle East "must wait on events."

He discussed the possibility that the Germans will be forced to withdraw from the outer fringes of the Aegean islands, including Crete and Rhodes, and said the Nazi troops in the Balkans were first class, including good defensive aviation. Germans now hold all key points on Italy, he said.

"The future depends on how far north Gen. Eisenhower can go in Italy—how hard the Germans resist, what demolitions they may accomplish and what they do in the way of destroying communications," Gen Wilson said.

The Middle East, which was placed under a good deal of strain during the North African coastal campaign, has "not been idle" since the North Africa forces moved on to Tunisia and Sicily, Gen. Wilson said.

Commenting on rumors of the establishment of a buffer state under the Vatican across Italy, Gen. Wilson said that he would be displeased by such a development.

"That would not be fair to us."

PROPAGANDA

Pamphlets Distributed In Germany Under Nose Of The Gestapo

STOCKHOLM.—A Swedish newspaper says thousands of propaganda pamphlets are being distributed throughout Germany under the very nose of the Gestapo.

The newspaper says the pamphlets describe what would happen if a political shake-up like the Italian one were to be duplicated in Germany.

Under the title, "Give the Germans the true picture of what happened when Mussolini crashed," the circulars are graphic in their detail. They tell how thousands of German war workers strike and parade, shouting "We want peace".

Hitler would resign and retire, the pamphlets say, and Goering, Himmler and Goebbels would be thrown into jail. "The aroused masses," the pamphlets continue, "would break into Nazi villas and distribute the foodstuffs among the people."

[illegible]

he told newspapermen "I would hate to see it now that we are powerful enough to hit Germany."

"It is impossible to forbid future operations. All eyes are on Italy—will the Germans hold her in the north? Will Italy endure and on what terms." And, if so, will the Germans be able to make a getaway?"

Gen. Wilson said the Middle East-trained troops were at the disposal of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander-in-chief in the central Mediterranean theatre, "as long as he wants them.

"At the same time we have a certain amount of forces for occupation if we need them," Gen. Wilson said "We've got to watch events closely and be prepared to take advantage of any pening that may occur."

Harvest Help May Be Moved By Use Of Trucks

EDMONTON.—Hugh McAfee, service officer, truck control, of the regional office of Wartime Price Board, said that farmers in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba may transport extra help in trucks during harvesting operations if farmers first obtain special permits.

The special permit is for the period Aug.-Nov. 15 inclusive, and covers transportation of helpers only if they are going to or coming from harvesting operations. Mr. McAfee said the permit provision temporarily cancels an order disallowing truck transport of farm workers and supplies only to the three prairie provinces.

Any problem faced in handling the 1943 grain crop "will be one of storage and not of transportation," George Stephen of Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway in charge of traffic, said in an interview here. "We do not anticipate any difficulty in moving the crop," he added.

Here on a business trip through the west, Mr Stephen expects to return to Montreal at the end of August.

Recently announced reduction in railway freight rates on less-than-carload lots by Canadian National Railways will have a beneficial effect on the movement of salvage from country points to processing mills, W. S. Kickley of Winnipeg, supervisor of national salvage for western Canada, said here.

Mr. Kickley is here to confer with R. C. Fisher, regional organizer for northern Alberta and the Peace River block, B.C., and other organizations interested in salvage work in Edmonton. Former supervisor for Saskatchewan and Manitoba, Mr. Kickley was named western supervisor following the retirement of A. Sheline of Calgary, supervisor for Alberta and British Columbia.

TO HOLD COURSES

Educational Lectures For The Benefit Of Service Men And Women

OTTAWA.—Educational and other selected officers of Canada's three armed services whose job is to help servicemen and women forward world events will shortly attend courses covering discussion group techniques and current affairs.

They have been arranged by a joint committee composed of the Directors of Education of the Navy, Army and Air Force, representatives of the Canadian Association for Adult Education under the direction of Dr. F. A. Corbett, Director of the association, and Canadian Legion Educational Services of which Col. the Hon. H. Wirfrid Bovey of Montreal, is chairman.

In addition to educational officers, commanding officers of units in Canada will select one officer to attend the course, designed to further the realization that the soldier who knows both how to fight and why he fights is a better soldier for knowing "why".

Lecturers will be W. H Brittain, vice-principal of McGill University, H McD. Clokie University of Manitoba, W. J. McCordry, University of Toronto, R. M. Saunders, University of Toronto and R. Westwater, Inspector of Schools, Ontario.

The first classes in English were held at Queen's University and Mount Allison University, on August.

Other classes will be held at McGill University, Aug. 13, 14, 15; Queen's, Aug. 17, 18; Toronto, 19, 20, 21; University of Western Ontario, Aug. 21, 22, 23; University of Manitoba, Aug. 26, 27, 28, 29; University of Saskatchewan, Sept. 2, 3, 4; University of Alberta Sept. 8, 9, 10 and the University of British Columbia, Sept. 14, 15, 16.

Principal aim of the course is to give instruction in discussion group techniques and provide practice in discussion methods as well as to make available latest information on current affairs and to suggest sources of available material for use in discussion groups.

NEW BARLEY SHIPMENT

MORRIS, Man.—The first car of new barley was loaded at the Lowe farm near here by the Manitoba pool in C.N. car 810465 and shipped over Canadian National lines to the Manitoba wheat pool at Port Arthur. The shipment consists of 2,300 bushels and was grown by George J. Wilson, J. G Nardoe and Isaac Chapnosky. Yield was 30 to 35 bushels per acre.

Trainbusters!

Trainbusters, both of them three two Royal Canadian Air Force flyers are relentlessly carrying the war against enemy lines of communication and road transport in the occupied countries. Flying Officer J. A. Morten of Didsbury, Alta., right, and Flying Offic D. M. "Bizzy" Grant, D.F.C., of Watrous, Sask., left, have both chalked up outstanding records with their daring sorties. Both flyers appear in action in the new R.C.A.F. film "Trainbusters". Just released across Canada, the film tells the story of the exploits of Grant, whose outstanding record as a fighter pilot has been overseas with the R.C.A.F. for the past two years. He was formerly prominent in athletics, attaining distinction as a tennis player at Calgary. Morten was a fireman in days of peace.

SCHOOL BOARD COMPLETES TEACHING STAFF

Lewis V. Smith Is New Science Teacher

The regular monthly meeting of the trustees of Vermilion Centre S.D. No. 1448 was held in the Council chamber, town hall, on Thursday Aug. 5th at 8.15 p.m. with the Chairman Donald Taylor and trustees D.A. Harper, G. Grass, J. D. Adair and John Reid present.

Minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted as read.

The chairman explained to J. D. Adair what had transpired regarding teachers as Mr. Adam had been away on holidays.

A letter was read from Mr. Lewis V. Smith, the successful applicant for the position of Science teacher at the V.H.S.

The resignation of Miss Nugent was accepted and the appointment of Miss Dorothy Oldenberg as teacher, to fill the vacancy was verified.

Application of Mr. Lewis V. Smith as Science teacher at V.H.S. was accepted.

The accounts as presented were ordered paid, the same having been verified.

Meeting adjourned.

Leo Brunet who has been in charge of the gents' furnishings dept. in Craig's store, has accepted a position with a wholesale firm in Edmonton and has already commenced his new duties in the capital city.

DIPLOMATS IN DENIM

(By A. Clare Haley, specially written for The Calgary Herald)

You can always tell a grain man by the dent on his eyebrows, but you can't tell him much about human nature. In hundreds of rural communities, all over the West, the grain buyer's office is the goodwill agent of agriculture. Here, the grain company's agent dispenses grades, cash tickets, advances, and advice and mites. In some cases you can add to this list; binder twine, the latest treatment for crippled hogs, and the best road to take to Calgary.

In a larger centre, the farmers congregate at the store and rest their tired selves on a barrel; but in the really rural areas, they gather at the elevator and lean against the scale.

The grain buyer knows his farmer friend's problems so intimately that he can always be very sympathetic and helpful. In fact, he is almost a father to his customers. He can find a solution to almost any predicament, from the great proportions of wild oats in No. 3 Garnet, to the transportation of the farmer's wife to the bus stop, on three good tires and a flat.

HAS TO BE TACTFUL

To attain his position of parent to the community, he has to graduate in diplomacy, with honors. He has to suggest, very tactfully, and insist quite occasionally, that the 3 tons wheat the farmer thinks he has grown, is, in reality, only a No. 3; and he has to do this so pleasantly that the owner of the wheat is pleased he didn't get a "three". As you would imagine, this state of affairs calls for the patience of Job and the determination of Winston Churchill. However, as the farmers get to know their men better, they grow to trust his judgment, and have confidence in his integrity. Often, many of them become lasting, sincere friends of friends. This is one of the rewards he receives for his devotion to duty.

In the past, grain buyers had a slightly doubtful reputation among farmers.

But it is generally conceded now that they are as a class just as honest and trustworthy as any other citizen. Modern business is such a competitive affair that for reasons of self-interest, if not for ethical reasons, the management have to insist on scrupulous honesty from their employees.

Being in a half-way position between the ploughed furrow and the desk, adjacent board, the grain agent finds himself involved in the collection of hail taxes, municipal taxes, and liens. He finds himself responsible for ordering cars and then collecting scrap metal, war savings, Red Cross donations. He learns to be politic about his politics. He listens to the platforms of many political parties with patience. When an order comes for ordering cars, or a loss for a verbal weapon with which to dispose of the fifty big shots, our agent can always be relied upon to supply the words.

ALL SORTS OF DUTIES

The present wheat surplus has added one curse to the agent's routine. Elevator space, being at a premium, has to be rationed out, like butter, two inches per person. Permits, which have to be applied for by the farmer.

Of course, the farmer's permit is seldom where it should be. Either an alert and enterprising competitor has gathered it into his collection, or the farmer has forgotten to bring it along. And the actual filling in of these permits is guaranteed to produce headaches, as a description of the land owned by the farmer has to be included. Apparently, some farm ers are just as hazy about the correct description of the land they own, as the average housewife is about when the next butter coupons come due.

Quite recently another chore has been added to our agent's list of duties, in connection with the placing of farm help. At his office the farmer can have his application for farm help filled in. One farmer will want 10 men for 4 days when the weather clears, and if he skips his bags. Another wants a hired couple for a week if he doesn't get rid of his cattle in the meantime. The agent endeavors to mold these indefinite desires into a concise application, while listening sympathetically to the many morons involved.

The efficient grain agent would make a good diplomat, in fact, we sometimes think he would make a good anything. —The Calgary Herald.

SOLDIERS FACE CHARGES OF SHOPLIFTING, CAR THEFT

Soldiers on leave from areas of Police Chief Harrington during the past week when one was hailed before the police magistrate and subsequently before the military authorities on a charge of shoplifting from the stores in town. A considerable number of the lifted articles were found in his room at a hotel, and he is now spending 90 days in Fort Pask. gaol. Another soldier on leave from Red Deer was rounded up here after a complaint had been made from a traveller to Chief Harrington that his car had been stolen. Quick action resulted and the culprit was apprehended before he could get out of town. He is now awaiting trial.

UNBETTLED WEATHER

Weather for the past week has been unsettled with a little of everything—near storms, storms, showers—but not much warm weather which is an outstanding need right now.

Professional entertainers of the Canadian Women's A. T. S. units are now providing amusement for Canadian troops in isolated areas.

"The Song of Bernadette"

By Franz Werfel

Franz Werfel, the author of "The Forty Days of Musa Dagh", when making his escape from the persecution meted out to the Jews in Europe, passed for a week in the little city of Lourdes, in the French Pyrenees. The phenomena he observed there, and his thankfulness at escaping from the Nazi terror impelled him to write "The Song of Bernadette".

It is a story of a French peasant girl who had a vision of a "beautiful lady" and discovered the healing waters that flow from a grotto near Lourdes. Werfel draws a telling cross-section of the little French frontier town, its petty officialdom, the intellectuals who gather in the cafe for the noon aperitif, and the peasant folk who were the first to believe in the miller's daughter and her splendid vision.

Bernadette Soubirous, the protagonist, is a girl of transparent honesty and simplicity, who cannot understand all the fuss that surrounds her and the furor that spreads across a continent. Her whole life is made up of a striving to see again her Lady, after the visions have ceased.

There is drama in the relationship of the Catholic church to the business at Lourdes, the initial apathy of pope and prelate, and the outright opposition of the local priest, Dean Peyramale. But the infinite variations of the human soul and the pregnant process of nature break down the barriers and fifty-four years after her death, Bernadette is canonized at St. Peter's in Rome.

This story, written in lucid prose, should interest us because we have in Canada a similar shrine, St. Anne de Beaupraia in Quebec. Who knows what song may rise from the shores of the Laurentide?

HELP FOR OUR CHINESE ALLIES

Our gallant Allies, the Chinese people, badly need help! For seven long years China has been battling to check the greater part of the military strength of Japan. China has lost much of her land and proceeded in this war than all the other Allied Nations, including Russia, put together. The cost, by fighting Japan, are defending Canada today 'not as truly as though they were fighting in Canada alongside of us, but our gallant, patient, courageous friends now need help; the condition of millions of them is pitiful. They badly need medical supplies and comforts. They need food for the millions of refugees who have escaped from Japanese-occupied territory into Free China, and to add to their plight, China is now suffering over a large area from a severe drought, which is bringing famine and untold miseries in its wake.

It takes money to buy the things the Chinese people so urgently need, so they are appealing to the Canadian people for help through the Chinese War Relief Fund. Chas. Banack, elevator agents and others throughout the West, are empowered to accept donations for this fund. It is one of the worthiest appeals ever made to Canadian people. The smallest sum will be gratefully accepted. Let each of us, therefore, give as generously to this fund as he can afford to do. As little as ONE DOLLAR will help to save a life.

14,000 Ration Books Ready for Distribution In Vermilion, District

Seven Points Organized for Big Job

14,000 ration books were received by Chas. W. Robinson, secretary of the local ration board, and have since been relayed to seven points in the Vermilion district, preparatory to distribution to individuals on Aug. 25 (or 26 inclusive.

Distributing points are located at Vermilion in the Canadian Legion Memorial hall here Legion W.A. is in charge of the big job of handing out the books; Manville in charge of Mrs. E. M. Henderson, I.O.D.E.; Islay, in charge of John T. Fyfe; Hazeldine, Graham Gardiner; Dewberry, Red Cross, Mrs. J. S. McKay; Clandonald, George Stonehouse; Derwent, Algot and McConnel; Myrnam, P. M. Arnalinson.

Every person is required to read the following instructions very carefully. By following them you will aid th se in charge of the distribution very greatly. See also the advertisement containing full directions on an itside page. Make yourself thoroughly familiar with the whole procedure.

HOW TO GET YOUR NEW RATION BOOK

Present Book, for Book 3

EDMONTON. — To obtain ration book 3, between the dates, Aug. 25 to 28, it is necessary to present ration book 2, with information completed in the post card at the back. Officials remind that it is wrong to tear out the post card in the back of book 2 and mail it to ration offices and local ration boards as some people are doing at present.

These are the rules —

A. Print prefix letters, serial number of your ration book, name, address, and age if under 16, on the post card in the back of ration book 2.

B. Present ration book 2, to the receiver at the distributing centre from which you will get your new book. Receivers check information on the postcard with that on the cover of book 2, thereby passing this information to cover or book 3, detach and retain the post card.

C. Receive new ration books, and take them home. Do not destroy ration book 2 because brown Spare A coupons for meal are good until Nov. 30.

A member of the family, if over 16 years of age, or responsible member of the community may present ration books for a family if family desires into a concise application, while listening sympathetically to the many morons involved.

FUNERAL OF MRS. C. HENDREA

The funeral of Mrs. George Hendrea, who passed away at the Vermilion hospital on Tuesday June 17th at the age of 41 years, will be held on Friday August 20th at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Services will be held at the First United church and interment will take place in the Vermilion cemetery.

FRANK PILKIE PURCHASES FINE RESIDENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pilkie have purchased the fine residence of Capt. and Mrs. Scott located in the east end of town. The house is at present occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W.M. Bellfield.

Attention of occupants of land in N.D. Minburn No. 453 is directed to Noxious Weeds Act and Regulations in this issue. Co-operation is asked by the Council in this matter. Recently a farmer of that municipality was fined five dollars and costs for not complying with the instructions of the weed inspector.

"SOAKED" CABBAGES IS THE LATEST GYP

Merchants buying some solid, fine looking and very heavy local cabbages last week, were surprised to find them sitting in large pools of water the next morning. Subsequent investigation revealed that the cabbages had apparently been immersed in water and allowed to soak up as much moisture as they could, just prior to being sold by the pound.

"MY FRIEND FLICKA" GREAT PICTURE AT COLUMBIA

"My Friend Flicka"—a picture in technicolor that is truly a thing of beauty, and it undertakes also to study in leisurely fashion the part which possession of a colt plays in the character development of a boy. There is no hurrying and the appeal is directly to the plain emotions which respond to a display of wholesomeness as it is to be found in the lives of ordinary people.

At the Columbia theatre on Monday and Tuesday only, Aug. 23 and 24.

CROPS EQUAL TO ART IN HISTORY OF THE DISTRICT

Wheat Cutting Starts Next Week

Present crop prospects are excellent according to grain men who say they have never seen better stands nor better filled wheat heads than those in this crop district. Providing that the crop can be harvested wheat should average from 27 to 32 bushels to the acre, oats 50 to 60 bus. and barley 30 to 35. Average height of wheat is 24 inches. There has been no damage to the crop with the exception of a little by sawflys.

There is an odd case of wheat cutting getting under way this week end with more starting next week. Harvesting will be general by Sept. 1.

Less labor is available even than was on hand last year and a long open fall is absolutely necessary to the successful garnering of the crop.

VERMILION MAN LISTED AS MISSING AFTER AIR OPERATIONS OVERSEAS

John Ivan Anderson whose wife Mrs. R. P. Anderson is stated to reside in Vermilion, is missing on active service following air operations overseas. He is a pilot officer.

The standard record of men from Vermilion district serving overseas does not contain the name of the missing airman, nor does the list of the Canadian Legion. Consequently it is the eh that Mr. Anderson enlisted from some other point.

C. W. A. C. ORCHESTRA NEED VIOLIN, URGENT

Khaki Korn Kernels Kloomy

Members of the orchestra at No. 2 Canadian Women's Army Corps Basic Training Centre at Vermilion, are very sad. The usually gay spirited Khaki Korn Kernels from the Korn Belt, wh- still make a personal appearance during the C.W.A.C. Anniversary Week at Calgary and Edmonton, need a violin to complete the harmony. They're not strings that jingle-jangle-jingle but no violin.

Is there anyone who would play Santa Claus in August and lend the instrument to the girls. They don't ask you to give it away but just to let them borrow it for the time being.

Lieut. Eunice Robertson will be in Vermilion on Saturday Aug. 28th for the purpose of interviewing recruits for the Canadian Women's Army Corps. She will be at the Canadian Legion hall from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. that day. 17-19

GARDENS AND GROUNDS TO BE JUDGED SATURDAY

The Vermilion Horticulture society is having all the gardens and grounds in the town judged on Saturday in the annual contest. Mr. E. H. Blackingham will be in charge of the judging.

Attention of occupants of land in N.D. Minburn No. 453 is directed to Noxious Weeds Act and Regulations in this issue. Co-operation is asked by the Council in this matter. Recently a farmer of that municipality was fined five dollars and costs for not complying with the instructions of the weed inspector.

STORES TO CLOSE FOR THE NOON HOUR

Co-operation of Shoppers Asked

Due to the shortage of help Vermilion merchants have decided to close their stores during the noon hour each day and the co-operation of all shoppers is asked in this regard. Carrying on from 12 o'clock to 2 o'clock with skeleton staffs has proved anything but satisfactory hence the move to close up for the lunch hour from 12 to 1:15 each day and for the supper hour from 6 to 7 on Saturday. This means that a full staff will be on hand to serve shoppers all the time the store is open.

The new hours take effect on Monday next, August 23 and will be observed in general stores, hardware, butcher shops and lumber yards.

CHINESE RELIEF FUND NOW OPEN FOR CONTRIBUTIONS

The Need Is Great

"Chien lee, oo mow."

This phrase, often accompanying a Chinese gift, is from a famous Sung Dynasty poet and means: "Like a swan's feather sent for a thousand miles. But a small gift bears a great significance."

Canadians who answer the current appeal of the Chinese War Relief fund, which hopes this month to raise $1,500,000 across Canada for aid to China, might well append this poetic sentiment to their contributions.

There is no doubt as to Canadian admiration for the superb courage and tenacious spirit of this Chinese ally. Now, through monetary donations, Canadians can tell the people of China: "We are proud of you. We are with you. Fight on! Chien lee, oo mow."

On her recent visit to Canada's capital, lovely little Madame Chiang Kai-shek, her black eyes glowing, said that Canadian sympathy and friendship meant much to her people. That sympathy and friendship can now be expressed in a practical way — through contributions to the Chinese War Relief Fund.

Those who have been good enough to offer to accept donations are: H Hirschoff, Clandonald; R. H Bell Islay; H. Batty, Kitscoty; Thos Watts, Lamont; Long Drug store, B.C. Hedberg, Star Cafe Boston Cafe, Columbia theatre, Vermilion.

The tennis club recently invested in a n net, the best that money could buy, costing $25 and the new equipment is now in full use on the west court. Nine new balls were also picked up thanks to W. M Wally Bainbridge, and much to the gratification of the club members when the balls were beginning to have that moth eaten look about them. Volunteer work by the men of the club of mowing, dragging and rolling has kept the courts in wonderful condition all season in spite of the almost continuous use made of them.

Municipal Officials Hold Convention

Enlarged Districts Coming—Harvest Labor Plan Outlined

The Municipal Conference usually called the Vermilion Conference, which is composed of the Reeves, Councillors and Secretary-Treasurers of the north-eastern part of the province was held in the Legion hall, Vermilion, on Thursday Aug. 12th. Although the weather was threatening and the roads bad, the attendance was about up to average. A telegram received from Wainwright expressed regret at their inability to attend

Reeve Chas. F. Thompson of Kitscoty was appointed Chairman and H. T. Derward of Mannville acted as Secretary. Mr. Derward has looked after this part of the work for many years and deserves special thanks from the different Councils

The Department was represented by Mr. Thos. Potts, the Chief Inspector. Other officers of the Department were not able to attend owing to duties in other parts of the province.

The chief item for discussion was the formation of larger units and advice was given that this would be proceeded with this year without fail. The north and south set-up is favored by the department but the councils concerned were advised to pass new resolutions this year because a new minister of municipal affairs is in charge.

Mr. E. H. Buckingham, District Agriculturist, gave a very interesting talk on his department's efforts along agricultural lines. He outlined the work of the Farm For Victory Committee throughout his district. This committee is at present concerned with harvest labor and threshing. There are two sorts of this labor:

First, the Compassionate arrangement whereby parents can claim their sons to help with the harvest. In this plan, the soldier obtains from his Commanding Officer a declaration form which is signed by the District Agriculturist and the Secretary-Treas. of the Municipal district vouching for the necessity of such help; the second sort is called the Farm For Duty, in this the farmer obtains from the District Agriculturist or the Secretary-Treasurer of the M.D. an application form agreeing to the terms of this employment The rate is $4 per day straight, except Sundays. Board also to be furnished by the farmer. There is no allowance for bad weather. It would appear that there will not be enough harvest labor to go around and threshers should make local arrangements where they can. The meeting adjourned about five o'clock.

TEMPERANCE FORCES HOLD CONVENTION

Representatives Attend from A Wide Area

The Vermilion Regional convention of the Associated Temperance Forces of Alberta was held in the Vermilion United church, on Tuesday, Aug. 17th. Representatives from Wainwright, Irma, Edgerton, Lavoy, Mannville, Kitscoty, Islay, Vermilion and many other surrounding points were present to set up an active organization for the carrying out of a positive temperance program. Special leaders present were the Rev. Ben Spence, acting secretary in Alberta, and the Rev. I.N. Hudson, district organizer for the convention.

The afternoon meeting, under the chairmanship of Mr. F. A. Hancock of Marwayne, set up the following regional organization for the carrying on of future activities:

Chairman—Mr Albert Johnson, Lavoy, Secretary—Mr George Reid of Irma, Treasurer Mr. F. O. Sewell Kitscoty.

The chief speaker of the evening mass meeting was Mr. Spence, who most forcibly expressed the policy of the Association. This policy is that democratic rights be given to the electors of Alberta municipalities in dealing with the liquor issue. It is the present policy of the Government that there shall be no further extension of the liquor trade during the war. The Associated Temperance Forces seek one step further and desire a provision that hereafter the Wet and Dry status of any municipality shall not be altered, unless and until a vote of the electors in the municipality concerned shall have been taken and assent given.

The following resolution was presented and accepted by a standing vote The Convention resolves—

"To freeze the present situation, as is, and to provide that the same methods apply to the establishing of licenses in new territory that now apply to the closing of licensed places by local option votes. At the present no licenses established can be abolished except by vote

To safeguard all voting on the liquor issue by providing for the use of municipal lists rather than provincial, for the reason that municipal lists provide a more definite fixed list

To tighten up on the present provisions of the Liquor Control Act as to hours quantities conditions of sale persons to whom sold, increases, number of licenses to the population or location of licensed premises in reference to schools, places of public amusement dance halls etc

In city localities such power as will enable the will of the people affected by the operation of liquor selling places to prevail in regard thereto.

An item of special interest was the showing of a talkie film entitled "It's the Brain That Counts", in which the influence of alcohol upon the brain was forcibly revealed in story form.

The Convention closed with the singing of "God Save the King".

Ducks Are Plentiful

Slow Ducks Thus Last Year In Manitoba Islands

It's too bad the duck hunter's supply of ammunition is going to be low this autumn. Because the same can't be said for the ducks themselves. A report by Ducks Unlimited stated that in 31 of the districts in western Canada there are more ducks than last year; in 69 the population is the same, and in only 34 it is bad. Mallards have increased most in numbers, with gadwalls, lesser scaup and widgeons following close behind.

GOD GIVES LAWS FOR HIS PEOPLE

Golden text: Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength; and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself. Luke 10:27.

Lesson: Exodus 19—24; Deuteronomy 11:18-21; Galatians 3:23-28; 5: 13, 14.

Devotional reading: Psalm 19:7-14.

Explanations and Comments

Ambeyi Laws Regulating the Administration of Justice, Exodus 22: 1-9 Verse one is like the Ninth Commandment. Thou shalt not take up a false report; put not thy hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witness these are other ways of saying: Thou shalt not bear false witness With the second direction of verse one The One Volume Commentary quotes the Arabic proverb: "In wickedness the listener is the ally of the speaker."

Do not follow the crowd in doing evil. Do not bear witness in an unjust cause that is favored by the multitude Neither shalt thou favor a poor man in his cause, verse 2, end Thou shalt not wrest the justice due to thy poor in his cause. verse 3 learn this judgment is to be strictly just, no favor is to be shown a person either because he is poor or because he is rich. "It is an admirable caution Men there are who would screen the opposite injustice and from whom no rich man could buy a wrongful decision with gold or favor, but who are habitually unjust, because they load the other scale The beam ought to hang straight when justice is concerned."

Even an enemy must be treated justly You must bring back to your enemy the ox that you find straying off, and if you find the ass of one who hates you lying down unable to rise because of the burden on its back, you must surely free it. Recall Christ's words: To have heard that it was said, Thou shalt love thy neighbor and hate thine enemy: but I say unto you, Love your enemies, do good to them that hate you, Mt. 5:43, 44.

"The old law never can be abolished. It is one of the very laws which Jesus Christ came to fulfill. Who can do it? To help the cause of a friend would be a pleasure, but to lift up the burden from the back of the ass of an enemy tears us in pieces and tests our quality. Nor can we do it in a mere law-keeping spirit. We know that to keep this law we must be above the law; grace must have done its redeeming and inspiring ministry in our hearts before we can keep this law in the perfectness of its meaning. We have all opportunities of doing honor to this law." (Joseph Parker).

Wartime Welfare Learns To "Wait"

Enlistment in the armed services has taken many experienced waiters from Canadian National Railways dining car duty. They are replaced by younger men not subject to immediate call. Veteran dining car stewards instruct the newcomers in the fine points of providing the courteous service for which Canadian National meal cars are noted. Above, Steward William Hector, veteran in Canadian National service, gives a demonstration to P. Balanod (left), 18 years old; R. Kaynuk (third from left) 19, and Joe Lentuk (right), 18. Looking on is R. Paul, an old-timer in dining car service, who is standing in the centre.

Air Sickness

Says Illness In The Air Can Be Conquered

Air sickness—that plague of the unhappy victim and source of amusement to the unaffected—is curable, Dr. G. R. Wendt, who has made a 10-year study of the ailment asserts in an article for the magazine "Fly-ing."

Conditioning is the key to both prevention and cure of air sickness, Dr. Wendt says in setting forth a few rules for conquering nausea, which has proved a serious problem in the vast pilot training program of the armed services.

Air sickness is attributed to the delicate mechanism of the inner ear, but psychological factors play an important part, too. Worst stated Most potent of these factors are association with others suffering from nausea, memory of previous attacks and expectation of illness.

Students should be conditioned gradually to movements of flight and taught not to anticipate illness.

"And remember," Dr. Wendt says, "every trip made without sickness increases tolerance for motion—while every trip on which sickness is experienced makes the person more susceptible.

"Crocodile tears" is used as a term of hypocrisy because the reptile cries when it fills its mouth with food.

Learned How

American Soldiers In Britain Stumped By An Egg Cup

A. G. Street, farmer and author, who took part recently in the BBC trans-Atlantic series "Answering You," told two amusing anecdotes. The first related to that wartime rarety, the egg. He said that only one thing seemed to have puzzled U.S.A. soldiers whom he and his wife had entertained in their farmhouse in Britain. There were no difficulties with the language at all. The great problem arose when they served the Americans with an egg in an egg-cup. Not, one gathers, because an egg was an oddity as such—only that particular way of serving it. That "absolutely flopped them out." They looked at it and asked, "Well, my what do we do?" Street said, "Why, knock the top off." They said, "Oh yes—and then dig in?" And they dug in, with a spoon.—BBC Service.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

SAVE MILK FOR BRITAIN

There is no serious difference in the medical profession on the question of pasteurization, the British minister of food was told by a high representative of the British Medical Association, when a delegation urged complete pasteurization of milk in the United Kingdom. The distinguished deputation which waited on the minister included representatives of the National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, the British Paediatric Association, the People's League for Health, and others.

The minister, in reply, said the Government had an obligation to ensure a safe milk supply, or otherwise to instruct the people how they might obtain a reasonable security in milk consumption. He said he was investigating the situation.

Prof. L. P. Garrod informed the minister that tuberculosis was decidedly common among British dairy cattle and that one-third of the deaths from tuberculosis in children under 5 years of age were due to the bovine organism. This meant 1,000 deaths annually, and there was additionally a large percentage of invalidism and crippling.

Another disease of the cow transmitted to man was contagious abortion (which causes undulant fever in humans), but than there were the ordinary infections which might be transmitted, usually by contamination of the milk by the milker. All bacteria concerned in these cases could be destroyed by moderate heat for a short time. Pasteurization did not alter the flavor of milk.

Dr. Alan Moncrieff, said child specialists were concerned about the possibilities of infection and the alimentary tract due to dangerous milk. Only pasteurization gave the guarantee of safety.

Dr. C. O. Hawthorne said the public was misled by such terms as "clean" or "pure" milk. There was "accredited" milk. He preferred the term "safe milk", meaning pasteurized, the only guaranties against infection.

Synthetic Beefsteak

Food Product Of High Protein Content From Fat Cattle

Synthetic beefsteak is one of several meat and other food extenders produced from a high-protein type of yeast that Anheuser Busch Inc. is delivering to the army and the land-lease administration, a company official announced.

Cost of the synthetic beefsteak is only one-fifth of natural beef and will satisfy most palates. "But to call these products substitutes for sirloin steaks is being a bit flowery," declared Arthur Weber, head of the company's yeast department. "Our product has the same amount of nutrition, however, and can be compared to the steak as far as value is concerned."

It is predicted that production of the new substances will be continued after the war with an eye to putting cheap, vitamin-filled food on post-war tables.

In making the synthetic steak, yeast is mixed with water and meat extract. The mixture is treated with ammonia which converts the yeast to protein. In the process air is stirred into the substance and 12 hours later the ersatz meat is the result.

Dr. Carl C. Lindegren perfected the process at Washington University in St. Louis, while working on an Anheuser-Busch fellowship.

Destroy Locomotives

R.A.F. And Canadian Fighters Knock Out 100 In July

R.A.F. and Canadian fighters and fighter bombers knocked out about 100 locomotives in attacks on Axis railway communications in occupied countries during July, the air ministry announced.

The figure does not include trains damaged or destroyed in railway terminals, the announcement said. Pilots participating in the raids were under strict orders not to attack civilian passenger trains, the ministry added.

New Discovery

Make Water-Proof Cloth In Britain Without Use Of Rubber

Discovery of a method of waterproofing cloth without the use of rubber or other materials was announced at Manchester, Eng., and the "self sealing" fabric now being extensively supplied to the government for war purposes. None has yet reached the civilian market, but a big future is predicted for it.

The method was evolved by Dr. F. T. Price of the British Cotton Industry Research Association's Shirley Institute. The self sealing cloth resulted from the realization that if the fibre of cotton could swell with moisture, it would block up the interstices and make fabric waterholding with out waterproofing.

Air Competition

Proposes A United Empire Air Policy For Discussion

Express ng fear that Britain would not be prepared to compete with the United States in air transport for several years after the war, the British joint air transport committee proposed that the government adopt a united empire air policy for discussion with the United Nations.

The committee issued a statement calling attention to recent conference in Washington during which a number of United States e airlines recommended "free and open" competition after the war.

"After a period of years," the statement said, "this healthy competition may well be possible and desirable but until then it is suggested that it would be unwise to adopt the policy committee's proposal for regulated competition."

The committee recommended each Empire country have a fair allotment of planes with Britain and the United States having "parity in terms of a mutually accepted yardstick."

SELECTED RECIPES

ALL-BRAN MOLASSES COOKIES

½ cup shortening
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup molasses
1 cup All Bran
2 cups sifted flour
1 tablespoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup cold water

Heat shortening until creamy. Add sugar gradually, mixing until thoroughly blended. Stir in molasses and All Bran. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with water, stirring to make a soft dough. Drop by heaping tablespoonfuls onto greased cookies sheets; flatten if desired. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) about 15 minutes. Yield: About 4 dozen cookies 3 inches in diameter.

AMBER MARMALADE

6 oranges
6 lemons
1 grapefruit
2 quarts cold water
4 cups sugar
6 cups Crown Brand Corn Syrup

Wash fruits, remove peel and cut in very thin slices. Slice pulp thinly and set aside in a covered bowl. Cover peelings with cold water and let stand overnight. Next day bring to boiling point and add sugar and syrup (which has been heated gently together but not allowed to boil) Add also sliced fruit pulp. Cook rapidly, stirring very often, till marmalade gives the jelly test (about ¼ hour). Yield: Approximately 5 pints.

THEY LIKE IT AND DIE

THE HUMAN COMEDY

Adapted from the Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer Picture
by BEATRICE CANMER

Bev and Mary were off for a satisfying evening of talk when the telephone rang.

CHAPTER FOUR

The streets were wet and glistening with rain. Bess had been shopping with Marcus' girl, Mary Arena. They walked along, happy under their cellophane umbrellas, enjoying the lightshower. In front of a drygoods store three soldiers, respectively betraying humor, good nature and mischief in their twinkling eyes, looked them.

Then they came up and bowed worshipfully before the girls. Bess giggled and so did Mary.

One of the fellows doffed his cap and spoke. "My ladies, we of the great Democratic army, your humble servants, the soldiers, have today met and we hope, here tomorrow, but you for your beautiful faces—in times of rain. May I present my humble self, Private Peter Potter mirrors." He indicated the tall, rangy fellow, "and this one is from a New Jersey." Now the next one. "This is Sylvia. He is from Texas."

The third one stepped up. "I am Pat. I am from hunger. Now, more than anything else I have a hunger for companionship You see, it feels better to be with three girls than to be with three just soldiers."

Bess laughed. "We were going to go to the movies with them."

"To the Kissmet," Pat intoned solemnly. "Ah, I could consider that a most generous hearts our humble petition. Then we can see family, the girls and except for war we might never to be in my classes. Those are all see each other. Is it not so?"

Mary whispered to Bess.

"No, Mary, he's just lonely. Let's go to the movie with them."

A moment later, they were all seated in the Kinema. It was hot and warm, sisterly and brotherly. They revelled and cheered all the newsreels of Churchill and Roosevelt. They wept and laughed at the romantic movie. Later, the boys sent telegrams to their folks and girls and then went them to Bess and Mary.

Finally, it was time for farewells. The moment had been dreaded by all innocently. Pat kissed Bess and Mary.

The Heros shouted, "Well, what about you? What about us, men of Texas? We're somebody too. We're in the army too."

So the girls kissed them and then the three boys leaped and frolicked down the street until they were out of sight.

If Homer had seen them all he would have known that here was the other kind of love too, the love of comradeship among strangers, the warmth of the human towards those who are lonely and far from home.

The next morning Homer slept later than usual. It was Saturday. No school The clock said nine-thirty when he got to the breakfast table. From the supply lot outside came sounds of Ulysses and the other kids having a football game. Homer looked wistfully. Then he protested to his mother, "Gee, I didn't want to sleep this late Ma. Why didn't you call me?"

Her eyes crinkled with love. "You're working hard Homer. You must rest."

"I'm not working so hard. Gee Ma. I wish you wouldn't worry about me. You know I'd sort of like to feel in some way that maybe I could take Marcus' place a little. Let me do the worrying for you. I'll do it fine."

All that day he worked harder than ever just to back up his breakfast speech. He was sitting with the nice glow that evening when the policeman stuck his head in the kitchen door. "Hey, Homer your little brother Ulysses is lost outside. You better come and get him."

There was a crowd surrounding little Ulysses. The child's face was streaming with tears. The most awful thing had happened He had been staring in a store window at a Mechanical Man The man, disgusted with his audience, turned and suddenly made a terrible face and a clawing gesture. Ulysses had seen as if goblins were after him, shrieked, terrified. Then a crowd had come and that was even worse.

Homer knelt beside him. "What's the matter? What are you crying about?" He understood. "Ah you're just scared that's all."

Ulysses repeated in wonder. "Scared? Am I scared?"

Homer scooped him up on the handlebars of his bike. "There's nothing to be afraid of. You don't have to be afraid any more."

A big smile broke over the child's face. Lilla was opening up for him. This was a new experience. He hugged himself and repeated the delicious words. "I'm afraid. I'm afraid."

Homer's breast swelled. He felt quite important and grownup, recalling Ulysses He was doing the worrying for Ma, taking Marcus' place. The feeling mounted in him. soared.

He couldn't know it but it was his father's spirit that so moved him, preparing him for the future. Way up on high, Matthew Macauley was watching his eldest son Marcus leaving camp. He was speaking soft words of blessing.

"And now the orders have come for these American boys . . . kids from big cities and from little towns, from farms and from offices, from rich families and from poor families, kids brilliant and swift in spirit and slow and steady. They are all the Americans. They are not unwilling. They have accepted the necessity to dismiss their fear and if it so happens, to die. Ah Marcus, you will be joining me perhaps . . ."

The troop train which Matthew saw was moving through the night. One of Lis soldiers was pulling on a bit of harmonica. From it he rendered of the car a trio sang some folk songs.

Marcus and his pal Tobey sat together. Tobey's round face was shining. "You know Marcus I feel pretty lucky. If it hadn't been for you I wouldn't have run into you." He moistened his lips. "Tell me Marcus are you going to be much if you're killed?"

Marcus' face shadowed with thought. "Yes Tobey I'll care a lot. There are my folks back home, the girl I'm going to marry, the kids that I'm all right will you take me back with you, show me all the places you have?"

An inner lamp seemed to light up Marcus' face "Yeah. I want to do that Tobey and I want you to meet my folks Oh we're poor, always have been My father was a great man, not a success We didn't ever have any money but we have all we needed And you know what I think you're going to like my sister Bess." He reached in his pocket and pulled out a snapshot. "Say Tobey I'm going to write Bess to keep—the way I keep Mary's in my pocket."

Tobey looked at the tiny photograph with reverence. "Gee she is a beautiful girl, Marcus I don't know if a guy can fall in love with a girl without meeting her but I feel like I'm in love with Bess already."

"Maybe she'll feel the same way And if you love each other what's to stop you from getting married?"

As if in answer Tobey quietly began a prayer. His face was raised his hands clasped as he said "I just thank you God for this. All the thing You may but let me get to the Pretty Rock and Bess. I'll be in pain, send the homeless to their homes, get me to Libba. Amen

"Amen," Marcus echoed. His eyes were shiny. "That's a good prayer, Tobey. I hope it's answered." He opened his bag and drew out writing pad and pencil. "Think I'll get a letter off home. I'm right in the mood for it I guess."

(Tobey and Marcus have discussed an after-the-war future. But now they are heading for battle. Will they get back to Ithaca, to Bess, to Mary, to build the Peace? Don't miss the next exciting instalment.)

Heroes Of Malta

Little Island Gained Revenge For Her Long Suffering

Tiny Malta, on the receiving end of savage Axis attacks for more than two years, served as the "anvil" for the Allied invasion of Sicily to gain revenge for her months of suffering, Don Dwight D. Eisenhower declared.

Gen. Eisenhower established his command post for the operation in the limestone caves of the island.

It was the second time that caves have served as headquarters for Allied offensives. Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters in the attack on North Africa last November were in the tunnels of the fortress of Gibraltar.

The tall, sandy-haired commander-in-chief of the Allied forces in Africa paid tribute to Malta and the Maltese.

"The epic of Malta is a symbolic experience of the United Nations in this war," he said. "Malta has passed successively through the stages of woeful unpreparedness, tenacious endurance, intensive preparation and the initiation of a fierce offensive. For this inspiring example, the United Nations will be forever indebted to Field Marshal Lord Gort and the fighting services under his command and to every citizen of the heroic island fortress.

Gen. Eisenhower also praised the work of the Malta air forces saying that except for the Malta air forces and for the constructive accomplishments of the whole Malta command during the past year the current offensive against Sicily could not have been launched as a feasible one."

The commander and his staff went to Malta four days before the beginning of the offensive to direct the attack on Sicily The general's aide said he had also several of the general's staff low with the fever while they waited for the invasion to begin.

One of the most tense moments of the campaign came when the whistle on the island recently gained speed a short time before H-hour, Farm-bred Gen. Eisenhower was first to realize that the drop in speed meant many heavy seas which might imperil the whole invasion

It was another incident that a similar situation gave the most cause for worry at Gibraltar a few hours before the North African invasion. Rough seas along the "iron coast" of Morocco subsided only a few hours before the Americans landed

Giant Planes To Be Built In New Plant in Chicago

The mammoth new plant of Douglas Aircraft has been dedicated at Chicago, only 10 months after ground was broken for the main manufacturing plant. Here the largest planes in full scale production in the nation, the four-engined C-54 Skymasters, which are the cargo version of the DC-4 developed for the commercial airlines, are to be turned out in quantity.

These light metal giants will be hatched from a nest of wood, the largest wooden structure in the world. Realizing the critical demands for steel for other purposes, engineers and the Materiel Command of the Army Air Forces utilized enough lumber in its construction to build 4,000 prefabricated homes Even downspouts have been made of fibre. water and process lines of asbestos and plastic pipe, siding of cement and asbestos, and huge trusses and columns of plain and laminated wood.

Enough critical material was thus saved to make 8,000 medium tanks, 4,300 army trucks, 2,400,000 rifles, 100,000,000 20-mm. aircraft shells and 2,000,000 75-mm. armor-piercing shells. From the airport of this ingeniously fabricated plant, which itself includes runways totaling twenty-five miles in length will fly Skymasters each capable of carrying 15 tons of arms and equipment or 50 fully equipped armed soldiers. R.A.F. And Canadian Fighters Knock Out 100 In July

R.A.F. and Canadian fighters and fighter bombers knocked out about 100 locomotives in attacks on Axis railway communications in occupied countries during July, the air ministry announced.

The figure does not include trains damaged or destroyed in railway terminals, the announcement said. Pilots participating in the raids were under strict orders not to attack civilian passenger trains, the ministry added.

Air Competition

Proposes A United Empire Air Policy For Discussion

Express ng fear that Britain would not be prepared to compete with the United States in air transport for several years after the war, the British joint air transport committee proposed that the government adopt a united empire air policy for discussion with the United Nations.

The committee issued a statement calling attention to recent conference in Washington during which a number of United States e airlines recommended "free and open" competition after the war.

"After a period of years," the statement said, "this healthy competition may well be possible and desirable but until then it is suggested that it would be unwise to adopt the policy committee's proposal for regulated competition."

The committee recommended each Empire country have a fair allotment of planes with Britain and the United States having "parity in terms of a mutually accepted yardstick."

SELECTED RECIPES

ALL-BRAN MOLASSES COOKIES

½ cup shortening
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup molasses
1 cup All Bran
2 cups sifted flour
1 tablespoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup cold water

Heat shortening until creamy. Add sugar gradually, mixing until thoroughly blended Stir in molasses and All Bran Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with water, stirring to make a soft dough. Drop by heaping tablespoonfuls onto greased cookies sheets; flatten if desired. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) about 15 minutes. Yield: About 4 dozen cookies 3 inches in diameter.

AMBER MARMALADE

6 oranges
6 lemons
1 grapefruit
2 quarts cold water
4 cups sugar
6 cups Crown Brand Corn Syrup

Wash fruits, remove peel and cut in very thin slices. Slice pulp thinly and set aside in a covered bowl. Cover peelings with cold water and let stand overnight. Next day bring to boiling point and add sugar and syrup (which has been heated gently together but not allowed to boil) Add also sliced fruit pulp. Cook rapidly, stirring very often, till marmalade gives the jelly test (about ¼ hour). Yield: Approximately 5 pints.

CHINESE WAR RELIEF FUND — Canadian admiration for China and the Chinese people is unbounded. Now, through the first national appeal of the Chinese War Relief Fund, that admiration can be turned into a dollar-and-cents assistance for the people who have stood up against Japanese fury, superior arms, famine and disease for six years.

The money now being contributed from coast to coast in this Dominion will help to raise China's countless war orphans, to educate the thousands of young men and women in whose intelligent hands lies much of China's future, to buy medical supplies which will be flown to China by bomber through arrangement of the British authorities with the Chinese Government. A committee has been set up in China to dispense Canadian aid, according to the need and in emergencies that may arise. On that committee are Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, wife of the Chinese Generalissimo, and Major-General Victor Odlum, Canada's first minister to China.

The Chinese War Relief fund has set an objective of one million dollars for this its first national appeal. Canadian governing and Canadian raising towards China and the Chinese will see that objective rescued—and passed.

CUMMINGS DISTRICT RESIDENT PASSES AWAY IN EDMONTON

The death of Mrs. Edna McInnes took place in the University hospital Edmonton, on August 7th, after an illness lasting two years. Left to mourn her loss are three children Jean aged 16 years, Jack 14 and Billy 11 her parents Mr. and Mrs. A. Lead, Vancouver B.C. and two sisters Mrs. Percy Taylor and Mrs. A. Guirne, both of Trail, B.C.

Mrs. McInnes came to the Cummings district in 1924 and taught the Heatherbell school. She was married to William McInnes who predeceased her in 1932 but she continued to live in the Cummings district until July 1942 when she moved to Edmonton to obtain medical treatment.

While in Cummings she was a great worker community enterprises, being a member of the Ashurstcliff church ladies auxiliary and also of the Red Cross.

The funeral was held at Howard and McBride's funeral chapel on Wednesday, August 11th, the service being conducted by the Rev. L. Garner Smith. He spoke feelingly of the deceased, saying that her courage in her suffering should be an inspiration to others to live the Christian life. Her sickness was borne with Christian patience and great fortitude and now she was safe with her dear Lord whom she loved.

Interment took place in the Beech mont cemetery. "A dear friend and neighbor at rest from pain and sorrow, we hope to meet again on that glad tomorrow."

ISLAY

Two harvest combines have gone out from Islay, one going to Bill Muir. Sheila Pervee has gone to Edmonton Normal school.

Mr. and Mrs. Colin Christie of Winnipeg have been holidaying at Mrs. Christie's parents Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hutchinson.

Mrs. T. Torrance was called to Edmonton as Marjorie was ill in the Royal Alex hospital. We are glad to report Marjorie out of hospital now and improving.

The ladies of the Red Cross have quilted two quilts the last two weeks. One while Mrs Gallagher was here. Seemed quite natural to have Mrs Gallagher at the quilt again. She was one of the over faithful

On Aug. 29th at 2.30 p.m. in the United church a joint service, followed by Communion Service will be held at which all the out stations are expected. This will be Rev. L. T. Bell's last Sunday with us before going to his new field at Lashburn.

Mr. Sutherland, student missionary from North Lloydminster will take charge of the services in the United church Sunday Aug. 22, Rev Bell going to the Mission field

How long is 3 weeks, Ivan?

● Hitler boasted he would smash Russia in three weeks . . . Ivan's courage, resourcefulness and fighting skill have already spun those three weeks into a third year.

What in three weeks . . . what is Time itself to Ivan but a succession of minutes, each one marked by the fall of a Nazi soldier.

We have helped Ivan destroy Hitler's time-table by sending planes, tanks, guns, shells, food. It is a proud thing to share even a little in Russia's triumph to this hour.

We who make high-proof alcohol for the smokeless powder in Ivan's high explosives also have a special way of measuring Time. In our plants, wholly converted to war production, we mark the passing of each hour by the thousands of gallons of high-proof alcohol flowing from our giant stills. Three weeks, three months, three years . . . it will go on flowing until the last Axis soldier has laid down either his body or his arms . . . in unconditional surrender!

Extend Call-Up To Married Men 30, and Youths 18

OTTAWA.—Men reaching the age of 18 this year and married men up to 30 years of age now are subject to call for compulsory military service under an extension of the call-up clauses announced by Labor Minister Mitchell over the week end.

The new orders drop the minimum callable age from 19 to 18, but provide that men shall not be served with notice to report for medical examination until they reach the age of 18 years and six months.

The extension makes married men between the ages of 27 and 30 subject to call for the first time. Previously married men up to 25 were made liable to call, and as the classes go by date of birth those who were 25 when the previous extension was made now are 26 and still liable to call with their birth-year class.

No estimate was available of the number of men who may be obtained for the armed forces under the change in regulations. About 100,000 men turn 18 in a year, and all these who are physically fit and have not enlisted in the armed forces voluntarily will be available.

The extension applies to men who were married before July 1940.

Men called up are liable to serve in Canada and its territorial waters and in such areas beyond Canada as may be designated by order-in-council. So far, orders have been passed providing for use of compulsory service troops in Alaska, the United States, Newfoundland and Labrador, but no provision has been made for sending them overseas.

As of the last statistical report mon' ouple, up to the end of January, calls had been sent to slightly more than 1,000,000 men to report for medical examination and 181,178 had been accepted into the army. There is no reliable estimate available of the number of men who choose to enlist voluntarily after receipt of their call.

CALGARY. — Approximately 17,000 married men between the ages of 27 and 30, inclusive, and about 4,000 youths of 18½ years will be affected in Alberta and the Northwest Territories by the new military call up.

While no official statement has yet been made by the registrar at Edmonton, it is reported in official circles that only a small proportion of the married men in the new age group will be available for military service. The big majority of them are farmers or sons of farmers.

In Calgary, the number of men who will come under the married men's group has been estimated at "several hundred". Officials were unwilling to estimate the number of men who would ultimately be attested for the army in this group.

Highway Traffic Board Supports WPTB Order

The Highway Traffic Board of the Alberta Government concurs with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in allowing farmers to transport harvest help by truck to and from harvesting fields.

W. T. Aitken, secretary of the Highway Traffic Board states that to meet the farm labor emergency the provincial government is also extending a "blanket permit" to farmers to transport harvesters in their trucks

WILDMERE WINKS

The B.W.D. club held its meeting at the home of Mrs. A. Carlson where a large crowd gathered, including several visitors, Miss M. Sunder Leona Phillips, Mrs. Frank Dibbee, Sylvia and Dorothy Clark. Quite a nice lot of finished work was handed in and more wool and sewing material was given out. After the business was finished Mrs. Carlson served a very tasty lunch with lemonade and tea to drink. The next meeting will be at Basswood school Sept. 6th, Mrs. Bathe and Mrs. Frank Gibson to be hostesses. Anyone having ordered blankets through the club last fall can now get them from Mrs. Garnett in Basswood.

Pte. Earl Graham of Calgary made a flying trip up last week end to see his children at Wallington's. He returned on Saturday by bus finding roads in the city very busy too. He reports Mrs. Graham getting along splendidly.

Sgt. Norman Smith and Miss Bagley returned to the city on Sunday morning.

Wm. Garnett of Edmonton, R.C.A.F., spent last week at his home in Basswood

Mrs. Wm. Garnett accompanied Mrs. George Dibbon to Edmonton last week. We are sorry to hear of Mrs. Dibbon's eye trouble and hope it gets [illegible]

Dorothy Bathe, Basswood, is visiting with Margaret Gilholme in Edmonton for a few weeks.

Spr. Howard Prissell of Battleview is now overseas. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Prissell. Everett Isley of Triangle and Eugene Lowle of Tofield are both over in the fight in Sicily. Mrs. Isley lives in Edmonton at present.

Rod Bathe and Roy Dibbon were callers at the Wallington home on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Isley, Triangle, spent Sunday at the Bathe home. The Graham children and Mrs. Wallington spent a short while at the same home.

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith, Basswood, on the birth of a son Sunday evening at the Vermilion hospital.

T.C.A. TRAFFIC MOUNTS

WINNIPEG — During the first six months of the current year, air mail carried by Trans-Canada Air Lines transcontinental and feeder services increased by 1912, it was then three times as much, or 30.48 per cent and the number of passengers increased by 2000 than 17,000.

Figures made public today by C. P. [illegible] vice president give the air mail load this year as 1,732,252 lbs., as compared with 661,905 lbs., air express as 337,252 lbs., as against 167,831 lbs., 61,317 passengers as compared with 17,650.

Rejected applicants for enlistment in the Canadian Active Army are interviewed at reception centres by representatives of National Selective Service and directed into essential occupations where possible

Sixteen Years Ago To-day

Interesting Items Gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard 16 YEARS AGO TODAY — 1927

Aug. 18, 1927

Sir. Henry Thornton, president of Canadian National Railways, and party made a short stop in Vermilion on Tuesday. The special train arrived at 12.30 noon.

The first wheat cutting in the district is reported from the farms of Chas Alp north-west of town and Jas. C. Mooney at Islay.

Frank J. Alp, his wife and their seven children, new settlers, were accorded a hearty welcome at the C. N.R. depot Tuesday afternoon upon their arrival here from England. Mr. Roy Tash, rise-mastergrabber of the Associated screen News, London, took moving pictures of the family as they left the train and the scenes of the greetings extended to them.

Thirty-two Years Ago Today

Aug. 16, 1911

The electric lights and sidewalk by laws were endorsed by the ratepayers on Saturday. The vote for the installation of a municipal electric light plant stood: 43 for to 12 against. sidewalk, 52 for, 3 against. The amounts involved were $...,000 and $7000 respectively.

George Tandy's cottage south of the [illegible] truck is nearing completion. Mr. Tyner is having a new house built in the east end of town.

On Friday night Aug. 11, a surprise party numbering over 50 people invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank White, N.E. 5-53-6 and enjoyed a splendid time. The party was originated by Mr. Peter Williamson and Miss Roy Heasley.

GAME REGULATIONS ISSUED; SEASON OPENS SEPT. 13th

The National Parks Service of the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa, has just issued the Regulations governing Migratory Birds for the coming year.

A summary of the Game Regulations as they apply to the section of Alberta follows:

OPEN SEASONS, (both dates inclusive) Ducks, Geese (other than Ross's Geese), Rails, Coots—In that part of Alberta lying to the south of the Athabaska River and south of the north boundary of Township 72 from its intersection with the Athabaska River to its intersection with the Alberta - Saskatchewan interprovincial border: From one hour before sunrise Sept. 13 to one hour after sunset Nov. 27.

Wilson's Snipe — Throughout the Province from one hour before sunrise Sept. 13 to one hour after sunset Nov. 13.

There is a closed season throughout the year on Elder Ducks, Wood Ducks, Swans, Ross's Geese, Cranes, Curlew, Willets, Godwits, Upland Plover, Black-bellied and Golden Plover, Greater and Lesser Yellow-Legs, Avocets, Dunlin-then Knots, Oyster-catchers, Phalaropes, Stilts, Surf-birds, Turnstones, and all shore birds except Wilson's Snipe.

There is a closed season throughout the year on the following non-game birds: Auks, Auklets, Murres, Puffins, Gannets, Grebes, Cormorants, Gulls, Terns, Jaegers, Loons, Murres, Petrels, Puffins, Shearwaters and Terns; and there is a closed season throughout the year on the following insectivorous birds: Bobolink, Catbirds, Chickadees, Cuckoos, Flickers, Flycatchers, Goatsuckers, Hummming birds, Kingbirds, Martins, Meadowlarks, Nighthawks or Bull-bats, Nuthatches, Orioles, Robins, Shrikes, Swallows, Swifts, Tanagers, Titmice, Thrashes, Vireos, Warblers, Waxwings, Whip-poor-wills, Woodpeckers, and Wrens, and all other perching birds which feed entirely or chiefly on insects.

No person shall kill, hunt, capture, injure, take or molest any migratory game birds during the closed season; and no person shall sell, expose for sale, offer for sale, buy, trade or traffic in any migratory game bird at any time

TAKING OF EGGS FORBIDDEN

The taking of the nests or eggs of migratory game, migratory insectivorous and migratory non-game birds is PROHIBITED.

The killing, hunting, capturing, taking or molesting of migratory insectivorous and migratory non-game birds, their nests or eggs is prohibited.

The possession of migratory game birds killed during the open season is allowed in Alberta until March 31 following open season.

BAG LIMITS — Ducks, 12 in any day; Geese, 8 in any day; Coots and Rails, 25 in any day; Wilson's or Jack-snipe, 15 in any day; and not more than 100 Ducks or more than 25 Geese, or more than 100 Rails and 100 Coots in the aggregate or more than 100 Wilson's Snipe in one season.

No one shall have in his possession at any one time more than 24 Ducks.

GUNS, APPLANCES & HUNTING METHODS—Forbidden: The use of an automatic (gun-loading) gun, or swivel or machine gun, or battery, or rifle, or shotgun loaded with a single bullet, or any gun larger than No. 10 gauge, or any weapon other than a gun, or a bow and arrow, and the use of live birds as decoys, or of any aeroplane, power-boat, sail-boat, or night-light, and shooting from any motor or wheeled vehicle, or a vehicle to which a domestic animal is attached. The hunting of migratory game birds by the use or aid of nothing but grain or other artificial food is prohibited.

The shooting of migratory game birds earlier than one hour before sunrise or later than one hour after sunset is prohibited.

The penalty for violation of the migratory bird laws is a fine of not more than three hundred dollars and not less than ten dollars, or imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, or both fine and imprisonment.

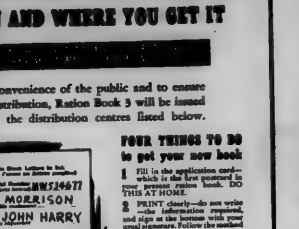
RATION BOOK 3

—WHEN AND WHERE YOU GET IT

For the convenience of the public and to ensure speedy distribution, Ration Book 3 will be issued locally at the distribution centres listed below.



IN FILLING IN YOUR APPLICATION CARD . . .
FOLLOW THE METHOD INDICATED ABOVE.

FOUR THINGS TO DO to get your new book

1 Fill in the application card—which is the first document in your present ration book. DO THIS AT HOME.

2 PRINT clearly—do not write in ink—the information required, and sign at the bottom with your usual signature. Follow the method on card illustrated.

TO THOSE ON VACATION

If you are staying at a summer cottage, with friends or relatives, or at a hotel as a non-permanent guest, give your usual or permanent address on the application card.

3 Do not detach the card from your ration book. This must be done by an official at the Local Distributing Centre. If already detached, it should be brought in along with your present ration book.

4 Persons of 16 years or over must sign their own cards. Cards of persons under 16 will not be allowed to apply for new ration books, either for themselves or for other members of the family.

DO NOT SURRENDER, DESTROY OR THROW AWAY YOUR PRESENT RATION BOOK. IT CONTAINS COUPONS YET TO BE USED FOR MEAT PURCHASES.

RESIDENTS OF RURAL AREAS may apply on behalf of their neighbours, providing Ration Book 2, and properly filled in application cards, are presented.

RESIDENTS OF A TOWN OR CITY. Any senior or responsible member of a household may apply for new Ration Books on behalf of other members of the household, providing Ration Book 2 and properly filled in application cards, are presented.

On presentation at a Distributing Centre of your present ration book with properly completed application card, you will be issued your new Ration Book 3; and your present Ration Book will be returned to you.

Volunteer Workers are giving their time to serve you at the Distributing Centres. Help them by following these instructions carefully.

Claysmore Clippings

Mrs. Barcelow of Edmonton is spending a few weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Duffy, Sr.

W. D. Williams and Son have purchased a new International engine and are quite pleased with the field work being done with it.

Oliver Wylie has the basement almost finished and expects to start building a new house some time this fall.

Mrs. E. Steele of Lake Forest, Ill. is spending a short holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Steele.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hart.

John Cairns who is spending the summer with his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Steele visited his home in Edmonton last week end.

L. McCollum has sold his farm and crop and plans to hold a clearing sale at an early date.

Mrs L. McCollum is spending a few days in Edmonton visiting her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Gus Heims.

Rev Ritchie of the United church in Vermilion is holding services in Claysmore school for the summer and we are glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie among us.

Our former minister Rev. K. McCloud of Manville has been visiting friends here also holds services in Manville as well as his former church in Manville and Minbro. He thus found it impossible to come here on at Claysmore.

We are glad to see the fields beginning to turn and hope the weather stays warm and dry for a few weeks so harvesting will not be delayed.

We hear harvesting is in full swing in southern Alberta and some of the men may come north to help when they have finished. With the heavy crop here they could certainly all find work.

Youth And The War

PUBLIC ATTENTION HAS frequently been drawn to the important part played by youth in the present war. The lightning pace of modern warfare appears to demand the strength and alertness of young men, and they are responding splendidly to the demands which are made on them at this time. Precedent has been broken many times recently by the appointment of men under twenty-five to posts as high ranking officers, and Canada and all the United Nations have already honored veterans and heroes of this war who are only twenty or twenty-one years of age. Youthful fliers who took part in the Battle of Britain turned the course of the war in 1940, and they have fought ever since for the air supremacy which has made possible the present great Allied offensive. Many of our young soldiers, seamen and airmen have lost their lives, others are disabled for life, and some are spending the long months of the war in enemy prison camps. They are giving their service with a bravery and determination which would in normal times be considered beyond their years and they deserve credit and honor for their deeds.

* * * * *

Free Education For Army Men

There is full realization here of the contribution which the young men of Canada are making towards the winning of the war, and our post-war reconstruction plans include provision for returned service men to complete their interrupted educations or to receive special vocational training. At present much is being done to provide facilities for those in the services to improve their educational standard. There is provision for young men in the army between the ages of seventeen and twenty-two to enter universities for courses in mathematics, physics and engineering. Eleven Canadian universities are participating in this plan under which five tuition, board and room, text books and medical care are provided. Students benefitting by it must have the required qualifications for entering a university, and they must take military training while completing their studies they are considered available for officer training. There is also provision that should their courses be interrupted at this time, full credit for the work they have done will be given to them after the war.

* * * * *

Advantages Of Plan Are Many

It is believed that while there are many who will be unable to take advantage of this opportunity because of the standard of education required and the age limits there are a number of young men in the Canadian army who will benefit by it. The advantage of this arrangement to those who are able to take part in it will be many. It is well known that in the past, and especially during the depression period, many young men of ability were prevented from securing a university education because of the lack of necessary funds. The generous terms of this new plan will give the students a splendid opportunity to pursue their studies free of financial worries, and it will give them a foundation on which to re-establish themselves after the war. It is felt that this may be just the beginning of an effort to provide the young men of the fighting services with tangible evidence that their worth to their country is fully realized and appreciated.

CHEESE AS A MEAT SUBSTITUTE

These days you should use cheese to replace the meat in your menus as it is a concentrated food, highly nutritious and stores well.

On the market you will find Canadian cheddar cheese, sometimes called Canadian cheese, processed cheeses and the ripened by molds and bacteria. Canadian cheese, processed cheeses and the ripened by molds and bacteria.

Today we will consider the cheddar cheese only as it is the best known, penative and most used in cheese cookery. You can buy new, medium and old, depending on what flavour you desire. The nutritive value is the same for each, the only increase with the age of the cheese due to the cost of storage.

Like milk, cheese is an almost perfect food furnishing protein in sufficient form, important building materials, calcium and phosphorus, vitamin A and the vitamin B complex. It also has a high fat content that gives it a high energy value, one inch cube of cheddar cheese giving 70 calories.

When you are using the cheese just as a flavour or appetizer you should use the old cheddar as it has the strongest flavour in this variety. For dishes where you want the cheese to furnish the energy and efficient protein you will need larger amounts of the cheese and so you will find one of these most economical.

Cheese is easily and completely digested if properly cooked or combined with other foods. It is a concentrated food rich in fat and protein. So it should be grated or used in combination with high carbohydrate foods. Cheese is slowly digested because of the high fat content and as a result, when eaten alone, it may be indigestible. When cooking cheese in order erroneously believed that it should be cooked for a long time, you should be careful not to overcook it as it becomes tough and rubbery and as a result is hard to digest. When properly cooked it has a spongy texture.

Store your cheese in a cool place and cover to prevent loss of moisture. Try this recipe on a day when you are not serving meat.

CORN AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

1 cup canned corn	1 tablespoon melted fat
1 cup bread or cracker crumbs	1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup grated cheese	1 tablespoon chopped green pepper (optional)
½ teaspoon salt	2 eggs
2 cups scalded milk

Combine all ingredients except eggs and milk. Beat egg yolks and add with milk. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Place in a greased baking dish and oven-poach in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until set—about 40 minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

COWBOYS USE PLANES

There's a new twist to the old western roundup—sky cowboys. Airplanes are being used to round up wild horses in a campaign supervised by the United States grazing service to rid southwestern Wyoming sheep and cattle ranges of the mustangs.

It is estimated that Canada will need 477,000,000 bushels of oats to meet export and domestic demand in 1943-44.

Soil Composition

Important Work Accomplished By Agricultural Chemists

To the casual passer-by the soil of any farm may appear uniform but under the careful investigation of the soil scientists startling differences may soon become apparent. There may be mineral deficiencies, some soils may be more efficient for growing certain crops than others, and again some soils may be of little use to the farmer unless they are treated with the proper amount of the necessary fertilizers. One of the aims of the agricultural scientist is to make the most efficient use of the soil by determining the treatments necessary to get the most production.

Most Canadian soils require large amounts of phosphoric acid, and many soils need to be added to them a super-phosphate much of it becomes tied up in such a way that plants cannot use it. This is called phosphate fixation. The study of how to improve the utilization of the phosphoric acid of superphosphates has been one phase of the work of paramount importance to Canadian agriculture carried on by the Dominion Experimental Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Under present war conditions, this phase of the work is of importance, because the supply of superphosphates is limited, chiefly on account of the restricted supply of phosphoric acid necessary in its manufacture.

An investigation on the sources of phosphoric acid in fertilizers is also another of the main objects of the Division. Basic slag (a by-product in the manufacture of steel) has received particular attention. Chemical tests have indicated that, as a result of a change in the chemical nature of the phosphoric acid of the slag becomes available and the Division is now undertaking experiments to determine the fertilizing value of this modified product. In view of the fact that the annual production of slag at Sydney, N.S. is expected to be about 125,000 tons, and also that there is a need for the utilization of the phosphoric fertilizers in Canada, the employment of the open hearth slag would be an important aid to increased production, if it can be shown that it is a useful source of phosphorus for plants.

In addition to studies in connection with soils and fertilizers, the work of the Division of Chemistry includes investigations on animal nutrition, plant chemistry and foods. Chemical analyses are also made for projects conducted by other Divisions of Science Service and the Experimental Farm Service and analytical work in connection with the administration of the Meat and Canned Foods Act and the Maple Sugar Industry Act. The main laboratories of the Division are situated at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and regional laboratories are maintained at the Dominion Experimental Stations at Kentville, N.S., and Summerland, B.C.

American Bases

Reported British Government Will Compensate Property Owners

The U.S. state department has announced that the British government has offered to assume the cost of compensating owners of private property involved in the establishment of American bases on western hemisphere sites acquired from Britain in the destroyers-for-bases deal of September, 1940.

In the original agreement, providing for the transfer of 50 destroyers to Britain in return for 99 year leases on bases in Newfoundland, Bermuda, the Bahamas, Jamaica, Antigua, St. Lucia, Trinidad and British Guiana, the United States undertook to compensate owners of private property for them.

In taking over the cost of compensating private owners, the British government assumes the burden of paying for properties appraised at approximately $5,500 000.

New Anson Bombers

Gives Many Improvements To Canadian Aircraft Engineers

There is plenty of skill and inventive ingenuity in Canada's aircraft industry.

Canada's new Anson bombers, the basically English bomber-trainer which has been re-designed to typically Canadian jobs and conditions, owes most of its changes and improvements to Canadian aircraft engineers.

An example is the windscreen on the new Anson V, designed by the engineering staff of the Canadian Car ad Foundry engineering department at Amherst, N.S. The new windscreen is one piece plane's major improvements, according to aeronautical engineers.

After a Canadian Car engineer designed the screen last fall, he went to Montreal for the fitting of it to the plastic demonstration fuselage that was used at that time in planning production of the new no-gas bombers. There he watched the contracting tests which led to its acceptance.

The first model was made by hand in the Amherst plant with George Henderson supervising the jig and basic structure and Cecil Ellis in charge of assembling.

The new screen is so simple to manufacture that the time saving over the old screen has been estimated at 75 per cent.

Scientific Studies

Clearing House For Information To Be Established

A committee of scientists, representing the English-speaking countries, to act as clearing house for information and reports, is expected to be named soon by the governments concerned, it was announced at Washington by Sir John Anderson, member of the British war cabinet, who is responsible for scientific wartime research in Britain.

In time, he said, other countries may be invited to name representatives on the international committee and he expressed the hope it would continue its functions in the post-war period, uniting scientific study and research efforts in peace as they are in war.

The idea of the committee was advanced by the Royal Society in London and the British government has passed along the suggestion to the governments concerned.

Sir John, who will go from Washington to Ottawa, came to North America on a number of scientific collaboration among Britain, the United States and Canada. He said remarkable strides have been made in this direction and with Russia as well.

Found The Trouble

Had A Bullet in His Head And Didn't Know It

Abraham Friedman, 48, of Montreal, went to see a doctor after an injury sustained almost three weeks before had failed to heal—and had a .22 calibre bullet removed from his forehead.

Friedman told Detective Sgt. Bonner that he was walking along St. Lawrence near St. Catherine street in the central section of Montreal late on the night of July 17, when he felt something strike him on the head. The resulting bruise over his eyes did not respond to home treatment and eventually became painful.

Friedman went to see Dr. Benjamin Kofber who discovered and removed the bullet.

Recover Goods

Found Red Cross Stores In Bundle Of Furs In Sicily

Among captured medical stores in Sicily, Canadian officials found some Canadian Red Cross supplies.

While clearing up captured hospital supplies from a warehouse in Leonforte about a dozen bales of pillowslips and sheets stamped "Canadian Red Cross Society, Quebec provincial branch," were unopened.

They were sent to a Canadian general hospital in Sicily.

Maj. J. K. Bell of Barrie, Ont., deputy assistant director of medical services said: "It is pur supposition as to the source or reason of these stores being in enemy hands in Sicily, but there are two logical conclusions. The supplies may have been sent to our prisoners of war or to suffering people of the occupied countries such as Greece and transferred to Sicily."

National Library

An Institution Which Would Be Worthy Of Canada

In Ottawa the Parliamentary Library has grown until it is ready to burst its seams, and for want of room research is hindered. Books and documents which should be quickly available have to be sought for behind the others.

The joint committee of the library of Parliament does well therefore to recommend the establishment of a national library, out of the 250,000 volumes now existing. It should be an institution worthy of Canada, her past achievements, her present status and her future greatness.

As patriots, our Parliament should save no hesitation in proceeding with the project on a scale commensurate with our national aspirations and our visions of the future.—Hamilton Spectator.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

SILENCE: ITS VIRTUE

Silence never shows itself to so great an advantage as when it is made the reply to calumny and defamation.—Addison.

There is as eloquent silence: it serves sometimes to approve, sometimes to condemn; there is a mocking silence; there is a respectful silence.—La Rochefoucauld.

Silence is the safest respondent for all the contradiction that arises from impertinence, vulgarity, or envy.—Zimmerman.

No reproof is so potent as the silent lesson of a good example.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Silence is the element in which great things fashion themselves together; that at length they may emerge, full-formed and majestic, into the delights of life, which they are henceforth to rule.—Carlyle.

He knows not how to speak who cannot be silent; still less how to act with vigor and decision. Who hastens to the end is silent; loudness is impotence.—Lavater.

Canada's Place In Empire Air Transport Plan

TORONTO. — Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario's premier-designate, told the 34th annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association here that no subject acquires franker discussion than that of postwar commercial aviation.

"There is no use attempting to hide the fact that air transport and military air power are two sides of the same coin," Col. Drew said, "and that if the British empire is to maintain its military position, it must maintain some united system of air transport."

Speaking over a national network of the CBC on his first public address since his Aug. 4 Ontario election, the Progressive Conservative leader said that unless Canada forms part of some "united air transport system" there is not the slightest chance of her being able to build aircraft needed for her services.

"Geography has given us opportunities in air transport unequalled by any other nation," Col. Drew said. "We can only develop those opportunities as they should be developed with an empire air policy behind it."

"I think that Canada is entering a period of growing population and power. . . It is not beyond the realm of possibility that in the not too distant future the most powerful economic unit in the empire may be Canada itself," he said.

Roy P. MacLean, publisher of the Kelowna (B.C.) Courier and president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association meeting, told the opening session no national effort could succeed without the aid of rural Canada enlisted through the medium of the weekly press.

"The Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association would never have been achieved without the support of this weekly service," he said. "Editors are the nation's morale-builders . . . not so loud as the daily press, but more hellbent-for."

FIGHT, WITH SUB

Crewmen Of A Canadian Freighter Had Exciting Experience

MONTREAL.—The luck of the Irish is still riding with Capt. Rose Sinclair of Toronto, and the crewmen of his freighter. If you don't believe it, here's her record.

During the submarine attacks along the St. Lawrence last summer a Nazi submersine emptied her torpedo tubes at the cargo carrier and missed her bow by a fraction of an inch. Capt. Mac Lamoureux of Montreal, then first officer, saw the torpedo coming and managed to manoeuvre the ship out of range. The torpedo swished harmlessly past to explode in the shallows a quarter of a mile away, smashing hundred of windows and causing plenty of consternation among the villagers.

The submarine dived almost immediately to escape the depth charges of a Canadian corvette. But in his haste to get away the commander dived beneath the freighter—but not deep enough. The ship's keel scrapped the bottom of the vessel and shipowners believe the sub sank to the bottom after the encounter.

Squadron Leader Gibson, an airlines pilot before the war, has been on 37 operational trips as a bomber captain against enemy targets.

Huge Nazi Army Being Built Up To Steady Morale

LONDON.—Adolph Hitler has begun a huge scale expansion of his private Elite SS army as a precaution against a sudden collapse of the German armed forces or a military coup to overthrow him and the Nazi party, reports reaching London said.

The SS Elite storm troopers, known more properly as the "Waffen SS," is estimated to number between 12 and 20 divisions at more than 500,000 men compared to two or three divisions at the outbreak of war.

It has been trained for street fighting and since 1941 has been quietly establishing small barracks and machine-gun posts at strategic points in all large German cities.

All signs point to its employment by Hitler as insurance against Mussolini's fate overtaking him and to prevent a crackup in civilian morale under the impact of the Allied air offensive.

Unlike the poor quality Italian Black Shirt militia, the Waffen SS is made up of fanatical, ruthless young Nazis who are better armed, better trained and better fed than the regular German army.

Every few months, thousands of 17-year-olds comprising the cream of the Hitler youth are enrolled in its ranks and recently a special Viking division of Quislings and adventurers from Norway, Denmark and Holland was added.

The Waffen SS also possesses every modern weapon, including tanks and heavy artillery, except an air force, which Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering always has prevented it from getting.

The Elite army is commanded by Gen. Kurt Daluege, a ruthless Nazi former police chief, under the supreme command of Gestapo chief Heinrich Himmler.

According to latest information reaching London, it includes four divisions;

Leibstandarte Adolf Hitler Hitler's personal bodyguard and the five whole SS

Das Reich.

Totenkopf (Death's Head) Concentration guards and executioners.

Viking.

In addition, there are a number of motorized divisions, including the SS police division, used mainly against Russian, Polish and Jugoslav guerrillas, the SS mountain chasseur division, and the Prinz Eugen division, recruited largely from ethnic Germans in southeastern Europe.

MUCH BOOTY

About One Thousand Axis Planes Captured In Sicily

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa.—The Allied air command said that 900 Axis aircraft had been recovered from captured Sicilian airfields. Included in the booty were 323 Messerschmitt 109's.

The majority of these planes were wrecked when found, but a "surprisingly large number were still serviceable" and were flown to salvage centres, it was said.

A Forage Crop Seed Supply Is In Great Demand

OTTAWA—Seed from Canadian farms appears to be one of the keystones in world reconstruction.

As requests went out for every effort to provide the largest possible supply of all forage crop seeds in the present year, officials let it be known that countries now occupied by the enemy will need millions of pounds of seed of all kinds to restore their lands to productivity after liberation.

To that reconstruction, Canada plans to make a notable contribution, working in association with the United States and other seed-producing nations.

An announcement by Nelson Young, seeds administrator, said that while there was urgent need for the largest supply of all forage crop seeds it is possible to obtain this year, special concern is felt over the Alsike clover seed.

The average Alsike seed crop is 2,000,000 pounds but for 1943 the objective was 3,000,000. It now appears this objective will not be reached.

"This means that every farmer who can save even the smallest amount of seed should do so," said Mr. Young.

"Alsike seed or the seed of alfalfa red clover or alsike and white clover mixtures should be sold through licensed seed dealers and the grower should be sure to ask for a producer's certificate as any proceeds made on the resale of the seed will be shared pro rata among the growers.

Seed dealers must have authorization to issue profit-participation certificates from the seed export office established at Lindsay, Ont., by the agriculture department special products board.

As a clue to the importance of Canadian seed production, Canadian officials cited the statement of Roy F. Hoover, deputy administrator of the United States war food administration, that there need be no fear of excess seed production.

Still greater increases in seed production are needed to meet domestic needs, those of the United Nations and "those of the liberated areas both during and after the war."

Civilian Users Of Lumber Will Receive Subsidy

OTTAWA.—The prices board announced that subsidy payments will be made to civilian users of lumber for specified essential purposes to maintain retail ceiling prices in lumber, and that the plan will take effect Sept. 1

The announcement said subsidies will be paid on retail sales to farmers, fishermen, growers of fruits and vegetables, trappers and other individual civilian users who purchase lumber for use in personal trade or occupation or for maintenance and repair purposes.

Subsidized sales do not include lumber for the building of any dwellings or improvements or additions to them, nor sales of lumber for construction or industrial users. No subsidy will be paid on hardwood or on lumber for sash, doors, mouldings or general millwork.

On rough and dressed soft wood lumber, lath, posts and shingles subsidies will be paid on sales of more than $10. On sales up to $200, prior approval is not necessary, but on sales exceeding that amount permission to supply the lumber must first be obtained from the lumber controller.

The board said essentiality certificates must be filed out and signed by the purchaser for each sale before subsidy will be paid. The rate of subsidy has been temporarily set at 15 per cent of the invoice price, but is open to revision.

The announcement said that subsidies now being paid to producers of lumber will be cancelled Aug. 16, but will be offset by increases in maximum list prices.

BOMB STATISTICS

190,000 Tons Dropped On Germany By Bomber War Began

LONDON.—Bombers of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. have dropped 136,100 tons of bombs on the whole of Germany since the war began, official air ministry statistics showed.

Of this total, which covered the period from Sept. 3, 1939, to July 31, 1943, more than half was dropped this year. The tonnage dropped by the R.C.A.F. alone was not available.

The Ruhr has taken 68,700 tons of bombs, more than half the total tonnage for Germany. Of that amount 44,700 tons were dropped during the first seven months of 1943.

The R.A.F. and the United States air forces together in the Mediterranean dropped 28 000 tons of bombs from June 10, 1940—the day Italy declared war—until last June 30. Of this total 22,700 tons were unloaded in the first six months of this year.

Since the beginning of the war the Nazis have dropped 71,000 tons on Britain but only 2,000 tons during 1943.

LEAVE BERLIN

Reported That Nazi Government Preparing To Evacuate City

STOCKHOLM — The Zurich correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said a traveller from Germany reported preparations were under way to evacuate government offices from Berlin. Stockholm had no confirmation from any other source.

With the non-essential civilian population already evacuating the German capital since July 9, the Zurich correspondent's despatch declared: "A person who arrived from Germany said he had been told in Berlin the government was going to leave the city. In every ministry personnel are now going on. The destination is secret."

COAL OUTPUT

Six Per Cent. Reduction In The First Six Months Of Year

OTTAWA — The Dominion bureau of statistics reported Canada's coal mines produced 1,548,851 tons of coal during June, compared with 1,-648,452 tons during the corresponding month a year ago. Production for the first six months of this year totalled 8,853,962 tons, a reduction of 8 per cent. from the output during the first half of 1942.

The President, Mrs. Hatt presided; the opressed pleasure in seeing many of our longer standing members out Mrs Teare, a valued member is now beautifully sewn and knitted articles do not go by unnoticed was wel comed Mrs. Teare speaks her wishes at the western coast but returns here for the summer months.

Mrs White gave a splendid report on the war charities project from which the sum of $50 was realized. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. White, Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. McMillan for the time and effort her had put into it and they were congratulated on how successfully they carried it through. It was voted that $35 be paid to the Navy League of Canada and that $15 be paid to the Chinese Relief Fund The draws were made on the grandstand platform the last night of the Vermilion fair. Mr. H. Burrowshe was the proud winner of the beautiful quilt (donated by Mrs. Charles Hollen) and Mrs. Ayles (wife of the only remaining donator (donated by Mrs. Korman).

The work convenor, Mrs. Mahoney Barr, reported 1 seaman's sweater, 7 sweaters, 1 pr. seamen's sox, 6 pr. army sox, 2 crib quilts and 7 sewn articles for 10.

It was decided that due to the harvest season approaching that we hold no auxiliary meeting until the 2nd month but that each member endeavour to do as much and more Red Cross work in those two months than she accomplished in any one month.

Should any member wish work in to get in touch with the work convenor of your division who has the supplies or will be pleased to get them for you. Mrs. Manson Barr is work convenor for Hughes, Mrs. Valentine for Carleton and Mrs. McMillan for Claysmore.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs Clifford Hollen on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 4.

We were very delighted to have Mrs. Whitby with us and she gave a very interesting and informative talk on Prize Control. Mrs. Colpitts was appointed liaison officer for the auxiliary. The auxiliary was asked to allow a short period at each meeting for Prize Control discussions.

Mrs. Wm. Barr on behalf of the President, Mrs. Hart, and the other members extended a vote of thanks to Mrs. Whitby for her very worth while address. This concluded with a very hearty hand clap.

A delicious lunch was served by the hospitable hostess assisted by Mrs. Terry and Miss Margaret Barr, after which a social hour with Mrs. Whitby was much enjoyed.

Copies of the Red Cross magazine "Treepaths" and "Canadian Nurse" were issued by the W.P.T.B. were distributed. Collection $4.20, number of ladies present 16.

ANOTHER STRETCH SOUTH HIGHWAY TO BE COMPLETED

Work Is Already Under Way

While in town last Friday Hon. Mr. Fallow, Minister of Public Works, informed the Standard that road crews were again working on the south highway to Wainwright. He stated that present plans called for the completion of the road as far as the Battle River bridge which is about ten miles north or Wainwright. The road will also be travelled this fall.

Mr. Fallow further stated that the two government snow plows would be kept in Vermilion this winter and that this decision was based on reports on the government property on the south side. The buildings will be started as soon as the present stockade crop on the site, owned by Bill Dwyer and John Donnelly is harvested.

JAMES HAGEN PASSES AWAY IN CLANDONALD

The passing of the late James Hagen on August 19th 1943, at the age of 84 years, after a brief illness of one week's duration, brought to a close the life of one who has resided in the Clandonald district for the past 37 years.

The deceased was born in the State of Vermont in the year 1859 and moved with his parents at the age of three years to what was then known as Upper Canada and is now known as Norfolk County, Ontario. In 1902 he moved with his family to Vermilion, Alberta, and the following year he took up residence on his homestead in what was then known as the Wellsdale district, at which place he continued to make his home until his death.

He served as a volunteer during the Fenian Raid, assisted in the organization of the Wellsdale school district, was a member of the first school board and took an active part in the erection of the building of the first school in the district. He also served for several years on the Council of the M.D. of Edenbyn and was largely responsible for the opening of many of the roads which are so necessary for the life of the community today. In politics he was a staunch Conservative.

Until very recently he always took a keen interest in local as well as current affairs, and has had the pleasure of keen interest the development of the new country in which he made his home being transformed from a sparse settlement, rough prairie trails and horse and oxen transports time, to graded roads, motor transportation and airplanes.

Mr. Hagen always took an active part in furthering the best interests of the community in which he made his home. He was an ardent prohibitionist and a devout churchman He was a member of the Methodist church of 50 years standing and was instrumental in the erection of the first church in the community in 1906. He later transferred his membership to the United church and of late years has attended the Anglican church at Clandonald and as the eyesight and the senses once so active are stilled in their last sleep in truth with the poet he could say:

"There rolls the deep where grew the tree.
O earth what changes thou hast seen
There where the long street roars hath been
The stillness of the central sea
The hills are shadows as they lose
From form to form and nothing stands
They melt like mists the solid lands,
Like clouds they shape themselves and go.
But in my spirit will I dwell
And dream and dream and dream and hold it true.
For though my lips may breathe adieu,
I cannot think the thing farewell."

Mr. Hagen was predeceased by his wife on September 11, 1926 and leaves to mourn his loss two sons Herb and Robert of Clandonald and six grandchildren

Funeral services were conducted at St. Mary's Anglican church, Clandonald, on Saturday August 21, 1943 by the Rev. F. A Peake. Mrs. Frank Williamson officiated at the organ. Messrs C. E. Thompson, A.C.P. Free, E. W. Smith, Frank Williamson, H. Drake and E. A. Stockwell acted as pall-bearers Interment took place in the Clandonald cemetery

Floral tributes were received from the following The Family; The Free Family, Mr and Mrs Geo Chalmers; Mrs W. Fligate, The Smith Family; The McNab Family, Charlie and Ethel The Robsons, Mr and Mrs. O. C. Richardson Mr and Mrs. W.D. Bowles, Mr and Mrs. J. McMorran; Mr and Mrs A. M West; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. EXPECT SHORTAGE 300 TEACHERS

Alberta may have a shortage of 700 to 800 teachers when school reopens next fall, according to preliminary estimates by officials of the department of education.

A survey has just been completed, Hon. Solon E. Low, minister of education is reported to return Wednesday from a vacation and will discuss the situation with officials.

Preliminary reports indicate there will be a shortage of 500 teachers when the schools reopen Oct 19, but this will be offset by 400 teachers in school continues who will be available Nov. 1

Officials admitted it was apparent many schools will not reopen until

ARENA RINK TO BE PAINTED

The big Vermilion arena rink will receive a brand new coat of paint during the next month, contract for the job having recently been let to the Thur Shope for the sum of $25o. Preparations are being made to commence on the work to start.

The rink was built in the summer of 1927, received a thorough painting at that time, but has not been touched since. Consequently it is hardly in need of the attention Art will bestow on it

Nov. 1 and some not at all.

During the previous school term, 25 to 30 schools in the province did not open at all owing to lack of teachers.

MISSING MAN HEARD FROM

Receives Decoration

Mrs. R. Allison of Tolland has just received word that her brother, Lieut. Tom Eden of the R.N.R., who has been missing since January of this year, has now been heard from, and that he has also been awarded the D.S.O., together with the long service medal with bar and two rosettes. His name was among thirty others for the latter award. Lieut. Eden joined the navy at the age of sixteen years during the first world war and saw action in the Battle of Jutland on board H. M.S. Inflexible. Three ships on which he has served during this war have been torpedoed.

Mrs. Allison's father was the late Captain Thomas Eden of the Blue Line shipping service.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Standard, Vermilion.

Dear Sir:

It would be appreciated if we might take advantage of the use of your valuable space to issue a warning to parents in connection with Measles that is consistently being done in the Vermilion district. Practically every day locks are broken and other damage done.

It has now been decided by the Board that any person found in the grounds without authority shall be forthwith turned over to the police and dealt with according to law.

Children apparently are responsible for much of the damage and, in fairness to them, it is only right that proper steps will be taken to recover damages from the parents.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, I am

Yours very truly,

S. C. Heckbert, Sec.-Man.
Vermilion Agric. Society.

HONEY, JAMS, MARMALADES, JELLIES WILL BE RATIONED

OTTAWA. — The Canadian prices board announced Sunday night that rationing of honey, jams, jellies and marmalades will be put into effect on Thursday, Sept. 2, and ordered suspension from midnight last Sunday until the opening of business Sept. 2 of all sales or deliveries of these commodities to consumers.

The announcement said details of the rationing plan will be announced within a week.

The suspension order means that no retailer may sell these commodities or delivering on orders already accepted, may be made to householders, hotels, restaurants, institutions, industrial users, or others who buy these commodities for consumption. Hotels, restaurants, public places and institutions which normally serve these commodities to their customers may continue to do so, but may not buy or accept delivery of supplies during the suspension period.

The only sales now permitted are those to wholesalers and retailers, or other persons who buy for resale. In other words, sales to the consuming public are halted, but the normal flow of these commodities to the distributive trades will be permitted, pending the announcement of the new rationing plan which will control all sales.

The announcement said honey producers are "specially notified" that all sales of honey to consumer customers must cease during the period of suspension and also that any orders they may have accepted for future delivery of honey may not be completed during that period. After Sept. 2nd those sales will be governed by the new rationing plan.

NEW CLASSES CALLED TO THE ARMED FORCES —

Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor, today announced the call to military training of married men, ages 27 to 30 inclusive, and of all men who reach the age of eighteen this year.

This call, Mr. Mitchell stated, is pursuant to a decision reached by the Cabinet Council. As in previous calls those in the classes mentioned will be required to present themselves for examination and, if found fit and accepted, they will train and serve in the Armed Forces in Canada and beyond territorial waters.

The Minister explained that the call covers all men not heretofore described or already under arms, and whatever their marital status, who were born in any of the years 1918, 1919, 1924 and 1943. Similarly the call is to men born in 1925, save that none of these will be served with "Orders—Medical" until he reaches the age of eighteen years and six months.

Arthur MacNamara, Director of National Selective Service, stated these "Men—Medical" to the men covered by the Minister's announcement will be mailed as rapidly as possible from the offices of the Registrars in the thirteen Mobilization Divisions.

ISLAY

ISLAY MINISTER'S FAREWELL SERVICE

On Sunday Aug. 29, Knox United church service will be at 3.30 in the afternoon. A welcome is extended to all to be present at Rev. A. T. Bell's farewell service.

Mrs. Bell's sister has had her father and a sister visiting for a few days. Mr. Doyle comes from Minburn. We heard a few words by the way, of a bit of news regarding Rev. W. T. Cromb, formerly of Glasgow, Scotland. Many of my old friends would like to see him. We watch the news papers very closely these days for news of Major Bill Cromb.

Gardening, both fruit and vegetable are most luxuriant in this area; gorgeous colors in the church yard, thanks to the flowers. Also to Mrs. Dupuis's yard across the street, and a little farther on the street to Mrs. McEachern's yard.

Births at Islay hospital:

To Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Madden a son, on Aug. 13.

To Mr. and Mrs. Joe Maltais, a son, on Aug. 22.

CHINESE CIVILIAN LEADS A HARD LIFE

Give To the Chinese Relief

Except for a very few, Chinese civilians have to make a hike as the soldiers of their country—and of the Chinese soldier it is said: "He should be the envy of no one, because Japanese air activity forces advance at night; foot of rubber, because Chinese soldiers often have no shoes; a sending a telegram. Wake up." If mosquito net to cover him while he sleeps; sometimes no food to eat; and the strength of the ox, because nature has not given him the only cure for illness and wounds."

More than 95 per cent of the middle and lower classes in occupied China are living under distressing conditions. Japanese bombing has caused terrible hardships to the civilian populace. Last year drought in Honan Province and the Yellow River's flooding took the main source of food from the people and made one million five hundred thousand homeless.

War, and these calamities, add up to create a situation which makes it imperative that the Chinese War Relief Fund reach its objective of $1,500,000 in its current appeal to the people of Canada. If your heart is stirred with sympathy for a suffering nation, tell your hand to reach in your pocket — and not to come out empty.

On The Honor List

Captain R. A. Mann, O.B.E.

Lt.-Cmdr. G. F. Elliot, D.S.C.

Captain W. G. Stark-Wood O.B.E.

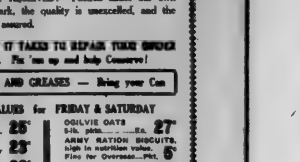
Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited now has 29 of its sea-going personnel on the honor list for good service during this war, according to a recent report from Capt. R. E. Stuart, V.C., general manager, who won his V.C. in the Great War.

Among those decorated or mentioned in despatches are, left to right: Capt. H. A. Mann, master of the Duchess of Atholl"; Lt.-Cmdr. G. F. Elliot, R.N.R., and Capt. W. G. Stark-Wood, master of the "Duchess of Bedford". Lt.-Cmdr. Elliot won the Distinguished Service Cross at Oran, North Africa, while Capts. Mann and Stark-Wood were made Officers of the Order of the British Empire for good service when their ships were in action with the enemy.

Capt. Moore, O.B.E., who has been in the ocean service of the Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited since 1910, has been honored twice "for good service" while in command of the Athell since she was taken over by the Admiralty.

Lt.-Cmdr. Elliot is one of five Royal Naval Reserve men from C.P.S.L. to win the Distinguished Service Cross for heroic action, in this instance at Oran.

Capt. Stark-Wood was made an Officer of the Order of the British Empire for his part in the sinking of a U-boat by the "Duchess of Bedford", of which he is master.



CHAPTER FIVE

It was about a week later that the family received the telegram Homer had carried it with him all day. Now, during a lull in office hours that night he opened it. Will Mr. Grogan's son please call at the interest so Homer decided to read it aloud.

"Dear Homer: First of all, anything of mine at home is yours. My books, my photographs, my records, my clothes when you're ready to fit into them. They are all yours as you are now the man of the Macauley family of Ithaca."

The letter went on to tell about his army checks going to Ma, to stats in yearning terms how much he missed them all, to speak of his pal, Tobey.

Then Homer sat up a little more stiffly as he came to the next paragraph. "I am proud that I am serving my country, which is now in Tobruk and all the People. But I am hurting for those I love. Especially that when the time comes I shall do what is expected of me. I may be killed in this war. I must come right out and tell you this. Do not be misled by what I am saying to the Macauley who is in the war for it would be my good fortune if it were you. You are the best of the Macauley family and I am writing the best God bless you. Bobby boy. Your brother Marcus."

The clock ticked away the silence as the young men and the old man sat there, drowned in thought.

Homer spoke in a thin, new voice "If my brother Marcus can do it I'll spit at the world I'll hate it as much as he's good. I'll be the worst there is. I'll be the worst they've got in the war."

The telegraph went on in their eternal way and then it was Autumn. Ithaca was celebrating the harvest time with a picnic on the outskirts of the town. The grounds were lively with music and dancing. Flags of every nation floated in the breeze.

Over on a bench, shielded by a bush, sat Homer Grogan with his wife Diana. The six months they had been married seemed like a dream. Both of them realized that what had "This is the most beautiful place in the world," he was saying to her. "It must be, because it's ours."

She spoke with a rush of feeling. "You do love it don't you?"

"I love everything." His voice roughened. "You don't ask me if I love you because I do. I love you and the whole land everything around it. You know honey I don't go much for sentimentality but what—for happiness may be I've got a pretty good luck something like it for this." His tone was rich and intimate. "I can't tell you when it hit me. I'd like it to be a little girl. I'd like to have a little girl around looking like you. I'd like to hear the voice of a pretty little girl like that." There was a long pause. Then he said gently, "I used to think you were a queer little kid. Well, I was pretty wrong."

Not a quaver in her voice as she replied, "I've not the least bit afraid, Tom."

"Good. Then—this won't hit you too hard, Diana—I'm going."

He could almost hear the pull at her heart. Then she said, "I know it would come. How soon?"

"About a month."

"Where?"

"I don't know yet. It's the Navy. After that—"

Now her voice lifted with a smiling courage. "It's all right, Tom. I know how to pray."

Then couldn't speak. There were tremors running through him. But he felt great, as if he were in church with Easter morning. Diana was good. She was a really fine woman. And he was a lucky man. He would never have believed that a woman could be as happy as Diana was a creature as Diana. He was glad he'd given it. It made the living days better, the sun shine brighter . . .

It was at this very moment that Homer Macauley was hurrying back from delivering a telegram.

Business had interfered for a week. Now he looked at his watch, and saw Marcus had given him time. Good, he'd have time to change his clothes before he went to the Grogans'. He hoped his bike and was off

He was close to twilight as he walked into the office. One of his pockets bulged with cookies that he had bought for Mr. Grogan. It would be fun, surprising him.

As he passed the counter pile of Western Union blanks. Homer's breath was rattling. Homer's breath quickened Mr. Grogan wasn't answering the box. He must be having one of his drinking spells again. Poor guy. It's a shame there, not being at all.

Mr. Grogan, Mr. Grogan!" Homer cried.

Quickly, he got a cupful of water and splashed it into Grogan's face.

The old man's eyelids fluttered. "I'm right home," he muttered. "You're doing fine . . . just fine . . ."

Homer patted the drunkard gingerly. "If hurry and get the coffee. Back in a minute."

He ran out and over to Corbett's. The barkeeper was maddeningly indifferent. He said that he'd made a fresh out of the stuff. It wouldn't be more than five minutes. Frantically, Homer dashed over to the Johns' home. The music from the jube box pounded him like a devilish refrain. In the office the telegraph box was still clicking.

"Mr. Grogan!" he cried. "They're out of Mr. Grogan. Wake up." If poor Mr. Grogan missed out, even once, the company might retire him. And he'd said so many times that if he didn't work he would die. "The coffee isn't ready. He wake up yourself." They're sending a telegram . . ."

His voice died off to a whisper. Mr. Grogan was so still—too still. A dash of water wouldn't help. Neither would that fresh coffee from Corbetts

Yes, Willie Grogan had died. He had died working, just like he always said he wanted to. Homer stood there numbly. He knew he ought to do something. Yet for a second he couldn't.

He heard the door open. It was Felix, one of the regular messenger boys. Felix stared at his white face. "Say, what's the matter Homer? Homer gestured at Grogan. "What's the matter with the old man?"

"He — he's dead."

"Ah, you're crazy."

"No, he's dead."

Felix let out a mournful little

On The Great Lakes

First Ship Launching Took Place 200 Years Ago

Everyone who lives within sight of the waters of the Great Lakes knows that there have been a lot of ships and various types launched on the Great Lakes within recent months. It was just 200 years ago that the Great Lakes had its first launching of anything larger than an Indian canoe.

It was on August 7, 1679, and this first ship was the ill-fated Griffon. First sailing ship to ply the Great Lakes, the Griffon was built under the direction of La Salle and launched just above Niagara Falls. She carried La Salle and Father Hennepin to Washington Island in Green Bay whence they proceeded to the Illinois country.

The Griffon was left in command of a sailor named Luc, who was to take on a cargo of furs and sail them in the East to satisfy La Salle's creditors. But the Griffon never reached port. La Salle apparently believed that Luc betrayed him, scuttled the ship and stole the furs. But there seems to be grounds for believing that the Griffon was caught in a storm and sank with all hands.—Chicago Daily News.

Wheat Acreage

Reduction Of Nearly 4,000,000 Acres In Prairie Provinces In 1943

A reduction of almost 4,000,000 acres in the area seeded to wheat in the three Prairie Provinces in 1943 is shown in a record official report. The figures are based on returns from the annual June survey and show that the total area in Western Canada in 1943 is 16,729,000 acres compared with 20,653,000 acres in 1942, a decrease of 19 per cent. A of the acreage taken out of wheat is more than covered by increases in acreage seeded to oats, barley and flaxseed, the combined increase in the acreage of these grains being 4,907,300 acres and the decrease in wheat, 3,924,000 acres, as compared with 1942

The 1943 wheat acreage is the smallest area planted in the Prairie Provinces since 1918, the closing year of the first Great War. It is also closely in line with the acreage objectives suggested to Western farmers by the Dominion-Provincial Committee which in turn had been further and differs very little from the "intentions to plant" report issued last May.

Patriotism And Thrift

That's What Makes A War Savings Stamp Stick

There's glue on the back of a War Savings Stamp, but it's a mixture of patriotism and thrift that makes a War Savings Certificate "stick", says Mrs. Bill Jones.

"My boys are overseas. They are magnificently equipped, and my Certificates helped to equip them. Now that they are getting into battle they will need more and more equipment. So I'm buying more Certificates every month and they're going to stick! As a mother of soldiers I'm not going to withdraw the help those boys need by asking for my money back."

I'll still have those Certificates when the boys come home. They'll be worth more then, and I'll be glad to have the money to help the boys again when the war is over." she says.

SELECTED RECIPES

GRANDMOTHER'S APPLE PIE

1½ cups (recipe) pastry flour preferred)
½ cup shortening (scants)
1 teaspoon salt
Ice water

Fillings

3 or 4 large tart apples
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup Blue Goldn corn syrup
½ cup sugar

Cut shortening into the flour and salt with pastry blender or finger tips. Add just enough ice water to form a ball. Roll out on floured board and divide into two pieces. Roll out bottom crust and fit into pie plate. Pare apples, slice thin and pile high in pie plate. Sprinkle sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg over apples. Pour corn syrup over apples. Moisten edges of bottom crust with cream and cover with top crust, turning edges under and pressing together. Slash top crust with sharp knife in several places. Bake for 10 minutes at 450 degrees F. and reduce heat to 350 degrees F. and continue baking until done.

BRITISH DAIRY HERD

Dairy herds in Great Britain have been given first priority in supplies of imported feed, as the cattle population has increased by 4.6% while all other animals have declined in numbers. The number of hogs has fallen by 51.9% since the war began.

C.W.N.A. Convention

Weekly Publishers From Every Province In Canada Attend Gathering

"Solving War Problems On The Home Front" was the keynote of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association annual convention recently held in Toronto. Largest registration in some years was well over three hundred, including publishers from every province of Canada as well as New zealand.

F y P. MacLean, publisher of The Courier, Kelowna, B.C., president of the C.W.N.A., welcomed delegates and spoke of the "Warvention" and its practical planning to give utmost in information and inspiration to help the weekly publishers carry on their important jobs—increasingly important in wartime.

A real "scoop" was the presence of Hon. George Drew, newly-elected premier of the Province of Ontario, as guest speaker at the annual dinner—his first public talk since his election, broadcast from the banquet hall over the CBC network.

Sound appraisal of the merits of free enterprise and a warning that wartime controls must be relaxed as soon as possible after the war were voiced by Walter E. Zeller, president of Zeller's Limited, Montreal, speaking at the opening luncheon. The real cause for the present wartime prosperity, with jobs for everyone and high earnings, was not, he said, the result of government control, but rather the result of government spending.

Defining "private enterprise", Mr. Zeller said it meant the "freedom accorded to private persons, either singly, in partnership or in groups, to engage in any business undertaking that they may choose, within the limit of the laws and regulations created in the general interest, or the expectation that if the undertaking prospers they may reap the rewards of their initiative, and on the understanding that if the undertaking fails, they will bear the consequent losses. It means a total or near total abrogation of these rights, either by the state or by monopoly, which prevent any person who dares to take the risk, from setting forth on new economic voyages of discovery. It means a society whose future is not limited to the course charted by anyone further at the top."

Cyril Gaskey, of the Audit Bureau of Circulations Chicago, spoke on the value of A.B.C. membership and congratulated the Canadian weeklies in taking the lead in lining up with the A.B.C. in such large numbers.

Reports on many problems relating to the publication of weekly papers, circulation selling, etc., were well arranged in groups, according to the circulation of the weekly

The leadership conference and entertainment features for delegates and their ladies included Johnson, Richardson & Charlesworth, Limited, The Robert Simpson Co. Blacksmith Shop

War Work Has Helped To Keep Business Going

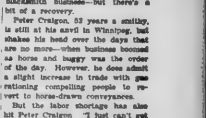
Since the time that the old grey mare got kicked aside by the Model T there was a steady decline in the blacksmith business—but there's a bit of a recovery.

Peter Craigon, 52 years a smithy, is still at his anvil in Winnipeg, but shakes his head over the days that are no more—when business boomed as horse and buggy was the order of the day. However, he does admit a slight increase in trade with pre rationing compelling people to repair their horse-drawn conveyances.

But the labor shortage has also hit Peter Craigon "I just can't get help for my shop, and I am getting pretty old to run the . . . anvil by myself," he said.

He began as a boy in Perthshire Scotland, 52 years ago. At that time he spent five years apprenticeship, learning his trade. Later he served as a blacksmith with a cavalry regiment in the Boer War. And again he spent years in taking part in a war; now he makes metal parts and does welding jobs for munitions trade at the University of Manitoba.

A mole dies if it is kept from food for a few hours.



How in the world can a woman have charm and poise if she feels "all on edge" and is nervous inside? Of course, she can't. Again, strong nerves actually give a woman a clear, fresh skin and fresh eye. In the meantime take a nerve sedative. Try Miles Nervine. Many have found it helps relieve nervousness due to functional nervous disturbances. Effervescing Nervine Tablets are 35c and 75c. Nervine Liquid 25c and $1.00.

WOODVALE

Everybody seems to be haying these days and with a week of nice sunny weather good headway was made — some the binders will be raiding away cutting another good crop. Last week a few were out already to harvest the barley.

High school students of the district have received their marks and all have been successful in their exams. We might congratulate Verna Potter especially, as she completed her Gr 12 in one year. Verna will soon leave for Edmonton where she will take a business course at McTavish. Mary Preston has already left for the city where she is also taking a business course. A dance was held earlier this month for the two girls at Woodvale school.

On the 5th a dance was given at Thorsrud school for Ted Filipkowski who was on a two weeks' furlough. Before the dance started there was a program of dances and songs, with a general sing song, much enjoyed by everyone. Mr. Roy Walker was master of ceremonies and also presented Ted with a billfold and best wishes from his many friends and neighbors. Pte. Art Lysons, at present stationed at Wainwright was at the dance.

Having been too busy to write any Wondrale news this month we are rather late with our congratulations for and Mrs. and Mrs. Dick Chrisp on their recent marriage. A wedding dance was held for them at Turkey Hill school on the 18th.

Mr. H. Procter is home for a two weeks' holiday using his time well by insulating the house for the coming winter cold.

Joy King left for Edmonton on Tuesday after spending almost six weeks at her parents' home in Thorsrud. Miss Balfour of Victoria, B. C. is also a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil King.

Marie and Therese Goutier were a day at the hospital last week to have their tonsils removed.

Georgette Young spent a week at her parents' home in Pla-fello.

Spearsmen has been really bother some this year making a raid over the prairie or picking berries a real tonsome. The poor dogs suffered the most the barbs often going undetected for quite a while and causing extensive lacerations when not removed in time. Now we get plastered with blue burr seeds and soon we'll be awaiting flies again for a fall pastime. There have been very many dragon flies of a brown variety in the grass this summer. We wonder if that one cannot see damage they do but apparently they are harmless. We saw one devouring a fly very happily but never discovered another doing the same. Maybe we are just imagining ever since that there are less flies around than last year?

Amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act

Notice to Interested Employers and Employees

AT THE 1943 Session, the Parliament of Canada amended the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1940. The effect of these amendments is to require that additional workers be covered under unemployment insurance.

On and after September 1st, 1943, employers must make contributions in respect of the following employees:

★(1) ALL PERSONS engaged in employment (whether insurable, regardless of remuneration or earnings, who may be paid on an hourly rate, on a daily rate, on a weekly rate, or a piece rate (including a mileage rate).

★(2) ALL EMPLOYEES paid on a monthly or annual salary basis, whose salary, including pay out of leave bonus which may be received, does not exceed $2,400 a year.

All employees, as above described, must pay their contributions as required by law.

The combined contributions for each employee earning $26 or more a week will be in Class 7—$6a a week.

To Employers: Obtain unemployment insurance books from the nearest local office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission as soon as possible, for employees above described who will become insurable on September 1st, 1943.

To Employees: It is in your interest to see that your employer makes contributions on your behalf from September 1st, 1943, if you become insurable through this Amendment.

COME OUT AND HELP!

"War Work" on the Farm is Healthy . . . Enjoyable . . . and Vital to Victory

MANY people today are working on farms for the very first time in their lives . . . and loving it!

Cannot you, too, devote part of your holidays or your leisure to this patriotic war work? Our farmers must produce more food than ever before, yet their need for helpers is acute.

Why not form a friendly group to help produce food for victory? You probably have several friends or associates who would gladly work with you for such a cause.

Don't fear that you will not suit the work or that the work will not suit you. Even quite inexperienced help is really wanted. And you'll get lots of good food, fresh air and healthy exercise to set you up for fall and winter. Farming is grand work. Don't hesitate — volunteer now.

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO

Consult any agencies listed committees or offices established to deal with farm labour placements in your city or town; or

Write to the Director of the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labour Program at the Capital of your province; or

Get in touch with your nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Railway Office Handles 27,000 Unemployment Insurance Books

WINNIPEG.—On the Western Region of the Canadian National Railways, the unemployment insurance department is centralized in the regional accounting department at Winnipeg. It handles 27,000 books. These are kept in a bank of steel filing cabinets 25 feet long by nine feet high and a full-time staff of five keeps track of all the payroll deductions and posts them on the contribution cards which are stapled inside the books. A complete alphabetical list is kept of all insurable employees in the region and the books are kept in numerical order, while the cards are filed in payroll order. This gives an accurate check and to date not one book has been mislaid. Every day brings requests for delivery or books to employees, and each request is handled the day it is received.

NORTHERN INDIANS BUY WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

Learn To Be Thrifty

OTTAWA. — Indians at Fort McPherson in the North West Territories are discovering that mukkrat pelts will buy a War Savings Certificate and a brighter future for their children. In a letter to G. W. Spinney, chairman of National War Finance Committee, Right Rev. A. L. Fleming, Bishop of the Arctic, tells of how in the month of June alone the Indians purchased Certificates worth $200.

With the increased price of $2 for every skin, ungraded, there has been a big boost for muskrats, and much of the money has been going into Victory Bonds and Certificates. Did, where money has never been complete, there was always the temptation to sell the securities and see what the proceeds would buy.

The missionary in charge at Fort McPherson, who is also the postmaster, hit upon a plan whereby war savings are bought in the children's names. So, when Bonds and Certificates mature, money will be available for the boys and girls in receiving an education, an advantage which they might miss if the hunt was bad or prices dropped.

"The Indians," writes Bishop Fleming to Mr. Spinney, "have never learned to be thrifty. They are dependent from year to year on their hunt. Now, through the War Savings plan, the missionaries are teaching them the value of having some protection against the future."

YOUR SALVAGE

What To Do With It

The salvage committee of the Board of Trade asks that the flow of rubber tires and tubes, rags, scrap iron, bones and fats, and non ferrous metals be greatly increased for the summer and fall months.

Here is what you do with them —

FATS and BONES—Taken to your butcher who will pay you 4c per lb.

BONES—May also be sold to Dan Logan at the Alberta Pacific elevator.

RUBBER—Tires and tubes should be left at the Salvage depot (freight sheds) or at any garage or service station urgent.

SCRAP METAL—In lots of 200 or more pounds, should be sold to Norman Greig at the U.G.G. elevator. Smaller amounts should be donated to the Salvage committee and left at the Salvage depot.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By W. G. L. Grange
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co., Ltd.

THE FUTURE OF WHEAT ACREAGE

As the war draws to a close there will be more, and more discussion about the acreage that Canada should maintain in wheat, compared with the acreage similarly maintained in wheat by other exporting countries. It might be well, therefore, to examine the situation in all these countries.

I find that since the year 1939, the start of this war, Canada has reduced her wheat acreage by 25%; Australia, by 22%; the United States by 15% only, and that the Argentine has actually increased her wheat acreage by 1%. In addition to this the United States has asked her wheat growers to expand their acreage this year.

It seems then that Canada has reduced her wheat acreage by a larger percentage than any other wheat exporting country, and this in spite of the fact that the farmers of our country have been upon wheat as a means of making a living than do the farmers of the other countries mentioned above, for the farmers in these other countries have other important products besides wheat, which they can readily sell on world markets after the war.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that when the time comes for expanding wheat acreage that the considerable reduction Canada has made during these war years will not be lost sight of.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

The U.S. food grain supply for 1943-44 is estimated to be 127 million tons, 11% less than in 1942-43—The Argentine Government has banned all exports of corn in order to conserve current low stocks needed to meet growing domestic demands—Reports on new crop developments in Australia have been unfavorable. Subsoil moisture is sharply depleted.

Rains fell over most sections of the Prairie Provinces last week and late sown crops have shown marked improvement—Harvesting of wheat is well under way in the United Kingdom and yields are reported good. India's 1942-43 wheat crop, officially estimated at 400,584,000 bushels, is the largest on record.

ALBERTANS TIRED ON WARTIME PRICES & TRADE CHANGES

EDMONTON. — Breaking the price ceiling resulted in fines for two Albertans during the past week. Infractions of prices regulations, in selling a used truck over the ceiling allowed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board resulted in a fine of $50 and costs or two months in gaol for Gordon Parsons, Valley Service, Edmonton.

Howard J. Moore, Medicine Hat, was found guilty of selling a used gas stove for a price that was higher than reasonable under the W.P.T.B. regulations, and was fined $25 and costs.

The Third Tribal Class Destroyer Now In Service

OTTAWA.—The third of Canada's four British-built Tribal class destroyers, H.M.C.S. Huron, has gone into service, it was announced at naval headquarters.

Equipped with the latest devices proven and tested in the British navy, the Huron is said to carry "even greater armament" than the two previous Tribals which have been in service for some time, the Iroquois and the Athabaskan.

The Tribals are the most powerful ships of war in the Canadian navy and the Huron, like the other two, is engaged with a striking force of the Royal navy. Its taking to sea adds one more unit to the destroyer strength of the Canadian navy which is unofficially placed at 18 and which Navy Minister Macdonald recently reported was "more than 13 and not quite 24."

Another Tribal class destroyer, H.M.C.S. Haida, is under construction for Canada in Britain, and two of the first larger-sized fighting ships to be built in Canada, are under construction at Halifax.

Canada's older destroyers, named after rivers while the bigger, newer Tribals are named after Indian tribes, are believed largely engaged in the job of escorting convoys but the Tribals are assigned to a "striking force" because of their greater power.

A man from Huron county commands the Huron. He is Lt.-Cdr. (S) H. R. Raynar, who was born at Clinton, Ont., and, at 32, is the youngest of three officers commanding this class of ship.

A despatch to naval headquarters from a British port said a simple ceremony took place when the ship was commissioned.

The Huron's displacement is about 3,000 tons. Her gunpower is more than double that of the river class destroyers in the Canadian navy, and she carries twin 4.7 mountings reinforced by numerous anti-aircraft weapons. Added to this are torpedo tubes and depth charges. She carries 10 officers and about 250 men.

Post-War Plans Have Revealed Optimistic Spirit

MONTREAL — P. A. McFarlane, chairman of the executive of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said in a prepared statement that a poll conducted by that organization revealed a spirit of optimism about post-war Canada prevails among the business men of this country from Atlantic to Pacific.

Mr McFarlane said that boards of trade, chambers of commerce, reconstruction committees, trade associations and private firms all co-operated in the poll, which produced a cross-section of Canadian business men's opinions about the years ahead.

The poll, the statement said, revealed four interesting findings:

"(A)—There is a desire to plan definitely for the reasonable re instatement of ex-service men and women;

"(B)—The probable engagement of new employees one year after the war is considered by most companies as difficult to forecast without knowledge of government policy, particularly in regard to the availability of essential materials, taxation and controls;

"(C)—All companies surveyed expressed the determination to give consideration to the engagement of the physically handicapped;

"(D)—In factories other than those established for the sole purpose of making munitions no long-term serious problem is anticipated in the change-over from war to peacetime plant."

Here are some of the conclusions set forth by the chamber after surveying all the reports:

"Our prime purpose in planning for the post war period must be, together with the Allies, to recreate a world market. Only by the exchange of Canadian goods for the goods of other countries can our export industries, and, in turn, our importing trades, make their maximum contribution to the post-war employment.

"MEANS should be planned for the betterment of Canadian agriculture, involving outlets for agricultural products, export markets and through their new and wider use in industry, in addition to the more effective use of the land and a rise in the standard of living of the farmer himself. The prosperity of the farmer with his resultant demand for manufactured goods will contribute largely to maximum employment.

"An overall examination of the Canadian tariff and of Canada's taxation structure should be undertaken to permit the finding and removing of anomalies which would otherwise hinder Canadian business in reaching its objective of maximum post-war employment."

The King Pays Flying Visit To The Home Fleet

WITH THE BRITISH HOME FLEET. — The King completed a whirlwind visit to the home fleet during which he participated in battle exercises at sea aboard the battleship Duke of York and boarded the battleship Malaya on which he served as a junior officer in the First Great War.

The King was aboard during exercises in northern waters not far from the German-occupied European coast.

The fact the Royal Navy was willing to take the King into those waters best illustrates its attitude toward the German fleet.

The King during his visit to the fleet talked to a little man from India below decks of His Majesty's ship Cockeyed, modern Brits slang commissioned only a few weeks ago.

The little man was a Punjabi, chief yeoman of signals, who had just made history.

The little man gave his name as Raj Wali.

He came in for special attention because he had done something no Indian chief yeoman of signals had ever done before. He had just hoisted the royal standard to the mastheaf of the first Indian vessel in all history ever to break out the standard.

EUROPEAN FRONT

Nazis Watching With Concern Mighty Allied Offensive

STOCKHOLM.—German view the heavy assaults on French air fields by great fleets of Allied aircraft as a prelude to the invasion of France, Berlin despatches reported.

While the R.A.F. continued its mighty aerial offensive against Germany, the Nazis were reported watching with mounting concern not only the raids on air fields but the lightning circle of heavy attacks in daylight against the heart of Germany herself.

The Berlin correspondent of Svenska Dagbladet said that the Germans know the blows against air fields in the vicinity of Marseilles and on the north coast of France "must be connected with higher military strategy dealing with the start of another European front."

Despatches from the German capital also reported that the announcement that Nazi troops had ceased fighting and had been withdrawn from Sicily came as a shock to many Germans.

The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm organ Dagens Nyheter said most Germans had expected [illegible] would continue for some time. Reports to the home front had given no indication an evacuation was imminent, he declared.

Foreign correspondents in Berlin were told that the Germans had evacuated 35,000 Nazi soldiers and 4,500 wounded.

The Germans also claimed to have salvaged 17,000 tons of ammunition 9,000 cars, 190 field guns and 47 [illegible].

PRISON CAMPS

Red Cross Would Set Up Neutral Camps For Prisoners

LONDON.—Through the Red Cross, Sweden, Switzerland and Turkey have been asked to set up camps for the long-term prisoners of war.

Discussions already in process have raised hopes here that they may lead to repatriation of badly wounded Britons and the transfer to neutral countries of many others, not eligible for return to their own country, but suffering the effects of long captivity.

Britain would exchange German deep-term prisoners for internment in neutral camps if Germany agreed to do likewise.

The question was raised in parliament by Sir Jocelyn Lucas, who drew from Foreign Minister Eden the statement that the matter is "being considered." He intends to review his question after the present [illegible].

The plan might affect many Canadians taken prisoner a year ago in the assault on Dieppe.

AIR ATTACKS

Allies Are Clearing The Air Of Enemy Fighters

LONDON. — Allied air attacks against Germany rapidly are taking on the character of the hitherto's assults in the Battle of Britain in that the Allies are attempting to clear the air of enemy fighters in order to open the way for unopposed day and night bombardments.

Allied attacks are taking four forms:

1. Direct assaults on centres of aircraft production.

2. Dispersal of German fighter strength by creation of new aerial fronts such as in south central Germany.

3. Exhaustion of available German fighter squadron personnel by repeated day and night operations similar to the attacks now going on against France.

4. Outright destruction of the hitherto fighter squadrons and bombing and shelling attacks on airdromes.

Farm Workers From East For Harvest In West

OTTAWA.—Selective Service Director Arthur MacNamara announced that the Dominion government will transfer a number of selected farmers and experienced farm workers from Ontario points to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta for the western harvest.

Mr. MacNamara said in a statement that the movement of the men will be on a voluntary basis, and that men will not be taken from Ontario until the agricultural industry of that province can spare their services.

The announcement said that while the number of men to be moved has not been definitely fixed, it is probable that "some thousands" will be [illegible].

Except for a nominal sum for the return journey, men will be moved without cost to themselves so far as rail transportation is concerned, and while in the west they will be paid the current rates for farm work. As the need for men in the west is immediate, the men will leave Ontario just as soon as harvesting operations in that province decline.

The announcement said officials of the provincial agricultural department are co-operating with the federal department of labor to assist in finding such workers who may be spared, and to ensure that Ontario farmers will not be encouraged to move while they are still needed for the harvest in their own province.

Mr MacNamara said word was being sent to individual farmers asking those who are able to go west to apply to their nearest employment and selective service office. The transfers will be made on much the same basis as last year, when more than 3,000 farmers and university students were moved west for the harvest season.

FRENCH PATRIOTS

Are Burning Crops And Destroying Tools In France

BERNE.—French patriots have intensified their activities, burning crops in the fields and in the hay and destroying German threshing machines, despite the Vichy government's order applying the death penalty to saboteurs, reports reaching [illegible] said.

The Lyon radio was recorded by the United States office of war information in London Aug. 13 as saying that even flour mills were being destroyed by Germans in an effort to keep their crops from going to the Germans.

The broadcast said: "As if following a cue, mills burst into flames, agricultural works were fired, crops were destroyed and barns and threshing machinery were destroyed by fire."

WILDMERE WINKS

We wish to extend our own and the district's deepest sympathy to the children of Mrs. Ethel McIntosh formerly of Cummings, now of Edmon ton, on the loss of a devoted mother; and to Mr. Hesseks and boys on the loss of a loving wife and mother

We forgot this item in our last week's news: Mr. and Mrs. Wellington and the Graham children visited at the Debord home on Wednesday, Aug. 11. We had the pleasure of see ing Mrs Henry Gress and children, who are visiting there.

Now to correct an error: Our B.W. B. club meeting is on Wednesday, Sept. 1 and not the 8th as stated last week.

Mrs. George Scuffert and children of Vermilion visited a couple of days last week at the Ken Isley home in Triangle.

On Sunday, Gwen, Roy and David Dibben accompanied by Cpl. Elsie Gilholme and Elsie Hewitt attended church and then came to Walling ton's for dinner. A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed and as Gwen came from the Rau she says Mrs. Graham is doing fine. Elsie Gilholme is a former Basswood girl, now sta tioned at Red River in the C.W.A.C. and is on furlough at present. Miss Hewitt works at the Provost hospital and is also on holiday. They were visiting at the Dibben home.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Ish ben is in the hospital owing to eye trouble.

Geo. Crathern returned home on Saturday from the hospital feeling much better although unable to do anything yet.

Wm. Smith, accompanied by his mother and dad, are spending a few days in Edmonton. They expect to bring back Mr and Mrs. Alex Smith for a few days holiday.

CHINA NEEDS OUR HELP. EVERY DOLLAR COUNTS

Since July, 1937, China has known no peace. Fifty million Chinese, re fugees from their homes in the face of Japanese invasion and pitiless bombings, are living where they can, how best they can. Their homes are gone and practically all their posses sions but they have kept their courage and their will to support their fight ing forces.

China's epic stand against shatter ing odds has been made at the cost of indescribable sacrifice. It is to help rollers Chinese privation and aid in building up its industries and educa tional institutions as well as giving direct aid to bombed victims and medical supplies to hospitals, that the Chinese War Relief Fund is now mak ing its first national appeal to the people of Canada.

The objective of the current cam paign is $1,500,000. The money will be spent on the advice and under the direction of a committee of Can adians in China headed by Canada's first Minister to that country, Major General Victor Odlum. And a fine little lady in whom Canadians have full confidence is chief adviser to that committee—Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

For Farm Boys

Farming requires a wide variety of skills and a lot of knowledge. The farmer must be a mechanic to get the best out of machinery; a botanist to recognize weeds and mixtures in his crops, a breeder to select the best plant and animal, a nutritionist to fit his stock for the market economically, a pathologist to recognize and control diseases in his crops and livestock, and so on. In addition, he must be a business man and a useful member of his own community.

Our colleges of agriculture have done wonders in training men who wish to devote their lives to research and experimentation; but this is not all. They also provide courses for those intending to farm. These courses do not pretend to teach a boy how to farm, but they do teach him a lot about farm problems that he cannot be learned at all, or only with great difficulty, elsewhere. In addition to much useful knowledge of crop production, livestock man agement, and agricultural engineer ing, the student mixes with farm boys from all over his province, and learns something of their problems. He returns to his farm a better farmer and a more useful citizen.

Agricultural training is offered at the School of Agriculture, Olds, Alberta; the University of Saskat chewan, Saskatoon; and the Univer sity of Manitoba, Winnipeg. Write to these institutions for information on School of Agriculture courses and short courses in special subjects.

NEARLY 90,000 CAR LICENSES ARE ISSUED

Despite the restrictions called for by wartime conditions, the total of passenger car licenses in Alberta is nearing the 90,000 mark, according to the provincial secretary's department.

Some days ago, the total was well over 85,000 and this is expected to show a substantial increase before the end of the present year. In the 1942-43 license year that ended March 31, last, there were 83,115 licensed passenger cars in the province.

The number of licenses obtainable has been affected by federal regula tions curtailing the amount of gaso line available for passenger cars in "A" category to 120 gallons per year and also the restrictions on tires.

Nevertheless, there has been a con volume of holiday travel by Alberta trips, while officials in national parks in the province report that a record number of motor visitors have been registered

A record membership is expected this year by the Alberta Motor As sociation, which is giving special at tention to the needs of motorists un der emergency conditions

30 NEW LOCOMOTIVES FOR NATIONAL SYSTEM

MONTREAL. R. C. Vanchan the Chairman and President of Canadian National Railways has taken over locomotive 6255 as the first one of 30 on order for the National System and required for war time traffic The others will follow very quickly as they can be delivered by the Montreal Lo comotive Works and as each one is received by the railway it will im mediately go into service.

These new engines are up to fat examples of the Northern type de veloped by Canadian National engi neers and especially adapted to system requirements. They are dual purpose locomotives being available both for freight and passenger service

A war time substitution is that the bells of these new locomotives are of steel plate made at the Montre al shops of the Canadian National Rail ways. Previously engine bells were cast of bronze but war priorities made that metal scarce

The thirty new locomotives follow closely the principles of the original 6200's with modifications suggested after service which has proven the soundness of the design The new lots have the sand boxes and the steam dome combined to suggest streamlining. The total weight of en gine and tender in working order is 377,800 pounds The overall length is 94 feet 5 and ⅝ inches.

Pure Science

Has Been Greatly Jeopardized By Many Wartime Demands

Dr. W. K. Fisher, who has retired from his position as director of the third largest marine experimental station in the world, declares that the war years were the severest trial pure science has stood in recent years.

"There is no every inducement to abandon pure science for technical applications, but some one must keep the candlelight burning," he said.

The responsibility for preserving what he called "the sacred flame" rests largely with the universities, Fisher believes but he said their position for this task was jeopardized by wartime demands on curricula.

ISRAEL'S SIN and RESTORATION

Golden text: The Lord is slow to anger and abundant in lovingkindness, forgiving iniquity and transgression. Numbers 14:18.

Lesson: Exodus 32—34.

Devotional reading: Jeremiah 31: 31-34.

Explanations and Comments

The Sin of the Golden People. Exodus 32:1-6. Leaving Moses and Joshua still on the Mount, we are taken to the plain at its base to learn what had happened meanwhile to the children of Israel. They had grown weary waiting six weeks for Moses' return. "As for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him," and they demanded that Aaron make "gods which shall go before us." Aaron called for their golden earrings, and with the gold he fashioned a molten calf. "These are thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt," he said to the people; but when later called to account by Moses he excused himself by saying he could not help it. "Thou knowest the people that they are set on evil," he had but cast the gold earrings into the fire and out of it had come the golden calf. "I could not prevent them from carrying out their wishes; opposition on my part would have cost me my life." Thus is Aaron represented to us in this narrative a reed bending before the storm.

Aaron had an altar built before the golden image and proclaimed that on the morrow a feast to Jehovah should be held. The people entered into the joyfully, burnt-offerings were offered and peace offerings were brought, and then the people "sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play."

Moses Learns About the People. Ex. Exodus 32 7-14. "Go, get thee down," came the word to Moses on the Mount; "for thy people, which thou broughtest up out of the land of Egypt, have corrupted themselves: they have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them."

Moses' Anger, Aaron's Excuses, and the Punishment of the People. Exodus 32:15-29. Moses descended from the Mount carrying with him the two tables of the testimony, and when he approached the camp and saw the idol and the dancing people his anger waxed hot, and he threw down the two tables of stone and broke them.

Moses Again Intercedes for the People. Exodus 32 30-35. Moses returned to Jehovah and brought divine forgiveness of his people through his prayer—but he would part with them. "Blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou has written," he cried. "Moses' day of triumph was the day of disillusionment and trial. He survived it with all his limitations because at least he loved his people more than he loved himself.

The highest altitude at which it is believed a bird can fly is four miles.

"Porterettes" Join Railway Workers

Shortage of man power has compelled Canadian National Railways Express to employ women to perform duties previously performed exclusively by men at the Central Station in Montreal. These women act as checkers, load and unload railway express cars. An experimental squad of seven women having proven satisfactory the number of women workers is being increased. As a general rule, express parcels are not heavy, but occasionally an overweight shipment is offered. Instructions to these women are to attempt nothing more fifty pounds. They work on eight-hour shifts their working conditions and wages being similar to those enjoyed by men in the same occupations.

While some of these workers had employment prior to joining the Canadian National Railways, the majority of them gave their previous occupation as "housewife". Occupations of others ranged from office workers to charwomen. "Porterettes" now working with the Canadian National Express say they are well satisfied with the new job. The platform trucks on which the women load parcels in the express rooms below the tracks are hauled by tractor up a ramp to the track level to be placed alongside the railway cars in which the parcels are laden. In a similar manner, platform trucks loaded from the cars are taken to the lower level by tractor power. There are two hand-driven trucks in the Central Station, mail, express and baggage each having its own power units to haul the heavy loads.

Canadians Leaving Country For 30 Days Or More Must Surrender Certificates

The post office department announced that Canadians leaving the country for 30 days or more must surrender their national registration certificates to the chief custom officer at the port of exit or forward them to the chief registrar at Ottawa for safe-keeping.

On their return to Canada, such persons may obtain their certificates or a duplicate, by filling out form "T" now available at post offices, and sending it to the chief registrar or by making direct application by letter.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

PREVENTION OF DROWNING

From various parts of Canada stories of near-drownings, in which prolonged artificial respiration saved lives even after the victims had been in the water for considerable time, are coming in to the offices of the Health League of Canada. Dr. Gordon Bates, general director of the league, in a recent nation-wide radio address, appealed for reports of success or failure, so that life-saving possibilities might be more generally understood.

There are still many persons, even physicians, who do not know that life may be restored after immersion of more than a few minutes, and that artificial respiration should be begun immediately on the spot and continued until the victim breathes voluntarily or until rigor mortis sets in. It is most important to watch for and report cases where there is difficulty in getting air into the lungs. This is often caused by laryngeal spasm. This newly discovered phenomenon is still hardly understood and all information possible is necessary if it is to be dealt with.

Among reports reaching the Health League in the last few days are several cases in which drowning victims were pronounced dead or where for other reasons resuscitation was abandoned after comparatively short efforts.

Awards include 10 decorations to Women's Royal Naval Service, 54 to Auxiliary Territorial Service, 22 to Women's Auxiliary Air Force, and mention in dispatches of three members of the W.R.N.S., five of the A.T.S., and 26S W.A.A.F.S.

Girl Drives Dray

Scottish Lass Has A Tough Job In Glasgow

It is now no uncommon sight to see women driving huge vans piled with merchandise. As a rule the sharp-horses seem to be under through the heaviest traffic, and it is a strenuous task.

However, when I spoke to one of those drivers she was unperturbed. "The horse does a lot of the thinking for me" she said, and added, "You see, father was a Cockney and mother was a Scot—so I'm not so dull myself." Still, the job remains a tough one. The Amazon admitted that she was hearing some words which she had never known before, and that she felt glad of the high seat built on to most of the vehicles. From this perch other irate drivers seem to be very far away.

Incidentally, the huge horses sometimes have very skittish names. The most powerful member in the stables was called Rosebud.—Glasgow Herald.

New Style Bayonet

American Combat Units Are Supplied With A Shorter Weapon

A new bayonet, shorter, lighter and sturdier, now is being supplied to American combat units on the far-flung battlefronts of the world, officer of the Picatinny Arsenal, source of the Picatinny Arsenal, announced.

The new weapon, Larned said has been shortened from 18 to 10 inches, and is considered by jungle fighters, paratroopers and air-borne infantry as more adaptable to battle conditions.

Flat and sword-like in appearance, it is most nearly like the Japs' flat, razor-sharp bayonet. Britain also has changed to a shorter blade, triangle in shape. French troops use long, round bayonets, while the Russians' are similar to the British.

A unique American fish, the bluefin tuna has been colonized in Cuba, Europe and South Africa.

Edith Hamilton who lived at Telland and latterly of Islay, has returned to her post after her furlough and has settled down to her new job in the camp medical office. Edith loves the army life and the work is extremely interesting. Her brothers, Chris and Willie, both of the R.C.A.F., were home on leave and all looked well and happy. Army life seems to agree with them all.

It's very nearly harvest time again. B. Allison has his winter rye cut and stooked, and it won't be long before wheat cutting starts—and then winter again!

CHINESE CHILDREN NEED YOUR AID!

There are tens of thousands of little children in China who are victims of Japan's war of cruel, violent aggression. They are fatherless, motherless, homeless.

Food, shelter and education of these innocents is a principal care of the Chinese War Relief Fund, which is now appealing to Canada — to a country whose children are mercifully safe from war's horrors—for $1,000,000.

Madame Chiang Kai-shek's "war-orphan homes" are doing much to save these unfortunate youngsters for humanity's sake, and to help populate the new Free China with intelligent trained minds and fit bodies Madame Chiang Kai-shek herself is an advisory member of a committee in China which supervises the expenditure of the Chinese War Relief Fund.

It shouldn't be long now before Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Paul, of the Canadian Army are on an equal footing—from the point of view of rank. Mrs. Paul is now a captain with the Canadian Women's Army Corps and her husband has just been promoted to the acting rank of captain. They were married last winter Overseas, both in uniform.

DESPITE WAR, SWEDEN FLIES

WINNIPEG. — In spite of the hazards of war, air line traffic between Sweden and Great Britain is so heavy that the Swedish government air line, A.B. Aero Transport, is looking for new equipment so that the service may be amplified. This fact was made known in an interview here with Karl H. Larsson, chief engineer. The Swedish air line, he said, flies as regularly as possible between Stockholm and Scotland. "It is an 800 mile non-stop flight, made by night, and we have to make it with meagre weather information. We are obliged to cease operations for about six weeks during midsummer. The British Overseas Airways Corporation," he added, "operates a similar service with Sweden over the A.B. Aero Transport also flies between Stockholm and Helsinki, Finland, and between Stockholm and Berlin, by way of Malmo. "Service to Moscow has been discontinued, but we hope it will be resumed when the frontier shifts," Mr. Larsson said. "We have found that our flights to Moscow have resulted in better understanding between Sweden and the Soviet Union."

On a mission to Washington, Mr. Larsson extended his trip to Winnipeg to start operations and maintenance procedure of Trans-Canada Air Lines. "Canada and Sweden have much in common," he said. "We both have cold weather to contend with, and I think we may be able to exchange ideas to our mutual advantage."

Tea & Coffee Ration Is Increased One-Third

OTTAWA.—Tea and coffee ration to consumers will be increased one third, effective Sept. 1. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces that in line with its policy of making maximum amounts of any rationed commodity available this increase is allowed, and that the ration will be further increased at any time when the supply position permits. It is felt that if ocean shipping continues to enlarge the supply, another increase in this ration will be made before the end of the year.

The increase becomes effective with the use of tea and coffee coupons from the new ration book. The present value of the coupons will remain the same, each being worth two ounces of tea or eight ounces of coffee. The increase will be accomplished by allowing two coupons become valid every three weeks instead of every four weeks as at present.

Tea and coffee coupons in ration book 3 will not show the valid dates but these dates will be announced from time to time by the Board. The first coupons of the new book become valid Sept. 2.

With the announcement that this increase in the tea and coffee ration is made possible through an improvement of the stock position as regards tea and coffee, Mrs. Frank Conroy, Chairman of the Women's Regional Advisory Committee of the Consumer Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board comments.

"The news that tea and coffee rations are to be increased by one-third, as of Sept. 2, will be most welcome to harassed housewives, intent on keeping within their rations, and equally intent on keeping the family smile, each being worth two ounces of tea or eight ounces of coffee. The increase will be accomplished by allowing two coupons become valid every three weeks instead of every four weeks as at present.

Tea and coffee coupons in ration book 3 will not show the valid dates

STORES TO CLOSE FOR THE NOON HOUR

Co-operation of Shoppers Asked

Due to the shortage of help Vermilion merchants have decided to close their stores during the noon hour each day and the co-operation of all shoppers is asked in this regard. Carryout on from 12 o'clock to 2 o'clock with skeleton staffs has proved quite satisfactory hence the move to close up for the lunch hour from 1 to 2:15 each day and for the supper hour from 6 to 7 on Saturday. This means that a full staff will be on hand to serve shoppers all the time the store is open.

The new hours took effect on Monday, August 23rd, and will be observed in general stores, hardware, butcher shops and lumber yards.

ONTARIO LIKE FINLAND SAYS SWEDISH VISITOR

WINNIPEG. — With its multitude of lakes, northern Ontario, as seen from a Trans-Canada plane, looks just like Finland, according to Karl H Larsson, chief engineer for the Swedish government air line, A. B. Aero Transport. At the same time he found that Canada and Sweden had much in common. "We both have cold weather to contend with," he remarked, "and I think we may be able to exchange operations and maintenance ideas to our mutual benefit." Mr. Larsson spent several days in Winnipeg, visiting the T.C.A. shops and conferring with O.T. Larson, Board of Swedish interest, vice president of T.C.A., and J. T. Bain, superintendent of engineering and maintenance

CURTAILING WEED SEED DISTRIBUTION

Prevention of the spread of weeds by farm machinery or live stock will require special attention during the next few weeks.

Since weed seeds can be very readily spread by machinery from field to field, and farm to farm, special care should be taken with the cleaning of all harvesting and threshing machinery and equipment before moving. These remedies are aimed weed seeds should be secured in tightly woven sacks in which they may be taken from the field and burned. All screenings accumulated at each setting of the threshing machine should be burned.

If live stock are turned into stubble before weed seeds are burned the unnecessary spread of weeds will result. Even when this precaution is taken, considerable weed of all kinds will be consumed and distributed by the stock and it is advisable, therefore, to limit the range of live stock on stubble in the fall as much as possible. Weed seeds may also be carried to fields other than those on which they were produced

News items of all kinds are always welcomed by the Standard.

What We Have, We Hold!

The fall and winter, the farmers of Western Canada will have to store a large proportion of Canada's grain crop. The greatest dangers to farm stored grain are moisture and insects. Uniformly dry grain is not subject to insect damage or sprouting.

If grain is dry, however, the farmer's position is different because he rarely has accommodation or equipment for turning or elevating large amounts of grain. Note the following precautions:

1. Repair leaky roofs to exclude rain and snow.
2. If possible have wooden floor with air space underneath.
3. Much damage has resulted from concrete floors, but a covering of moisture-proof paper will help.
4. Before filling granary, clean thoroughly. Brush down walls, and sweep floor with damp sawdust. Then sprinkle a little hydrated lime over the floor and sweep it about to fill all cracks.
5. If granary was infected with mice or insects last year, give the entire inside a coat of whitewash containing ¼ pound of borax per gallon of solution, and allow to dry thoroughly before binning grain.
6. Don't fill granary to roof, but provide all possible ventilation without allowing moisture to enter.
7. Open bins or piles are risky. If unavoidable, they should be on well drained ground, and two or three feet of straw should be on the ground under the grain. Pile should be uniform cones. A covering of hay or sheaves may help, but should be removed before warm weather arrives in spring.

McCOLL-FRONTENAC PRODUCTS

YOU always face the danger of serious breakdown to farm machinery. However, this year at harvest time, because of Canada's urgent need for food, it is more important than ever that you take extra precautions by providing your equipment with the right kind of lubrication. Call on the McColl-Frontenac Representative in your district and get a supply of these better farm lubricants.

RED INDIAN GEARLIFE

Red Indian Gearlife affords complete protection for transmissions and differentials of tractors under the toughest going. It resists channelling. It follows through and clings to the gears. For thorough lubrication and easier shifting use this better lubricant.

RED INDIAN Aviation MOTOR OIL

In tractor or car engine, Red Indian Aviation Motor Oil provides complete protection against friction and wear. It stands up under highest engine heat ... flows and lubricates the moment the engine starts. For general lubrication of equipment, it has no equal!

TEXACO MARFAK

Longer life for vital bearings is ensured when lubricated with Marfak. Marfak sticks to its job in all weather and temperatures. It seals itself in the bearings, sealing out dust, mud and water. Play safe—lubricate with Marfak!

Canadian Aviation

THE RAPID DEVELOPMENT in aviation since the beginning of the war has awakened the interest of people everywhere in the post-war possibilities for the use of the airplane. As the plans for the air routes of the future are discussed it becomes increasingly apparent that Canadians have yet another natural asset in the skies above us. Early in the war it was found that the shortest air route between this continent and Britain was via Canada and as a result the R.A.F Ferry Command, now known as the R.A.F Transport Command, established headquarters in the East. From an unknown point large numbers of airplanes, manufactured in Canada and the United States, are flown to Britain with great success. A beginning has also been made in transporting airborne freight over this route and there is little doubt but that passenger and freight traffic will continue to use this skyway after the war.

* * * * *

Canada Is On Direct Routes

The unique position of Winnipeg and Edmonton in the air route of the future has been pointed out many times. Air navigators have shown that these cities lie on the most direct lines between this continent and Russia, China, and India, the routes crossing the Arctic circle. The importance of all this now and in the future is clearly apparent to all Canadians and there has already been considerable discussion here as to the utilization of these airways after the war. The great development which has already taken place in connection with the building of the Alaskan Highway and the opening of large air fields at Edmonton and beyond, is paving the way for the use of that route for peacetime purposes in the years to come. Other great air fields developed in the Dominion for the uses at this time will no doubt prove of value in civil aviation after the war, as will the training received by thousands of Canadian young men in the Air Force

* * * * *

Light Planes Are Designed

As a result of recent scientific discoveries, in the realm of resins, fibre, plastics and light metals, aircraft engineers are now designing planes capable of flying from this continent to Europe and back non stop and carrying loads of twenty tons. These planes will be four times the size of the famous clippers" which pioneered in the opening up of transocean commercial air service. It is likely that after the war there will also be a demand for small, highly efficient, low cost passenger planes, and it is possible that present factories now used for producing aircraft for use in the war, may be turned to making light airplanes for civilian uses. Tens of thousands of young Canadians have been trained for flying and our country is dotted with excellent air fields. There is also much possibility for use of the airplane in developing the great resources of the Canadian Northland and it is likely that many Canadian farm who are now fighting in distant theatres of war will take part in the future expansion of our North country. In all these ways it is clear that the airplane is going to play an important part in post war events in Canada.

FISH

Meal planning is a necessity to-day To obtain the required amount of efficient protein you should have your portion of rationed meat 4 or 6 times a week and substitute a food containing efficient protein for the other 1 or 2 days. Fish is one of the foods you can use interchangeably with meat as a source of protein without affecting materially the nutritive value of your diet. Salt water fish is valuable in your diet for the iodine content. Salmon, halibut, cod, are rich in vitamins A, D and G.

The locality and season influence the price of fish, so if you are not too far from where the fish are caught, you should buy fish every week when it is in season. In fresh fish the eyes should be full and bright, the gills red, the flesh firm and elastic and there should be no disagreeable odour Fish may be preserved by one of several methods or a combination of two or more, e.g. freezing, salting, pickling, smoking and canning.

You probably have noticed that fish is never tough, this is due to the fact that there is no connective tissue as there is in meat. As a result you only cook fish to develop a flavour and change the texture. These facts should always be kept in mind when cooking fish, as prolonged cooking dries out the fish and spoils the flavour—10 minutes per pound is sufficient.

You should cook fish several different ways to add a variety to your menus Fillets and small fish may be broiled or pan-broiled in oil or fat and basted during the cooking to prevent the fish drying out Fish could be cooked with bread crumbs and egg or corn meal and fried in fat at a high temperature to prevent the fat soaking into the fish. Larger size fish may be stuffed and baked in a moderate oven, basting with melted fat, or salt pork or lean bacon placed on top of the fish will add richness and flavour You could wrap fish to be boiled in cheese cloth to facilitate handling

Lack of colour, flavour and richness in fish can easily be supplied by garnishes and sauces, e.g. lemon, cucumbers, parsley, tartar, tomato or egg sauce

For tempting recipes write to the Western Division Health League of Canada 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, Ontario.

WOMEN'S LAND ARMY

At the end of March 1942 the Women's Land Army of Great Britain numbered more than 58,000 women between 17 and 40 They were employed on farms, in market gardens and in forests. A number of prisoners of war are now employed on British farms.

THE DAIRY COW

The dairy cow is a highly specialized animal. The nervous, physical, and bodily strain in assimilating large quantities of concentrated food and roarse fodder, together with the manufacture of milk, is so great that special care by proper methods of feeding and management is necessary to maintain the cow in robust health.

Canadian Corn Needed

Situation Is One Of Utmost Urgency To Starch Industry

In an interview with Mr. G. F Benson Jr., President of the Canada Starch Company Limited, discussing a recent dispatch from Ottawa which said that in view of the fact that deliveries of corn had not been maintained by the Canadian farmers, supply stocks were dwindling rapidly. He stated that the situation with regard to corn supply is one of the utmost urgency to the starch industry

The industry produces many essential foods and also special starches and adhesives used in the manufacture of war material. The Canadian Government is now permitting the importation of corn from the United States, and realizing the imperative need for this grain in vital war industries is providing subsidies for this purpose.

Mr. Benson said that the Starch industry for some years has been encouraging Canadian farmers to grow more hybrid corn. He indicated the Canadian price ceiling was extremely fair and even high in comparison with other grains. He urged the Canadian farmer to make deliveries regularly of reasonable quantities of corn in order that they may retain the Canadian market.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR INDIA

British experts have been sent to India to establish a first line machine tool industry in that country for the threefold purpose of increasing India's contribution towards the war effort, the saving of valuable shipping space, and the establishment of a machine tool industry for peacetime India.

Sunflower Harvest

Expected That Crop Will Be Quite Heavy This Year

Nearly 30,000,000 pounds of sunflower and rape seed—rich sources of vital vegetable oils—may be harvested in Canada this year, it was indicated.

Two years ago these crops were practically unknown. They developed results from the shortage of vegetable oils in North America following the loss of normal sources of supply due to war in the Pacific area.

The Dominion bureau of statistics said that almost 1,000 growers planted sunflower seed in western Canada, while some 966 in the prairie provinces, Ontario and Quebec planted rape seed.

Canadian Lifesaving Equipment Has Attracted Attention Abroad

LL-Cmdr. C P. Harding of the Royal Canadian Navy told a service club in Toronto that Canada's development of raft lifesaving equipment has been so successful the British admiralty and authorities of the United States, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa have sought Canadian specifications.

"You can sink a lifeboat but not a raft," he said. "Sailors now prefer rafts to lifeboats and on many vessels wood and steel lifeboats are being abandoned in favor of rafts developed by Canadians."

No Reduced Fares

Pleasure Travel Will Have To Be Kept Within Present Limits

The order-in-council which suspended reduced railway fares for week-end and holiday travel has been extended to Feb. 15, 1944, it was announced by T. C. Lockwood, Controller of Transport. The original order covered a trial period from last April 15 to Aug. 15.

Mr. Lockwood said that "civilian travel is still extremely heavy and it is impossible to offer any special inducements in the way of reduced fares, which would result in any increase in the present movement, as it is most essential and important that the transportation both on duty and leave, be given preference and train space provided for them."

The order-in-council also said that pleasure travel would have to be kept within present limits as that the movement of essential war materials would not be interfered with.

Miss Margaret Richardson whose marriage to Bert Mead takes place on Saturday, Aug. 28th, was honored at several functions held during the past week.

On Friday August 20, Mrs. L. Amoe and Mrs. C. P. Lipsey were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower held at the home or the latter. The bride-to-be was showered with good wishes and a large number of beautiful gifts.

On Saturday afternoon the home of Mrs. C.L. Whitby was the scene of a happy gathering when Miss Richardson was again the guest of honor, the hostesses being Mrs. Whitby, Mrs. A. M. West and Mrs. A. E. Kaiser. The bride-elect was the recipient of a variety of useful and practical gifts for her new home.

The annual meeting of the Vermilion Deanery W.A. will be held on Thursday Sept. 2. The opening service will be in St. Saviour's church at 10:30 a.m. and the business session held in the Parish hall. Two Diocesan officers from Edmonton will be present.

FUNERAL OF MRS. GEORGE HENNEKA

Funeral services for Jean, beloved wife of Mr. Geo. Henneka, were held on Friday August 20th at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at First United church. Interment followed in the Vermilion cemetery. The Rev. E. S. Reike officiated. Mrs. Henneka passed away in the Vermilion Municipal hospital on Tuesday August 17th.

The deceased was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, on May 24th, 1902, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Yuill. She accompanied the family to Canada at the age of seven years when they moved to Taber, Alberta. In 1918 the father homesteaded north of Brooks and here they lived until 1925 when the move to Vermilion was made, residing here for the past eighteen years.

In 1926 the deceased was married to Mr. George Henneka and her home since that time has been just a few miles south of town. She leaves to mourn her loss her sorrowing husband and 4 sons sons Jackie and George, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Yuill of Vermilion, one sister, Mrs. B.G. Russell of Donalda, Alberta, and many relatives in Scotland.

Respected and esteemed by a wide circle of friends, the large gathering of Mrs. Henneka is sincerely regretted and the sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. Henneka and two sons and daughter Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Yuill in their sad bereavement.

Pall-bearers were J. E. Carney, Dixon, Lee Shrigley, Roy Walker.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from the following: Husband and sons, Father and Mother; Sister Peg, Bert and Anne; Aunt Mary, Arnold, Betty and Bill; Mr. and Mrs. Yuill; Livestock Cooperative Ltd.; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fallos; George Neuman and Mrs. Barnwell; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Young; Mrs. Hugh Dunlop Shepherd, Bill and Hilda; The Fitgate Family; Mr and Mrs. George Henneka and Lionel; Mr. and Mrs. L. McIntosh and family; Mr. and Mrs. John Hill and family; Mr. M. Pilbeam, Mrs. Thompson and family; Mr. and Mrs. Adam Lang and family; Mr. and Mrs. Basil Wilson and family; Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gibson and family; Mr. and Mrs. M. Hodgins and Elma; Rex Walker; Mr. and Mrs. Mungo Forbes and family; Mr. and Mrs. Les Kober; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sanborn; Mr. and Mrs. H. VICTORIA WEDDING GROOM WILL KNOW HERE

KRELLER—FORTIN

A wedding of widespread interest took place Saturday evening June 19, at St. John's church, Victoria, amidst a beautiful setting of summer flowers in beauty bushes and tall lighted tapers, when Rev. George Riddle united in marriage Patricia Frances Heverly, youngest daughter of Mrs. H. J. Fortin, Victoria, to Lt.-Pl. James Elmer Kreller, R.C.O.C., youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Kreller, 1161 Montague street, Regina, Saskatchewan.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. E. R. Norris, of Nanaimo, looked lovely in a form-fitting gown of white slipper satin and lace. Her bridal veil, caught to her head with a coronet of orange blossoms, was supplied with satin wedding belle, and formed a train. She carried a bouquet of Phyllis Gallies, and her only other ornament was her grandmother's old gold watch and chain.

Miss Ruth Fortin, her sister's maid of honor, wore a pale green taffeta gown, and a veiled Juliet cap of pink flowers. Her bouquet was of Shasta daisies and pink snapdragons.

The bride-maid Miss Flale Nunemeis, cousin of the bride, wore a pale pink net frock with a matching cap and a Juliet cap of pink net and flowers. She carried a bouquet of Shasta daisies and delphiniums.

Donna Claire Norris, the flower girl, was sweet in a yellow net floor length dress, trimmed with mauve, with matching cap, and carried a small bouquet of yellow daisies, mauve sweet peas and carnations.

The groom's gift to the maid-of-honor and bridesmaid were strings of pearls, and a signet ring to the flower girl.

The best man was Sgt. Herbert Swanson, R.C.O.C., and the usher L.-Cpl. C.E.D. Bacon, R.C.O.C.

Mrs. Ian Galliford played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register Handel's Largo was sung.

The wedding reception was held at "Oakcrest," the home of Lieut. and Mrs. W. J. S. Warburton, where Mrs. Fortin, the brides' mother, received the guests, wearing a turquise floor length dress with matching hat and a corsage of rose buds and viola. She was assisted by Mrs. Warburton, who wore a blue flowered dress with hat to match and a corsage of red rose buds.

The bridal party received under a canopy of white satin ribbons, a wedding bells in front of the fireplace, banked with ferns and roses filled the reception rooms. Lieut W. S. Warburton proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded.

The dining room was beautifully decorated in mauve and white, and the bridal table, covered with a lace cloth, was centred with a bowl of white flowers, flanked with white tapers in crystal holders. The three-tier wedding cake was cut by the bride and groom, under a canopy of white satin ribbons, belonging to Lieut. Warburton. The cake was served by Mrs. R. Jones.

Presiding at the urns were Mrs. Irving, aunt of the groom; Mrs. L. Mace, Mrs. C. O. Sinnett and Mrs. G.L. Agnew. Servitours were Mrs. A. McDonald, Mrs. P. Fromente, Mrs. H. Swanson, Miss Jean Rose, Miss Margaret Agnew, Miss Jean Carter and Miss Dorothy Harper.

For her wedding trip, which will be spent at Vancouver and Qualicum Beach, the bride chose a navy blue ensemble with red accessories. On their return Capt. and Mrs. Kreller will reside in Victoria.

The groom, well known in Canadian sports circles was a star with last season's Victoria Army Hockey club. Allan cup contenders, and was formerly with Victoria Degree in the Coast-town inter-city Intermediate league of 1941-42. Prior to coming to the coast as a member of Canada's Armed Services, he played with New York Rovers.

All ranks of the Canadian Army both overseas and in Canada, are being re-examined under the new Pulhems medical classification system.

HARVEST WEATHER

Sunday has been the only fly in the excellent harvest weather experienced now for two weeks. Saturday night clouded up and a considerable amount of rain fell off and on all day Sunday. Monday was cloudy and cool but the skies cleared Monday night, the temperature stopping short however of the frost line. Tuesday and Wednesday were perfect harvest days and cutting of wheat is really getting into full swing.

Many Matters of Interest Discussed

Three newcomers to the town's business field were introduced at the board of trade luncheon meeting on Wednesday. These were Mr. Ross Boake who has purchased the Millward drug store; Mr. J. W. Bell who is the new National Grain elevator agent here, succeeding C. C. Smith, and Mr. Joe Leddy, who is now in charge of the U. G. G. elevator in succession to Norman Greig. Mr. Boake Sr. of Edmonton was also present. Local men making their first appearances for some time were Jas. J. Part, I. Whidden and A. C. Majury. All the newcomers were warmly welcomed.

As this was the first meeting following the summer recess of two months the president Ashley Cooper, required the success of several of the projects of the Board of Trade. In this respect he mentioned the continuation of the south highway to Wainwright on which work is now proceeding rapidly; revised interest in our airfield by transportation companies and air training schools a matter which will be fully discussed at the next meeting; the opportunity now presented for the first time of the town obtaining the rights to the land on which the swimming pool is located, proposed by the Board several times in past years. Mr. Cooper further said that the Board could still congratulate itself on the activity which led, in the face of strong competition, to the establishment of the C.W.A.C. Training Centre here. This distinct just happen — it was brought about by untiring efforts of the Board of Trade and town council. Right from the commencement of the training centre there has been carried on a continual building program supplying work to our carpenters, painters, draymen and laborers, as well as bringing in a number of skilled artisans, all of which contributes towards the prosperity of Vermilion. These were just some of the thoughts that came to the President's mind and no doubt there were other projects just as worthy of mention.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Committee reports were accepted from Gerald Stephens on behalf of the Youth committee as to open hours of stores; from Billie Pilkie Jr. regarding the success of the "Stamp Out the Civilian Panic" movement by the board and which quota was doubled; from Jake Wener who told of the various wage-rounding activities including the collection and sale of scrap metal, rubber and fat.

HARVEST HELP

E. H. Buckingham, convenor of the Agricultural committee, broached the matter of harvest help and considerable discussion followed as to what could be done by volunteer stooking crews and the best method of organizing. Frank Wilson is to look into the matter he handed by the agricultural committee with instructions to organize volunteer groups of town men into teams for harvest work.

LARGE M.D.'s

The boundaries of the proposed enlarged municipal district which will include Vermilion and tributary areas was broached by H. W. Brown, discussed and referred to the executive for further action.

J. W. H. Morrison made an interesting announcement in the effect that Jas. D. Adam, K.C. had tendered his resignation as Police Magistrate, a position he has held for a number of years and which has always been located in Vermilion. Mr. Morrison spoke of the admirable acts of Mr. Adam and suggested that the board take the necessary action to keep the office here. The meeting instructed the executive to handle the matter.

MEETING WEDNESDAY NEXT

The regular meeting will be held on Wednesday next commencing at 12.15 o'clock. Owing to there being no Sunday holiday that day, the meeting will adjourn at 1.30. Monday is Labor Day and a Dominion holiday, hence the Wednesday half holiday will not be observed.

EXECUTIVE MEETING

A meeting of the board of trade executive will be held in the secretary's office on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock sharp.

No Increase in Ammunition Given

OTTAWA — "The supply of small arms ammunition for civilian use cannot possibly be increased without seriously jeopardizing dynamic war production," Wartime Prices and Trade Board officials state in answer to pleas for more liberal distribution from dealers and individual users.

Present demand has eclipsed the 1935 figures by over 50 per cent. The Board emphasized its decision to allocate its supplies strictly to essential users.

Essential users, according to the Board order are penitentiary guards, bank messengers, war plant guards, trappers and those in remote areas whose livelihood depends on getting ammunition.

Vern Frederick Hildebrand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hildebrand, has joined Canada's Active Army and will shortly commence his training. Prior to enlisting Vern was employed by Craig's Meat Dept.

Pat Cummings delivered a truck load of new combined barley to the A.P. elevator Saturday last. It was an extra fine sample.

V.H.S. GRADUATE WINS BURSARY

Bill Beecroft to Study Medicine At University of Alberta

William Harvey Beecroft of Islay and a Vermilion high school graduate of this year, has been awarded one of the Coronation Bursaries created to commemorate the Coronation of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, by the Alberta Chapter of the I.O.D.E. Each Bursary is worth $100 and they are given to outstanding students in order that they may continue their scholastic careers. The Bursaries are tenable only at the University of Alberta. Bill were awarded this year.

Bill Beecroft is an Islay boy and received his public school education there. The first two years of high school were taken in Calgary with the two latter years at Vermilion. He was selected as the outstanding student of the year at V.H.S. and delivered the Valedictory address at the graduation exercises in June. His teachers state that he is gifted with remarkable ability and loss for a very successful university career for him. He will attend Alberta University this fall and will take Arts and Medicine.

TOM STACK IS NEW CREAMERY MANAGER

A. E. Payne Accepts Dominion Position

Tom Stack, already well known in Vermilion, has been appointed manager of the Burns Creamery here, being transferred from the creamery at Kelvington, Sask., where he has been manager for the past two years. At one time he was employed in the local plant, and also served in a similar branch at Medstead, Sask. Mr. Stack will arrive in town to take over within the next week.

A. E. Payne, manager here for the past three months, has retained to accept the position of Inspector of Poultry Products, a Dominion government position. His headquarters will be in Calgary.

Alterations To Elks Hall

Large Windows Out — Entrance Remodelled

Rather extensive alterations to the street front and entrance to the Elks hall are being made this week under the direction of contractor Chester Pepper.

The renovations consist mainly of taking out the two remaining large plate glass windows, which have been sold locally, and the remodelling of the entrance to the hall. The entrance space is being built in instead of being set back as at present. The work is finished with brick siding and it is expected that this will eliminate the necessity of cold in the winter months. Remodelling of the interior has long been overdue and the new arrangement will greatly facilitate the handling of dance crowds during intermissions.

Several other smaller changes are also being made inside the hall which will be ready for the regular dance this Saturday night.

MILLWARD'S DRUG BUSINESS SOLD

J. R. Boake New Proprietor

A large and interesting transaction was recently consummated when Sid Millward, owner of Millward's Drug store here for the past 12 years, sold the business to J. R. Boake, Phm. C. The change of ownership took effect on Wednesday Sept. 1.

Mr. Boake is an experienced druggist. He is an Edmonton boy and a graduate of Alberta university. For the past ten years he has been operating a drug store at Vilna.

Mr. Millward and family intend to move to Victoria later this fall.

CLANDONALD VICAR APPOINTED TO ONOWAY

The Rev. F. A. Peake, L.Th., Vicar of Clandonald since 1941 has been appointed by the Lord Bishop of Edmonton to the Vicar of Onoway with Wahkenne. The two parishes are united as a temporary war measure. Mr. Peake is a graduate of Emmanuel College, Saskatoon and the holder of a Diploma in Textile Technology from the University of Nottingham. He has been priest in charge of the hill people Mission since July of this year but will relinquish both charges to wards the end of September.

COLLECT SUCCESSION DUTIES ON ESTATE OF LATE PREMIER ABERHART

Remission Order Is Cancelled

The following statement regarding succession duties on the estate of the late Premier William Aberhart was issued by the provincial treasurer, Nelson Keith, in Edmonton on Friday, Aug. 27, 1943:

"In certain section of the public and the public press have voiced inasmuch period of a recent government order remitting succession duties payable on the estate of the late Premier William Aberhart.

"The government authorized the remission sincerely believing that such action would be considered right and proper in that Mr. Aberhart's death occurred in the midst of the busiest office of premier and particularly in view of the fact that extraordinary powers conferred on a state invested heavily in the costs of which property would have been borne by the province.

WILL OF PEOPLE

However, it is the expressed determination of the committee of the province to administer the law impartially and without favor. It is therefore expressed will

"Accordingly, in view of the unfavorable criticism which has been aroused by the remission, and the consequent dissatisfaction among the people, the government has cancelled the remission order, and the succession duties will be collected in accordance with the provisions of the Succession Duties Act.

"The government considers that the succession duties in this instance are just and reasonable and the attorney general recommends that the succession duties be collected in accordance with the provisions of the Succession Duties Act."

TOWN DRAINAGE SYSTEM IMPROVED

New Culverts Built

The main channel in the old drainage system on the north side of the Railway street north along Bulpin's corner until it finally pours over the brow of the river hill directly north has received a much needed overhauling during the past three weeks. Three three-tile handle pipes through all the surface drainage from the entire business section of the town. Two new cement culverts were built at the Bulpin corner and the entire channel from Lougheed to the block of Commerce was enlarged to take care of the extra surface water received this way. Two large culvert pipes were also laid directly under the main street to carry the water underneath the road. The work was done by town public works men under the supervision of W. J. Mathers of the town council. The entire channel is now approximately 3 feet deep and 4 feet wide.

Mr. Mathers is also in charge of the work on the Vermilion-Kitscoty highway. Two new culverts have been installed directly south through the town hall grounds and the work on the highway is now proceeding rapidly. Tenders have been called for a new bridge over the Vermilion river.

Farmers Saved High Lumber Cost

Farmers planning building operations following hostilities will be glad to learn that the cost of lumber for such purposes will be considerably lower than it is at present. Prices and Trade Board in announcing the new ceiling prices for lumber said that the prices will be billed to the consumer by the dealer who purchased the lumber from the producer. The lowest basing point for each species of lumber is the point from the timber is cut.

The arrangement applies to rough and dressed lumber, timbers, shiplap, tongue and groove and bevel siding, mouldings, sash and other architectural millwork and factory products.

The United Nations

THE PHRASE "THE UNITED NATIONS" is now a commonplace one, yet perhaps few who use it realize its full significance. Less than two years ago it had its beginning in a band of nations held together by their belief in the cause of freedom. Since that time the bonds between these countries have tightened, and their pledges have been translated into action which is spelling the doom of the Axis nations. Thirty-two sovereign states now make up the United Nations, and their combined resources have been built into the powerful war machine which is moving to destroy the aggressor nations in all parts of the world. Geography has made it difficult for all the thirty-two nations to maintain close contact, but groups have been formed among neighboring countries, and the whole has been co-ordinated through Great Britain, which serves as a link between the Old World and the New.

* * * * *

The English speaking peoples have formed one group, in which Britain, the Dominions and the United States have combined their economic resources and their fighting strength. Five boards administer the economic affairs of this group, and the combined boards confer with representatives of Russia, China and the other United Nations. The Lease-Lend principle, originated in the United States, has become the basis of co-operation between the United Nations. Great Britain's reciprocal aid to the United States now equals that given by the United States to Britain, and Russia has benefited greatly under this plan. Geographical difficulties have so far prevented China from receiving greater quantities of supplies in this way, but when these difficulties are removed, powerful assistance will be given to that gallant member of the United Nations.

* * * * *

All Resources Are Combined

Additional groups in the United Nations include the Pacific War Council which sits in London and Washington, Great Britain, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, India, China and the Netherlands are represented on this council, which although not an executive body, makes the wishes of the governments concerned known to the chiefs of staff and the executive committees of the United Nations. The countries of the Americas have joined in a Pan-American Union, and since 1941 Canada and the United States have been combining their entire resources for war production and defense. In London, for the past three years the representatives of the governments of the occupied countries have been co-ordinating their efforts with those of the other groups of the United Nations to bring about the defeat of the common enemy. A year ago, a treaty between the United Kingdom and the Soviet Union brought about a fuller degree of co-operation and understanding both in the prosecution of the present war, and for the organization of security and economic prosperity in Europe after the war. The results of the combined efforts of all these nations is now apparent in a powerful fighting force which can with confidence take the offensive on all the war fronts.

Italian Prisoners Of War Make Fun Of Mussolini's Army

The Leeds Yorkshire Post reports that a visitor who recently went to a West Yorkshire farm was struck by the high spirits during the dinner-time break of a small group of Italian prisoners serving as laborers. They seemed to be having a joke at the expense of Mussolini. Two of the prisoners came smartly to attention. "Mussolini's army!" laughed one of the Italians, pointing to the rigid pair. "March!" he shouted, amid much merriment.

Briskly, they both marched several paces backwards.

Japanese Brutality

Terrible Stories From Concentration Camps In Hong Kong

A remarkable and terrible story reaches me from Miss Elsie Fairfax-Cholmeley, who escaped from a Japanese concentration camp in Hong Kong in March, 1942.

She now writes from Kellin in Free China. She says that since the Japanese captured Hong Kong 18 months ago, over one million unemployed and unskilled Chinese workers have been driven from the former British colony. The majority have been forcibly deported, the rest driven to leave through denial of food ration cards.

Without any resources whatever, thousands of these refugees have starved to death in the barren islands and coastal regions where they have been taken. The bodies of hundreds of Hong Kong rickshs pullers, longshoremen and others lie by the roadsides in Kwangtung province (where famine conditions obtain even for the local population), some close to the sea, others farther inland so far as they could drag themselves.

Yet these deportees are more fortunate than the thousands of women, children and unemployed who have been simply herded on to junks and barges, towed out beyond the entrance to Hong Kong harbor and dumped overboard. Many skilled workers, who refused to work for the Japanese and were unable to escape, have also died in this manner.

Fifteen thousand Chinese are still forced to work in the Hong Kong shipyards. The Japanese pay a Chinese worker 30 cents a day, keep him alive, so that he can never save enough to travel to the nearest factory town in the interior, even if he gets away. Escape often means starvation. Yet thousands of skilled workers have escaped from Hong Kong and many have reached Free China.—London New Statesman.

Always Looks Calm

Churchill Feels Deeply But Never Shows His Emotions

The secret of Churchill is to be found, we believe, in his calm, unemotional approach to the great questions before the United Nations and before his country. It is revealed in the determined way in which he meets and solves all circumstances. This is not to say that Churchill is not a man of deep feeling. He is. But he does not expose his feeling to public gaze. He dresses his emotions in one of the finest vocabularies used by any public figure. Thereby he inspires and encourages those it is his task to lead through the dark periods in world history. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Speaks Russian

Sir Archibald Worrell Is Fluent In Language Of Soviet

In view of the part which Russia will play in world affairs in the future, it is perhaps not inopportune to refer to an incident that took place in Moscow recently when Sir Archibald Worrell was one of the guests at an official banquet. Stated the London Evening Standard. Called upon at the last moment to speak, Sir Archibald proposed the health of Stalin in fluent and flowing Russian. Stalin, apparently unaware that the then C-in-C. India knew the Russian language, showed his pleasure in an uncertain fashion; afterwards he was seen in deep and intimate conversation (in Russian) with the new Viceroy.

Multiple Raids On Nazi Targets Coming Soon

LONDON. — Observers here see the day coming, and in the not too distant future, when bomber command may carry out anything up to three or four raids on a single German city in a single night on a large scale, rather than on succeeding nights as was the case with Hamburg.

Sanford Lecker, air correspondent of the Sunday Graphic, in suggesting multiple single-night attacks on a single target town, said, "Given the necessary machines and air crews and both will be forthcoming. It can only be a matter of time before such raids take place."

Each night, as winter draws nearer, lengthens the period of darkness which, in addition to availability of aircraft, is important to multiple raids.

An R.A.F. commentator disclosed some 800 aircraft took part in the recent raid on Hamburg each night, leaving Britain from some 40 airfields. But the mile number of air fields could accommodate 800 more aircraft given another hour and a half of darkness, because it takes about half an hour to get an aircraft in the field of 30 planes and an hour to bring them down on their return.

Lecker pictured the night of the 2,000-bomber raid when 6,000 tons of high explosive and incendiaries will be dropped on a single city in a single night by clearing British bomber bases of one wave of planes and following it up with one or more waves over the R.A.F. 24 hour range of extra darkness.

And, as the nights lengthen, the bombers will be reaching out for new targets in southern and eastern Germany.

Aggression And Lawlessness Is To Be Punished

WINNIPEG. — Right Hon. Lord Wright, of Britain, told the Canadian Bar Association's annual meeting that when the war emergency ends a return should be made to the normal common law methods of legislation and adjudication.

Lord Wright, one of the seven lords of appeal in ordinary, the supreme judicial authority for Great Britain and Northern Ireland, said the tendencies toward the totalitarian people have been condemned by the Atlantic Charter. These are the four freedoms he said, including there also is a fifth freedom, the freedom of access to the courts.

He told the association that "we have got to demonstrate to all the world that lawless aggression and violence is a crime which must and will be punished.

"It will be a bad day for the future of humanity if we do not establish this law and sheer once and for all to the Germans, including Hitler, Goebbels, the great German general staff, Goering and the like, that war does not pay."

Earlier, G. H. Atkins, K.C., of Winnipeg, said in his presidential address that regimentation, necessary to a democratic nation in wartime, must in peace yield place to normal institutions.

Lord Wright praised Canada's war effort, saying it was "outstanding and amazing." Canada, he said, is the fourth largest producer among the United Nations and her supplies are being used on every battle front, he said.

Lord Wright told delegates they, as lawyers, are fighting for the common law - justice and liberty for the individual. He warned that Hitler's ambition was to rivet on mankind the brutal Nazi domination for 1,000 years.

So far, Lord Wright said, the Nazis had created a fortress of Europe, and within the fortress the people were held in absolute slavery. "No one can tell his age who sees . . . People are slaughtered daily in crowds, men, women and girls are deported into Germany and held in forced labors or worse."

"But the peoples' spirit is unbroken, and underground the people plot and work as far as they can, though death, accompanied by tortures more cruel and ingenious than any in the continent which the red Indians used to employ, stares them in the face."

HARSH BUT JUST

Idea Of Sir George Sansom On Treatment For Japan

LAKE COUCHICHING, Ont.—Sir George Sansom, minister advising on Far Eastern affairs to the British embassy at Washington, said Japan should be treated "harshly but justly" after her defeat and the standard of living should be raised in that country. He spoke at a meeting of the Canadian Institute of Public Affairs in session here.

"There should be a relatively generous attitude toward Japan in the field of 50 planes and an hour to bring them down on their return.

Lecker pictured the night of the 2,000-bomber raid when 6,000 tons of high explosive and incendiaries will be dropped on a single city in a single night by clearing British bomber bases of one wave of planes and following it up with one or more waves over the R.A.F. 24 hour range of extra darkness.

And, as the nights lengthen, the bombers will be reaching out for new targets in southern and eastern Germany.

Lord Louis Will Head Forces In Southeast Asia

LONDON. — The appointment of Lord Louis Mountbatten, leader of the famed Commandos, as commander-in-chief of Allied forces in southeast Asia was hailed as an "inspired step for crushing blows at Japan along the lengthy seacoast the Japanese hold from Rangoon to Singapore.

Any invasion attempt is expected to be delayed until the end of the monsoon season late next month or early in October.

"Now that they have put Monty in there," was typical British comment, "it shows that they really mean business with Japan."

All classes in Britain have followed with rabid interest the darker, almost fictional feats of Lord Louis, a second cousin to the king.

Forty-three, he is the youngest of the three Allied supreme commanders named since the United States entered this war. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander of the Mediterranean theatre, is 52, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, head of the Allied forces in the southwest Pacific, is 62.

Lord Louis, who is the first Briton elevated to a supreme command, rose from commander of a destroyer flotilla to chief of combined operations post he is relinquishing to take charge in southeast Asia.

Because Louis is "Dickie" to the type who likes to take a pistol in his hand and lead his forces when the going is rough. It is expected here that the autumn stab at the Japs or end up in Quebec will be a vast sea-borne invasion of Malaya, Burma and the Netherlands East Indies timed for the end of the monsoon season.

London newspapers announced the appointment of Lord Louis with big headlines. "Big Job for Lord Louis," "Lord Louis will lead offensive on Japs," "Lord Louis will direct war from India." Elsewhere of said will lead attack on Japan."

The operational duties of the Allied commanders now on duty in southeast Asia in relation to Lord Louis' appointment were not yet defined and officials here declined to

SWISS REPORT

Says Italians Have Not Beat British Prisoners To Germany

LONDON.—The British government is going to adopt a policy of encouraging migration to the dominions after the war, especially of soldiers looking for new openings the general council of the Trades Unio. Congress said.

Without giving details, the T.U.C. in its 78th report prepared for submission to the organization's annual convention, said that it had learned facilities will be given to demobilized soldiers who may wish to try new openings in countries of the commonwealth."

DAMAGE HEAVY

Bomber Raids Are Breaking Down Germany's Productive Structure

U.S. AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS IN ENGLAND. — Thirty per cent of the Nazi day fighter production was destroyed in the American heavy bomber raid on the Regensburg Messerschmitt plant Aug. 17, Maj.-Gen. Harold L. George, United States air transport command chief, told a press conference. He predicted that if the tempo of the present operations by the R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and U.S.A.A.F. can be increased Germany's economic structure will fall by year's end.

Gen. George said that such a collapse did not necessarily mean that Germany would be forced, out of the war at that time, but explained that the economic structure "won't be able to function in a degree necessary to support the war."

NAVY SHOW ON TOUR

A SOLVENT FARTHER

Canada Has Not Found It Necessary To Accept Lease-Lend Assistance

CHICAGO.—Canada is the only one of the United Nations that has not found it necessary to accept lend-lease assistance from the United States, C. C. McLaurin, supreme court justice of Alberta, said in a speech at a meeting of the American Bar Association.

"Canada is now the only debtor nation that has maintained payment of World War I debts without interruption," he said. "It is gratifying to assure you that you have a solvent partner.

"Last year Canada made an outright gift of $1,000,000,000 in war supplies to Great Britain, and this year another $1,000,000,000 has been allocated for assistance to United Nations who cannot pay."

Justice McLaurin said the current annual Canadian budget approximated the American budget of 10 years ago, although Canada has only 11,500,000 inhabitants. He said that heavy taxation and direct borrowing from the public have been the Canadian means of combatting inflation

McLaurin said Canada is eager to share in the ultimate direct assault on Japan itself.

"It is hardly necessary for me to assure you that Canadians stand prepared to the uttermost with you . . . in preparations, whatever the cost, that will inevitably bring about the utter collapse of the unspeakable Japanese regime."

BOMBS HIT TUNNEL

Many Thousands Drowned In Hamburg Air Raid Shelter

LONDON.—Reuters news agency said in a dispatch from Zurich that 15,000 persons drowned when the Elbe tunnel was hit during one of the recent Allied heavy raids on Hamburg.

The tunnel beneath the sands of the Elbe river reportedly was being used as an air raid shelter.

Similar to the highway tunnel at Glasgow, the Elbe tubes were started in 1907 and finished in 1914. Access to the tunnel was by elevators or 76-foot tall spiral stairs, each having four elevators for vehicles and two for pedestrians. Each cost iron tube under the river provided a passageway six feet wide, and two feet, six inches four feet wide.

EMPEROR WORRIED

Japanese People Urged To Increase Output Of War Materials

NEW YORK. — The Tokyo radio, declaring that Emperor Hirohito is deeply concerned over Japanese war production, appealed to the Japanese people to "set the mind of the emperor at ease" by exerting new efforts to boost production, the United States office of war information reported.

The appeals, the O.W.I. said, were made in broadcasts describing a series of audiences to which the emperor summoned leaders of various industries to discuss "increased production for the elevation of fighting strength."

The O.W.I. said the Tokyo radio denied Chungking reports that Admiral Mitsumi Koga, who succeeded the late Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto as commander of the combined Japanese fleet, has been killed in action.

WAR PLANTS

Will Be Main Problem Facing Canada After The War

WINNIPEG. — Demobilization of war plants after the war will be one of the main problems facing Canada, John Diefenbaker, K.C., member of parliament for Lake Centre, Sask., said here while addressing a luncheon meeting.

The war plants of the Dominion represent an investment of $890,000,000, Mr. Diefenbaker said, and the only plant so far with a post-war plan was the synthetic rubber concern at Sarnia, Ont.

He said the United States has decided that aluminum aircraft and shipbuilding will continue to be operated with government assistance since they are necessary to the welfare of mankind as much in peace time as in war.

NAZIS TEST GAS

LONDON — The Belgian news agency said that German troops tested a new kind of gas on the slopes outside fortifications near Liege in Belgium The gras was burned off and the area closed to the public, the agency said.

Canadian Army To Be Used As Needs Dictate

WITH THE CANADIANS IN SICILY.—Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton said in an interview in the course of his tour of Sicily that the participation of Canadian formations in the Sicilian campaign proved that "the Canadian army can be used in whole or in part as the needs and prosecution of the war dictate."

"We have to be prepared to operate in whole or in part," he said. "This has to be the objective—above the aspirations or desires of any individual or group. The effective prosecution of the war must be the only criterion in these decisions."

He said the campaign showed it was entirely possible for one or more Canadian formations to be associated with British or American forces.

The Canadian troops were withdrawn from the later stages of the Sicilian fighting to give them a rest and a breather for future operations, it was disclosed.

The Canadians who fought ashore and air—part of the British 8th Army, moved so fast in Sicily that they outstripped their transport and landed on for several days without food

They were tired and worn, and, because fresh British troops were available, the Canadians were withdrawn from the fighting

The Canadian commander, commenting on the general war situation, said, "I think there is a gleam of light at the end—yes, something more than a gleam. We have had a long walk in the valley of the shadow."

Gen. McNaughton praised the mighty effort of the Russians and declared a sense of inevitable defeat must be coming over the German high command as Berlin saw its allies dropping off and as the Germans faced a lack of strategic reserves.

On the other hand the Allies' war industries were hitting their stride. More and more was "an abundance of supplies and we have the ability to transport them to our war theatres."

"We can feed us well get the goods now," he added, mentioning the easing of the U-boat menace on convoy routes.

ALASKA HIGHWAY

Bridge Over Laird River To Be Finished This Fall

EDMONTON. — Brig.-Gen. J. A. O'Connor, officer commanding the United States northwest service command, said that construction of the 1,000 foot steel suspension bridge over the Laird river on the Alaska highway route, will be finished this year.

Gen. O'Connor said "The Alaska highway looks good." "Travelling operations are going ahead and there will be enough gravel on the highway this year to put it in good shape, he added.

TO KEEP THE PEACE

LONDON. — Herbert S. Morrison, home secretary, predicted in an late broadcast that Britain's great victory job would be "to sit on the head of any German government for five, 10 30, 50, or even 100 years to make sure there will be no war." He advocated an international armed force to police the world under control of a new League of Nations.

BRITAIN'S MANPOWER

LONDON — Britain's civilian manpower is the most highly mobilized in the world, with two out of every three men and women between the ages of 14 and 64 working full time for the war effort, it was revealed. The statistics were released by Malcolm Stewart McCorquodale, parliamentary secretary to the Labor ministry.

SPECIAL DAY

LONDON — The King has proclaimed Sunday, Sept. 26, as "Battle of Britain Sunday" to commemorate the deeds of R.A.F. and civil defence workers during the German air blitz on London three years ago. The Battle of Britain was at its heaviest through September, 1940, with both daylight and night attacks.

GIFTS FROM NATIVES

CAIRO. - Since June, 1940, the Masai people of Kenya have supplied 53,730 head of cattle and more than 8,000 sheep to the colony's livestock controller as gifts to the war effort. The Masai are a nomadic people numbering about 40,000.

LLOYDMINSTER FALL STOCK SALE OCT. 14th

The second annual Fall Stock Sale of breeding stock, sheep, swine and cattle under the auspices of the Lloydminster Exhibition Association will be held on Monday, October 18th.

For the last 24 years a Bull sale has been conducted each spring by the association and to meet the needs of breeders of sheep swine and cattle, both buyers and sellers. HERE FOR sale provides an excellent opportunity. The sale will include pure bred ewes and rams, grade ewes, pure bred sows and boars, pure bred male and female beef and dairy cattle. All the cattle will be tested for tuberculosis by the Dominion Health of Animals branch on the owner's farms. The Dominion Livestock Department will provide all rams.

Entries for the sale will close on Saturday, September 18th, to allow time for tuberculin testing the cattle and to have a catalogue issued in advance of the sale.

Entry forms will be mailed upon request, or a catalogue when issued by writing George K. Rose, manager of the Exhibition, Lloydminster, Sask.

TOLLAND

Cpl. Mabel Spencer, R.C.A.F. (WD) is at home from Aylmer, Ont., on a three weeks' sick leave.

L.-C. Sam Holmes visited his brother Urban and friends in this neighborhood for three days last week. He left on Wednesday to visit his sister in Edmonton, then he was going on to see his parents at the coast. He has been on the Ladner, Que., to where he has been posted.

Miss Phyllis Le Maitre of Edmonton, a great niece of Mr. G. H. Webber, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Cooper for a week.

Miss Naomi Freeman left from Wainwright on Tuesday where she is going to Peterborough, Ont., to attend high school this winter. She will live with her grandparents.

Mrs. Steele and Dicky were in the hospital over the week end and had their tonsils removed.

Charles Machell was a Sunday visitor at his parents home.

Elmer and Frankie Wetters visited their grandparents north of Vermilion and returned home on Sunday.

Andrew Kiss from Manville is visiting his brother Alex for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ford and Dan were visitors at the Rund home on Sunday.

Joyce and Dorene Whitsell visited in town with their aunt Mrs. J. Willbie for a week.

Bert Portsmouth had a very nasty horse visitor when a skunk crawled through the ventilator into his cellar.

Harvesting will soon be in full swing and several fields of barley have already been cut.

ISLAY

A wedding of interest to Islay people took place in Toronto recently when Adelene Ruth, daughter of Mrs. Gilchrist and the late Alexander Gilchrist of Toronto, was married to Mr. Ronald Scott Gilchrist, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mrs. Gilchrist and the late Mr. Donald Gilchrist of Edmonton.

Both families are well known in Islay.

Add one coat of flashy red paint, a pump and a thousand feet of hose to a "pony" and you have the Islay Army's newest fire-fighting weapon. First two of an estimated fifteen jeeps to be converted into miniature fire engines have rolled off the Canadian Mechanical Transport Shop at Ottawa. They'll be used in coastal areas.

Notice of Sale of Impounded Animals

Buy Only Needs Says Ration Head

Why rationing? The answer, with a tactful reminder that because you have consumer dosn't mean you have use them, is contained in this statement in the new ration book: "In wartime, goods are rationed because they are in short supply, or to prevent short supply caused by the selfish or unnecessary overbuying of some at the expense of others' essential needs. The utmost conservation of supplies is necessary. You should regard this ration book as a permit to buy rationed goods if you need them—not otherwise. It does not entitle you to purchase commodities for the use of someone else unless he provides in your household."

CORRECTION IN TOWN MINUTES

Two motions contained in the minutes of the town council meeting, which minutes appeared in last week's Standard, became intermixed when making corrections with rather misleading results. The two motions in question in their correct form:

Resolved that lot 10, blk. 25 be sold to Mr. H. B. Evans for the sum of $25.

Resolved that the tender for painting the rink by A. Snape for $250 be accepted.

The five things most wanted as gifts by Canadian soldiers overseas, according to an officer just returned, are: Cigarettes, toilet soap, (rationed in England), shaving soap, chocolates and candies and more cigarettes.

NEW RENTAL ORDER EFFECTIVE OCTOBER 1

EDMONTON — Highlights of the new rental order, effective Oct. 1 were emphasized by Cyril R. De Mara, of Toronto, rentals administrator, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, here recently.

Restriction to the period of notice a landlord, wishing to occupy his own home, is required to give a tenant, and greatly simplified procedure, in connection with the giving of notice is an important feature.

Division of housing accommodation into two classes, those in which the tenant has exclusive occupancy, and shared accommodation, is another highlight.

Rentals appraisers, men with real estate experience appointed as the primary rate fixers is an important feature. The decision of rentals appraisers will be subject to appeal to a provincial Court of Rentals Appeal, shortly to be established.

Mr. J. M. Lanerman and Mr. Herbert Lee, who have been associated with the Rentals Administration in Edmonton during the past year have been named Rentals Appraisers for Edmonton and district.

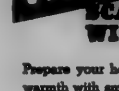
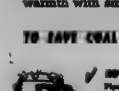
Prepare your home now for adequate warmth with smaller fuel consumption

TO SAVE COAL CHECK THESE POINTS



HOW TO GET MORE HEAT

Pipes and furnaces must be clean, and grates in good order. If one or two rooms are hard to heat, have your heating plant checked. Chimneys are probably roomy flue. Have a competent man check your heating system, and make necessary repairs. Insulate your furnace and pipes when necessary.



HOW TO AVOID HEAT LOSSES

Storm windows and doors must fit snugly and be weatherstripped. Lack of storm windows can cause as much as 30% heat loss. Caulking should be done around windows, doors and in cracks in brick work (some insurance companies have caulking guns for rent). Broken glass should be replaced, and loose panes puttied. Small expenditures on each work will save much fuel.

HOW TO SAVE STILL MORE

You can save fuel and money by having your home properly insulated. It is a proven fact that in many homes lack of adequate insulation (including storm windows) results in unnecessary consumption of fuel—up to as much as 50%. Watch for loose instructions on how to fix your furnace properly.

HAVE YOUR HOME INSPECTED FOR HEATING AND INSULATION DEFECTS

Get advice now! Skilled workmen and supplies are scarce. If you delay in getting your home ready for winter you may not be able to get the service you need.

THE DEPARTMENT OF MUNITIONS AND SUPPLY

DAYS DEEP PLOWING HARMFUL IN LAND

Northern papers are reviving a discussion on plowing, following a statement by Edward Faulkner, an Oklahoma farmer, that plows are the originators of the land.

He claims that plowing destroys the root systems which fill moisture from the soil, and the method he advocates is a surface cultivation which leaves the trash on top of the land.

Faulkner's ideas have created a widespread interest in the United States and have aroused a great deal of discussion, both for and against. It might be interesting to note that some years ago the Swift Current federal experimental station declared that experiments conducted over a period of years showed that the real usefulness of cultivation was to destroy weeds, and consequently deep plowing was unnecessary. Since then many of the prairie farmers have gone in for three shallow cultivations after which do not penetrate deeply in the soil and which leave the trash on top. By this method erosion is kept at a minimum.

SPEED MOVEMENT OF SCRAP RUBBER

Movement of scrap rubber that has been accumulated in rural sections of Alberta will be expedited by the action of the railways in reducing the freight rate on less than carload lots or L.C.L. shipments, according to information which salvage officials have given the Alberta Master Association.

Some time ago the A.M.A. drew attention to the fact that large stocks of rubber collected in different parts of the province were not being moved. The objective is 10,000 tons of old rubber to be collected in Canada this year to replenish the source of reclaimed rubber urgently required for the maintenance of tires on motor vehicles essential to the country's war effort.

Some time ago a survey by the A.M.A. revealed that a large portion of the requirement was already on hand in rural areas in Alberta and other parts of western Canada and that the movement of this material was being prevented by transportation difficulties.

PAY PLAN FOR SOLDIER HELP CHANGED

Paid Now for Days Worked

Farmers will welcome the recent announcement by the Director of National Selective Service to the effect that the straight time clause for payment of soldiers assigned to farms under the "Farm Duty" plan is now being removed.

Under the new arrangement the soldiers detailed to farms under the "Farm Duty" plan will be paid only for the days on which they actually work. On days when soldiers are unable to work because of unfavorable weather, the Department of National Defence will pay their regular soldiers' wages, including allowances.

Farmers, however, will still be required to provide board and lodging irrespective of weather.

The new regulations apply to soldiers already assigned to farms under the "Farm Duty" plan, as well as to those who go out henceforth.

Training films created by Walt Disney, "father" of Mickey Mouse, are used by the Russian Army.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Extension of Compulsory Employment Transfers.

To Employers and Employees:

THE 6th Compulsory Employment Transfer Order, issued under authority of National Selective Service Civilian Regulations, requires compliance not later than September 8th, 1943. After that date no employer may continue to employ any man covered by this Order, unless under special permit.

The first five Compulsory Transfer Orders listed occupations, and required compliance by all male employees in those occupations if (a) in an age and marital class designated under the Military Call-up, or if (b) 16, 17 or 18 years of age. The Sixth Order repeats all occupations given in the five earlier Orders, and requires all other men from 16 to 40 years of age (both ages inclusive) to become available for transfer to higher priority jobs, by registering at the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Details of the Sixth Order were advertised in daily newspapers at the end of August. Copies of the Order may be secured from any Employment and Selective Service Office.

If in doubt as to the coverage of this Order, or the procedure under it, ask your nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

All men, married or single, employed in designated occupations, aged 16 to 40, are now covered by the Orders. To avoid penalties, those who have not yet registered must do so by September 8th, 1943.

Sixteen Years Ago To-day

Interesting Items Gleaned From the Files of the Vermilion Standard 16 YEARS AGO TODAY — 1927

Sept. 1, 1927

There were 218 entries in the Vermilion Horticultural show this week.

A new town by the name of Derwent has sprung up on the C. P. R. line to the north, and by all appearances the town will be a prosperous one.

For the past few Sundays a good percentage of the population of Vermilion has enjoyed outings at Lake Laurier and Whitney.

The first threshing of the district was recorded by W. P. Daley 3 miles south west of town when he threshed out a field of barley which averaged 45 bushels per acre or high quality.

Thirty-two Years Ago Today

Aug. 28, 1911

Reports of Sunday night's frost is to the effect that some grain was touched. The bulk of the standing crop has escaped damage.

School inspector Parker has returned from a holiday spent at Guelph Ontario.

W. H. White is the liberal candidate in Victoria constituency.

L. McClure of Edmonton has arrived in town to begin the work of constructing the necessary buildings for the Demonstration farm.

The Vermilion Board of Trade is pressing for a road north to Hopkins. Premier Sifton assures that the matter will receive consideration.

TEN LEVEL CROSSING DEATHS IN ALBERTA

An increased number of deaths from accidents at level crossings in Alberta this year has caused police officers to sound a warning of hazards at these crossings.

For seven months of this year, a report shows that there have been 10 deaths at level crossings. The whole of the previous year showed seven deaths.

The great volume of traffic doubtless is responsible for increased accidents.

The Alberta Motor Association again is emphasizing the need of drivers using extra caution at level crossings. Just a little additional care to avoid an accident might mean the saving of several lives.

Railway traffic has greatly increased owing to wartime conditions. That makes it all the more necessary under present conditions to take every precaution to prevent accidents that might result in death or permanent injury.

S.S. Prince George Master Retired

VANCOUVER — With a record of more than half a century at sea to his credit, more than 20 years with Canadian National Steamships, Capt. E. W. Grey, master of S.S. Prince George, has retired. Born in San Francisco, he was taken to Victoria B.C., as an infant. He went to sea at 15.

Next-of-kin of soldiers in Canada's Active Forces are reminded by National Defence Headquarters to notify DHQ of any changes in their address.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

by H. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co., Ltd.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEEDS

The "Crop Testing Plan", during the past season, purchased from the seed growers in the prairie provinces, and distributed to farmers at cost, without any profit to the Companies supporting the "Crop Testing Plan", the large quantity of 24,000 bushels of Registered and Certified seed, the bulk of it seeded by the Government in individual sacks. The average sales at each elevator point were considerably higher than the sales of the year 1912, which all speaks well for the increased interest farmers are taking in improving their crops by purchasing and using better quality seed.

There was particular interest in pool car seed, and for the first time in the 12 years the "Crop Testing Plan" has been distributing seed, the sales of seed cars were larger than the sales of seed wheat. The sales of barley, too, were larger than they have been for many years. Farmers are evidently beginning to realize the truth, that has so often been expressed by officials of the Government and by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, that in these days farmers can hardly afford not to use each year at least a small quantity of the best Registered or Certified seed obtainable.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF WHEAT

The U.S. corn crop which has been extensively damaged is forecast at 2,874,711,000 bushels, as compared with 3,175,154,000 bushels last year.—Argentina's exportable wheat surplus was recently estimated at 122,048,000 bushels, as compared with 192,237,000 bushels at the same time last year.—Saw-fly damage is extending over large areas of wheat lands in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

In Europe crops were improved by abundant rains that fell during first week in July — in Egypt, the 1943 barley crop is estimated at 15,561,000 bushels compared with 12,710,000 in 1942.—Broomhall estimates Canada's flax crop in 1943 at 15 million bushels, with a carry-over from last year of about three million bushels.

WILDMERE WINKS

Billie Smith brought back an almost new car from the city on Thursday. It has good tires, a very necessary feature these days. Sgt. Norman Smith accompanied by Sgt. Brown brought the old car home on Friday from the city. They returned again on Monday to their duties. Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith were unable to come for a visit at present.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Gibbons, Dickie and Bobby also Mrs. Howson, all former residents of the Emerson district, but now of Edmonton, are visiting Basswood and Wildmere friends for a few days.

Wm. and Noel Garnett of the R. C. A.F. are both home on harvest leaves for a few weeks. Their brother Roy got his call on Tuesday last and had his medical on Thursday, but hopes for a deferment until after the busy time is over.

Roy Dibben reported for his medical examination last week.

There's an item to bear in mind, Rev. H. Sinclair Reikie of Vermilion will hold communion service in our school Sunday Sept. 5th at the usual time. Everyone welcome.

Sunday Sept. 12th is our last church service for the season. Mr. Bruce has to be back at college in Toronto around the middle of September.

Miss Jean Hollands, North Vermilion field student, was a Saturday night visitor at the home of Mrs. Henry Walter, Battleview.

Miss Peggy Graham has been visiting this past week with Miss Berna MacHart in Vermilion.

Mrs. Albert Smith and son (Adam George) came home from the hospital on Thursday. Mrs. Dibbon was also at home for a few days, her eye is on improved mend, 9/8.

Cpl. Elsie Gilhome and Miss Elsie Hoyrit returned to the city on Wednesday morning last after a week's visit here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Steele of Basswood accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Lewis of T-Hand went up to near Heinsburg for berries on the 25th and came back on the 26th. They failed to get what they got in the city that week end and found the roads very heavy for travelling. Miss Peggy Hallen cared for the Steele children and Mrs. Everett Isley the Lewis family while they were away.

Mr. Les Kosai and Mr. Miller from near Marwayne were Sunday visitors to the Gibson home in Basswood.

The Williamstown and Grahame ferry ratters at the Garnett and Gibson homes last week.

The writer had a nice chat in town Thursday with Mrs. Ivar Larsen. Mrs. Hobden and Mrs. Emsland, while all were lined up for their ration books.

Jack Wilson was the first to cut wheat in our district. Gibson's cut barley a week earlier.

BAKESHOPS TAKE TO PLAIN COOKING

OTTAWA.—Tarts, and other delectable titbits of the bakeshops will shortly be banned from the counter by a recent order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, simplifying fancy bakery products. The move is designed to meet increased demand with no increase in the production facilities or labor employed.

"After Sept. 12, when the new order becomes effective the public will get less of the expensively produced fancy goods and considerably more of the plain bread and cake products which require a lower labor output bu. have a high nutritive value", any Board officials. "It takes five times as long to process a bag of flour into hot dogs or hamburger rolls as into bread."

TON OF BLOOD PLASMA CARRIED BY T.C.A. PLANES

WINNIPEG. — On two flights recently, Trans-Canada Air Lines carried nearly a ton of blood plasma across Canada. The shipments went under a high priority and since there was not sufficient space in the compartments were carried in the cabins of the aircraft. Each shipment — one amounting to 990 pounds and the other, 945 pounds—took up the space of six seats.
